INGLISIMS.

IN a letter published in the Globe of the 6th inst, the Rev. Wm. Inglis asserts that he has "written political articles for the press by the hundred, and yet that he has never written a line he did not believe to be true," and also that "there is not a week passes in which there are not at least half a dozen of the articles which appear in the Globe of his writing"—that is at least an average of one a day.

Well in this same issue of this same Globe there is an article or rather a number of assertions, under the heading of "Dishes of Crow," among which we find the following:—

"The Mercer-Escheat case was decided by the Privy Council against the great constitutional blunderer and in favor of Mowat and Ontario."

"The Privy Council declared the Legislature competent to pass the Streams Bill."

"The Privy Council ratified the boundary award."

"The Tory conspiracy to secure the dismissal of Warden Massie, of the Central Prison was defeated.

Here are four bold statements of alleged facts, which we declare to be contrary to the actual facts—to be in ordinary language deliberate lies on the part of whoever wrote them, unless he shelters himself behind the plea of unpardonable ignorance. Of course we cannot say whether Mr. Inglis is or is not the writer of this particular article, but if he is, or if he will assume the responsibility thereof we will find a Presbyterian who will back up our charge as herein set forth, and who will be quite ready to submit the issues thus raised to any court of the church which Mr. Inglis may think proper to select.

We venture to predict, however, that Mr. Inglis will be as conveniently silent about these "Dishes of Crow" as he is in the letter already referred to, about the disgraceful attacks made on his brother Presbyterian clergymen—the Rev. Messrs. McLeod, Macdonnell and Milligan—in the columns of this same Globe only a short time ago.

The Elections.

There is quite a little stir in political circles just at present on both sides. That the general elections will take place this year is almost a certainty, and that there will be hot work is also a certainty, as both sides are going to work to win. In Peterborough the political cannon is booming out volley after volley; old time politicians and the younger blood are working shoulder to shoulder, and as a consequence there is no end of fun ahead. Amidst the hurry and bustle of this political life, it would be well for every voter in the county to weigh well the qualifications and merits of the respective candidates. Don't be led away by any deceiving or adventurous political stumper, but listen carefully to what your candidates have to say, buy your clothing from A. McNEIL, and be happy.

COURT OF CHANCERY.

HATTON—BERTRAM.—A question on the construction of the will of the late James Campbell, of Walkerfield, especially as to whether or not ten acres adjoining the homestead passed under the device of Walkerfield, or whether it belonged to the residuary estate. Evidence was taking and the argument adjourned to take place in Toronto at a future date. C. Moss, Q. C., and R. E. Wood, for the plaintiff; E. H. D. Hall, for the defendants.

DOBBIN VS. DOBBIN.—A claim made by the widow of the late Wm. Dobbin against John Dobbin, for 3 horses, 6 buffalo robes, 6 sets of harness, one buggy and one cutter. Judgment was given in favor of the plaintiff for $100, the value of cutter and buggy. Costs distributed. Poussette, Q. C., for plaintiff; Dumble for defendant.

TOWNSHIP OF EMILY VS. MIDLAND R.R.—An action of the Township against the Railway to compel the latter to make good certain roadways impeded and injured by the track. An order was made to compel the latter to make good the injury forthwith, the costs of the day to be paid by the defendants. The right to apply to the Court if the order was not obeyed was reserved. Moss, Q.C., and Dumble, for plaintiff; Lash, Q.C., and Biggar, for the defendant.

GEBBIE VS. GEBBIE et al.—A claim brought by Isabella Gebbie against her sisters, to set aside a deed which she and her brothers made before coming to mature years. Judgment was given in favor of the plaintiff, the deed being declared void.—Moss, Q.C., and Burnham, for the plaintiff; Hall, for the defence.

Dramatic.

The Tavernier Dramatic Company opened a two week's engagement in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening by placing on the boards "Nobody's Daughter," with Miss Ida Van Courtland in the title role. Miss Van Courtland won her way to favor by her pretty singing and the appropriatenss with which she represented her part. Mr. Albert Tavernier took the part of Black Milson, the villain, with his known ability. Mr. I. A. Washbourne, as the detective, acted his part all through the plot with credit, as was attested by the liberal applause. The incorrigible Dennis Wayman, represented by Mr. F. Drew was as funny as his name implies, while the blunt old Capt. Cobblestone was as humorous in his own way. Sir Oswald Eversleigh and his son, Reginald, were depicted by Messrs. R. C. Chamberlain and Chas. Brandt respectively. Miss Mary E. Bankson, as Lydia Graham, did the part of the designing woman. The presentation of the play was very well done. The special scenery added to the stage appointments rendered the climaxes more real. To-night the "Queens" will be given.

CALGARY IN FLAMES.

One Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth of Property Burned.

CALGARY, N. W. T., Nov. 7.—Fire was discovered at 5 o'clock this morning in the rear of S. Porter & Sons' grocery and provision store nearly opposite the railway depot. The building was frame and the fire spread with lightning rapidity to the rapidity to the Sherman house adjoining the Atlantic Avenue, and to Lamont's shop adjoining on McTavish street. The flames were carried across the street to the Union hotel on the opposite corner, and spread along McTavish street, enveloping the Massie Manufacturing Co.'s building, J. G. Barker & Company's store, a vacant store owned by Dunn & Lineham, and Dunn & Lineham's packing house, where the fire was checked. The fire had spread from the Union hotel northward to the Pullman saloon and Baker's other buildings north, which were in a blaze. All these buildings are frame and burnt like tinder. Next to Baker's store stands the new Royal hotel, a large three storey building, and fortunately the fire was checked at this point, or it would have surely swept Stephen avenue, the principal business street of the town.

Checked in its progress on both sides of McTavish street, the fire spread eastward and westward along Atlantic avenue. All these buildings being of frame, and being without a fire engine, Mortimer's bakery, Murdock's saddlery shop at the east end and Staube's gun shop in the west end were torn down, and the fire prevented from spreading beyond these points. The chemical engines did good service in preventing the fire from spreading to the sheds, barns and outbuildings in rear of the large business places facing on Stephen avenue. Babcocks were brought into requisition, and water was supplied by the Canadian Pacific yard engine. The goods and furniture in most of the buildings were saved, but badly damaged. Col Herchmer sent down nearly his whole force of Mounted Police, and they did heroic service in staying the fire.

P. Bakers was the only extensive loss, although many of the others lose everything, few being insured, and those only in small amounts. The destitute are being properly cared for, and police tents been erected for their shelter.

At six o'clock to-night another fire was discovered in a barn filled with hay, and for half an hour it looked as if it would be as much bad or worse than that of the morning. By great efforts, however, it was extinguished, and the town saved from further destruction.

There are no doubts but that both fires were the work of an incendiary. Public indignation runs high. The citizens have organized to patrol the streets during the night, and if anyone is caught setting fire to any place Judge Lynch will unquestionably be called in.

J. J. Daly's Restaurant.

KING OF ROUMANIA.

SOFIA, Nov. 8.—The Czar has telegraphed to General Kaulbars directing him to convey his thanks to those Bulgarians who show a desire to comply with imperial counsel. General Kaulbars has caused a report to be widely circulated that Prince Ferdinand, of Hohenzolern will shortly be proclaimed successor to the King of Roumania.

HANLAN'S CREW WINS.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A four-oared shell race between Hanlan, Teemer, Ham and Ten Lych in one boat and Ross, Lee, Bubear and Perkins in the other, was rowed to-day on the Thames. The race was for £100 aside. The course was from Battersea old church to a flag boat moored opposite Gwynne's engineering works at Hammersmith. Hanlan's crew made the best start and soon had the lead of a length. This was increased at the end of the first half mile to two lengths, and to four lengths when Putney was reached. Hanlan's crew won easily.

DIPLOMATIC.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 8.—Prince Dolgorouki has been appointed Minister to Persia.

ANNIVERSARY OF MENTANA.

ROME, Nov. 8.—Seven thousand persons took part in a demonstration at Mentana to-day, in memory of the battle of 1867. The speakers protested against the temporal power of the Pope, and the pretensions of the clerical party.

PLEADING IRELAND'S CAUSE.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 8.—At the meeting of the members of the National League, yesterday, motions were adopted confirming the resolutions passed by the convention on Saturday. Mr. Thomas Power O'Connor said the battle for Ireland began seven centuries ago, and he predicted that before seven years had passed the Irish people would be completely successful in their struggle. Mr. James O'Kelly, the member for Roscommon, said the split in the Liberal party would finally result in benefitting the Irish cause.

GERMANY WARNS RUSSIA.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—The Berlin press are commencing a strong and unanimous attack which bears the stamp of official sanction upon the unwarrantable action of Russia in Bulgaria. They consider the strong emphasis which characterizes the utterances of the Emperor of Austria to the Delegation, yesterday, and particularly his declaration that existing treaties must be absolutely adhered to, as sufficient guarantee that peace will be maintained.

THE PRESS APPROVE.

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—The press almost unanimously approve the utterances of the Emperor.

RUSSIA THREATENING.

SOFIA, Nov. 8.—The Russian iron clad "Mercury" has arrived at Bourgas, the scene of the recent revolt, and is at anchor in the harbor.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Republique Francaise says that in the interest of cordial relations between France and England, M. Waddington, the French ambassador to England, has conveyed to Lord Salisbury the opinion of France, that England would be well advised if she would take the initiative and fix a date for the evacuation of Egypt. Before M. Waddington was instructed to act thus, M. de Freycinet sounded the Cabinets of Europe for their views on his proposed course. Turkey and Russia, in response, cordially endorsed France's plan, Germany and Austria maintained reserve, while Italy answered unfavorably.

CATHEDRAL BURNT.

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—A fire occurred in the Cathredal of Gran, a royal free city of Hungary, destroying several pictures and damaging the interior badly. The edifice, which is a suberb structure in the Italian style, occupying, with the Archbishop's palace, a precipitous height, formerly the site of a fortress, had a narrow escape from total destruction.

PRESERVING ORDER.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The leaders of the Socialists announce to-day that they have finally concluded to abandon the idea of holding a meeting in Trafalgar Square to-morrow. Probably they will form a procession and march to Hyde Park. The Police will watch the routes west of the park, and will prevent the Socialists from gathering. The Windsor Life Guards have been ordered to London to assist at the Lord Mayor's show.

IN THE SOBRANJE.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 8.—The reply of the Sobranje to the speech of the Regent declares that the deputies fully recognise the superhuman efforts the Government are required to make to maintain the law and peace, and are confident that the same abnegation will be continued until the throne is refilled. It also says that the Deputies are mindful that their duties is to immediately elect a Prince to succeed Prince Alexander. The address does not refer to M. Karaveloff. It concludes with: "Long live free and independent Bulgaria." It is expected that the Sobranje will elect a Prince to-morrow.

ELECTION OF A PRINCE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador here, has opened negotiations with the Porte regarding the election of a prince of Bulgaria.

REFUSED ADMITTANCE.

DUBLIN, Nov. 8.—There was a scene at the Town Commissioners' meeting at Armagh this evening. The Nationalist members were refused admittance and were prevented by the police from entering until the business had been concluded, on the ground that they were obstructive.

TESTING THE QUESTION.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Socialists have decided to send two members to Trafalgar square to claim the right of speech. If the two men are arrested no meeting will be held.

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night;"

is the exclamation, in thought, of many a man who has suffered through a long life from some distressing disease that he might have cured with a few bottles of medicine like Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which cures all blood and skin diseases, as well as consumption or scrofula of the lungs. If he were "a child again," he would know enough to have a bottle of the Discovery "to-night," and in old age would not implore Father Time to "fly backward" for his special benefit. Hence, "Be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer." Get a bottle of the nearest druggist,

VILLAGE OF ASHBURNHAM.

THE MANUFACTURING AND OTHER INDUSTRIES WITHIN ITS BORDERS.

The Churches, Schools and Municipal Buildings—Park and Places for Recreation—Railway and Steamboat Communication.

INDUSTRIES.

The list of manufacturing and other industries in Ashburnham includes several important ones, and they can only be briefly discribed.

AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY.

Mr. R. Mowry's agricultural machinery works are on the north side of the street near the bridge. Mr. Mowry's father, the late Marcello Mowry, commenced business at this place about 50 years ago, when he started making edged tools. The manufacture of waggons was afterwards added, and then agricultural machinery. Threshing machines, horse-powers, and sawing machines are the principal lines of machinery now made at the works. Extensions and new buildings have been added from time to time, until the buildings reached their present dimensions. The machine shop is about 75 and 40 ft. by 75 ft., storey and a half high, and the moulding shop 40x25 feet. There are also buildings for the show room, paint shop, etc. There are in the works three iron lathes, three drillers, bolt machine, emery wheels, power grind stone, &c., and for woodworking, a Daniel planer, surface planer, three circular saws, button saw, band saw, two lathes, boring machine and a number of other machines. These works, established at a time when Ashburnham and Peterborough were both small places, and when the village was larger than the town, has grown with both of them until it reached its present large size and importance. A great many machines have been supplied from it to the farmers in this neighborhood during those years, and many have sent throughout the country and as far as into the Northwest.

THE BREWERY.

In 1855 Mr. H. Calcutt established a brewery in Ashburnham, and ten years later, in 1865, he took possession of the premises the brewery now occupies. The brewery is a stone building, 80x30 feet, and three and a half storeys high, and the malt house, also of stone, 90x30 feet, and two and a half storeys high. The barley loft is ninety feet long. The barley is taken in there and weighed, the platform scales being on a tramway, upon which the grain is carried to any part of the loft. The hop room is at the west end of the building. The mill and hopper are in the top storey, and also the beer boiler heated with steam pipes, a hot water tub and a cold water tub, and a surface cooler in which the hot steam is taken off the beer. The next storey contains two improved patent coolers, in which the cold water circulates in pipes around which the beer flows, the mash tub, a pony masher, and a pump for pumping the worts from the underback to the beer boiler. The second storey contains the underback (a reservoir), and the first fermenting room containing three vats with a capacity of 40 barrels each. The malt floor, where the grain is germenated, occupies a large apartment. The bottling room is in the east end. Two patent bottlers are used and a patent corker, by which three hundred dozen bottles a day can be filled and corked. From the malt floor the grain goes to the dry kiln, in a building attached, the furnace being in a lower storey in the attached building. The stock cellar is in the first storey, and also a working cellar with three racking puncheons, for filling barrels. The ice house and stock room for ale are in detached buildings. There are also sheds for barrels, in which there are about 10,000 barrels, stable, etc. The engine house is an attached brick building, in which are the steam boiler and engine. The building being on a side hill gives the brewery two "ground floors," one on which the grain is taken in, and another, in the rear, from which the beer is loaded without hoisting.

Beer, ale and ginger ale are manufacsured at the brewery. From 10,000 to 12,000 bushels of barley have been purchased each year, and the capacity of the brewery is about 200 barrels a week. Twenty hands were usually employed in the brewery, and twelve are given employment there now.

ONTARIO CANOE CO.

The factory of the Ontario Canoe Company stands close to the Grand Junction Railway at the corner of Elizabeth street. The factory is 20x66 feet with four floors. The motive power is furnished by a steam engine, and there are in use two planers, one added this year, moulding machine, band saw, circular saws, teneting machine (put in this year) and other machinery. Another building, fronting on Elizabeth street, 30x85, with two floors, contains the offices, show rooms for canoes and storerooms for canoes, and storerooms for material. Planing, sash and door work and house work is being done in the factory. Fine canoes are turned out from this establishment and shipped throughout America and to Europe. They were awarded a silver medal at the Antwerp Exhibition and numerous other medals, prizes and diplomas, including six diplomas this year. They have canoes on exhibition at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in London, Eng., and will send an exhibit to the Australian exhibition next year. These canoes have a wide reputation, as orders and enquiries come from all parts—one was recently received from Italy. The Company have orders ahead for about $4,000 worth of canoes, or for work enough to keep the factory going for three months. The industry is one of the most important one in the village, and gives employment to a number of mechanics.

OTONABEE FLOUR MILLS.

The Otonabee Flour Mills, of which Mr. H. A. Mulhern is proprietor, is an old industry, having been established in 1848. The building is a stone one, 40x60 feet, five storeys high. Mr. Mulhern took possession of the mill on March 1st, 1885, about which time extensive improvements were made by the addition of new machinery. It is now furnished with a complete roller system, including twelve sets of rollers, with all the accompanying necessary machinery. The principal machinery is an Eureka separator, Eureka smut machine, Eureka brush machine, three stock hoppers of a capacity of two hundred bushels each, graded scalpers, purifiers, bran duster, three Eureka packers of a capacity of one hundred and seventy-five barrels each, &c. There is a comfortable and neat office in the south-east corner of the first floor, adjoining which is a storeroom for flour in sacks, and there is an office for the miller. There are stones for oatmeal and cornmeal work and for chopping. Pumps for machine and luminating oil are a convenience. The shipping facilities are good, as a spur from the Grand Junction branch of the Grand Trunk Railway runs to the mill.

ELECTRIC LIGHT STATION.

The electric light station of the Peterborough Electric Light Company is on the Ashburnham side of the river, across from Hazlitt's saw mill. It occupies a building 50 x 30 feet and three storeys high. There are also a testing and adjusting room and a telephone office in detached buildings. The motive power is furnished by two 52-inch Leffel turbine water wheels, with eleven feet head of water. There are four dynamos in the station, of the Thomson-Houson system, three capable of supplying electricity for twenty-five lights of 2,000 candle power, and one of twelve lights capacity. In Ashburnham there are four lights on the street and two in the Riverside Park. Altogether (in town and village) the station supplies seventy-five lights, six in churches, several in factories, eighteen on streets, and the remainder in business places. An am-meter stands on the wall of the station for registering the electric current, as the guage registers the steam in a boiler. The Company are introducing the incandescent lights—a pretty light of twenty-four candle power—for offices and residences. Mr. Fisk, formerly of the Royal Electric Light Company's establishment in Montreal, is the electrician in charge.

SAW MILL.

The Dickson Company saw mill (which formerly belonged to Mr. Rogers) is near the bridge on the race. It is now in charge of Mr. R. Sheridan, as foreman. The building is about 80x40 ft., and the capacity of the mill about 25,000 feet a day. The motive power is furnished by two turbine water wheels of 56 and 48 horse-power respectively. The mill is furnished with two circular saws, a set of trimmers, a double edger, a shingle machine, bolt machine for shingles, and a slab saw. The sawdust and refuse are carried from under the saw by elevators, and conveyed outside, where it is dumped into carts and drawn away. This refuse is being utilized by Mr. Calcutt to level up the ground leading from the street to the Riverside Park.

WOOLLEN MILL.

Mr. Wm. Faint's Woollen Mill, at the end of the Otonabee bridge, occupies a three storey rough cast building, 56 x 30 feet. Mr. Faint has been in the woollen business for some years, but took possession of these premises two years ago, when the building was erected. The principal business done in the mill is custom work. The machinery is run by water power, a wire stretched across the river under the bridge connecting the factory with the wheel on the opposite side of the river. The power is regulated at the factory by a wheel. In the first storey there is a roll carder, which has an automatic arrangement, made by Mr. Faint, for packing and taking off the wool for batting, a narrow loom for flannel, a broad loom for blankets, a picker, and washer and scourer. In the second storey there is a finisher card, a self-operating spinner of two hundred spindles, and a machine for twisting yarn, made by Mr. Faint, which rolls the yarn into skeins as it is twisted, and on which the yarn may be wound into skeins without twisting. There is a counter and office in the front part of the building, and shelves for the stock of blankets and flanneis, and also tweeds and cottonades, in which Mr. Faint deals. A force pump is being put in at the factory for fire protection, which will be run by water power.

MATTRESS FACTORY.

The mattress factory of the Peterborough Mattress Company (Messrs. W. Faint and J. W. Doxsee) is in the same building as Mr. Faint's woollen mill. In the first storey there is a picker for preparing the wool. Nothing but new and clean rags is used. They are put through the picker and blown through a pipe up to the third storey. A fan in the pipe takes out all small particles, which are blown through another pipe outside, and the wool is thus thoroughly cleaned. It requires fifteen horse power to run the machine. In the third storey the mattresses, pillows and bolsters are made up, and this storey contains a machine for untwisting sea grass and a "beater" for opening it out ready for use. Several sizes of mattresses are made, of wool, hair, sea grass, and mixed. This company has established an extensive trade, having secured markets throughout the Province. They usually employ six hands.

MCFADDEN'S FURNITURE FACTORY.

Mr. M. McFadden's furniture factory is on the raceway. It occupies a space of 66x30 ft., two storeys high. The turning shop is in the first storey, and occupies an apartment 30x30 ft., in charge of Mr. D. Begley, and another department in that flat is utilized for getting out the material and planing it. In the turning shop there are two circular saws, two turning lathes and other machinery. In the second storey the material is prepared and the furniture put together. It contains a band saw, circular saw, dovetail machine, shaper, jointer, teneting machine, etc. The power is furnished by a 45 horose power turbine water wheel. A large quantity of furniture is yearly manufactured here. The factory has been busy all season and is now running a day and a quarter in each twenty-four hours. The foreman in charge, Mr. Charles H. Huffman, is a capable mechanic, and good work is turned out. The store is on Hunter Street, in the town.

WINDOW BLINDS.

Mr. Edward Green occupies a part of Mr. M Fadden's shop th a machine for making the patent close slat window blinds. Mr. Green has the right for these blinds over a large territory and does a large business in them.

WAND'S PLANING MILL.

Mr. Wm. Wand's planing mill, in which sashes, doors and blinds are also manufactured, is also on the raceway. This business was established about twenty years ago by Mr. Wand, and was carried on a couple of years in Peterborough, but he has occupied his present stand for fifteen or sixteen years. The building is 60x46 feet, two storeys high. An addition 16 feet long has been built this year for a dry kiln for lumber, which has past been completed. It is furnished with a brick furnace a boiler from the Hamilton machine shops, and steam pipes put in by Mr. Geo. Bolton. The factory is supplied by three planers, molder, splitting saw and other saws. Mr. Wand also contracts for building houses.

COURTNEY'S FURNITURE FACTORY.

Mr. E. Courtney occupies a part of the building in which Mr. Wand's planing mill is situated for his furniture factory, in which joiner work is also done. The principal machinery used is a lathe, shaper, boring machine, circular saw and gig saw. General furniture is manufactured at the factory, though the principal lines are dining room and bed room furniture. The factory is not a large one, but a large amount of manufactured goods is turned out from it in a year. The show room and store is on Water street in Peterborough, where the retail trade is supplied, and quite a business is done wholesale.

COWHIDED BY FARMERS.

The Work of two Mormon Disciples Cut Short in Pennsylvania.

ECKVILLE, Pa., Nov.—5.—An exciting time was had down at Lambeth's lime kilns, near here, yesterday. A number of farmers knew that there were two men, strangers in the place, operating among the young women of the neighbourhood, frequenting the gatherings of Sunday schools and ingratiating themselves among the single women, and the farmers determined to drive them out of the neighbourhood. The elder of the two—Brother Ettig, as he was called—was seen in company with Lena Eckleberger, whom he was inducing to join a Mormon colony. Ettig was seized and dragged to the lime sheds and rolled in a bin of white lime dust and then cowhided and again showered with lime dust and started on a run through the woods. Basing, the other suspected party, was also seized and ducked in a creek and cowhided and started through the woods in the direction Ettig had taken.

It appears that there was a concerted plan, according to which a number of deluded young women should all be ready to start West on a given day to join a Mormon settlement. At least a dozen young women have had their heads turned by all sorts of promises made by these fellows, and for a time it was difficult to secure hired female help in that region.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacurers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

The Toronto Trades and Labour Council appointed a committee to meet a committee from the Knights of Labour District Assembly to discuss the advisability of nominating labour candidates at the approaching Dominion and Provincial elections.

FORCED APART.

BY W. CLARK RUSSELL.

Author of the "Wreck of the Grosvenor," "A Sailor's Sweetheart," Etc.

The girl stood transfixed and overwhelmed by her mother's news. Then you could have seen her battling with the rush and surge of tumultuous emotions a whole minute ere she spoke.

"Do you tell me that my darling is carried away to sea?" she said, in a febrile whisper.

"'Tis what his father believes."

"And that Dr. Shaw hath proved me his son's wife to my father?"

"Yes, indeed. He came with a paper, and the sight of it hath killed thy father. His hear is broken for the wrong he has done his only one!" wailed the mother. "Oh, Jenny, do not delay! There is a coach at the door. Make haste to put on your hat. You would not let him be moaning for thee in dying sorrow and not come?"

She looked at her mother with a wonderful expression of troubled amazement and incredulous horror in her eyes, then took up her hat, and in a few minutes was ready to depart. As she left the room she met Mrs. Walker, into whose hand she slipped a guinea, giving her a sweet, strange smile as she did so, but quite powerless to speak.

The woman, much affected by Jenny's munificence, put the little trunk into the coach, and low and numerous were the courtesies she dropped as it drove off.

The rattle of wheel and window, if not a prohibition to speech, was a decided obstacle to the hearing. But Mrs. Strangfield had too much to say to hold her peace. With her child's hand locked in hers she poured her heart into Jenny's ear, and all the story of Dr. Shaw's visit told her, and the medical man's judgment on Michael's condition, with whatever else that her head was giddy with —sometimes reproaching and sometimes breaking into passionate exclamations of rapture, which thoughts of her husband would inevitably choke; silent scarcely ever, and of the matter of her volubility leaving Jenny, amid the roar of the coach, in possession of but very small fragments.

And the girl?

Her father knew at last that she was honest, and for a brief while had exultation, of the kind that inflames the madman's eye, swelled until it had sickened her heart with the force and fulness of it. But the emotion died under the heavy droop of humiliated honor. She had won back her name, but what had the victory cost her? Her husband was gone, her father was dying, her heart was wounded and bleeding badly.

The bitter passion of shame that had driven her from Greystone revisited her again when the coach entered the High street, and she leaned back and involuntarily drew her veil over her face. The mother stopped the coach at the corner of the street, that the jar of the wheels might not penetrate the resonant wooden house, and alighted with her daughter, and both of them went quickly in.

"Mother," whispered Jenny, standing in the passage as a stranger might, "I will stay here till you have seen him."

"In the parlor, then, dearest, and rest thee. Oh, Jenny, pray God to spare him! He is thy father."

Softly the poor woman climbed the stairs, and Jenny went into the little room which, in all her life, she had vowed never again to enter. Speculating she stood, wondering how it had befallen that her mother had come so speedily.

Then through the doorway came a whisper—"Jenny!"

She went out, and on the stairs she saw her mother, who for despair could only beckon or toss her hands. She followed Mrs. Strangfield upstairs, with a creeping chill over her limbs, and the sensation of a thousand quivering fibers in her body.

In the bedroom near the bed were two figures whom she could not immediately distinguish for the feeble light in the chamber; but she speedily found that one was Mrs. Mead and the other the doctor.

Both figures drew away when mother and daughter came into the room. Mrs. Strangfield went to the bedside, and, bending over the motionless form upon it, said, in a whisper of exquisite sadness:

"Michael, Jenny is here. Wilt thou speak to her?"

For some moments there was no answer. At last, in a faint, hoarse murmur, the dying man said:

"Let her take my hand and kiss me. Jane, thee knowest that I cannot move."

The girl went to her father, and put her hand into his and kissed his forehead.

"Jenny, my little one," he murmured, "thee didst wrong to trick me. Of old did the prophet chide, saying, 'And thou saidst, I shall be a lady forever; so that thou didst not lay these things to thy heart, neither didst remember the latter end of it.' But thy punishment has been sore, my poor one. By thee am I condemned, whom I condemned. I was a liar for speaking what, in my wrath, I believed the truth; and it did nearly break thy heart, poor wench, as mine is broken!"

No pathos the meaning of his words had could equal the deeply moving effect given to them by his speaking with his head turned away, all power lost, life ebbing from him as surely as the shadows cast by the sun were slowly circling to the east, whence darkness comes. She hung over him with dry eyes, for the grief in her was too deep for tears.

"Father," she whispered, "I wronged thee by loving secretly; but has not my husband's going wrung my heart with punishment enough? Truly, I was innocent of worse sin than deceit; and now that you know I am innocent, and bear with my kisses, I could be happy to die."

No answer did he return, and he began to breathe heavily; on which the doctor came gently to her, and would have led her from the bed; but the father had a grip of her hand, and she would not disengage his hold.

Said the mother, in a feeble whisper:

"Is there no hope?"

The doctor shook his head, and let his chin fall on his breast, and stood quiet, with his hands clasped.

No more was said.

What was killing him, God knows! Not paralysis only, nor yet a broken heart. Yet visibly was he dying, and the difficult breath grew slower and weaker; and within an hour from Jenny's return to her home the breath in him was gone and the body growing cold. He passed away amid a deep stillness in the room; and Jenny herself, who was near him, knew not that he was dead, until a strangeness in the hold of his fingers made her shriek out.

ADAMS EXPRESS ROBBERY.

A Portion of the Booty Sent to Frank James—Two Theories of the Affair

NEVADA, Mo., Nov. 5.—Frank James, the ex-train robber, received the following letter, yesterday, containing four new bank bills:—"St. Joe, Mo., Nov. 3.—Frank James, Esq.,—Dear sir,—Please accept the enclosed as a memento of the late 'Frisco train robbery of Oct. 25.—Yours truly, Jim Cummings." The enclosure consisted of four unsigned National Bank notes made for the Merchants' and Planters' National bank, Sherman county. The notes were one $20 and three $10 bills, the latter of which had not been detached from each other. The letter was written in an evidently disguised hand, and was mailed on November 3rd.

Manager Damsell, of the Express Company, was shown the despatch and said the directors were already following up the clue contained in it, but he did not know whether the money stolen October 25th contained that received by Frank James or not. He would ascertain, however, as soon as possible. He had two theories in regard to the affair; the real robber had sent the letter to turn suspicion on James and put the detectives on a wrong trail, or else some over-zealous detective really thought Jim Cummings and Frank James were one and the same.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday night, Nov. 2, John McGivern left this village alone in a canoe to cross the lake. He was seen by various persons on the river and at its mouth. When he got from under shelter south of Sugar Island he must have met a heavy swell which capsized his canoe, and he could not swim. As he did not reach home as expected, his father came across in a boat to Keene to look for him. A search was then instituted by a number of persons who found the canoe bottom up in the lake near Borland's Landing. In the canoe was one of his paddles, and under the fore deck was a black squirrel which he had purchased before he left Keene, and which was drowned. His coat was found on Macgdalene Island near West's farm. The search was continued, and on Sunday night his body was discovered lying at the bottom of the lake in a rice bed, about 300 yards south of Sugar Island. On Monday morning the body had not been recovered, as it was necessary to go for grappling irons, as there was no sufficient means to raise him from among the lain rice.

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

The annual meeting on the Junior Conservative Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, in the club room over Mr. Geo. Stethem's store. The regular meeting of the Women's Christain Temperance Union was held in Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday afternoon. The President, Miss Sanderson, occupied the chair. It was decided, after a discussion, that the Union forward a request to the Board of School Trustees asking them to have temperence hygiene taught in our schools. District visiting was also taken up and visitors appointed.

Judgments.

The judgments upon two cases which Mr. Justice Rose reserved for consideration have been received. In the Phelan vs. Bradburn case judgment is given for $215 in favor of Phelan and $600 in favor of Bradburn, the costs to be distributed. Cavanagh's claim to title is not disturbed. In the Ross vs. Hull case judgment is given in favor of the plaintiff for 40 cords of cordwood, 12 basswood logs, 6 maple sticks, and the County Court costs.

Orange Entertainment.

The now noted Nassau Lodge of Orangemen held an entertainment in their hall on Friday evening. The entertainment was a characteristic success. Among those who contributed songs were Mrs. Bowman, Mr. Bowman and Mr. D. D. Galletly. Mrs. J. Minore played the accompaniments. The Rev. I. Tovell gave a reading and also a short but interesting address. Mr. W. A. Dixon's ventriloquism, as usual, "caught" the audience. He was requested to give imitations of far away voices, but owing to his having a cold he was not prevailed upon to do so. After the entertainment Guy Fawkes was burned behind the lodge, the fife and drum band playing while the proceedings went on.

Peterborough Industries.

The Monetary Times gives a list of Canadian manufacturers who purpose sending samples, specifications or catalogues of their products to the sample warehouse to be opened shortly by the Canadian Government at Sydney, New South Wales, and among them appears the name of the Peterborough Lock Company. Thus this important industry, which has already been of so much benefit to our town, is endeavoring to extend its trade relations and enlarge its scope. We notice in the Monetary Times' list doors and sashes by the Rathbuns, and agricultural implements by Harris & Co. Could not Peterborough send something to Australia in these lines, in which it excels. We have other industries, too, that might be represented. Besides this permanent warehouse it should be borne in mind that there will also be a great Centennial Exhibition in Sydney in January, 1888.

HONESTY IN DOUBT

IS CHRIST THE SON OF GOD, OR WAS HE AN IMPOSTER?

Honest Doubters Addressed on the Matter—Arguments Built upon Profane and Sacred Records Dealing with the Question.

On Sunday evening in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church the Rev. F. H. Wallace preached a sermon on "Honest Doubt." He took for his text the following words from Matthew xxii, 42:—"What think ye of Christ?"

In commencing he said that the discourse to-night was directed especially to those who entertained doubts of the truth of Christianity. It was not intended to shake the faith of believers, but rather to strengthen it. The question of the text referred to the prophecies concerning the Messiah. He used it now in an accommodated sense, that bearing upon the life and character of Him who first uttered it.

TRUTH OF CHRISTIANITY.

The truth of Christianity did not depend upon inspiration—that was a question for believers. Unbelievers had no more to do with it than an unscientific man with the most abstruse problem of mathematics. The first question was, is Christianity true? Then, are the Christian books inspired? The truth of Christianity depended upon the divinity of Christ. It was usual to proceed at once to the genuineness and authenticity of the gospels which contain miracles proving divinity; but there was prejudice in certain quarters against miracles. He would proceed in a simpler way. Look at the world to-day. There was a church, a religion, a civilization, a history, institutions of world-wide influence. Whence came they? The traditions of the Church pointed back to a wonderful life 1800 years ago or more. Certain books which the severest critics must confess to belong to a period very near the time when Christianity took its rise, profess to give an account of that life. All the scattered notices of history corroborated these records. The reliability of these books cannot be doubted. Strauss and Renan both confess that the gospels belong to very near the time of Christ, and from them draw the materials for their own biographies of Christ, though sifting from that life the miracles performed. The preacher's broad claim was that no other facts of history would for a moment be doubted with anything like the same evidence in their favor. For the present he would take his stand upon authenticated facts, and find conclusive argument for the divinity of Christ and consequent truth of that system which adores Him and proclaims Him the Savior of the world.

THE LIFE OF JESUS.

To take the life of Jesus it would be found that such a life demanded a heavenly origin. He was born in a poor condition, was educated by no renouned masters—He was simply a carpenter's son and a carpenter himself till 30 years of age. He was associated through youth with circumstances unfavorable to refinement. The age was corrupt. It was not an age in a ferment an agitation bringing fourth invention, but on the other hand an age of servility to the past. The scribes power lay in learning well what others had done. The place in which He lived was disreputable—Galilee. It had the name of being the lowest, most corrupt section of the country. Such influences about Him were not favorable to the development of a true manhood or a breadth of view. And yet in three years this young man, a carpenter's son, without worldly power or education, and all other naturally strengthening influences, quietly stepped to the loftiest position in all history, overthrew the old forms and built up a religion which has continued widening and gaining strength ever since. All this makes us inquire, "What think ye of Christ?"

CHRIST'S TEACHING.

Christ taught a real, spiritual religion to a formal, hypocritical, ritualistic age A great composer once excused himself for the time he took to compose by saying that he intended that it would last long. Christ spake in easy, off hand conversation words which to-day charm the hearts of men as no music ever can. He was severe. He held up the mirror to the evils of His time. Yet His keen words cut into guilty souls even as a flash of lightning reveals a precipice over which the victim was about to step. The sermon on the mount, though a beautiful poem, struck at the vices of the heart. But withall he was tender. He spoke of the birds, flowers, and love to the erring. He also taught with authority. He did not inquire, as great philosophers do. He came not to search out, but to reveal. He did not argue, nor did He ever take back or supplement what He had once said. He walked in the way with perfect assurance. His teaching was dogmatic and ultimate—"Believe in Me and be saved." The scribes were astounded so as to enquire one of another "Where hath this man these things." His teaching was not as one bright star, but as a whole bright heaven of truth. He flashed light on man's nature; he lighted up the world beyond even the darkness of the tomb; He taught the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, the reconciliation of God and man. He lived in a high and clear atmosphere, had a wide outlook and shed a glorious light. His words were not efforts—they flowed from Him as easily as the music from the birds. His knowledge transcended all the learning of Greece and Rome. Did all this originate with a Galilean youth? Poor, uneducated, unfriended, and is he merely man? Carlisle said:

"He walked Judea eighteen hundred years ago; His sphere melody, flowing in wild native notes, took captive the ravished souls of men, and, being of a true sphere of melody, still flows and sounds, though now with thousand fold accompaniments and rich symphonies through all our hearts, and modulates and divinely leads them."

CHARACTER OF JESUS.

The character of Jesus was symmetrical. Some men were grand and strong; others mild and amiable. In Him the strength of the everlasting hills and the tenderness of a loving mother combined. It was universal. It was not peculiar to any age or race. It influenced all alike. Hence His character is not simply the highest and best in history, but has on it the stamp of eternity. It was perfect. While good men were ready to confess their sins, Jesus had none. He was spotless. Men have come to look upon Jesus as they have looked upon the glory of some great mountain with its white unsullied snowy dome glittering in heaven's splendour, immeasurably above our character.

THE DEDUCTION.

Such a character, rounded with every virtue, free from not only every vice but even free from such local and factitious virtues as would make anything short of universal and ideal, so pure that men could find no fault, and that out of the depth of his own conscience no wail of penitent regret or supplication for divine mercy ever issued—such a character, perfect, sinless, final, defies invention, demands adoration and demonstrates a nature higher than than that of man. It is absurd to think that a mere Galilean youth would rise to such a supreme height. It was equally absurd to think that the Evangelists should invent so marvellous a story. Good men would not; bad men could not; nay, the best man could not. Supposing the life of Christ to be a fiction, and, inasmuch as an author must in strength and depth of nature be superior to the conceptions which he paints, the writers of the Gospel must then have been grander and better than He who stands confessedly unique in history!

THE CLAIMS.

From the claims that Jesus made, it must be inferred that He was either better than the best of men or worse than the worst. He gave Himself overwhelming names and titles, before which all human categories sink into silence. If these claims are false, then He must have been a blasphemer, and was justly punished. But if they are true, then fall down and worship, for Christ must be divine. Would it be possible for men to believe that a Galilean youth could have spoken with unhesitating authority upon themes which have puzzled the keenest thinkers, and could have originated such a system of truth as is a revelation and a regeneration to every man who receives it? What could be thought of the spotless character which Jesus not merely preached, but exhibited? What could be thought of His lofty claims to divine power, which each stamp Him as true God or brand Him as false man? "What think ye of Christ?" and the heart and intellect and conscience respond with the ardent Peter, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

The Hunters.

On Monday evening a jolly party of hunters passed through town on their way home. The party was made up as follows:—Capt. E. E. Fisher, of Concord, N. H.; Messrs. W. D. Craig, Boston; W. H. Trayes, of the Boston Globe; R. H. Holland, F. E. Gaudrie, and J. B. Trayes, of Port Hope, the latter of the Times. They have been out for about two weeks in an unexplored region, near Crooked Lake, which is situated in some remote district. This hunting ground is said to be reached only by undergoing trails through dismal swamps, fording rivers and climbing over picket fences. For two weeks this courageous six minus the hundred, besides hunting down all the wild beasts near the camp, have made great havoc with the fish that used to swim in the limpid waters of Crooked Lake." When they passed through town all their game and fish were consumed except five fine deer, which they took home as a [illegible]

WHY

WILL people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned. COME and inspect our work and SEE FOR YOURSELVES HOW WE CONSTRUCT OUR HOUSES. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine inch walls strapped and lathed, two story, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives A 1 satisfaction. And I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony of honest building. JNO. CARLISLE, Donegal street, 2nd block west of St. Andrew's Church.

The Sunken Propeller Myles.

KINGSTON, Ont.—Nov. 9.—Divers are engaged in patching the broken section on the sunken propeller Myles. The vessel struck a shoal about four feet from the keel on her stardboard side. Commencing abaft of the stem for twenty-five feet backwards, the whole planking has been broken and jammed. Canvass and batting are being placed over the holes. Before an attempt is made to raise the craft the decks will be made secure and water tight. Nearly all the jointer work aft has been swept away by the violence of the waves.

GUILDHALL BANQUET.

Lord Salisbury Announces the Government's Policy.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Salisbury, speaking at the Lord Mayor's banquet to night, said the Conservatives occupied a position on Irish affairs which it was impossible to misinterpret. Their business was to legislate in favour of the integrity of the Empire, and to enforce the laws which had long been neglected and trodden under foot. He believed the Conservatives could claim that public confidence was somewhat restored and that the relations between landlord and tenant were better than formerly. Foreign affairs, he continued, were at present of high importance, the affairs of Egypt being of special interest. The stay of the English in Egypt had been upheld by politicians of all parties as one of limited duration. That limit was not of time but of work, which England was bound to accomplish by pledges so distinct and so repeated that she could not retreat. The English could not leave Egypt until that country was secure from foreign oppression, and until order had been restored in domestic affairs. The Government was encouraged in this task by growing proofs of advancing prosperity in Egypt. Her finances were more promising than they had ever been, although they had not reached a point that would enable the Government to declare its task fulfilled. England could not leave Egypt until the latter's independence of foreign interference was secured.

Referring to Bulgaria, Lord Salisbury said the sympathies of the English people were aroused by the spectacle of her struggles for independence, and that the language of diplomatic menace used towards Bulgaria by a European state had caused the deepest regret. A midnight conspiracy led by men debauched by foreign gold had hunted Prince Alexander from the throne of Bulgaria, and outraged the sentiment of Europe. The injustice of this deed was aggravated by foreign diplomacy saving the conspirators, an act of interference which caused the warmest reprobation throughout Europe. Bulgarian rights were assured by the Berlin Treaty, on which the salvation of Europe depended. The English interest in that treaty was not an isolated interest. Other powers also were interested in the vindication of the treaty. Ht was sure that if a majority of the signatory powers recognized the fact that it was their duty to enforce the treaty, England would not be found backward in co-operating with them. (Cheers.) If England's individual interest only were affected, England would ask no counsel and would seek no assistance, but would defend her interests with her own arm. But in this instance she would not accept the responsibility of isolated action. The Government's policy was shaped in harmony with that of Austria. He trusted that peace would not be disturbed, and that under the influence of public opinion the infant liberties of Bulgaria would not be impaired.

SOCIALIST DEMONSTRATION.

No Serious Disturbances in London on Lord Mayor's Day.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Mayor's Day opened gloomy and dark, and there were few signs in the city to indicate that this was the day for the Lord Mayor's show. The streets of the city in the West End presented a remarkable appearance. All the shutters of the shops were down and barricaded, and the iron railings were boarded with stout timber. Banks and other buildings were secured in a similar manner. At 11 o'clock a force of police occupied the north side of Trafalgar Square. Shops in the vicinity were closed and the doors and windows of the jewellery establishments heavily barred. The procession started at the usual hour and proceeded over the assigned route without anything happening beyond the usual horse-play incident to the occasion. When the procession passed Trafalgar square it met with no demonstration on the part of crowds except some unorganized cheering and hooting, the latter being especially directed at the Lord Mayor. After the show had gone by the mob at once surged over into the square and soon formed a dense throng about the Nelson monument. A number of men mounted the pedestal at different points, and some of these waved red flags, and the square soon became a scene of excitement. The recognized Socialist leaders managed here and there to gather around them groups of men ready and willing to listen to the speeches, and although most of the harangues were inaudible at any distance from the anditors, yet expressions and phrases were often caught by the mob and used as topics of heated debate among the auditors themselves. Resolutions asking the Government to provide work for the unemployed, and to reduce to eight the number of hours constituting a day's work were carried amid loud cheering and the group which adopted them dispersed. A number of anti-Socialists tried to hold a counter demonstration in Trafalgar Square. They were attacked and roughly handled by their opponents and driven from the scene. A section of the crowd went from Trafalgar Square to the residence of Marquis of Salisbury and attempted to make a demonstration there. They were dispersed. For a long time after the close of the proceedings in Trafalgar Square large crowd of men sauntered through the streets Several ugly rushes occurred between them and the police, but nothing of a serious nature happened, and but little hooting was done.

POLICE COURT.

INDECENT EXPOSURE.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 10.—Jas. Feenie was charged by W. Wills with having indecently exposed his person. The charge was proved and a fine of $5 and costs was imposed.

SCOTT ACT.

Messrs. Morrow, Tierney & Co. were fined $50 and costs for an infraction of the Scott Act.

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night;"

is the exclamation, in thought, of many a man who has suffered through a long life from some distressing disease that he might have cured with a few bottles of medicine like Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which cures all blood and skin diseases, as well as consumption or scrofula of the lungs. If he were "a child again," he would know enough to have a bottle of the Discovery "to-night," and in old age would not implore Father Time to "fly backward" for his special benefit. Hence, "Be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer." Get a bottle of the nearest druggist.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Sir Thomas Esmonde delivered an address at Kingston last evening on the Gratton Parliament. He was escorted to the hall by bands and a torchlight procession, accompanied by an immense crowd. Canon Walsh presided.

SUSPICIOUS DOINGS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 9.—The Government has ordered Generals Korsakoff, Komaroff and Annenkoff to the Afghan frontier. There are rumors of suspicious movements of Anglo-Indian and Afghan troops.

GEN. BULLER IN IRELAND.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Gen. Buller writes to the Times denying that he has either exercised or claimed to exercise any dispensing power in the enforcement of law in Ireland.

DICTATION REPELLED.

BOURGAS, Nov. 9.—The Russian Consul has asked for the release of Captain Nabokoff. The authorities refuse to release him until he has been tried.

THE DEAD JOCKEY.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The newspapers all publish articles deploring the untimely end of Fred Archer. The Times says: "This pitiful death will cause a shock of pain even to the most callous among the multitude in whom it is to be feared the gambling passion has almost extinguished feeling." The Prince of Wales sent a telegram of condolence to Archer's sister. The Sporting Life, in a long obituary, says: "Words fail to express our deep regret at the death of the world-famous jockey Fred Archer. It is certain this feeling will echo in the hearts of myriads of people, not only in this country but in others where his name has become a household world. Wherever the English tongue is spoken Archer is a familiar sound."

RUSSIAN PERFIDY.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 9.—It is asserted that Gen. Kaulbars directly instigated the revolt at Bourgas by telegraphing to the Russian Consul there that the Czar was dead and Russia had risen, and that the Ministry had been overthrown and the deputies arrested. The Consul, it is stated, read the telegram to the soldiers of the garrison, many of whom took the oath of allegiance to the Czar.

THE LIBERAL BREACH.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Mr. Gladstone has written to Lord Wolverton a letter, in which he says:—"Nothing can be done towards closing the Liberal breach until we know the Government's plans respecting Ireland."

A DUBLIN SCANDAL.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Dublin society is on the tiptoe of excitement awaiting particulars of another scandal which has come to light through the action of John Wingfield, a Government official, and relative of Viscount Powerscourt, who has brought a suit against his wife for divorce on the ground of her adultery with a young unmarried clergyman. Mrs. Wingfield is young, handsome and accomplished, and is the daughter of the famous violinist Eisner.

AN OPEN LETTER ON THE BARLEY MARKET.

To W. Cluxton, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—A review of the local markets in the Peterborough REVIEW, with your name attached, came to my notice a few days ago. There have been so many unreliable rumors afloat in regard to prices paid in the different local markets that to contradict them or take notice of them would be useless; but when one of the largest grain dealers in Canada, and one whom everybody respects, under his own signature makes public certain statements in connection with this or other markets, it is right that it should be noticed.

Although not directly saying so, you imply that No. 1 barley is worth more than 55 cents at Peterborough. Would you please say how much profit you would make (allowing 2c. for handling the grain here) in any market in Canada or the United States?

You say the freight to Toronto is 3c.; the freight to Toronto is 8c. per 100 lbs., or 4c. per bushel.

You say Omemee took in by one buyer in one day $5,000 bush. Never believe your correspondent again. The facts are, one man took in 3,600 bush., and the other hardly any as he considered prices too high.

You make mention of three good buyers at Millbrook. Very well, they are paying 55c. for No. 1 there—same as Peterborough. Why could Peterborough pay more than any other town, or how could they afford to do so? You must admit that the Peterborough buyers are as shrewd business men as you can meet any place, and would not let barley go from them if they could make any money out of it.

You mention that Lindsay has no competition in buying. There is more competition in grain in the town of Lindsay than any place outside of Toronto and Peterborough and fully up to those points.

In the last issue of the "Lindsay Post" their correspondent from Peterborough quoted the price of barley at 57 cents for the best, but failed to mention that only one load brought that price, and that 55 cents was the steady price for No. 1.

In your report you state that No. 1 is worth 63 cents in Toronto. You know that the price for No. 1 in Toronto is 61 cents; there may be 63 cents paid on the street for a few choice loads, but you and I know that if we had to go to Toronto to sell barley we would not go to the street buyers to sell it.

I think you will agree with me that every grain buyer is anxious to make money, and that they will pay as much as they can afford, and that this year is no exception to the rule. You also know that in a year of large crops of barley the American maister makes the price, and you are fully aware of the large crop of that staple this year.

Yours truly,
ALEX. McDONNELL.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1886.

REFORM ELECTION METHODS.

In its dearth of a practical policy that it can lay before the people of Ontario, for rebellion and secession are not very popular cries in this Province, the Globe is reviving a number of old questions which it is treating after the fashion in which Mr. Blake deals with Indian matters. Among the falsehoods thus revived by the Rielite organ one is that Sir Hugh Allan gave Sir John Macdonald $360,000 as a campaign fund. Now, the only evidence of this sum having been spent by him is that of Sir Hugh himself, and we have been told by the Globe's own witness how he spent the larger portion of this sum, not for, but against Conservative candidates—in opposing Sir George Cartier and his supporters in the Province of Quebec, and that he used this money with such effect as to result in the defeat of Sir George himself and in that of many of his followers. In Ontario the records of the courts show that the great expenditure of money was by such Reformers as Mr. Cameron of Huron and Mr. H. H. Cook, since recouped, however, by Mr. Mills out of Indian moneys entrusted to his very unsafe keeping. Yet at intervals the Globe has the effrontery to talk as if it imagined that the corruption of its party, not merely asserted, but proved, is forgotten.

ESCHEATS.

Reform journals in parading old cries as to dead issues in preparation for the next general election, are placing in the forefront of their falsifications that Sir John Macdonald invaded Provincial rights in relation to escheats and that the Imperial Privy Council pronounced against his so doing.

Now the public records, when not treated after the fashion of Messrs. Blake and Cameron, show that:—

1. It was a Reform Minister of Justice who disallowed Mr. Mowat's Escheats Bill.

2. That it was a Reform Minister of Justice who carried through the Courts a Dominion claim to escheated property.

3. That the Mercer case was taken to the Privy Council not by Sir John Macdonald but by the one whose father's property was being seized by Mr. Mowat.

4. That the Privy Council pronounced that the veto not of Sir John Macdonald but of the Reform Minister of Justice was an invasion of Provincial rights.

5. That Mr. Mowat, when begging a Reform Minister of Justice to give way to him and let him have escheated property, as one inducement promised that in the case of an illegitimate son he would restore the escheated property, as he said was customary both in Great Britain and in Canada.

6. That Mr. Mowat in violation of his solemn and official promise seized upon the property of the late Mr. Mercer, and on the ground of the doubtful legitimacy of his son, appropriated large portions of it for the benefit of Mr. Edgar and the inmates of the Mercer Institute.

These are the facts as shown by the public records and unless these are treated after the dishonest fashion of Messrs. Blake and Cameron they prove the statements of the Reform journals to be utterly and maliciously false.

GLADSTONE AND BULGARIA.

The Liberal Leader Replies to the Bulgarian Deputies.

London, Nov. 9.—Mr. Gladstone, in reply to the telegrams of the Bulgarian deputies, says:—"My opinions and desires concerning the emancipated or autonomous provinces of the Ottoman empire have always been the same. The liberties obtained for them from the Sultan I consider to be intended for their own use and benefit, and it is not proper that they should be handed over, in whole or in part, to anybody else. It was a noble act of the late Czar to obtain the freedom of Bulgaria, but if she is to fall into servitude in that quarter, the nobleness of the act disappears. I cling to the hope that the present Czar will be faithful to the traditions which earned honor and gratitude for his lamented predecessor. I have never thought it my duty to raise my voice on the present occasion, because I believe there is no difference of opinion in England on the subject, and no reason to doubt that the sentiment of the nation is faithfully represented in the council of Europe by Lord Iddesleigh."

BISHOP M'LEAN DEAD.

Dies from Injuries Received in a Carriage Accident.

Winnipeg, Man. Nov. 9.—The Right Rev. John McLean, Bishop of Sastatchewan, died at Prince Albert on Sunday from the effects of injuries received by being thrown from a carriage at Edmonton some weeks ago. He was born in Banffshire, Scotland, in 1828. From 1858 to 1866 he was curate of St. John's Cathedral, London, Ont. In the later year he became Archdeacon of the diocese of Assiniboia, and upon the creation of the diocese of Saskatchewan in 1874 he was appointed bishop, with headquarters at Prince Albert. He was a D.C.L. of Trinity College, Toronto. He leaves nine children.

Nova Scotia's Surplus Produce.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 6.—Nova Scotians are taking the greatest advantage of the privilege offered by the new treaty with Spain to export produce to Cuba. Already five cargoes of potatoes, aggregating six thousand barrels, lumber, etc., have been shipped from Nova Scotia. Unprecedentedly large quantities of apples are being shipped to New York, American speculators having bought up all the Gravensteins in Nova Scotia. Thousands of barrels are being shipped every week.

A FEROCIOUS MURDER.

Two French Peasant Women Cruelly Kill an Old Man.

Paris, Nov. 8.—Few more ferocious and deliberate murders were ever perpetrated than that of which the Court of Assizes in the Department of Jers has just convicted two peasants, Mme. Cartade and her mother, Mme. Parterie. The victim was a bedridden peasant farmer, who took an unconscionable time in dying. His wife, Mme. Parterie, and his daughter-in-law, Cartade, resolved to assist providential operations. One day while the old man was in bed they poured a bowl of scalding water over his head. This not settling him they battered his head about with a red hot iron and a heavy mallet. He was horribly disfigured, but recovered. The daughter-in-law soon after tried to smother him with his bedclothes, while the mother held his nose to hasten matters. The victim kicked so desperately that they again failed. At last, however, they settled him by hammering an iron bolt down his throat. For this the younger murderess was sentenced to hard labor for life, and the mother to twenty years' imprisonment.

THE FRENCH ACADIANS.

Historical Discussion Between Sir Archibald and Archbishop O'Brien.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 6.—An exceedingly interesting historical discussion is being engaged in by Sir Adams Archibald and Archbishop O'Brien. Sir Adams read an elaborate paper before the Nova Scotia Historical Society, justifying the expulsion of the French Acadians from Nova Scotia. Sir Adams graphically portrayed the condition of affairs on this continent at that time, and the great struggle for supremacy between England and France. Louisburg was for half a century the centre of aggressiveness and the focus of intrigue, and the giant seat of French power compared with which the British power at Annapolis was the merest pigmy, surrounded by hostile French Acadians and harassed by savage Indians, led on by French emissaries. For forty years the British governors treated the Acadians with the utmost tenderness and consideration. They enjoyed all the rights and privileges of citizenship, but repudiated all its duties and responsibilites. Occupying the best lands in the province, they were the secret, bitter and unrelenting enemies of the Government and the allies of Indian savages, who, led on by the Abbe La Loutre, murdered, scalped, burned and destroyed, for which La Loutre and the Indians were paid by France. The safety of the state was the highest law, and as the French Acadians refused to become British subjects their expulsion was a cruel but an absolute necessity, for which not the English, but the French authorities were responsible.

Archbishop O'Brien, in reply, says Sir Adams' attempt to justify the expulsion is significant of the headway made in this age by maudlin sentimentality. He is no henchman of the Toronto Mail, and in the evening of life will not sully an honored name. An unprejudiced judgment on the expulsion should be this: All the French Acadians were not guilty, but all were punished; therefore the expulsion was unjust. There was no form of trial, no specific accusation, therefore it was illegal. There was no real danger to the English masters from their timid subjects, therefore it was inexcusable. It was carried out in a cruel, barbarous way, separating husband from wife, child from parents, and casting the victims on an inhospitable shore among fanatics and enemies, therefore it was in the fullest sense damnable.

TURKISH CHRISTIANS.

Discoveries Which Prove the Early Spread of Christianity into Asia.

At the beginning of this year a discovery was made at Semirjetsche, in the district of Fergana, west of the Chinese frontier at Kuldja and the Nprtheast of Kokand, which is of great interest to historians and Orientalists. It was near the ruins of a fortess called Burana, built of bricks and situated on the spur of the Alexander Mountain chain, that Dr. Porjakow found two old decayed graveyards with numerous gravestones, many of which bore a cross and other chiselled inscriptions. They could not be deciphered on the spot, both characters and language appearing to be quite unknown. The Catholic missionaries in Kuldja believed the characters to be Nigurian, while the Lama of the Kalmucks believed he recognized in one of the inscriptions the Buddhist form of prayer, om ma hum. It was determined to take several tombstones, fourteen photographs, and eight rather imperfect copies of the inscriptions to St. Petersburg, where they were handed to the Councillor of State Chowlson, who soon declared the character to be Syriac-Nestorian.

It was difficult to decipher, for, besides the age and decay of the stones and inscriptions, they contained now italics not usual in Old Syriac, and also quite foreign letters, probably taken from the Arabian alphabet, and, very unexpectedly, some Turkish words and proper names. This having been found out, the deciphering proceeded rapidly, and Prof. Chowison set a report to the Royal Academy of Sciences in St. Petersburg. The inscriptions have primarily a paelographic interest, and are further remarkable on account of their peculiar grammatical forms and turns of speech. They also give the animal's names of the twelve years' cycle of the Mongolians, Chinee and Turks in their original forms, whereas these names were higherto only known from an Arabic translation.

But their historical value is still greater, for they prove the early spread of Christianity in eartern Asia by the Nestoriann, which are hitherto only conjectured. It is true that in the eleventh century there was already news of the conversion to Christianity of a mighty Turkish race living northeast of Kuldja, whose Kings governed a large Kingdom, and whose power probably gave rise to the legend of a government of the high priest Johannes in Asia, and that this as well as other Turkish tribes were converted by the Nestorians is shown by reports of Christian missionaries of the thirteenth century, and by Marco Polo's report; but till now there was no certain proof of all these sayings, and the inscriptions now deciphered show indeed that the Nestorians succeeded in converting Turkish populations not later than the eighth century, for the eldest inscription from Semirjetsche belongs to the beginning of the ninth century and the latest to the middle of the fourteenth century—probably 1337.—Vossische Zeitung.

Pleading Ireland's Cause.

Liverpool, Nov. 8.—At the meeting of the members of the National League, yesterday, motions were adopted confirming the resolutions passed by the convention on Saturday. Mr. Thomas Power O'Connor said the battle for Ireland began seven centuries ago, and he predicted that before seven years had passed the Irish people would be completely successful in their struggle. Mr. James O'Kelly, the member for Roscommon, said the split in the Liberal party would finally result in benefitting the Irish cause.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

VILLAGE OF ASHBURNHAM.

THE MANUFACTURING AND OTHER INDUSTRIES WITHIN ITS BORDERS.

The Churches, Schools and Municipal Buildings—Park and Places for Recreation—Railway and Steamboat Communication.

MCMASTER'S PLANING MILL.

Mr. Wm. McMaster's planing mill and sash, door and blind factory occupies a space 40x30 feet and two storeys high. He has been about a year in the factory, in which are used a lathe, mortising machine, circular saws, band saw, etc., and he is putting in a planer, facer, teneting machine, blind slat teneter and moulder, and has also ordered a boiler and engine which will be used in new premises which he has purchased. He also takes contracts for buildings, and employs eight hands.

BROOM FACTORY.

The Ashburnham broom factory is now in the hands of Mr. Robert Hamilton, successor to Mr. W. S. Deacon, and all kinds of brooms and whisks are made there. The principal machine used is the tying machine, for winding the wire on, and there are also several smaller ones, including the press, combs, cutter, and one for putting the hooks and eyes on the bands. The corn is brought from Chicago in bales, and turned out in brooms and whisks.

STEPHENSON'S CANOES.

Mr. J. S. Stephenson's canoe factory is opposite the saw mill. He occupies two apartments, and turns out cedar and basswood canoes. Mr. Stephenson is an old hand at this business, and does not expect that his premises will long be sufficient for his business. As his trade increases the factory will expand.

TANNERY.

Mr. George Helson's tannery is also near the bridge. It occupies a brick building, about 54x24, two storeys high with basement, and a frame building 40x24, also two storeys. There is an attached brick engine house. The basement of the first building contains three vats and other articles. The office is in the first story, and also the curring shop and leather store. The third storey is used as a storeroom and for wool drying. There are six liquor vats in the second building, and a finishing shop. The leaches are between these two buildings, the liquor being prepared and the bark ground on the premises. Mr. Helson also deals in leather, and more vats are being put in the tannery.

WAGGON FACTORY.

Mr. J. T. Craig's carriage and waggon factory occupies a building on Elizabeth street 60x26 feet and two storeys high. The front part of the first storey contains the forge, where the iron work is done, and also horseshoeing and general blacksmithing. The woodworking department is also on the first floor, and the second storey is used for the finishing shop.

BLACKSMITH SHOP.

Messrs. E. & P. Clancy have a large blacksmith shop on Elizabeth street, in which they carry on the business of horseshoeing jobbing and general blcksmitning.

EGG EXPORTATION.

Messrs. Scott & Marshall occupy a large building near the station, which was built for an elevator, for their egg packing business. Two floors and the cellar are utilized in the business, the eggs being stored in the cellar during the summer, and packed on the first floor, and the second floor being used as a storeroom. They have had two buyers on the road all season and four men working at the packing house. The eggs are stored in fifty-six large vats, each of which will hold 1,100 dozen, and preserved in lime pickle. The season's exportation of eggs will amount to about 1,800 barrels, or from 125,000 to 130,000 dozen, or about 1,560,000 eggs. They expect to be able to increase the business next year.

BUSINESS PLACES.

Ashburnham has several groceries which appear to do a good trade and occupy good premises.

Mr. J. C. Sullivan has a very fine store on Elizabeth street. The building is a handsome brick one 27x70 feet, and has plate glass windows, side lights and doors. Mr. Sullivan deals in groceries and provisions.

Mr. S. Shannon has a neat store in the Albion Hotel block, Elizabeth street, in which he does business in groceries, provisions, crockery and glassware.

Mr. Wm. Collins occupies the old Rogers' stand, the present building having been erected in 1856. The store is a large one, and there is an office and storehouse connected with it. Mr. Collins deals in groceries and provisions and has a druggists' license to sell liquor.

Mr. C. W. Moore occupies a neat store on Elizabeth street, with a good storehouse in the rear. He deals in groceries and provisions.

Mr. J. Throop, also on Elizabeth street, deals in groceries and provisions in a tidy store with storeroom attached.

Mrs. Swanson keeps a confectionary store and baker's shop on Elizabeth street, bread and confectionary being the principal articles dealt in.

Mr. Wm. Kemp has a butcher shop on Elizabeth street, opposite the saw mill.

Mr. P. Glover, butcher, has a stall for the sale of meat in the market building.

Mr. Wainright's ice house is near the Riverside Park. It is frame building, 100 x 40 feet, and is prepared to preserve the ice during the hot weather for customers in the village and town.

Mr. John Kylie has a boot and shoe shop on Elizabeth street.

HOTELS.

The village has two good hotels — Ashburnham has always possessed good houses for the accommodation of travellers.

THE ALBION.

The Albion Hotel is a fine brick building, two and a half storeys high. It contains a parlor, sitting room, dining room, fifteen bedrooms, bar room, etc. The house is neatly and conviencently fitted up, comfortably furnished, and has good stabling and sheds in connection with it. Messrs. S. & H. Bay are the proprietors of the hotel.

THE MAPLE LEAF.

The Maple Leaf Hotel occupies a site long used for hotel purposes. The house is a frame one, painted white, 50 x 30 feet, and three storeys high, with a cellar the full size of the house. The house is well furnished throughout, and has, which perhaps few houses have, seventeen feather beds. There is in connection with the hotel stabling for thirty horses and good sheds. Mr. George Lipsett is the proprietor of the Maple Leaf. He also has which business he carries on in connection with the hotel. The stable is supplied with good horses and rigs. One of the horses carried off first prize as a driver at the Central Exhibition, where there were nineteen competitors.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The principal public building in the village is the TOWN HALL.

It is a red brick building, beside the school building, and contains a public hall and Council Chamber. It was formerly used for school purposes, but has been in use as a town hall since 1878. The Village Council for the present year and the municipal officers are as follows:—Mr. John Burnham, M. P., Reeve, and Messrs. H. Calcutt, Wm. Wand, J. T. Craig and Wm. Faint, Concillors; Mr. J. Wood, Clerk; Mr. A. H. Peck, Treasurer; Mr. Jonathan Stephenson, Assessor; Mr. A. Ingram, Collector; Mr. John Craig, Street Inspector and Village Constable. The Board of Health is composed as follows:—Mr. John Burnham, Chairman; Mr. J. Wood, Secretary, and Messrs. John Wright and Stewart Wright. Dr. Clarke is Medical Health Officer, and Mr. J. Craig Health Inspector. The Justices of the Peace in the village are Messrs. John Wood and H. Bennett.

DRILL SHED.

The drill shed is on Mark street. It is a frame building about 114x60 feet. The Ashburnham volunteer company—No. 3 Company of the 57th Battalion—uses it for drilling purposes. The Ashburnham Company was organized in 1863, and the late R. D. Rogers was the first captain. The company was called to the front in March, 1866, at the time of the Fenian invasion. At that time the officers were, Major R. D. Rogers, Captain; Lieut. H. T. Strickland, and Ensign J. Z. Rogers. At the period of active service in June, 1866, the commissions were held by Capt. J. Z. Rogers (now Colonel of the 57th), Acting-Lieut. R. Z. Rogers, and Ensign John Burnham (afterwards promoted). The late Geo. C. Rogers was afterwards in command of the company, and the officers now are Capt. R. B. Rogers and Lieut. E. A. Peck.

THE MARKET BUILDING.

The market building is on the corner of Elizabeth and Market streets. It is an old building fitted up, having been used as a store over fifty years ago. It was the village hall or Council chamber for a time, and there is a lockup in it now. The market scales—large scales for weighing hay—are on an open space beside the building. They are in charge of the

THE CHURCHES.

There are two churches in Ashburnham, one Church of England and one Methodist, which are well attended, and many of the residents attend divine service in Peterborough.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

The parish of St Luke's (Church of England) was formed chiefly through the exertions and by the liberality of the late Rev. Mark Burnham, M. A., who not only gave the site for a church, but also aided largely in its erection, and for two years contributed generously to the clergyman's support. On the 9th July, 1876, the first service was held, the late Bishop of Toronto (Dr. Bethune) officiating in the morning, and the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, the present rector, preaching his first sermon here in the evening. The only building then erected was a small school room, but it was soon found inadequate for the constantly increasing congregation, and the foundation stone of the present church was laid on Ascension day, 1877. The church was opened on September 23rd of that year and consecrated in May, 1878, all indebtedness having been removed. In 1880 a new pipe organ was purchased, and later in that year the contract was let for the erection of a handsome brick parsonage adjoining the church, which was completed and occupied by the present rector, in July, 1881. On the 25th of October, 1884, the present incumbent, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, was inducted as rector, an endowment having been raised through the liberality of the congregation, prompted by the generous anonymous donation of a member, and the parish constituted a rectory. In 1885 the old school room was torn down and a very commodious and well designed structure erected in its stead, with library and infant class room, according to the most modern ideas. Thus in ten years the parishioners have built church, school room and parsonage, and provided all the accessories of divine worship, the value of the church property being over $12,000. A new chancel is now being erected and will be ready for occupation in a short time. We recently gave a description of the building in the REVIEW, and will reserve fuller information until the opening takes place. All the buildings are of white brick, the church itself being a very neat and well appointed edifice, containing seven handsome stained glass memorial windows, besides a very beautiful and costly brass lectern, and other suitable fittings and adornments, the gifts of former or present parishioners. The average morning attendance is considerably over two hundred. There were not over thirty communicants within the parish at its foundation; now they number about two hundred and fifty. Thre hundred persons have been confirmed within ten years. The Sunday school has an average attendance of between 130 and 140, and a staff of 16 teachers, several of them possessing certificates from the London Sunday School Institute. There is a branch of the Church of England Temperance Society in connection with St. Luke's, of which the officers are:—President, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, the Rector; Vice-Presidents, Messrs. H. Nesbitt, F. Hall and R. B. Rogers; Secretary, Mr. J. J. Rooney; Treasurer, Mr. W. Manieos; Organists, Mrs. Jackson and Miss Eva Tivey, and a committee of six ladies and five gentlemen. The Society has a membership of 100 and the Band of Hope, 75. Meetings are held fortnightly. The officers of the Girls' Friendly Society are:—President, Mrs. C. B. Orde; Secretary, Miss S. R. Burnet; Treasurer, Mrs. Bradshaw. This society has eleven working associates and twenty members. The object of the society is to form a bond of union among women of all classes, drawing them together by means of material help, sympathy and prayer. The church has also active committes on finance, entertainment, decoration, &c., and a branch of the White Cross Army has lately been instituted. The agencies for work in addition to the usual Sunday services are:—A monthly teachers' meeting, a regular meeting of the Temperance Guild and Girls' Friendly Society, a weekly Bible class, service on Saints' days, children's singing practice and Bible class, and all the departments usually found in a well worked parish. The rector publishes a monthly magazine, now in its seventh year, which is well conducted and supplies a great deal of interesting information on parish affairs. Two hundred copies of the magazine are circulated.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Kingston Light.

An enquiry from the Kingston City Council has been sent to the Town Clerk as to how the electric light system is being conducted here. The necessary information will be forwarded.

The 57th.

It is likely that the city battalion will turn out for church parade on Sunday morning. The matter will be settled on Thursday evening. On Monday evening there was a good muster, Col. Rogers putting the men through battalion drill.

The Hundred Yard Dash.

The hundred yard foot race between Elliott and Robson, which was run on the P.A.A.A. grounds on Tuesday afternoon resulted in another victory for Elliott. There were quite a number of spectators present. The first heat was a "dead" one, both coming past the ribbon together. The second heat was won by Robson in 10¾; and the third and fourth by Elliott in 10¼ and 10⅕ respectively. Mr. J. J. Daly acted as timer.

Phelan vs. Bradburn.

The following statement of the judgment delivered in the Phelan vs. Bradburn case has been handed in for publication:—A verdict was given in favor of Phelan for $901 subject to a mortgage held by Cavanagh amounting to $620, which money was advanced by Cavanagh to Phelan previous to the litigation. The Judge said that if the defendant was forced to pay $901 and also the Cavanagh mortgage he would be paying it twice. Therefore he provided that if the defendant paid Cavanagh's mortgage then the verdict would stand $281 for the plaintiff and $685 for the defendant. But if the plaintiff paid Cavanagh's mortgage Phelan's verdict would be $901 and $685 for Bradburn.

The City of Peterborough.

"What about the incorporation of Peterborough into a city?" is a question that is quite frequently asked. "Well, you see, now that there is such a hub-bub concerning the elections and other equally important matters that trifling subjects, such as the future of Peterborough, are felt to take care of themselves." But, nevertheless, our fair and prospering town will doubtless become a city ere long, and our sister towns, such as Port Hope, Lindsay, Cobourg and other places, will be far more jealous of us than they are at present, to say nothing of Belleville and similar small cities. When Peterborough does become a city our business men will have nothing to fear in competing with even such places as Toronto and Montreal, for they are well up in city styles. A. McNEIL, of Habiliment Hall, can furnish you with a first-class suit made up in the latest city fashion, and the cut is always—well, perfect!

Sweet Sixteen.

The Port Hope Times of Monday says:—"This morning Chief Douglas received a telephone message from Chief Cooper, of Peterborough, telling him to watch the incoming train from Peterborough for a sixteen year old girl, called Minnie Crosby, who was flitting without her parents' consent. A description of the girl was given, and the arrival of the nine o'clock train found Chief Douglas patiently waiting for his quarry. He saw stepping from one of the cars a girl answering the description given, accompanied by another. The Chief accosted the twain and informed Minnie that she must await the arrival of her mother. Minnie's companion, another Minnie—Emery, decided that she could not tarry, and went down and boarded the Norseman for Rochester. The pair were on their way to Rochester, fascinated by the glittering degradation they were hurrying to. The Emery girl, it seems, knew something of the ropes, and was taking her companion across. She furnished the experience, with the fares to Rochester for both, and their lunch had been provided by the girl who was detained, and whose mother arrived on the one o'clock train and returned with the truant on the 3.15 in the afternoon.

PETERBOROUGH MUSICAL SOCIETY.

A Large and Enthusiastic Meeting held on Tuesday Evening.

On Tuesday evening a large meeting of those interested in choral music was held in Mr. Seward's class room, over the China Hall. There were over one hundred people present.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Mr. Seward called the meeting to order and Mr. A. P. Poussette was elected chairman. Mr. A. V. R. Young acted as secretary pro tem.

The constitution as prepared by the committee appointed for drafting it was read clause by clause and adopted.

The election of officers then took place as follows:—

PRESIDENT—Wm. Cluxton.

VICE PRESIDENT—A. P. Poussette.

SEC. TREAS—W. H. Budden.

Committees to represent the various churches of Peterborough and Ashburnham were then drafted as follows:—

St. John's Church, Miss A. Errett, and Mr. H. A. Hammond; Roman Catholic Church, Miss Hurley and Mr. T. Dunn; St. Paul's Church, Miss Dennistoun and Sheriff Hall; George Street Methodist Church, Miss Wells and Mr. Henderson; St. Andrew's Church, Miss Mercer and Mr. A. Bell, Jr; Charlotte Street Methodist Church, Miss Cox and Mr. A. L. Davis; Baptist Church, Miss Gilmour and Mr. Geo. Matthers; St. Luke's Church, Miss E. Strickland and Mr. R. B. Rogers. As there were no representatives of the Mark Street Church the appointments were left for some future meeting.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next.

Building.

Building operations, which have been stayed during the past few days, owing to the cold weather, are now in full blast again. If the weather keeps clear for the next two weeks the contractors will be satisfied. A large number of houses and other buildings are nearly finished.

"Queena."

The Society drama "Queena" was presented in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening by the Tavernier Company. The play simply tells the old story of the misery which follows in the wake of a secret marriage. Queena Montrose contracts a covert marriage with Lord Walter Huntington, while in New York. Her husband is summoned to England, but before going gives her a locket as a pledge of their marriage. When there his marriage is disapproved of; he is kept in private custody for two years. He breaks away to find that his wife has died. His sight fails him and he remains blind for years. The heroine of the play meantime keeps her secret her own, flies from her home to take refuge with her friend, Florence Fletcher, in the city. Her cousin, Fred Horton, seeks and finds her, urges her to return, stating that another had died in her mother's house and that it had been given about that it was herself. Queena then declares herself dead to the world. She becomes an actress and achieves fame under the pseudonym of M'lle Reni. While playing in Paris her blind husband hears her sing. He is enchanted with the voice. At the American Legation they meet, when she finds that he is to be soon married. She is introduced to his fiancee. In a frensy of despair she places in his hand the locket as a pledge of his former love and present perfidy and sails for America. He follows, and the closing act represents little Queena, Queen's child, pleading successfully for the re-union of the father and mother. This depressing succession of events is brightened by a parallel love story. Florence Fletcher announces her decision to marry for money. She studies the commercial reports and keeps a list of all eligible men. After "fishing in the matrimonial sea" for a long time she comes to the conclusion that John Henry Fletcher, her first love, is, after all, the best of all. Miss Ida Van Cortland took the title role, receiving fair support throughout. The dresses worn are worthy of mention, that worn by M'lle Reni at the Ambassador's reception being particularly handsome.

I am offering building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine inch walls strapped and lathed, two story, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. THE DECAY OF JAMAICA.

Reciprocity With Canada or the United States Asked For.

PANAMA, Nov. 8.—Advices from Jamaica say: The decay of this colony which was once called "The brightest jewel in the British Crown," may be gathered from the following figures which show how the great staple of the country (sugar) has declined in cultivation during the periods named. The number of estates were: In 1835, 653; 1847, 513; 1879, 216, and 1884, 189. In reference to the decline and general depression prevailing, Hon. Michael Solomon, a prominent member of the Legislative Council and a large landed proprietor, proposed the following resolution:

Resolved, that the Legislative Council of the Jamaica is assured that the continuation of the bounties given by foreign governments to producers of the beet root sugar industry, must before long prove ruinous to the cane sugar industry of the West Indies and of a very large number of the inhabitants of this island; this council trusts His Excellency the Governor will, in view of the proposed conference on the bounty question bring these facts to the notice of Her Majesty's Government and solicit that if such bounties are not shortly discontinued this island be permitted to make arrangements with the United States of North America or with the sister colony of Canada on the basis of reciprocity, in order that our sugar products, now so seriously affected by the bounty system in the English markets, may find a favorable outlet nearer home.

The resolution was carried unanimously, but His Excellency the Governor, the President of the council, remarked that there was very little chance of its having any practical effect.

A SHIP ON FIRE.

Burning of the Caspar—The Crew Reach Land.

ST. PIERRE, Minguelon, Nov. 10.—The burning barque reported yesterday has been towed into this port and the crew safely landed at Langley's Island. The barque was found to be the "Caspar," 806 tons, of Swansea, from Miramichi, October 29, for Liverpool, with a cargo of timber. Captain Roberts reports that everything went well until Sunday morning, when fire was discovered under the foreward house. There was a stiff breeze blowing at the time. The crew made strenuous but unavailing efforts to get the fire under control, but, fanned by the increasing gale, the flames spread radidly, while the heat and smoke were something terrible. At half past ten o'clock on Sunday night the crew, unable to stand it any longer, abandoned the ill-fated ship. At that hour, the flames had burst through the forward house and blown up the forehatch. The crew of twelve men left her in the long boat and headed for Langley's Island, twenty-five miles distant, which they reached at eleven o'clock on Monday, all well. Captain Roberts says it was a grand sight to see the ship all ablaze on the ocean at night, with the flames fanned by the gale of wind. The sky and sea were illuminated for miles around. The tug Progress managed to get the burning hull in tow, and got it into St. Pierre yesterday morning. It had then burned to the water's edge, and was still burning inside below the water line. The crew give no explanation of the origin of the fire.

THE BULGARIAN THRONE.

The Sobranje Decide to Elect Prince Waldemar.

SOFIA, Nov. 10.—The Sobranje, at a secret session last evening, decided to elect Prince Waldemar, third son of the King of Denmark, as successor to Prince Alexander on the thorne of Bulgaria. Prince Waldemar is 28 years old. At to-morrow morning's session of the Sobranje Premier Radoslavoff will propose Prince Waldemar as a candidate for the throne, and the Sobranje will elect him by acclamation and appoint a committee of five to officially convey the decision to the prince.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 10.—Captain Nabokoff, the Russian who led the recent revolt at Bourgas, has been tried by the Bulgarian authorities for causing the insurrection and convicted. He was sentenced to death. His fellow conspirators have also been tried and sentenced to fifteen years, imprisonment each.

ANGLO-AUSTRIAN AGREEMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Chronicle's Vienna correspondent wires of the existence of an Anglo-Austrian agreement, based upon the acceptance by Austria of Russia's occupation of Bulgaria as a casus belli. The knowledge of the conclusion of such an agreement is alleged to be the cause of Russia's declaration that the Czar has at no time contemplated even a partial occupation of Bulgaria.

A CONSERVATIVE CHOICE

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Times says:—In selecting Prince Waldemar of Demark as successor to Prince Alexander, the Bulgarian Assembly has made a conservative choice. It was feared that the patriotic party would bring forward Prince Alexander's name, and insist that the abdication was legally incomplete till approved by the Great Sobranje. This course may still be held in reserve, should the Bulgarian Government find it impossible to avoid the veto power of the Czar in any other way. But in fixing upon Prince Waldemar, the Assembly shows that it desires to avert further complications by presenting an unexceptionable Prince-elect for confirmation of the great powers and the Sultan. The Prince's acceptance of the honor is, however, very much questioned. He will certainly decline if there is risk of the Czar's opposition.

THE CHOICE ACCEPTABLE.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 10.—After the election of Prince Waldemar to the Bulgarian throne the President of the Sobranje informed the deputies that he was confident that Europe would ratify the Prince's election.

TO WAIT ON THE PRINCE.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 10.—M. Shefkoff, President of the Sobranje, and four deputies were selected to convey to Prince Waldemar the offer of the throne. Prince Waldemar is at Cannes. M. Karveloff has resigned the Regency.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Its Manifest Destiny— Alarm Among United States Railways.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—The Times says: "The plans and schemes of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which seems to be reaching out in all directions and striving for American business, contribute an element to the pool situation that is a prolific source of comment and speculation. The latest report is that in the near future the Canadian Line is to become an active competitor for the Central traffic and the Trunk Line passenger and freight business westward will end for the present. The Canadian Pacific, it is asserted, has concluded traffic contracts with the Wabash and Baltimore and Ohio, which give it running rights from Detroit to Chicago. It is claimed this is not all. For two years the Canadian Pacific had engineers in the field marking out a line from Woodstock to Niagara Falls. It is positively stated this extension is to be built at once or that work will begin upon it early in the spring. Up to the present the Michigan Central and Canadian Pacific have exchanged business at St. Thomas, but the new arrangement, even if the Woodstock and Niagara Falls branch is not built, will work to dissolve that connection. It is also whispered that when the Canadian Pacific builds to Niagara Falls it will find at Buffalo a natural and ready ally in the Lehigh Valley road, which would give it a line through to New York outside of the pools, and unless one or both roads were brought right in these interests would find combination impossible. With the interest in its bonds guaranteed by the Canadian Government, and in a position to haul freight at cost in following out the favorite theory that its present mission is to demonstrate its capacity to secure business, the Canadian Pacific is becoming a dangerous menace to American lines.

THROUGH TO WINNIPEG.

Through Cars Over the Northern and Pacific Junction.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—Arrangements between the Canadian Pacific and the Northern are being completed for carrying out a through freight and passenger traffic via the Northern and Pacific Junction Railways. Passengers from Western Ontario to Manitoba will henceforth go by the Northern and Northwestern, the Pacific Junction and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Canadian Pacific Railway sleepers will run in and out of Toronto via this route. Mr. Quinn, General Passenger Agent of the Northern, left last for Montreal, and Mr. Webster, Transport Superintendent, leaves to-night to complete the details. Now passengers coaches are to be put on the route. The new service will probably be commenced on Monday next.

WELCOMED BY LIBERALS.

The vials of execration are being poured out on the Marquis of Allesbury. The Marquis richly deserves all that he gets. His example, like that of other titled and notorious profligates and blackguards, is helping to drag the House of Lords to its inevitable doom. But there is some difference between the measure which democratic righteousness metes to the sinful peer and that which it metes to Sir Charles Dilke, who, after the most hideous revelations which have shocked purity in this generation, not only is not execrated by his Radical constituents, but is fondly implored by them to continue their adored representative. There has seldom been a stronger illustration of the relations between party and morality.—Toronto Week (Indep.)

LATEST CABLE NEWS

MURDERED BY HIS CURATE.

VIENNA, Nov. 10.—Dr. Keregyarto, a Catholic priest of Jasz Karajenoe, Hungary, was murdered yesterday by his curate, a young priest named Szitar. The curate had fallen into bad habits, and his irregular life and disinclination to heed advice had led Dr. Keregyarto to apply to his bishop for his dismissal. This enraged Szitar, who revenged himself by taking his pastor's life. Szitar was arrested.

THE LONDON SOCIALISTS.

LONDON, November 10.—The News says: "The police, under their new leader, showed firmness and tact yesterday. The Socialists did not come well out of the affair. They made a serious mistake by their paltry attempt to snatch a public holiday from its legitimate uses." The Standard says: "A manifest mistake was committed in allowing the Socialists to hold a metting which had been prohibited. Socialists vanity will certainly be gratified thereat, and it would have been much better if the meeting had never been prohibited."

ARBITRARY CONDUCT.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Steps are being taken to bring to the notice of Mr. Parnell the arbitrary conduct of a certain member of his party owning land, which is fast becoming a crying scandal. The chief offenders are Sir Joseph Neale McKenna, member for South Monaghan, and William J. Corbet, although there are others whose conduct is equally questionable among the petty landlords who have joined the National League as a means of escaping the results of their tyranny.

ITALIAN WAR CREDIT.

ROME, Nov. 10.—Signor Ricotti, Minister of War, will ask the Chamber of Deputies for a credit of 3,500,000 lires, for the purpose of forming twenty-four batteries of artillery.

IN TIME OF PEACE.

ATHENS, Nov. 10.—Prime Minister Tricoupis, in his budget speech in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, emphasized the necessity of preparing in times of peace for war.

ENGLAND SEEING ITS ERROR.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Mr. Chaplin, Conservative, in a speech at Lincoln last night, advocated an import tax on foreign manufactured articles. He said that of all the Chancellors of the Exchequer England had had for many years, Lord Randolph Churchill was the most likely to pay attention to this subject and to take the necessary steps if public opinion should be favorable to the scheme.

TERCENTENARY ANNIVERSARY.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—There is a movement at Peterborough to arrange for the adequate celebration next year of the tercentenary of the execution of Mary, Queen of Scots.

SEQUEL TO A BANQUET.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Mayor of Ryde, Isle of Wight, gave a banquet some months ago to Prince Henry of Battenburg. A sequel to the entertainment was a case in the County Court last week, where the Mayor was sued for $75.50 for goods hired from the plaintiff for the banquet. After an acrimonious wrangle, the defendant's attorney maintaining that the charges were excessive, the judge decided for the plaintiff, with some deduction.

THE EGYPTION QUESTION.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The statement made by the Marquis of Salisbury at the Lord Mayor's banquet that England meant to remain in Egypt until her work was completed has made a profound impression in French political and financial circles. The Nationale, the France, and other papers consider that the speech settles the question of evacution, and shows England's determination to make the occupation of Egypt indefinite and protracted.

SOLDIERS AND PRINTERS.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—There is a strike of compositors in the Government printing offices at Littinfield, over work for the War Department. A number of soldiers who are compositors have been ordered to take the place of the strikers.

DESIRES A CONFERENCE.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Prince Bismarck's return to Berlin is associated with the demand of M. Herbette, the French ambassador here, for an interview with the Chancellor. Prime Minister de Freycinet has complained that M. Herbette has not yet been accorded a conference, saying that the French Government desires to convey its views directly to the Chancellor and not through Count Herbert Bismarck. M. Herbett's efforts to obtain Prince Bismarck's support of M. de Freycinet's Egyptian policy have resulted in absolute failure. The Marquis of Salisbury's declaration at the Lord Mayor's banquet in London last night was made under the assurance that Germany would not interfere with the protracted occupation of Egypt by the British.

MEETING OF PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Parliament was prorogued to-day from December 9th to to January 20th, 1887, when the new House will be opened by the Queen in person.

BURMESE CANNON.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Several Burmese cannon captured at Mandalay have been presented to the Queen, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh.

A LETTER.

ROME, Nov. 10.—The Vatican is preparing for publication an encyclical letter condemning and stigmatizing the Italian Government, whose policy, the letter will say, places the Pope in the power of a revolution which menaces his liberty.

C.P.R. EMIGRATION AGENT.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Mr. Alexander Begg, emigration agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway in this city, has received an appointment in the head office of the company in Montreal. Mr. Archer Baker, agent at Liverpool, will succeed Mr. Begg, but he will remain at his present agency, and the work here will be performed by a deputy.

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night;"

is the exclamation, in thought, of many a man who has suffered through a long life from some distressing disease that he might have cured with a few bottles of medicine like Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which cures all blood and skin diseases, as well as consumption or scrofula of the lungs. If he were "a child again," he would know enough to have a bottle of the Discovery "to-night," and in old age would not implore Father Time to "fly backward" for his special benefit. Hence, "Be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer." Get a bottle of the nearest druggist,

THE FORGERS.

MR. BLAKE addressed a large number of Reformers at Toronto on Tuesday, but did not give any hint of having a practical policy. He did not make a speech, but read a written essay, a device which he may have adopted to avoid any risk of being led away to make a rash promise of doing anything except talking opposition, or perhaps he feared he might fall into some Cameronism and be again exposed. He declared his close alliance with the champion fabricator by sitting in friendly union with him on the same platform. He even listened without rebuke while Mr. M. C. Cameron repeated his slanderous falsehoods. If Mr. Blake did not know them to be false when he uttered them, he now knows them to be so, or he is one of the most dishonest men that ever entered public life, for he is doubly bound to examine into the accuracy of his extracts now that they have been pronounced to be mere forgeries—bold falsifications of the public documents from which it is pretended they are taken.

Mr. Cameron, who seems to be hardened in crime, had the effrontery to maintain the truth of his bogus extracts. He even went so far as to bring a counter charge of garbling the documents against those who have exposed his crime.

We can hardly wonder if many are unwilling, even on the plain evidence that has been adduced, to admit that one in Mr. Blake's position can have degraded himself by committing such a foul offence. They feel as if they could believe nothing short of the evidence of their own eyes. Such reluctance in those who are honest themselves is to be respected. They may convince themselves of the facts of the case if they call at our office, where they can inspect the official departmental reports for the various years, and compare them with Mr. Blake's alleged extracts as reported in the Globe. So they can judge for themselves.

THE BARLEY MARKET.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I have read with interest Mr. McDonnell's letter in your issue of to-day. Mr. McDonnell states what is quite true, that large lots of barley cannot be sold for as much as 50c on the street per load, many loads from farmers' waggons. The wholesale price was 61c. and on the street in Toronto 63c. And he is also right when he says that after the expenses are paid there is but little left for profit to the dealer.

In the Outlook I compared street prices in the different markets, and not the wholesale. My article to which Mr. McDonnell has replied, was not written for the purpose of putting the price up. It was instigated by the action here on Saturday, 23rd of October. On the 21st I stated that prices were higher in Peterborough with sharp competition. I thought that the large deliveries on the 23rd were, in some measure, caused by that article, and that when farmers found only two buyers on the market that day, and when the price was put down here, while outside markets were unchanged, they might think the article referred to was misleading, and I felt a little sensitive and wrote the "Outlook." When speaking of the Lindsay market I said: "At Lindsay, where it may be said there is but little competition," the price was 55c., the same as at Peterborough. I thought, from what I had so frequently heard, and from the Lindsay quotations, as published in the market reports, and which I found were generally lower than Omemee, Millbrook and Peterborough, I was warranted in making the statement.

I know as a rule that buyers pay too much for grain, and that there is not sufficient margin left for profit. I have often gone through the mill myself, and have often come out bruised and wounded. If I had confined myself to my legitimate business, and had never touched a bushel of grain, and had worked as hard as I have worked in the produce business, I would have been a rich man long ago. The fact is that most of the time the produce merchant is simply working for the banks, the insurance companies and the farmers. I may be permitted to say with regard to Messrs. W. D. Matthews and Co., including their energetic manager—Mr. McDonnell—that they are an upright house, and resort to no sharp practices. I have bought from them, I have sold to them, I have bought against them here for years, and I have never heard any farmer complain of their weighing nor express dissatisfaction with Mr. McDonnell's dealings. This is a grand thing to be able to say, and I hope the editor of the Victoria Warder who writes in italics about farmers near Lindsay who draw their grain to a distant market (meaning Peterborough) and are robbed in the weighing—that is the plain English of it—will take a note of it.

The Warder in speaking of the Lindsay market says: "A farmer may weigh his barley at home and find the buyer's weight tally to a pound." It is all bosh! There is no such thing known in the trade. Buyers take sufficient weight to cover waste in handling, storing, and to deliver into the cars the quantity bought and paid for. If they find a load of dirty grain they take more weight. They tell the seller what they are doing and no one objects to this reasonable rule.

It seems a pity that politics should be dragged into the discussion of these matters. We all, in Canada, know how hard it is for a politician to write dispassionately.

Yours truly,
WM. CLUXTON.

Trade With West Indies.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 10.—The Dominion Government have appointed Mr. John T. Wylde, ex-secretary of the Starr Manufacturing Company, as Canadian Commissioner to proceed to the West Indies and report on the best means for extending Canadian Trade relations with these Islands. Mr. Wylde was a West Indian merchant many years ago, but he is somewhat out of the current of that trade now. The first thing to be secured, however, is direct steam communication. All maritime exports by steamer are now made via New York.

MARK STREET CHURCH.

The Methodist Church, formerly a Bible Christian Church, is on Mark street. It is a neat red brick edifice ornamented with white facings. The size of the building is about 36x50 feet, with a porch in addition. It was the first church erected in Ashburnham, having been built by the Bible Christian denomination about the year 1870. The building is comfortably seated, and its seating capacity is about 260. The first pastor of the church was the Rev. J. W. Butcher, and a number of other clergymen have been appointed to that station, the changes, owing to the Methodist itinerant system, being frequent. Among those who ministered regularly in the church were the Rev. Mr. Copeland, the Rev. Mr. Quants, the Rev. Mr. Rice, the Rev. Mr. Davidson, the Rev. Mr. Brown, and the Rev. Mr. Butcher, the first pastor, who, while sustaining a partially superannuated relation and residing in Peterborough, a second time had charge of the pastorate. Mr. Butcher was succeeded in 1883, on the consummation of the union of the Methodist and Bible Christain churches, by the Rev. F. McAmmond, B. A., who was followed by the Rev. J. C. Wilson, the present pastor.

The Sunday school has an average attendance of about 80. The officers of the Sunday school are a superintendent, secretary and treasurer, and ten teachers are engaged every Sunday afternoon in instructing the children in the Bible truths. The school has a well assorted library of three hundred volumes.

The other services, in addition to the usual services on Sunday, are a prayer meeting on Wednesday evenings and a ladies' prayer meeting on Thursday afternoons.

EDUCATIONAL.

Ashburnham is supplied with good educational facilities, the school being in charge of a BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board for the present year is composed as follows:—The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Chairman; Mr. A. Ingram, Secretary-Treasurer, and Messrs. H. Calcutt, H. Bennett, F. Glover and John Smith.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

The school buildings stand on a good site on the corner of Mark and Robinson streets. It is constructed of red brick, with white facings. It is 35x60 feet, two storeys high, and contains two spacious halls and four large class rooms. This building was erected in 1876, Mr. Wm. Wand being the contractor, a brick building in the same lot, now owned by the municipality, being formerly the school building. Mr. J. J. Rooney, who has a first class certificate, is the principal of the school, and Miss Jennie Smith (2nd A) and Miss Annie Smith are the assistant teachers. The attendance at the school is as follows:—Mr. Rooney's room, on the roll, 57; average attendance, 42. Miss Jennie Smith's room, on roll, 64; average attendance, 55. Miss Annie Smith's room, on roll, 57; average atteddance, 50. The following gentlemen have held the position of principal of the school:—Mr. James Stratton, 1862 to 1865; Mr. Cornell, for a year and a half; Dr. Baptie, now science master at the Ottawa Normal School; Mr. John Wood, 1867 to 1880; Mr. W. J. Hallett, Mr. Arthur Jones and Mr. A. T. Emmerson, who was succeeded by Mr. Rooney. Arbor day was taken advantage of by the pupils, and trees were planted and flower beds laid out, which have since been kept in fair order. The pupils are given lesons in music once a week by Prof. Seward.

PUBLIC GROUNDS.

There are two places set apart as public grounds or places for recreation, though owned by private parties.

RIVERSIDE PARK.

The Riverside Park, of which Mr. H Calcutt is manager, is on the side of the river, and the raceway being on the other side of it, the park is surrounded on three sides by water. It contains four acres of ground, and is used as practice grounds by athletic associations, the Gun Club, etc., and for sports and recreation on public holidays and similar occasions. In the park there is and tobogganning is becoming popular as a winter amusement. The slide is a high one and it is rare sport shooting down its slippery surface on a swift toboggan. Electric lights have been placed in the park, and the slide will be illuminated at night with the brilliancy of electricity.

ASSOCIATION GROUNDS.

The old cricket grounds, now the grounds of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, are on Driscoll street. They contain two and a quarter acres of land, and the several clubs affiliated with the Association—cricket, foot ball, base ball, bycycle, lawn tennis, etc—use them for a practice ground. They also are used for sports and amusements on holidays.

RESIDENCES.

Ashburnham occupies a beautiful site on the Little Lake and the Otonabee River, and is a desirable place for residence. There are several very handsome dwellings in the village, and as it is, in this article, impossible to describe them all, a few of the best can only be mentioned. Among these are the residences of Mr. J. J. Lundy, Mr. John Burnham, M. P., Mrs. Mark Burnham, Mr. H. T. Strickland, Mr. J. M. Irwin, Mr. H. C. Rogers, Mrs. Ludgate and Mr. J. Z. Rogers. Mr. J. C. Sullivan is building an exceedingly handsome residence near the school, which occupies a commanding position on a good site, and will be one of the most beautiful private residences in the village or town. The cost of its erection will be about $7,000 or $8,000

NATURAL ADVANTAGES.

The village of Ashburnham has several natural advantages. Its beautiful situation is one, and the excellent afforded by the river Otonabee is another. The raceway now supplies motive power for a number of important industries, and there is space and power for many more. The village has good as the Ontario division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Grand Junction and the Lakefield branches of the Grand Trunk Railway pass through it. The village, also, as it is so close to Peterborough, has all the advantages of railway connection that the town has.

WATER POWER

RAILWAY FACILITIES,

THE LINE OF STEAMERS.

Mr. H. Calcutt's line of steamers, owned in Ashburnham, run between Peterborough and Ashburnham and the villages and landings on the river south of this point and on Rice Lake. These steamers are the large Golden Eye and the Whistle Wing, popular for general travel and for excursions. The village has every opportunity and advantage necessary for PROGRESS.

Its water privileges and shipping facilities are good, and it is surrounded by an excellent agricultural region. It will, no doubt, continue to grow, and whether the union with the town, which was so near being formed in 1872, is consummated or not, it is so near the town that people on this side of the river can watch its growth and see the evidences of its prosperity without the least pang of jealousy to mar the pleasures its advancement will give to all.

NO EXCUSE.

Mr. Blake did not use these garbled quotations himself; he did not deceive the people by means of them, and it is his duty to overcome his disinclination to ascertain the truth and make an acknowledgement of his mistake. The reports are published at considerable expense to the public, any member of Parliament of either party can secure them, and there is not the slightest excuse for ignorance in regard to them.—Montreal Star (Indep.).

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

FORCED APART.

CHAPTER XXV.

IN THE CITY.

Now, it was just five months after Michael Strangfield had departed this life, which brings us into the sloppy, inglorious month of November, that there hung over London, close down to the streets, a yellow fog.

All about the monument, and where a maze of streets meet, to pour their crowds toward London bridge, the fog was thickest. Here were many vehicles at a standstill, and voices belonging to invisible creatures went through the fog, with the clang of bells and stamping and slipping of iron-shod feet.

A hackney coachman, swathed in a mass of capes and looking, with the immense white shawl around his throat, like an artichoke trimmed with sauce, suddenly brought the horse he had been pulling and hauling at to a stand, and, slapping down his whip on the roof of the vehicle, leaned over and shouted into the window:

"There's no movin' ag'in' it. You can git out or sit vere you are, but here I stops."

And, saying this, he recovered his upright posture, and with great deliberation folded his arms under his cape.

The individual thus addressed, protruding his head through the window of the carriage, took a despairing look at the blank scene around, filled with outlines which grew defined or vanished, as the folds of the fog circled or released them.

"Whereabouts are we, coachman?" he called out:

"If I knew I'd go ahead, and blow the odds!" replied the man.

But the gentleman inside was clearly too impatient to behave sensibly; for, catching hold of a traveling bag, he jumped into the middle of the fog, and, giving some money to the coachman, went steadily in the direction to which his nose happened to point; and, luck being with him, he came to the pavement.

He asked a man the way to Cornhill. "Straight on," was the reply. And after twenty minutes of bumping and groping, and when he had measured some two hundred yards, the fog lifted, the whole space and scene around cleared, and with a rush and a shout London went to work again.

It was a short walk to Cornhill. Looking carefully from side to side as he went, our friend arrived presently at a passage, on which, amid other names, carefully indicated by a pointing hand, was the scroll, "George Hunter and Company, Second Floor." He mounted the gloomy staircase, and reached a landing of four doors, on one of which he knocked.

Behind a tall, long desk were several clerks writing by lamplight.

"I wish," said the gentleman, "to see the principal—the owner of the ship Elizabeth."

At the sound of that name the whole of the clerks looked up like one man and stared at him.

"Certainly," exclaimed one of them, jumping up. "What name, if you please, sir?"

"Mr. Cuthbert Shaw."

The clerk passed into another office, and in a moment returned and requested Mr. Shaw to walk in. This was done by passing round the desk; and Cuthbert, followed by the eyes of all the clerks, entered a large office, where at a table sat two elderly gentlemen.

One of them, a gray haired man with spectacles, immediately rose.

"Mr. Shaw, I think the name was?"

"Mr. Cuthbert Shaw."

"Pray take that chair, sir. My partner, Mr. Atkinson. My name is Hunter."

He resumed his seat looking inquisitively at the brown, though emaciated face of the young man.

"It is possible, Mr. Hunter, that you may have already been apprised of the loss of your ship, the Elizabeth, off Cape Palmas?"

"Yes, but only one week since, by the third mate of the vessel, who was rescued from a boat with four companions."

"I was on board the Elizabeth when she was wrecked, and am only just arrived in London."

"Cuthbert Shaw! I do not remember the name in the list of passengers," said Mr. Hunter. "I will refer—" and he was about to summon a clerk.

"You will not find my name in your list. I was rescued by the Elizabeth in the English channel last July, a day or two after she sailed from the Thames. I was on board an English brig of war called the Cleopatra. She engaged a French frigate and was sunk by her. Some of us got clear of the sinking hull by means of the boats, and on the following day the Elizabeth came across the boat I was in and took me on board.

"Permit me to continue my story and relate the object of my visit. My time is very short in London.

"All had gone prosperously with the Elizabeth until we were drawing near the latitude of the Gulf of Guinea, when one Friday evening a furious gale set in from the west. It obliged us to run before it, and for a whole day we were driven helplessly, but on Saturday night the captain, not daring to run to the westward any longer, hove the ship to, in doing which she was struck by a sea that swept away the galley, stove in the bulwarks and carried some of the men overboard. At the same time we lost one of our masts.

"Gentlemen, you will probably have received a full account of this disaster from the mate. It is enough if I tell you that, on the Monday morning, finding the ship leaking beyond our power to keep her afloat, the men took to the boats; but I was in feeble health, and, in the selfish rush, I was beaten down and left insensible, and for a quarter of an hour I lay; when, coming to, I found there was another man left on board—one of the Indian prince's attendants. I sprang up and hallooed after the boats, which were sailing rapidly away—the gale had broken on the previous afternoon, and the sea was comparatively smooth, if I take no account of the heavy swells, and then, perceiving that the ship was rapidly sinking, and the occupants of the boats either did not or would not heed me, I prepared myself for death—which, God knows, at that time had no terrors for me, for I had endured more than many hearts could have stood without breaking under."

Observing the pause, Mr. Hunter produced a bottle of wine from a drawer and filled a glass for the young fellow. With kindly eyes and much sympathy he encouraged him to proceed.

"Gentlemen, while I stood awaiting the moment of death, which I conceived inevitable, the Indian, appearing to observe me for the first time, rushed up to me and, with many wild gesticulations and unintelligible words, dragged me to the stern of the vessel, where, to my joy, I saw a small boat suspended. She hung by ropes at the head and stern, and I motioned to the Indian to slacken the left hand rope while I released the other, by which means we got the boat down upon the water without capsizing her.

"No sooner was she afloat, than the Indian sprang over the taffrail and swung himself into her; and dreading that he might leave me to my fate, I followed him hastily, and cast the boat adrift from the ship, which twenty minutes after we had quitted her, sank.

"From this point my story is a mere commonplace narrative of suffering, with one strange feature in it. Our boat was without sails. The other boats, having the advantage over us in size and sail, soon vanished upon the waterline."

He glanced at a timepiece, drank his wine, and continued, speaking quickly:

"There was a small quantity of fresh water in a beaker in the boat's bows, but no food of any kind. In the night, which was very calm, with bright stars, I fell asleep; and when I awoke, my mouth being parched, I went to the beaker, but found it empty. I knew that the Indian had drank the water in the night while I slept, and, in my rage and agony, I could have murdered him; but the wretch fell on his knees and so piteously moaned to me in his native language, that my fury was sobered by the fear and despair in his face, and in my misery I sat down and wept. Observing my anguish, the Indian crawled over to me on his knees and kissed my feet, and then, pulling out a package from his breast, placed it in my hand and withdrew to the bows of the boat. Scarcely knowing what I did, I thrust the package into my pocket, and instantly forgot it in the sufferings of thirst which tormented me. However, some relief I obtained by sousing my shirt in the sea and wearing it against my skin; and likewise I chewed a piece of leather from the sole of my boot, which kept my mouth moist.

"Four days passed, in sufferings I need not describe, and on the fifth day the Indian fell crazy, and, leaning over the side of the boat in a manner that nearly overset her, he drank the salt water greedily, as a sheep would, with his mouth upon it, which brought on a black vomit, and toward the morning he died. Not until the evening of the sixth day was I rescued by a small schooner from Pernambuco to Portsmouth, blown by the gale that had wrecked the Elizabeth many miles out of her course, who, on sighting my boat, bore down and picked me up. That was on the 12th of September, as I was told—for I had lost all reckoning of time—and four days ago I arrived at Portsmouth. So this brings me to an end, gentlemen; and now will I state my motive in calling upon you."

He put his hand in his pocket, and held it there while he spoke.

"You, of course, remember that an Indian prince sailed as passenger in the Elizabeth?"

"Certainly."

"He was reported on board the ship to be possessed of very valuable jewels."

"We will give you the appraisement in figures—£170,000."

"I have explained to you that my fellow sufferer in the boat was one of the prince's attendants. The parcel he placed in my hands contained precious stones, which a jeweler in Portsmouth valued at £68,000."

"He must have stolen them when the ship was sinking," said Mr. Hunter, quickly.

"No doubt, and by so doing saved them. Here they are, in the wrapper in which they were handed to me."

Saying which, he placed the package on the table. Mr. Hunter took it up and opened it, and his partner drew close to him; and when the gems lay exposed, his eyes glistened in the light of them.

Splendid stones some of them were, truly; diamonds chiefly, with the lustrous red of rubies intermixed, and here and there the mild shimmer of a pearl. It was hard to tell whether the gems had been extracted from settings or gathered loose as they were; but an ignorant eye might know their preciousness.

"Well, Mr. Shaw," said Mr. Hunter, placing the open paper carefully on the table, with a gentle setting of it toward Cuthbert, "these stones are unquestionably your property, and well may you hold them, in compensation for the sufferings you have undergone."

"Well, sir, it comes to this: If they were not on that table they would be at the bottom of the sea."

"Quite so," from both partners.

"Now, gentlemen, you cannot tell me that the prince is alive?"

"That is beyond our power, certainly."

"Will you put yourselves in his place and receive the proposals I should make to him?"

"With pleasure; but, holding him dead, we will consider your proposal in reference to his heirs?" said Mr. Hunter.

"That is as you please. Sixty-three thousand pounds is a jeweler's appraisement of those stones. He would have found me the money. I ask ten thousand for restoring them."

"Plainly, Mr. Shaw, your Portsmouth jeweler taught you no lesson," said Mr. Hunter; and the other partner arched his eyebrows.

"Be open with me, gentlemen."

"Why, sir, we consider your request a very modest one."

"Then what I will ask you to do is this: Give me a letter stating that you hold these stones for me; get them appraised at your convenience. I will write to you in the meanwhile, giving you my address, and you will then send me bank post bills to cover the sum I ask."

The letter was written, the number of stones specified, and within the space of twenty minutes Cuthbert had left the office.

Both parties shook him cordially by the hand, and Mr. Hunter attended him, bareheaded, to the door.

Alarie Mercier, 3 Harrison avenue, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My son was weak and debilitated, troubled with sore eyes and Scrofulous humors. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored him to perfect health." Irving H. Edwards, Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "From the time I was four years old, until eighteen, I was subject to Scrofulous sore throat. Many a time my neck has been a raw sore, from poultices put on to draw out the inflammation. I took four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and have never had the disease since, in sixteen years."

The Irish National League will meet this evening in the Mechanics' street school to decide upon what is to be done as to the reception of Mr. Justin McCarthy and also for the election of officers for the ensuing year.

A Rash Marriage.

There was another large house at the Opera House last night to see the Tavernier Company in the light comedy drama, "A Rash Marriage." The play was presented with good stage setting; the caste was well balanced, and the performance quite satisfactory. To-night "The Mighty Dollar" will be given.

Saved Band.

A number of officers of the Saved Band are now in town. There are Captain and Mrs. Hartly, lately from New York State, who will spend a few days here before being assigned to a station in this Province. Capt. Lizzie Brown is also here for a visit while on furlough. The presence of these officers adds to the interest of the meetings, Capt. Brown especially having a very excellent voice. Arrangements are being made for a banquet on Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, when a large attendance of the officers and soldiers of the surrounding corps is expected.

Personal.

The following well deserved tribute to Mr. Hilliard appears in the Toronto Mail:—Mr. Geo. Hilliard, M. P, for West Peterborough, has determined to withdraw from political life. Mr. James Stevenson, Mayor of Peterborough, has therefore been selected as the Liberal Conservative candidate for the constituency in his stead. Mr. Hilliard has been an energetic and painstaking member of Parliament, and his retirement will be regretted as much by his colleagues in the Commons as by the people he represented.

The Rochester Signet for November has the following in reference to a former resident of Peterborough:—"J. E. Kelso was elected a member of the Executive Committee of the Laundryman's National Association, while attending their Annual Convention and Exhibition at Cincinnati in October."

South Ward Sunday School.

An entertainment was given on Wednesday evening in the new South Ward Sunday School in connection with St. John's Church. There was a large attendance and a very pleasant evening was spent. The principal features of the programme were a vocal duet by Mrs. Seward and Miss Rush, a violin solo by Miss Louise Yokome, a vocal solo by Mrs. Seward, and another by Mr. Hutchins. There were readings by Mr A. St. A. Smith, Mr. N. Brown and Mr. Thos. Hooper, jr. Miss May and Etta Martin repeated a dialogue. Between the two parts of the programme the Rector, the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, addressed those present. Refreshments were provided in a most satisfactory manner by the ladies. The premises were presented by Miss Chamberlain, and extensive alterations have been made so as to convert them into a very convenient school room. There is a good attendance of children on Sunday afternoons and the numbers are steadily increasing. The self-sacrifice and energy of the ladies of that locality have ensured the success of this work, and they have an excellent superintendent in Mr. Yokome.

REFORM CONVENTION.

The Candidates for the Commons and the Local House Nominated.

On Wednesday afternoon a convention of West Riding Reformers was held in the old Music Hall for the purpose of electing officers for the West Riding Reform Association, and for nominating candidates to contest West Peterborough in the interests of the Reform party.

Mr. T. G. HAZLITT called to meeting to order, explained why the meeting had been called and asked those present to proceed to elect association officers for the ensuing term. The officers were elected as follows:—

PRESIDENT—Melville Millar.
FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT—Dr. Fife.
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT—T. E. Fitzgerald.
SECRETARY—W. A. Stratton.
TREASURER—Jos. Griffin.

Mr. HAZLITT then called Dr. Fife to the chair, the newly elected President not being present.

The CHAIRMAN asked for nominations for a representative in the House of Commons. Among other names put forward were Melville Millar, Wm. Yelland and W. Paterson, jr.

Mr. PATERSON was nominated, but he refused to become a candidate. He would on no account undertake it.

Mr. GRAHAM, of Smith, nominated Mr. Yelland. He was sure that in Mr. Yelland the party would have one who would uphold the temperance cause faithfully.

Mr. HAZLITT nominated Mr. Geo. A. Cox. He thought that it was improper to bring this temperance question into politics at all. It was a question of morals, not of politics, and while the elections were on it should remain in abeyance.

Mr. GRAHAM was willing to support Mr. Cox if he would run.

Mr. Cox felt highly gratified that the two extremes should agree that he was the man. There was Mr. Graham on the prohibition side and Mr. Hazlitt on the other. He did not see his way clear, however, to accept the nomination as his business affairs would likely interfere with his doing so, and besides he felt that he had lost the influence he once held in West Peterborough. He new that there were stronger men to be brought out than himself. He agreed to consider the question until a week from Saturday.

Mr. HAZLITT objected to Mr. Cox's calling him an extremist. He was not an extremist. He believed in neither prohibition nor drunkenness. He was a believer in moderation and temperance in the true sense of the term.

Dr. BELL wanted Mr. Cox to give his answer immediately. The Conservatives were canvassing tooth and nail and two weeks of delay would probably kill the chances of the Reform party carrying the constituency.

But Mr. Cox could do no better than consider the nomination.

Mr. PETER HAMILTON nominated Mr. Jas. R. Stratton as a candidate for the Provincial Legislature. Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald seconded it.

The motion was carried.

Mr. STRATTON got up on the platform. He was much surprised that he had been nominated. He had not sought for the nomination and he did not want it at all. It was a great sacrifice for him to be away from his business just now. The merchants when solicited and canvassed generally advertised more. Besides it was a serious thing as, if he went into the field, he expected it would cost him a lot of money. He had never done anything he was ashamed of, and he thought he could carry the Riding. He then accepted the nomination. He thought he could leave Mr. Carnegie at home to attend to his model farm.

Mr. PRESTON then addressed the few who remained to hear him.

The City of Peterborough.

"What about the incorporation of Peterborough into a city?" is a question that is quite frequently asked. "Well, you see, now that there is such a hub-bub concerning the elections and other equally important matters that trifling subjects, such as the future of Peterborough, are felt to take care of themselves." But, nevertheless, our fair and prospering town will doubtless become a city ere long, and our sister towns, such as Port Hope, Lindsay, Cobourg and other places, will be far more jealous of us than they are at present, to say nothing of Belleville and similar small cities. When Peterborough does become a city our business men will have nothing to fear in competing with even such places as Toronto and Montreal, for they are well up in city styles. A. MCNEIL, of Habilliment Hall, can furnish you with a first-class suit made up in the latest city fashion, and the cut is always—well, perfect!

NOVEL LARCENY CASE.

A Charge Against Martin Connelly for stealing $9.74 from a Bank.

A novel larceny case came up at the Police Court this morning.

The facts of the case as given in the evidence are as follows:—On Wednesday afternoon Martin Connelly, a late citizen of Havelock, took a post office order amounting to $332.20 to the Bank of Montreal to get cashed. Martin owed the post office $246.00, and this being noted on the post master's deposit slip, the teller subtracted it from the post office order.

Martin asked for gold and the teller handed him over 17½ sovereigns, or $85.16, together with $1.04 in Canadian money, which made up the $86.20 due him. Then Martin pulled out $15 in bills and asked for more gold. The teller took the bills and returned four half sovereigns and a sovereign, making in all $14.60, the odd 40 cents being paid in Canadian silver. But there was a little hole in the sovereign last given in exchange, and to take this Martin objected. The teller then said: "Give me back what I last gave you and I'll return your bills." Martin did not put up all the gold, however. He simply laid the sovereign with the hole in it on the counter, and the teller, without thinking for the moment, gave back the whole amount, $14.60.

When he came to balance up his cash he saw the sovereign with the hole in it lying on the board. It instantly flashed to his mind then that he had paid out too much. It was only about five minutes when Connelly had gone. The teller went to the post office and there found him. When taxed with having taken the $14.60 in exchange for the sovereign he stated that he had only got $4.82. The teller asked him to show the odd two cents, but all he had in his possession was the odd four cents given in change with the 17½ sovereigns. He refused to hand over the $9.74, and was about to board the 10.43 C. P. R. train at night when Capt. Cooper and P. C. Adams took him in charge.

The case was adjourned for a few minutes, during which time Martin paid over the $9.74 and the costs of the case.

The charge was then withdrawn.

Upon the suggestion of Sir John Macdonald, the Imperial Government has decided to grant medals to those members of the North-West Mounted Police who were under fire in the robellion, and they will shortly be presented to them.

The North-West Council has passed a resolution asking that all fines in liquor cases be devoted to the territorial fund, instead of the Dominion. The Council recommends that scrip do given the Mounted Police on service during the rebellion.

I am offering building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine inch walls strapped and lathed, two storey, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1886.

THE BULGARIAN CRISIS.

The Choice of a Prince—Russia Still Dictating—Europe Restive.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 11.—Prince Waldemar has sent a telegram to the regents expressing his grateful sense of the honor conferred upon him by the Sobranje. The decision as to his acceptance rests with his father. He adds, other duties may prevent his assuming the rulership of Bulgaria. The Prince's reply is considered to presage his refusal of the throne.

RUSSIA MUST EXPLAIN.

PESTH, Nov. 11.—After the election of Prince Waldemar to the Bulgarian throne, yesterday, the Austrian and German Ambassadors at St. Petersburg were instructed by their Governments to enquire of Russia the name of the candidate she favored as Prince Alexander's successor. If Russia refuses to accept the election of Prince Waldemar, or to nominate another candidate it will be considered that she entertains designs against Bulgarian independence, and in this event England, Germany, Austria and Italy will arrive at an understanding similar to the one that existed among them at the period of the Berlin Congress.

NOT WITH THEIR HEARTS.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 11.—In the debate in the Sobranje preceding the election of Prince Waldemar, M. Stambuloff and others dwelt upon the necessity of an attempt to reconcile Russia. Although their hearts were with Prince Alexander, these speakers said the re-election of their late ruler was impossible The public received the news of Prince Waldemar's election with coldness, Prince Alexander being the popular choice.

RUSSIA'S CHOICE.

VIENNA, Nov. 11.—It is reported that Prince Lobanuff, Russian ambassador, has officially notified Count Kalnoky that Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia is the Czar's candidate for the Bulgarian throne, and that the election of Prince Waldemar does not meet with the Czar's approval. M. Stambuloff and M. Mutkuroff, have also resigned from the regency in order to simplify the election of a new regency. They will both be re-elected.

FAMILY COUNCIL.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A despatch from Cannes, where Prince Waldemar is sojourning, says the Prince will consult members of his family upon the advice of accepting the Bulgarian throne before giving a final decision.

PRUDENT ADVICE.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11.—All the Danish papers advise Prince Waldemar to decline the Bulgarian throne.

BISMARCK'S VIEWS.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—In political circles here it is considered certain that Prince Waldemar will refuse to accept the post of Bulgarian ruler. Prince Bismarck is inclined to favour the Prince of Mingrelia as a candidate for the throne of Bulgaria. Prince Nicholas has an especially good society reputation in Berlin as well as in St. Petersburg.

THE RIVAL CANDIDATES.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Baron Mohrenheim is about to return to Paris to resume his duties as Russian ambassador to France. On his way to the French capital he will stop at Cannes in order to have a conference with Prince Waldemar. Prince Nicholas, of Mingrelia, who is favored by the Czar as a candidate for the Russian throne, is a Russian subject and a member of the orthodox Greek Church. He is a son-in-law of Count Adlerberg. He is said to be quite willing to accept it.

LIBERAL UNION.

Mr. Gladstone's Letter to His Party—Liberals Must Unite at Once.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Mr. Gladstone publishes a letter inviting the Liberals to reunite. He says: "After reading the Marquis of Salisbury's speech, it seems to me that we have arrived at the testing situation for all Liberals really desiring Liberal Union. We have no right to demand, when the Government have produced their plans, that they shall pursue an altered course upon them; but we have already tolerated a long delay in the production of these plans. The beginning of new delays in February will virtually be making indefinite the production of the plans. I am unable to understand how anybody promoting or inviting such delay can be said to desire the reunion of the Liberal party."

It is reported that the question of a treaty between Canada and the Sandwich Islands is under consideration by the Dominion Government, and that a commissioner has been appointed to proceed to the West Indies and report upon the best method of developing trade relations.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

FORTY YEARS AGO.

In 1878 and years preceding the country sent up a bitter cry for just one particular reform—one of such kind as would give employment and wages to our own people, instead of to foreigners. For reply our Reform leaders pointed to the great reforms effected by Baldwin and others of his time, say from twenty-five to forty years ago.—Toronto World (Indep.)

CANADIAN INDUSTRY ENDANGERED

There is a Free Trade party in Canada yet, and it is still hard at work, although not in so open a manner as formerly. And there is really good reason why the man who gave us the National Policy should warn its friends that they had better not forget the fact, and that they had need to keep arms and armour bright for the battles that are yet to come.—Canadian Manufacturer.

MR. BLAKE'S WEAPONS.

Mr Blake expressed great indignation at the inhumanity of the Government, and the audience was moved with pity for the red man. In now appears that not one of these quotations was correct. Every one of them was garbled in such a way as to completely alter the meaning, a few words being left out in some places, whole sentences in others, while words, and even paragraphs being inserted. In each case the effect of the alteration was to give the impression that the Government had shamefully mistreated the Indians, whereas, the reports, if quoted correctly, would have conveyed exactly the opposite idea.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

BEARING FALSE WITNESS.

You, Mr. Blake, have born false witness. You have said things which are abominably false. You have read pretended quotations which here garbled. You have read quotations which were false. You have read quotations which were forged. You are brought face to face with evidence that the pretended quotations were not such as you asserted them to be. And then, instead of trying to to prove them true, or frankly owning them false, you skulk behind the carcase of Ananias Cameron like a cur on a battlefield slinking behind a dead horse.—Hamilton Spectator.

A CONVICTED SLANDERER.

But it is your business, Mr. Blake. How dare you bear false witness against honorable men, and boldly say it is not your business to know whether your shameful stories are true or false? Are you a chartered slanderer that you may tell all sorts of stories about people, and must not be called upon to give reasons for telling them? You say that the quotations made by you substantiate your charges. It is false. The do not. In the first place the alleged quotations read by you cannot be found in the places at which you say you found them. And if they were there, they do not make out your case. If they did make out your case you would not fall back upon Mr. Cameron's epitaphs. You stand before the country convicted, Mr. Blake, a dishonored man. You are a convicted slanderer. You are caught in the act, and you cannot evade the shameful truth Henceforth no Canadian fournal will dare to say that you have any regard for your word or for the truth.—Hamilton Spectator.

ENGLISH LIBERALS IN QUEBEC.

As for Mr. Mowat, the English Liberals of Quebec may be assured that he and all the prominent leaders of the Ontario Grits are prepared to sacrifice them, as they have already sacrificed every principle of true Liberalism, in hope of a French alliance which may place their party in power at Ottawa. It is office the Ontario Grits are after, and they are willing to have recourse to any means, no matter how discreditable, in order to obtain it. This is proved beyond doubt or question by the course of the party leaders and their organs of the press on the Riel question.—Coaticock, P. Q., Observer, (Ind. Ref.)

PALTERING WITH TRUTH.

Do you think Mr. Blake, that honorable gentlemen, generally palter with the truth in that manner. Supposing that the Spectator were to assert that the Hon. Edward Blake was a horse-thief, and you should call upon us to substantiate our statement, would you be satisfied if we should say, "Well, we don't know anything about it. We herad Poker Jim say so, and he must make his word good?" You would hardly be satisfied with that defence, Mr. Blake. You would say, "The Spectator cannot screen itself behind Poker Jim. It must make its words good, or retract them." That is what the Spectator says to you. —Hamilton Spectator.

DANGEROUS LEADERS.

Mr. M. C. Cameron seems to be a dangerous man, and this is not the first time that Mr. Blake has followed his lead. At one time Mr. Blake announced that he would not make a political platform of the Regina scaffold, but after the platform was made, seeing Mr. M. C. Cameron standing on it, he could not resist the temptation to take a place by his side.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

BLAKE WELL DISCRIBED.

If these charges are false and calumnious their use cannot be too strongly deprecated. Those who use them are slanderers and deserve the severest reprobation.—London Advertiser (Reform.)

MR. MOWAT'S DEAL.

And now for a deal of Mr. Mowat's. There never was a more disreputable deal of a bargain and sale than that between Mr. Mowat and Mr. Thomas Nelson, of Edinburgh, the article of transfer being the Globe newspaper. For the control of that paper Mr. Mowat and his colleagues gave him a preferred position in the matter of the school readers of this Province, worth $100,000, over $40,000 of which has already been paid, and the balance of which is as secure as the Bank of England, or as sure as monopoly clauses will make it. By that deal Mr. Mowat is master of the Globe, controls its directorate, instructs the editor, and has so closely identified himself with the Globe's policy on the Riel-Revenge issue that he, more than Mr Blake, is the present dictator of the policy of the party, and it is his line more than his own that Mr. Blake was forced into taking. It was he who placed Mr. Edgar on the Globe's directorate; it was he who sent Mr. Edgar to Montreal; it is he who dictates the entire policy of that paper on Dominion politics, and it is he who by his aggressive activity in Dominion affairs is speedily effecting his own downfall. It is time to quit pretending not to see—Mr. Mowat and his organ and his Globe directorship-M.P.-negotiator, Mr. Edgar, are the principal actors in the plot, and the "drawers-up" of the platform on which Mr. Blake is now standing.—Toronto World (Indp.).

NOVA SCOTIA REFORMERS.

For Nova Scotia to ask for separation, would be the same as if the State of Maine or New Mexico were to ask to be permitted to secede. We all know what the answer to such a demand would be. If Lombardy were to ask leave to break up united Italy, there can be no doubt as to the response which united Italy would give. If a small German state were to ask to be permitted to destroy the unity which Bismarck and Kaiser William brought about, no one doubts what the answer would be. And yet these are all parallel cases. Those who talk about the secession of Nova Scotia must know that it is impossible of realization, as impossible as it would be in any other cases mentioned. The Dominion Parliament is certainly not going to ask for it or assent to it.—Monetary Times.

AN EMPEROR'S CAREER.

At Albenga the high water of the Po dislodged the railroad bridge while a train was crossing, precipitating the cars and passengers into the river. Five persons were drowned. The town of Comosubo is submerged. The railway service between Nice and Genoa is interrupted.

HUDSON BAY EXPLORATION.

Dr. Bell's Survey—Practicability of the Hudson's Bay Railway.

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Dr. Robert Bell, Assistant Director of the Geological Survey, has returned from a four months' exploration of the Severn District, south of the Hudson's bay. Dr. Bell found that the maps of the district hitherto published are very inaccurate. He started out last June, accompanied by Mr. MacMillan, of the survey, and Mr. Murray, son of Prof. Murray, of McGill College, Montreal. They explored the region from Wablgoon to the James bay, and down to Albany. The survey of the Albany river, commenced by Dr. Bell in 1871, was then completed, after which the party ascended the Kenogamin river, traversed Long lake, and descended the Black river into Lake Superior, altogether a journey of 1,700 miles. Both the geology and the geography of the district were inquired into. The result of Dr. Bell's explorations is to show the practicability so far as construction is concerned of the Hudson's Bay railway, though it will be westward of the Severn district. The character of the country, Dr. Bell says, is in every respect adapted to the line, and no engineering difficulties of any moment will be met with. The road after leaving Winnipeg passes through prairie land for some distance, then through a half wooded into a completely wooded country which obtains to Churchill harbor, which Dr. Bell thinks will be the end of the line. He is confident of the success of the railway scheme, and says Churchill harbor is open five months in the year and the straits would meet all requirements.

The Rielite Plot.

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—Hon. Senator Thibaudeau, of Montreal, leader of the Rouges in that city and president of the Central Committees in the Quebec elections, was in the city to-day. He is sanguine that the Rouge-National-Riel combination will sweep Quebec province at the Federal elections. He expects they will carry fifty seats against the Government, which would exactly reverse the result of 1882.

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night;"

is the exclamation, in thought, of many a man who has suffered through a long life from some distressing disease that he might have cured with a few bottles of medicine like Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which cures all blood and skin diseases, as well as consumption or scrofula of the lungs. If he were "a child again," he would know enough to have a bottle of the Discovery "to-night," and in old age would not implore Father Time to "fly backward" for his special benefit. Hence, "Do what he-day, 'tis madness to defer." Get a bottle of the nearest druggist.

THE LETTER AND THE SPIRIT.

MR. BLAKE finds it necessary to make some attempt to clear himself of the damaging charge of persistently belittling the Province of British Columbia. He indulges in his usual device of seizing upon one unimportant detail, and by petty pleadas to this insignificant point, endeavors to divert attention from the true bearing of the complaint laid against him. He dwells upon the letter and ignores the spirit of the question at issue, and even as to the letter he selects one point only and that a merely superficial detail of little real consequence.

In his constant efforts to show that he looks upon British Columbia as a burden rather than as an acquisition to our Dominion, and his persistent attempts to thwart the Administration in its successful policy of opening a great through route from ocean to ocean, Mr. Blake among other expressions used that of a "sea of mountains." This rather poetical and striking phrase was, as was natural, frequently quoted by those who were condemning Mr. Blake's unpatriotic disparagement of British Columbia. Taking advantage of this, Mr. Blake practices the unworthy subterfuge of pretending that the use of these particular words is the head and front of his offending in this matter, and proceeds to an elaborate defence. In conducting this defence he is as tricky as in his choice of his ground. With great parade he points out that the words "sea of mountains" have been used by others before him and that they have even been applied by Principal Grant to British Columbia. Hereon he bases the two dishonest arguments that Principal Grant is equally guilty with himself in belittling our Pacific Province, and that Mr. Grant spoke for the Macdonald Administration, which is therefore, he alleges, primarily responsible. We may remark that while like most Canadians the Macdonald Administration may admire and appreciate Mr. Grant's fine work "From Ocean to Ocean" it would be an unfair quibble to hold them responsible for every expression in it. But in fact Mr. Grant's expression, with itscontext, is not deserving of such reprehension. In describing the magnificent scenery he used a picturesque, poetical and therefore possibly exaggerated simile to depict a portion of the country. But his whole description of the Province shows his appreciation of it and his high estimate of its value as an important part of our Dominion. Principal Grant being an honest, loyal man and a lover of his country, was very far from speaking disparagingly or unkindly of any Province of our great Confederation of which he has been such a warm and zealous advocate.

How widely different is the position of Mr. Blake. In his eagerness to attack his political opponents and his country while confiding in them, he gladly seized upon these words to distort them to the disadvantage of Canada and its progress. He used the expression to give point to his attacks upon the Government and the people of Canada for their policy of constructing our great inter-oceanic railway. He used it to reinforce his advocacy of the secession of British Columbia rather than that Canada should keep faith with its Province by prosecuting a great work for the benefit of the whole Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He used it to aid him in his unpatriotic and dishonest policy of placing British Columbia in the most unfavorable light possible in the eyes of the people of old Canada. Nothing could be wider apart than the intention of Mr. Blake and of Principal Grant. We are told that a certain personage quotes scripture, but it is not held that this justifies the quoter, or impugns the goodness of Holy Writ. Principal Grant used these words, with others, with the patriotic object of making more widely known the greatness of our country, drawing closer together and developing its several parts. Mr. Blake used these words, with others, with the unpatriotic objects of fostering discontent and disunion, opposing measures for linking together the Provinces of our Dominion, and of promoting its disintegration, if it will not consent to place him in power. Quibbles as to the letter will not blind the people as to the spirit of his orations.

MOWAT'S TORONTO TRICK.

THE Toronto Globe has a long editorial giving minute particulars as to the methods by which its party can most effectually take advantage of the rascally trick by which Mr. Mowat has arranged to defraud the Conservatives of the Provincial capital out of their representation in the Legislature. It will be remembered that Mr. Mowat, finding that Toronto, being Conservative, always returned two members in opposition to his policy, determined upon a partial disfranchisement. Under the pretence of doing justice to the "Queen City" by increasing its representation he added a member, but to insure the return of a Reformer he provided that each elector should only have two votes. Thus, while nominally increasing Toronto's representation, he "fixed" it so that this Conservative city should only count for one on a division.

The excuse for this outrage was that it ensured the representation of the minority, but to show that this was only a knavish excuse for a disreputable trick, Mr. Mowat obstinately refused to extend this system to populous counties having three members, all of whom he wished to retain as supporters without the least regard to the Conservative minority. It was a piece of sharp practice so to vary his policy as to secure himself a majority of representatives from a minority of voters.

But the Globe is not content with the dishonest advantage thus afforded to its friends by Mr. Mowat. It lays down in great detail and with an array of figures the exact course that must be adopted to ensure the success of the trick. It even goes further, for it shows how by cunning manipulation the Reform minority of Toronto may contrive to return a majority of representatives to support Mr. Mowat.

It will be remembered, too, that at the same time Mr. Mowat split the county of Victoria into two long ribbon-like constituencies in order, if possible, to secure a supporter there by this unfair device. He also manipulated several other constituencies with the open motive of weakening an opponent or strengthening a supporter.

And the man who perpetrates these frauds after two previous gerrymanders has the effrontery to abuse Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues because when they had to find seats for the additional members to whom Ontario became entitled, they made such changes as tended greatly toward equalizing the constituencies.

CORNERS AND CLIQUES.

By W. Claxton.

I had the pleasure this summer of meeting a gentleman in London for whom I entertain a very high esteem. He showed me great kindness while I was there, and secured excellent rooms for us before our arrival in the city, so that when we arrived at the Euston station all we had to do was to call a cab and drive to the West End, to our comfortable quarters. For many years this gentleman was head of one of the largest grain houses in Montreal, or indeed I may say in Canada. They did a vast business, and employed fleets of vessels carrying their cargoes. I had large and satisfactory business transactions with them for several years. But they met with the usual and inevitable fate of dealers in grain—the most hazardous business in Canada. In our conversations—reminiscences of the past—he gave me a vivid picture of a "corner" in wheat in Chicago in which he was interested. Just before the suspension of his house he visited Chicago, and while in the city the head of a large and wealthy house, with whom my friend had carried on extensive business, called on him at his hotel and informed him, confidentially, that they were "cornering" wheat. He said they had bought all the cash wheat, and were buying all the "futures" offered for a certain month; and, as the market was largely oversold, the "shorts" would have to come to their terms, and they expected to make a big haul. He asked my friend to allow them to buy some wheat for him. He replied that he did not want to do any business, as he had no money to spare to put up a margin. The gentleman replied: Never mind the margin; he wanted to make some money for him. As my friend still hesitated, he said, "Well come down to our office in the morning." He did so. Mr. —— said, "We will buy 10,000 bushels for you, and will not ask you for a margin." The wheat was bought, and my friend, when he had finished his business in the city, returned home. The price of wheat under the heavy buying rapidly advanced, and the Chicago house kept re-investing the assumed profits on the purchase of the 10,000 bushels in further purchases, so that by the time my friend reached Montreal he found he had 100,000 bushels, and it looked as if every one connected with the "deal" would make a lot of money. Meantime New York people were not idle. They were watching the game from afar, and they thought they saw a fine chance to make money. A wealthy clique was formed and they acted promptly. They said give ——— a million bushels. The wheat was thrown on the market, although they had no wheat, nor could they get any to buy for the month "cornered." The corner took the wheat. The New York clique said give ——— another million, and that was taken. They said give ——— another million. That staggered the market, but they managed to take it also. The clique said give ——— another million. This they were unable to take, and the crash came—the corner was broken, and the losses were dreadful. When the price broke, and during the panic which followed, the New York clique covered their "short" sales and made a fortune by the operation. My friend lost heavily and had to turn over securities which he held to pay the loss. Another gentleman of large means in Montreal lost $75,000 in that deal. A few years ago a fine English gentleman took up his domicile in Port Hope. He was worth a quarter of a million of dollars. He had a wife and family and they lived in the style in which they were brought up—in comfort and luxury. As the gentleman had nothing to do he thought he would amuse himself—an expensive amusement—by doing some business in Chicago. He bought all the lard he could get, and the price under the strong buying ran up. He sold out and made $60,000. This set him wild, and he and others in Port Hope, who wanted to make a fortune at one stroke, caught the fever of speculation badly. A "corner" was formed and manipulated by a bank manager, a clever banker and otherwise a good business man. They began to buy up corn and lard. Their large purchases set the market booming. All was going on swimmingly, and promised success. In the meantime a gentleman came down from Chicago to Port Hope to take measure of the "clique," and to see how far they could go and how much they could stand. He was well satisfied with his information. He returned to Chicago and threw large quantities of lard and corn on the market. The Port Hopers continued taking the stuff as long as they had a dollar. When their own money was done they borrowed every dollar they could lay their hands on, and fought hard to the last. But Chicago continued to throw more stuff on the market, and when no more margins were forthcoming the collapse came, and they were sold out. The ruin was great. The bank manager gave up his situation, and the effects of that "corner" are felt to-day in Port Hope, and it will be a long time before it recovers from the injury done to so many citizens of that fair town. One wealthy gentleman lost $60,000, and other persons heavily. The English gentleman—an honorable man—lost the whole of his fortune, sold his furniture, and even his wife's valuable jewellery, and paid the last dollar he had. He accepted a small land agency, lived for a few years, and then died of a broken heart. When a corner is formed the greatest secrecy is insisted upon and observed. The clique begin operations by buying all the cash article in the market and all offered for the month which they are cornering. As the price advances they have to take all the cash stuff brought to the market, and as the price advances it comes in from all quarters. They employ a number of brokers to buy the "futures" offered in the pit. These brokers do not know who the other brokers are buying for. The manipulators, who are wealthy dealers, keep out of sight. They may appear as sellers of small quantities and may have the purchases announced, so as to break the market while their brokers are buying heavily. When it is reported that so and so are selling dealers think it is better to get from under. They throw their holdings on the market and that is what the "corner" wants, as the price is thus forced down. The "corner" will sell all the cash stuff they can for consumption, or to anyone who will undertake to ship it out, at its actual value without reference to the market price, or they may be large shippers themselves. This is done to prevent sellers obtaining the stuff to fill their contracts. When the time for delivery comes the clique, run up the price as high as they think sellers can stand without throwing them into bankruptcy, and they have to settle. The value of wheat may be a dollar a bushel while the price in Chicago for the month covered may be $1.50 at which price they are willing to settle. When a corner is successful great fortunes are made, when they fail great ruin is the result.

Armour of Chicago can corner pork successfully whenever he makes up his mind to do so, and put the price as high as he thinks it prudent, and make one or two million of dollars out of the operation. But it takes bold dealers, who can command almost unlimited means to run a corner successfully. When it becomes known that a "corner" has been in operation, as it must become known, the excitement is indescribable; when it ends there are broken spirits and sad hearts on one side, and elation to frenzy on the other.

Proprietary Medicines.

A visit to Dr. Green's laboratory, at Woodbury, N.J., has considerably changed our views, and especially our prejudices in regard to what are generally known as "Standard Patent Medicines." Of course we are getting to that age in life when we are forced to conclude life itself is a humbug, and naturally distrust anything that has not withstood long and tried experiences. Being a physician I had the curiosity to know how such a sale of two medical preparations could be sustained for so many years. The perfect system upon which the business is conducted, and the pharmaceutical arrangements for the manufacture of the two receipts with which we are made acquainted, are sufficiently convincing to us that the August Flower, for dyspepsia and liver complaints, and Boschee's German Syrup, for throat and lung troubles, were, for the complaints they are recommended, most excellent remedies, and only regret that in much of our practice, medical ethics preventing us from prescribing them without making the formulas public. When we were shown the great quantity of voluntary letters having been forwarded Dr. Green, from all parts of the country, and from all classes of people, lawyers, ministers and doctors, giving a description of their ailments, testimonials of their cures, etc., I felt like endorsing Dr. Green's suggestion that the Government accept such valuable formulas, and license them for general use by giving protection to the inventor, the same as patents generally.—Copied from N.Y. Druggists' circular of Oct., 1886.

PETER RESTORED.

DR. JOHN HALL'S NOTES ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson VII of the International Series for Sunday, Nov. 14—Golden Text, "He Saith Unto Him, Feed My Lambs," John xxi, 15—Lesson Text, John xxi, 4-19

The pupils are to be reminded of the facts going before this lesson on two lines: (1) Christ's resurrection and appearance twice to the whole company of the disciples (v. xiv). It may be said: How did they fail to recognize him at once? The answer is twofold. In the resurrection "we shall be changed," though the same individuals. Jesus was the type of our resurrection. And secondly, Jesus was able to make himself known or to remain unknown, as to the disciples on the way to Emmaus, as he pleased. For his own reasons he sometimes left them to find him out by what he said and did. In a sense it is so still with disciples. Jesus is providing for, or teaching, or even chastening them, and they do not at first recognize him.

(2) The previous career and character of Peter need to be recalled. Probably the oldest of the little company, he was the most prompt and forward. He was notably a man of impulses, not waiting to raise and settle questions of principle, but acting on the "spur of the moment." This led him, as it will lead any one, into mistakes. He had professed undying attachment to Christ (Matt. xxvi, 35), and then denied him thrice. That very morning he was as truly penitent as he had been inexcusably self-confident, and no doubt he had many a time recalled his sin and shame, and desired an opportunity to confess to Christ and get his forgiveness. But he was not alone with him. How the message, "tell my disciples and Peter," must have melted his heart! These facts we must remember if we would secure a connected view of the truth set out in our present lesson. A group of disciples had been fishing all night on the lake in vain. Doubtful of what was to come and needing to secure bread, Peter had gone back to his calling.

V. 4. Morning came; they were nearing the shore. A man stood there, but the disciples did not recognize him. This was doubtless part of his plan. (See Luke xxiv, 16. Yet his language must have roused their attention. "Children," etc. Are there any children hard pressed for means to live? How many do suffer thus! Jesus is not unmindful of them. Many would make better way if they listened for his voice and cast the net at his bidding. "No," they have caught nothing.

V. 6. It is said that fish can be seen in numbers in the lake at times. His words then, "Cast the net," etc., would not seem so strange to them. They did so, and their net was so filled with fish as to make it too heavy to be lifted into the boat: it was drawn ashore (v. 11.)

Specially devoted to Jesus and quick with the instinct of affection, John (v. 7) whispers to Peter—one can fancy with mingled awe and joy—"It is the Lord." And here is an opportunity to show that he is no longer recreant, that the Lord is dear to him beyond expression. When he hears this he snatches his fisher's coat (he was probably in partial clothing, as men prepared for such work), and flings himself into the water. It was an impulse again, but on the good side—far better than the blow with the sword at the man's ear (John xviii, 10). He meant to welcome Jesus, to show his joy and love.

V. 8. Meantime their little boat—the one they were all in, being only about 100 yards from land (a cubit is roughly about eighteen inches), so that the voice and directions from the shore could be well heard—had neared the land. ("A little ship" is misleading; it is "the little ship.") They who were in the boat, failing to get the net on deck, dragged it to land. Again the care of Jesus — miraculous, undoubtedly—provides for them.

V. 9. There is a fire of coals and "fish on it" being prepared for eating, and bread. He who fed the 5,000 is the same in power and resources for the little company.

V. 10. The Master tells them to bring of the fish which they had caught. He and they are to rejoice together through all their future over the souls gathered into the gospel net, some of them directly by him, some through their agency under his direction.

V. 11. Simon Peter on the land already obeys, "went up and drew the net to land." The contents are described, and it is noted that rich as was the "take," the net bore the strain and was not broken. The number is mentioned, probably to explain the wonder of the net not breaking.

V. 12. The sympathy of Jesus with the disciples and his treatment of them as brethren are now seen. He says, "Come and break your fast" (Revision). They all had the firm conviction that it was their Master. He spake with authority, mingled no doubt with gentleness; yet none had courage to call for a direct avowal. Then he

(V. 13) comes and gives them—helps them to—bread—they had none of this—and fish likewise. Of his identity they had no doubt. This is, the evangelist says

(V. 14), "the third time that Jesus showed himself to his disciples." (Appearances to individuals are omitted in the count.) See the other two cases—one where Thomas was absent, the other eight days after, when he was present (last lesson). Up till now Jesus has treated them all alike in the interview. Now he deals with Peter just as we saw him deal with Thomas. He forgets nothing that is to be remembered for his people's good. He perfectly adapts the lessons to the nature of the learner. So after they had broken their fast, Jesus

(V. 15) puts a question to Peter, which must have brought up many a sad thought. But it is often for our good to have our past errors and sins recalled. "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these?" He had conveyed as much as this when he said, "Though all men forsake thee, yet will not I." Then he was self-confident, impulsive and self-conscious. Now he is not so. He is penitent. He remembers his folly and does not repeat it. He can truly say that he does love his Master, but he makes no comparison between himself and them. "Thou knowest that I love thee." Then the Master gives the command. "Feed my lambs." "Thou didst wander from the fold; thou hast been brought back. Remember the lesson and labor for the strayed and wandering." Read his epistles and you will see that he did not forget this direction.

V. 16. Again the Master puts the question, but dropping any reference to the objectionable element of comparison; again he gets an affirmative reply, but Peter using again a different word for "love" from Christ's. The direction is now given, "Feed my sheep." How he remembered this you may see by studying I Peter v, 2, 4. This figure Peter could well understand. He remembered the discourse of John x, in which Jesus said, "the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." Perhaps our Lord spoke to the heart of Peter thus: "You are to be an under shepherd; you may after all have it laid on you to be like me and lay down your life. That may come to you in stern necessity which in a moment of impulse you volunteered." This view is rather favored by vs. 18, 19, and falls in with the idea that our Lord was not giving any special power to Peter as to the future, but teaching him in view of the guilty past

V. 17. That the sin of Peter in denying shaped the form of this dealing with him is clear from this, "Peter was grieved * * * third time," and he made his reply emphatic and full of feeling. "Lord, thou knowest all things" (the way our Lord was teaching him now showed that): "thou knowest that I love thee." The commission is repeated, "Feed my sheep." Be a shepherd to them; warn them; love them. Peter was so. No one gives more faithful cautions against temptations.

Vs. 18, 19 are entirely in the line of the view given. They make a gentle, kindly intimation of that martyrdom which Peter volunteered prematurely, but which the Master sent later, in the right time, and one can fancy Peter saying, "After all I am glad I shall have to die for one so noble and so forgiving."

The teacher will show how fit this lesson was at this point. The apostles were to be fishers of men. But of themselves they could catch none. Under Christ's orders the net will be full, and it will not be broken. In the supper of the Lamb the joint fruit of Christ's and his fellow laborers' toils will be gathered together. To Peter the lesson was specially fit, in view of the past. Self-confidence was his snare. Christ twice uses a word for "love" stronger than Peter's own word. "Do you really love me as a friend, or is it only talk, as before?" So Peter appeals to our Lord's omniscience. Then the hint comes that in loving and following Christ, Peter shall have Christ's experience and really carry out all that he had volunteered, then from his own over-confidence and pride, but at last under the impulse of genuine consecration to Jesus, his Lord. The words do not give Peter special and peculiar powers for the future, but are meant to recall and save him from special temptations into which he had fallen already.—Sunday School World.

A Razor Getting "Tired."

"Yes, I knew it," exclaimed the veteran barber. "I knew this razor was getting 'tired.'"

"So'm I," said the reporter, with some asperity. "I feel as if you'd been running a lawn mower over my face." "That's what I said," replied the barber. "This razor is 'tired.'" "What are you talking about?"

"O, razors often get that way. I have used this one for three years, and a better piece of steel was never honed. During that time it has been 'tired' just four times. What do I mean by 'tired?' Well, to all appearances this razor is as sharp as need be, but it won't work. No matter how much I hone it there will be no improvement, and the only thing to do is to give it a rest. First, I clean it with more than ordinary care. Then I open it and put it away in a drawer with a good hone. I lock the drawer and leave it for five days. At the end of that time I open the drawer and take out the razor. It will be as sharp as any blade you ever saw."—Chicago News.

A Bride of the Tyrol.

The village of Ladis, in the Tyrol, has for generations observed the rule that its maidens must not take husbands outside their own village. Lately, however Catherine Schranz, reckoned the most beautiful girl of the whole district, accepted the proposal of a suitor from a distant place. The youths of Ladis resented this as a personal injury. Six of them seized her, tied her on a manure cart, and led her through the village, the other youths and boys forming and singing derisive chants. At length her father rescued her, and took proceedings against her assailants, who were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from four weeks to two months.—Foreign Letter.

Mexico City's American Hospital.

The American citizens that live in the City of Mexico have issued another appeal for the American hospital to be erected in that city. A very desirable site has been secured, on which it proposed to erect four small pavilions with an administrative building in the center. One of these pavilions is fast approaching completion and it is hoped if funds are available, to erect the central building soon. The whole plan calls for about $50,000, of which about $20,000 has been subscribed. It is hoped that many Americans will aid this most worthy object.—New York Tribune.

Fresh Australian Butter.

The enterprising colony of Victoria, encouraged by the satisfactory results flowing from the trade in fresh meats is bent on tempting the English markets with fresh Australian butter. It is argued that the system of refrigeration by which meat is kept fresh during the long voyage to England will serve equally as well in the case of butter, and it is pointed out that butter produced in the antipodean summer would reach the English markets in time to command a ready sale during midwinter.—Chicago Times.

Emblem of Good Luck.

The latest emblem of good luck in Paris is the African gri-gri, copied from the "fetich" brought over by the black Prince Karamoko, who has lately been one of the lions of the French capital. The gri-gri is a tiny insect of very ancient days, imprisoned in amber, and imitations are mounted in different articles of jewelry for the Parisian belles to wear as charms.—Frank Leslie's.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WATERWORKS.—A special meeting of the Village Council was held on Monday evening, Nov. 1st. Present—the Reeve in the chair, and Councillors McWilliams and Cox. The following letter was read:—

"Dept. of Railways and Canals,
"Ottawa, Oct. 27th, 1886.

"SIR,—Referring to the application of the Municipality of the Village of Lakefield for a lease of property on which it is desired to erect a pump house in connection with certain proposed waterworks, I am instructed to say that the Minister of this Department is willing to lease to the municipality all the interest the Crown may have in the lot applied for, and that he sees no objection to their proceeding with the necessary works.

"I am, sir, your obedient servant,
"A. P. BRADLEY,
"Secretary.

"R. C. Strickland, Esq., Reeve of Lakefield."

A letter from J. White & Co giving the price of a 72 inch wheel shaft, &c., at $350 was read. A letter from A. P. Poussette, Esq., was read, inclosing proposed by-law to authorize the borrowing of $6,000. Moved by Councillor Cox, seconded by Councillor McWilliams, that a by-law to borrow the sum of $6,000, for the term of 20 years, by the issue of debentures, for the purpose of constructing a system of waterworks for fire protection, be now read a first time. Carried. The by-law was then read a second time in Committee of the whole. Moved by Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Councillor Cox, that the by-law to raise a sum of money for waterworks be published in the Peterborough WEEKLY REVIEW three times. Carried. The council then adjourned.

DEATH.—Intelligence has reached Lakefield of the death of Mr. H. Nicholls, eldest son of Mr. Wm. Nicholls, of Duluth formerly of this place. Much sympathy is felt for the family in their sad loss.

GRIST MILL.—Mr. Peter Baptie, contractor for R. & G. Strickland's new grist mill is making good progress with his work and expects to have the roof on the building by the end of the present week.

THE DAM.—Mr. Chas. Wynne, contractor, is now putting in the new side dam and the head gates for the raceway, and in consequence the water is shut out of the mill pond. It is to be hoped that the work will be soon far enough advanced to allow the water to be let in again, so that our mills can begin work.

Some Miraculous Results

Have followed the use of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic." It has saved many from becoming bald, and has produced good heads of hair on bald heads where the roots are not all gone. It has relieved hundreds of person, from dandruff, and restored crops of gray and faded hair to their original color. A. Dorenwend, sole manufacturer. For sale everywhere. J. D. YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PERSONAL.—Mr. J. Coyle Brown, I. P. S., paid our school a visit last week. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the discipline and progress of the scholars.

RE-ENGAGED.—Apropos of school matters, the trustees have decided to re-engage the present teacher for next year.

LUMBER.—Mr. C. Young has shipped a amount of lumber the past week.

STEAMBOAT.—The Fairy is still in commission and finds plenty to do. Capt. Scollard and Engineer Johnson have got their Arctic clothing, and will run her all winter if business demands it.

LITERARY.—A movement is on foot among our young men to organize a debating society for the long winter nights. This is a laudable undertaking and we hope the organizers will meet with success.

CONCERT.—The scholars are busy rehearsing for their concert next month. The programme will consist of kindergarter songs, recitations, dialogues, and farces. A good time may be expected. It is to be hoped the parents will encourage the pupils by their presence at the entertainment.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE DROWNING ACCIDENT.—The persons who thought that they had seen the body of the late Jno. McGirvern were mistaken as the body has not been recovered so far. We understand that a reward is offered to the finder.

BIBLE SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the Keene branch was held on Tuesday evening last in the basement of the Presbyterian church. The address was very interesting and was given by the Reverend Dr. Hodgskin, of Cobourg. The collections amounted to over $10. The united choirs rendered a fine service of song as usual, with Mrs. Dr. Harrison as organist.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.—The village is in a state of intense (?) excitement over the nominations for a Reform representative at Ottawa. A member of our little township aspires to the position. We wonder if he will get left.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Cut off the stalks of your sweet corn as fast as the ears are removed. Your cows and horse will relish them.

The alfalfa is a puzzling plant. In some places it is better than red clover, which is saying enough, while elsewhere it is worthless. It defies dry weather provided it that previously gets its roots down deep into the sub-soil.

Dr Harvey says, in the Weekly Press, that is tired in one place atired in all. If you tire a horse's neck by checking him high you tire him all over. When a man has a toothache he has no comfortable cubic inch in him from scalp to sole.

In Illinois 35 per cent of the cattle are nearly pure bred animals. In the country at large about 20 per cent of the stock have received no infusion of improved blood, but are bred in a hap-hazard way.

There are now near 75,000 head of horses in daily use in New York City one-third of which are fast horses, one-third carriage, and light harness horses, and one-third plugs. The value of the draft horses if put up at auction, is equal to the other two-thirds.

The horns of cattle can be grown harmless by cutting around the upper side close to the roots of the horns of calves at the age of five or six months old, while the horn is soft. This will cause the horns to grow down and the points to nearly touch the cheeks.

Regularity in feeding and milking is an important consideration in providing for a comfort of cows. If fed at irregular hours they are in alternate conditions of hunger and surfeit and cows soon learn to let down their milk at certain hours, and if not milked then, they often suffer greatly when in full milk.

We never knew that "switchel" was the name of it and yet we have always considered it a palatable and wholesome hot-weather drink in the fields. It is made by adding ginger at the rate of a tablespoonful to the gallon of water, sweetened to the taste with brown sugar or molasses. Then stir in enough sharp cider vinegar to make the mixture agreeably tart.

CATARRH Cured health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal injector free. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

Some farmers always have good crops, good stock and good prices. It is because whatever they put their hands to they do well. They farm with brains as well as hands. If other farmers would imitate their example, they would have better crops. Success does not depend so much upon good luck as it does upon good work.

A serious collision occurred between two construction trains on the Canadian Pacific railway, on Saturday, at Donald, B. C., in which one man was killed, two fatally injured, and several others less seriously hurt.

FOR Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

Western farmers have taken to growing Hubbard squashes among hoed crops, and find them more profitable than the old fashioned pumpkin, and quite as reliable. They require or at least will pay, for some extra manuring and watering in a dry time. One of the advantages of growing Hubbard squashes with field crops and that many hills may escape any visition from the bugs.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

It is admitted on all hands that we are passing through a very peculiar season's trade.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1886.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Put in.

The plate glass window which was broken in Mr. Flavell's store a short time ago has been replaced by a new one.

For Two Days.

Mr. Chas. Cluthe, the surgical machinest and truss inventor, is at the Oriental Hotel for two days—to-day and to-morrow.

Don't Forget.

Don't forget the sale of choice milk cows and household furniture to take place on the market square to-morrow at 10 a. m. sharp.

Battalion Drill.

The usual battalion drill was held on Thursday evening. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Lieut. Col. Rogers, no arrangements were made as to church parade.

Postponed.

The social which was to be held under the auspices of the Riverside Lacrosse Club, in the Ashburnham Town Hall this evening, has been postponed indefinitely.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. N. R. Huffman, piano tuner, will be in town again on Nov. 26th. Orders left at E. J. Hartley's music store promptly attended to.

It Might be Remarked

—That the "cold dip" has set in.

—That people will do well to kedp warm.

—That it is not advisable to do otherwise.

—That if your overcoat is shabby and threadbare you should go to A. McNeil and get him to make you a new one.

—That if you are in need of a suit of clothes, made up in the latest city style, go to A. McNeil for them.

—That he is a sure fit every time.

Deserved Promotion.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"We understand that Mr. R. M. Roy, who has for many years ably filled the office of Tie Inspector on the Grand Trunk Railway, has been promoted to the position of Store Inspector on the Midland Division, with a considerable increase of salary. Mr. Roy's headquarters will be in Peterborough, which will necessitate his removal from Belleville—a fact which will temper the rejoicing of his many friends in this, his native city, over his well-deserved promotion."

LADIES, for the finest assortment of Dress Goods and trimmings, Millinery and Mantles go the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

George St. Methodist Church.

Next Sabbath, 14th inst, divine services will be held in the main audience room of this church, the alterations being now completed. The friends of the church will be pleased with the decided improvements made. The organ gallery is lowered, side galleries curved, transepts made desirable, aisles carpeted, new gasaliers added, and increased seating capacity given. Services on Sabbath as follows:—11 a. m. sermon by Rev. I. Tovell. Subject, "The elements of an aggressive Christian Church." Sacrament at the close of the morning service. 7 p. m. Rev. Mr. Tovell will again conduct the service and speak on "The strength and importance of young men in the Church." Special quarterly collections at both services. The public will be welcome.

Irish National League.

A regular meeting of the Irish National League was held in the Murray street school house on Thursday evening. The election of officers for the year 1887 took place and resulted as follows:—

PRESIDENT—Dr. O'Sullivan (re-elected).
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—John Hackett (re-elected).
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—John Delaney.
3RD VICE-PRESIDENT—J. J. Sheehy.
TREASURER—John Corkery (re-elected).

Mr. J. O'Meara declining nomination for the position of Secretary, Mr. J. D. Mollmoyle was unanimously elected. Another meeting will take place this evening to organize the work for the ensuing year, and to consider if any steps will be taken for a reception of Justin McCarthy by the members of the League.

Chief of Police.

Among the list of applicants for the position of Chief of Police at Belleville we find the name of Capt. Cooper, the Peterborough Chief of Police. If Belleville secures his services it will be the gainer and our town will be the loser, for his efficiency is recognized not only by our people generally but more especially by those officials who are in the best position to judge. If we wish to retain the services of an efficient officer like Capt. Cooper we must be prepared to remunerate them on somewhat the same scale as that adopted at other places of similar rank. We cannot expect to be well served on any other condition. The Council may well consider whether it would not be short sighted policy and no true economy to let Capt. Cooper go, as he undoubtedly will at some time if not on the present occasion if he finds that his value is better recognized elsewhere.

MUSIC.

The Peterborough Musical Society's Programme for the Season.

Peterborough has now what it never had before—a musical society comprehending both the vocal and instrumental branches. At the last meeting over a hundred people, interested in organizing the society met in Mr. Seward's rooms, Market block, when the election of officers and adoption of the constitution took place.

Those who have already joined the society, and those who intend to do so, will be pleased to know that arrangements are being made to get the eastern hall in Bradburn's Opera Hous for the regular rehearsals. Mr. Bradburn is going to fit it up at once and make it a very comfortable and convenient place. It will be seated with chairs, lit by electric light and well heated. A stage will be erected at the north end and ante rooms will be constructed for hanging coats and hats in.

The first work to be undertaken are selections from the actograph. These are not difficult, but are of such a standard as to hold the interest of those well advanced in music and to stimulate the beginners to put forth effort. After this something higher will be taken up.

The rehearsals are to be conducted in this way: When about half over the director will call the meeting to order, or rather to disorder. He will request those who consent to act as waiters to pass around the tea and coffee, and then all the ladies will be at liberty to open their baskets, and everybody will lose themselves in lunch and conversation for a few minutes. After this is over instrumental music and vocal solos and duets will be given for a short time. Regular programmes will be prepared to fill in this interval. Two pianos will be put on the stage to start with, and perhaps three. After this intermission the regular work will be taken up again.

The director is negotiating with Lindsay and Belleville for the formation of similar societies. If these are organized invitations are likely to be given and received to attend each other's concerts. At the next meeting more arrangements will be made. Mr. Seward wishes it to be known that everybody interested in music is invited. The fee is but nominal—just enough to cover expenses.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS.

The St. Andrew's Society Hold Their Annual Meeting.

The Peterborough St. Andrew's Society held their annual meeting in the town buildings on Thursday evening, Mr. John Erskine, President, in the chair. The meeting was largely attended and representative.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, after which the financial statement was brought in, showing a balance in hand of $91.18.

A letter was read from Dr. Massie, of Keene, regretting his absence.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, resulting as follows:—

PRESIDENT—Thos. Menzies.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—Jas. Hendrie.
2nd VICE-PRESIDENT—Jas. Stewart.
3RD VICE-PRESIDENT—John Stewart.
TREASURER—Melville Millar.
SECRETARY—Wm. Menzies (re-elected).
CHAPLAINS—Revs. E. F. Torrance and F. H. Wallace.
PHYSICIANS—Dr. J. T. Halliday, Dr. R. W. Bell, Dr. Fife, and Dr. John Massie (Keene).
BARD—W. Telford, Smith.
PIPER—Donald McDonald, Peterborough.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—The following were appointed members of the Executive Committee for the town and county of Peterborough:—

Town—Messrs. Geo. Queen, Adam Turner, Alex. Wood, E. H. D. Hall, John Paterson, W. Niller, D. D. Galletly, W. Paterson, Jr., Adam Hall, W. W. Johnston, P. Hamilton, John Spence, Jas. Cummings.

Otonabee.—Messrs. John Millar, Donald MacFarlane.

Keene.—Wm. Campbell and Dr. Massie.

Smith.—Messrs. H. Bowie, W. Graham and Alex. Morrison.

Lakefield.—Messrs. Robert Graham and John Isbister.

Ennismore.—Messrs. Thos. Telford and W. Cumming.

North Monaghan.—Messrs. Joseph Tully and Wm. Fowler.

Dummer.—Messrs. David Rose, A. R. Kidd and Alex. Smith.

Asphodel and Belmont.—John Breckenridge, J.P., and W. Matheson.

Nowwood.—W. E. Roxborough.

Douro.—Thos. Russell, Jos. Renwick.

Harvey.—Geo. Smith.

The committee on celebration then brought in its report, recommending that a Scottish concert be held. Satisfactory arrangements had been made with Mr. MacDuff to direct the concert. It was likely that the well-known Scottish vocalist, Maggie Barr, of Hamilton, would be present.

The report was adopted.

Messrs. John Erskine, Thos. Menzies, D. D. Galletly and the Secretary were appointed a committee to act, on behalf of the Society, in conjunction with Mr. MacDuff.

A committee consisting of Messrs. John Erskine and M. Millar, was directed to wait upon the Rev. E. F. Torrance to request him to deliver the annual St. Andrew's Society sermon in St. Paul's Church on the evening of Sunday November 28th.

Mr. D. McLEOD moved, seconded by Mr. GEO. QUEEN—That the thanks of this meeting be tendered the retiring officers. Carried.

It was decided to celebrate Robbie Burns Anniversary by holding a supper on January 25th.

The annual membership fee was placed at $1 instead of 50 cents.

The following notice met with unamnious approval:—That in order to encourage more social intercourse all the members are invited to meet quarterly with the executive committee, and after the business had been transacted by the committee the chairman will resolve the meeting into a social gathering.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Theatre.

A crowded house again greeted the Tavernier Dramatic Company at the opera house on Thursday evening, the occasion of the presentation of B. E. Woll's Comedy "The Mighty Dollar." The company seems to grow more in favor every performance they give.

EAST RIDING CANDIDATES.

John Lang and Thos. Blezzard Nominated at Norwood.

The East Riding Reform convention, for the purpose of nominating Reform candidates to contest the Riding for the Dominion and Provincial elections, was held at Norwood on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. John Lang, of Otonabee, was nominated as a candidate for the Dominion House, and Mr. Thos. Blezzard, of Otonabee, for the Local Legislature. Both nominations were unanimous and both candidates accepted.

DYNAMITERS FRUSTRATED.

Atrocious Attempt to Destroy a Passenger Train—Miraculous Escape.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 11.—Upon the arrival at Dubois, Pa., of the mail train north on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg Railway to-day, the car inspector discovered three dynamite bombs and caps fastened under the springs of the rear coach. The bombs were carefully removed, and there were many pale faces among the passengers when they learned the terrible fate they had so narrowly escaped. The train starts from Punxsutawney every morning, and it is undoubtedly at that place that the bombs were placed under the springs, as it only makes short stops between there and Dubois. It is twenty miles from the place of starting, and how it was possible for a train to run that distance over short curves with that amount of dynamite and caps under the springs is a mystery. Thirty-four persons were in the coach, and had the accident occurred as intended the loss of life would have been very great.

Ventilating Houses, &c.

The true hygienic value of pure air and the sun's rays is gradually dawning upon the masses of inhabitants of our civilized world. We refer with pleasure to a very neatly gotten up illustrated brochure on the most practical and cheapest system of ventilating houses and railway cars, patented by Charles Cluthe, the well-known Surgical Machinist, of Toronto. Ventilating houses, railways cars, &c., is a need more wanted than anything besides food, clothes, and bed to provide means for the effectual renovation of the blood which it is obvious to the most indifferent is impossible without proper ventilation. Drafts are entirely stopped by the "Swan's Neck," as Mr. Cluthe calls it, Especially people anticipating building should read it before deciding on a plan. Price 10 cents. Address Chas. Cluthe, 118 King St. West, Toronto.

A Direct Challenge.

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—The Mail, referring to Mr. M. C. Cameron's denial that he garbled the reports of the Indian Department relative to the treatment of Indians, makes the following proposal, which is a direct challenge:

"Let him (Mr. Cameron) submit the quotations to which the Mail has objected, and the reports of the Indian Department from which these alleged quotations are taken, to any three clergymen whom he may name or to the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, and if the clergymen or Mr. Mackenzie say his quotations are honestly taken from the text from which he professes to quote them, we confess that the Mail has done him a wrong while, if it is determined that they differ radically from the honest gloss of the text, he must admit that he is falsified."

Accident on the Welland Canal.

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 11.—About 10 o'clock this morning an accident which terminated fatally took place at Port Dalhousie, on the canal enlargement now being operated by Messrs. Murray & Cleveland. William J. Murray, son of the head of the firm, was standing on a scow superintending the unloading of some heavy blocks of stone intended for the work. A stone was being lifted when the boom slipped and struck Mr. Murray on the back, crushing him, and inflicting injuries from which he died an hour later.

FATAL FIRE.

A Child Burned to Death and a Dwelling Destroyed.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—A fatal fire occurred yesterday afternoon about two o'clock, near Ironside, four miles from Ottawa, destroying a dwelling house occupied by a laborer named Charles Demerais and burning to death a child of his of two years old. The cause of the fire is unknown. Several women were in the place at the time, but were not aware of the disaster until the place was wrapt in flames. Demerais' loss is $500; no insurance.

THE CANADIANS ON TOP.

The U. S. Fish Markets Held by Canadians at Double Prices.

HALIFAX, November 11.—An offer of $4.75 to $5.25 was made for July herring yesterday, more than double the price offered at this time last year. The steamers Miranda and Merrimac, which sailed hence for New York and Boston respectively, took fish to the value of $33,000. Canadian fishermen still hold the American mackerel market and at prices double what they were last year. The cargo of mackerel of the captured schooner Highland Light was sold at Georgetown, P. E. I., to-day. Matthew McLean & Co. bought 196 barrels of mackerel at $6.50 per barrel.

SPAIN AND HER COLONIES.

Efforts to Develop Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

MADRID, Nov. 12.—It has been decided that the press and marriage laws of Spain shall be extended to Cuba and Puerto Rico; that the railways shall receive state support; that the Cuban debt shall be converted this month, and that Chambers of Commerce shall be established immediately in Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippine Islands. The Government will pay large monthly subsides for the creation of three lines of steamers to run three times a month between the peninsula and Cuba and Puerto Rico, also a second line between Havana, Mexico and the Central American republics and a third line to run all along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of South America to the Spanish Republics. Immigration from the Canary Islands to the West Indies will be encouraged by a state subsidy.

A CANADIAN SYNDICATE

Acquire Immense Areas of Timber Lands in Northwestern Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 11.—Col. Platt B. Walker, a prominent lumberman, says a syndicate of Canadian lumbermen, with partners in this State, have acquired the title to about 500,000,000 feet of pine timber in northwestern Minnesota, and are arranging to gobble up the rest of the vast timber belt of the northern slope, an area including one half of the entire State. He charges that the clause in the sundry civil bill providing for the commission to treat with the Indians now occupying these lands for their removal to White Earth agency was secured directly in the interest of this Canadian syndicate. Col. Walker adds that if these treaties should be made and confirmed $18,000,000 worth of Indian pine will certainly go into the hands of a foreign syndicate, and $15,000,000 worth of lumber that Dakota and Minnesota will shortly need will be owned by the same pool.

A DESPERATE CRIMINAL.

A Toronto Murderer Escapes from a Michigan Gaol.

TORONTO, Nov. 12.—Charles Morgan alias Andrews, who shot James Maroney dead at York and Pearl streets in this city four years ago, the other night cleverly escaped from the Grand Rapids, Mich., gaol, where he was awaiting trial on the charge of robbing the Hart, Mich., post office and carrying off $2,000 worth of property. Morgan was entered in the prison books as Charles Conklin. His escape was brought about by aid from the outside. Morgan's crime in this city will be well remembered. He was tried and convicted of murder in the first degree, but the presiding Judge, Justice Galt, would not accept the verdict and ordered the jury back. They afterward found a verdict of manslaughter, and Morgan was sentenced to five years in the Kingston penitentiary. Two years after he made his escape by digging under the walls. He has one of the worst criminal records in existence.

LONDON'S POOR.

Reply of the Local Government Board to the Social Democrats.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Local Government Board has made public its reply to the letter recently addressed to it by the Social Democratic Federation, calling attention to the alleged enormous increase in the number of the poor and unemployed in London. The board's reply asserts that in the month of October, 1886, the percentage of paupers in London was 22 to every 1,000 of the population, while in the same month of the year in 1868 the percentage was 42 to the thousand, and argues that these figures prove that if pauperism does increase in London, the Government will be quite able to manage its attendant evils. The board promises to assist the local authorities in the work of relieving the poor.

MIDLAND.

THOROUGHBRED CATTLE.—Mr. William Stewart, of Wyebridge, came to town on Friday to take home a thoroughbred Devon bull and heifer which he purchased at a high price from one of the principal breeders near Guelph. We are glad to see that our enterprising farmers are alive to the importance of improving their stock.

HERRING FISHING.—Mr Samuel Frazer, fishery inspector, has received instructions from the department to issue free licenses for herring fishing to parties applying for same.—Star.

NORWOOD.

BARN BURNED.—On Tuesday morning, Nov. 9th, about six o'clock, the barn of Mr. Enoch Cronk, who lives about one mile east of this village, together with nearly all this year's crop, was totally consumed by fire. The fire was caused by the upsetting of a lantern. The horses and cattle were saved with difficulty. The building was owned by Mr. E. Thistlethwaite, and was insured. The contents were insured only a few days ago for $500. Mr. Cronk's loss will be heavy.

RETURNED HOME.—Our enterprising townsmen, Messrs. John Baskin and Bristow Moffatt, have returned home from the eastern part of the Province, where they have just completed the contract of building several miles of the C. P. R. air line between Smith's Falls and Montreal. The speculation was a paying one.—Register.

CAMPBELLFORD.

THE BRIDGE MADE SAFE.—The new pier which has been in course of construction in the river under the railway bridge, for some weeks past, was finished on Tuesday last, and the bridge is now made safe for the heaviest traffic over the rail. No more will be done this year, but next year the other piers will be removed and new ones built. The men employed upon the job are now building a small pier under the bridge spanning Ranuey street.

AN ESCAPE.—An emery wheel in Mr. Thos. Dunk's planing mill at the east end of the railway bridge, which was being run at the rapid rate af four thousand revolutions per minute, broke into two pieces, one day last week. Fortunately there were no small pieces sent flying from it as it sometimes happens. Mr. Dunk was standing near the wheel when it collapsed.—Herald.

LINDSAY.

SENTENCED.—One of the burglars, John McClone, alias Edward Kenny, alias John Kenny, captured by Chief Bell for committing larceny on the G. T. R. property at Beaverton, was sentenced on Tuesday at the assizes held here to seven years in the Kingston penitentiary. Mr. R. Matchett and Chief Bell have secured one of the most notorious burglars in Canada. Detective Burrows of the Toronto Police Force and Detective Spence of the G. T. R. Co. proved convictions against Edward Kenny alias John Kenny.

FIRE.—On Sunday morning about four o'clock a fire broke out in Mr. Sennet's grist mill. A strong wind was blowing from the north-west and blazing shingles were carried to a great distance; these alighting on the roofs of houses would undoubtedly have set those buildings on fire also, but for the fact of their being covered with a light fall of snow. The loss is estimated at $7,000; insured for $2,000.—Warder.

STRAWBERRY TIME.—Mr. John Milloy, o lot 3, in the 8th con. of Emily placed on our table on the 5th of November a box containing several fine plants of "Wilson Albany" strawberry, bearing a large number of flowers and well formed but not quite ripe strawberries. If any of our contemporaries can beat that for the 5th of Nov. we would like to hear from them.—Post

PORT HOPE.

BRAKEMEN CAUGHT.—The Times of Nov. 12 says:—Another of the deplorable accidents of which a brakeman on the rails is in continual danger occurred at the Grand Trunk railway depot this morning between ten and eleven o'clock. A freight train arrived and was to take on a car of cheese standing on the south siding. The train was cut and the cheese car coupled on. The junction of the two sections of the train would occur just at one of the east switches and there Brakeman Harry O'Hara, of Toronto, stood ready. the bumpers came together and the bolt was dropped but O'Hara could not stir. His right foot had become inextricably fastened in a frog and the force of the car threw him back on the rail helpless. The first trucks of an empty car passed over his right thigh diagonally and leg, before switchman Sam Buckett, who was a witness of the accident, could by his signalling bring the train to a stand still. The injured man was then raised and carrried to Mrs. Christopher's hotel, where he lies in a critical condition. Strangely enough, and fortunately, no bones are broken, although the cuts and bruises are severe, and unless internal injuries have been inflicted the poor fellow's prospects for recovers are bright. The injured man is a strong athletic young fellow whose hardiness will help his recovery.

OLD TIMES.—In digging the cellar for the lunch room behind "Oyster Bay," the workmen struck an old corduroy road or path at a depth of eight feet below the surface. The road was formed of hewed slabs and planks in a good state of preservation. It is said to have been built sixty years ago, and led to Brown's blacksmith shop, which, in those early days of Smith's Creek, as Port Hope was at that time called, was probably a rendezvous of the local politicians with whom "The Village Blacksmith" was an authority. In the present day and generation P. J. Connell is, by a much larger community, the acknowledged authority on all pertaining to confectionery and "sich like" galore.

SALISBURY CRITICIZED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 12.—The Journal de St. Petersburg says:—"The Marquis of Salisbury's speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet makes Austria responsible for the maintenance of peace in the East." It adds: "The Emperor Francis Joseph's speech to the delegations in Buda-Pesth on Saturday testified that he was conscious of the responsibility created by the Marquis of Salisbury making British policy dependent upon that of Austria with regard to affairs in the East. It may be hoped that the warlike note sounded in the Guildhall will be lost in the eminently pacific note struck at Buda-Pesth."

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night;"

is the exclamation, in thought, of many a man who has suffered through a long life from some distressing disease that he might have cured with a few bottles of medicine like Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which cures all blood and skin diseases, as well as consumption or scrofula of the lungs. If he were "a child again," he would know enough to have a bottle of the Discovery "to-night," and in old age would not implore Father Time to "fly backward" for his special benefit. Hence, "Be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer." Get a bottle of the nearest druggist.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1886.

MR. BLAKE'S POLICY.

THERE are different kinds of forgers. There are those who print or photograph imitations of the bill or securities with which they intend to defraud, and there are others who make adroit changes, raising a note to one of a higher denomination, forging an endorsement or altering a word or figure to carry out the fraudulent object in view. Of this latter variety is Mr. M. C. Cameron, the forger employed by Mr. Blake to falsify the documents by which he hopes to deceive the people of Canada for his own advantage. It was by such ingenous changes that they falsified Indian Department documents to make them appear to bear a meaning quite at variance with their true intent.

Mr. Cameron also practices another variety of falsification of a very similar nature. He takes real lists of names from the public documents and then claims that these lists mean something altogether different from their true meaning. The assize court sat here recently, when we published a list of the grand jurors and another of the members of the bar present. If we had stated that the list of grand jurors was that of the criminals who had been sentenced by the Court, and that the list of barristers was one of witnesses who had been censured for perjury, we would have been adopting a method precisely similar to that of Mr. Cameron. That champion slanderer read a list of Conservative members who he said had received timber limits, &c., given to them by the Conservative Administration to corrupt them at the expense of the country. The majority of those he denounced had never received anything, others so far from obtaining a valuable gift had paid forfeit rather than pay the high price demanded. Others had applied not for themselves but merely on behalf of a constituent, in some cases being a political opponent.

On the stump Mr. Cameron and his friends state that when he uttered these slanders in the House they were accepted in silence. The truth is that members by the dozen not only flatly contradicted his falsehoods, but refuted them by an appeal to the official documents.

Yet Mr. Blake sits on the same platform with Mr. Cameron, listens to his slanders without a protest, and, while knowing them to be falsehoods endorses and adopts them as his own. Morally we cannot see that one is the least superior to the other. The chief difference between them seems to be that the one is the more industrious in this dirty but congenial work, while the other with "serene soul" takes the benefit of the active criminal's industry.

GHOULS AT WORK.

There seems to be no bounds to the vile system of slander adopted by the Reform press and platform speakers. Mr. Wm. Sharples, a leading Quebec lumber merchant, has just died. In chronicling his death the Toronto Globe says:—"In private life he was a most amiable gentleman, and his death is very deeply and widely regretted here (Quebec) as a loss both to the poor and the trade of the port." Yet neither his good character nor even his recent death can save his memory from the vile slander of the Globe, careless of the feelings of his relations and friends or of the poorwhom he befriended. For with malicious falsehood the Globe says:—"Deceased was a member of the Prince Albert Colonization Co. to whom the Government handed over the lands of the Halfbreeds at Batoche and St. Louis de Langevin." Thus even before his burial Mr. Sharples is vilified to enable the Globe to reiterate a false charge against honorable men. No halfbreed lands were handed over by the Government to this company or to anyone else; the company never received the halfbreed lands, and none of the halfbreeds were disturbed in their holdings. We defy the Globe to give the name of one halfbreed at Batoche or St. Louis de Langevin who lost one inch of his land or had any attempt made to dispossess him. If the Globe's calumnies were true it could readily mention not one name but many.

Reformers, and their allies, having been conclusively shown to have fomented the rebellion, the Globe is now striving by any means to relieve its shoulders of the burden. But it might at least spare the dead.

THE Presbyterian Review was established in Toronto because it was considered that the Presbyterians needed an independent journal. As the Presbyterian Review is not able to give its approval to some of the sayings and doings of Mr. Mowat and his friends, the Toronto Globe, the London Advertiser, the Montreal Herald, and other unscrupulous Reform journals, are crying out that it is a Tory organ established to support the Tories. It is rather strange then that it should be placed as it is, under the editorial control of gentlemen who are Reformers. By the bye, the Montreal Herald makes the admission that the Presbyterian is a Reform journal, and asserts that the Presbyterian Review was started to oppose it. This, though incorrect, may explain the need that was felt for an independent Presbyterian journal.

MR. BLAKE had the effrontery at Guelph to accuse the Macdonald Administration of "an effort to divide Canadians, to set a gulf between our populations through cries of race and religious prejudice." He knows that he is making a false accusation, that the very crime of which he accuses others was perpetrated by himself, through his man-of-all-work, Mr. Edgar, at Quebec, and through his own personal arrangement with Mr. Laurier as soon as he returned from England. It is, in fact, the sole means by which he fondly hopes to climb to power.

To show how trustworthy the Reformers are in their professions, Mr. Mowat has again been giving a specimen of his contempt for the old platform of his party. When Mr. Sandfield Macdonald was in office it was a high crime for him to have anything to do with Sir John Macdonald. But the other day, at the meeting in Toronto, addressed by Mr. Blake, the Provincial Premier and the majority of his colleagues appeared on the platform as his supporters.

Confirmation of the desertion of five of the Mounted Police from Regina has been received by the Department at Ottawa. The amount of money stolen, however, was $400, not $2,000, as reported.

THAT TIMBER LIMIT.

HOW AN IMPECUNIOUS M. P. P. RECOUPED HIS TREASURY.

Mr. Hurdman Tells How the "Moral" Pardee Makes his Firm Sell a $22,000 Property for $6,000 to Old Bonfield—Moral Rights Proved to be Only Good in the Hands of Political Friends.

A short time ago we gave our readers a summary of the facts revealed by a return laid before the Legislature last session at the instance of Mr. Carnegie with reference to the manner in which a timber license had been issued to Dr. Dowling in consideration of a claim which, while in the hands of Hurdman Bros., had been repeatedly rejected by Mr. Pardee, the present Commissioner of Crown Lands for this Province.

Since then the Ottawa correspondent of the Mail has interviewed Mr. Wm. Hurdman, the senior member of the firm, with regard to this matter, and after relating the circumstances already given in these columns, Mr. Hurdman lets light in behind the official documents in the following manner:—

"Had you complied with all the regulations?"

"Complied with the regulations? We had done more. We not only complied with every rule of the department, but we spent in the neighbourhood of $5,000 in improving the streams in order to be able to work the limit. Well, things went on and from time to time we renewed our application to the Government for the territory, but were always refused. Finally, in 1878 or 1879, Mr. Bonfield came along. He wanted to buy out our interest, and offered $2,000 for it. We said, 'no, you cannot have it for $2,000.' Bonfield, who was an Irishman, replied:—'Then yez can't get it, an' sure if I can get it now ye moight let me have it.' We replied:—'No, Mr. Bonfield, it's worth $2,000 to know what the Ontario Government are going to do in the matter, whether or not they are going to rob us and put money into your pocket.' He went away, but came back two or three times making different offers, and finally we made made him this proposition, $6,000 for the limit, $2,000 down and the balance in notes satisfactorily endorsed, which he accepted. He had then to apply to E. B. Eddy, of Hull, for the endorsing. Eddy, of course, wanted to find out something in reference to the territory in order to know what he was endorsing on. We told Bonfield in his presence that if he procured the license we would pay him $16,000 in cash for it. As a matter of fact, we would have given $20,000 for it. It was worth that to us. Eddy, of course, was satisfied when he heard this. Bonfield was in financial difficulties at the time, and did his business in the name of Dowling, his son-in-law. He paid us the $2,000, but we signed our claim over to Dowling, and the notes were drawn in Dowling's name with E. B. Eddy as endorser. Bonfield however, was the principal all through. When the license was obtained it was transferred to Eddy as security for his endorsation, and that was how Eddy came to transfer it back to Mrs. Bonfield after Bonfield's death, the notes then having been paid. The only thing Dowling had in it was the use of his name. That, of course, ended our connection with the affair."

"Were you satisfied with the ending?"

"Well, I should say not. We had bought in good faith, and had complied with every regulation. We had offered in 1875, if the license was issued to us, to pay the annual ground rent and interest thereon from 1851 to date. That, with the double dues we had already paid, would have made a considerable sum, but they refused. We had also made two roads from the Ottawa to the Petewawa, and had spent thousands in improvements. Why, Bonfield got back about all the money he paid us in improvements."

"You had then a positive right?"

"Why, Pardee told Bonfield that we had a moral right, and that he would have to get our assignment before the license could issue."

"And that ended it?"

"Yes. I consider the Government just took a clean $10,000 out of our pocket and put it into Bonfield's. But, then, he was a supporter of the Government—an Irish Roman Catholic representing a constituency composed largely of that element; and, of course, he could get what he wanted."

Old Men and Old Women.

Some one has made out a list of old men and women who occupy prominent places and wield world-wide influence It is not a difficult task. Probably at no time in the world's history were there so many active leaders in advanced life as now. In the light of the prevalent confidence in youth, and the sad lack of reverence for gray hairs which are so frequently seen, it might be well for each of our readers to moralize a little on a few facts we subjoin:

President Grevy, the only man in France that can stand at the head of the Republic, lately re-elected president, is seventy-three years old.

Gladstone is past seventy-six years, and yet he has no more power than any other man in the British empire.

Bishop Taylor, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who has more missionary spirit than some whole missionary boards and entire churches, and who has recently travelled 600 miles on foot in the tropical climate of Africa, establishing missionary stations, is almost seventy years old.

Bismarck, the mightiest man in all Europe, is seventy-two years of age.

Tennyson, the poet-laureate of England, is seventy-six, and has scarcely a rival in all Britain in song.

Whittier, who stands at the head of American poets, is seventy-nine years old.

Queen Victoria went to the throne of England fifty years ago, and never was more loved by Britain and the world than to-day.

Dr. McCosh, the President of Princeton, since the death of Dr. Hodge, and the leading writer on philosophy of our times, is seventy-six years of age, and has written immensely on the most difficult subjects, and yet evades no issue of the day.

Bancroft, the greatest of all American historians, is seventy-six.

Mrs. Lydia Sexton, of the United Brethren Church, is now far up toward ninety, and can outpreach any woman in the denomination, and has recently been engaged in revival work where many were brought to Christ.

Honour the aged. Give them a chance to do something for the Master, if they have a heart to work. They may have some old notions, but they may have old wisdom as well.

Remember, you are growing old. The gray hairs are growing on your head. "Old men for counsel," at least, even if we send the young men to the war.

The Ontario and Quebec Railway.

The following is the condition of the various sections of the new line from Smith's Falls to St. Johns:—Sections 1, 3, 5 and 6, each five miles in length, are finished; sections 2 and 4, five miles each, grading finished, the masonry on Rideau Bridge nearly completed; sections 7 to 14 forty-three miles, in a forward state, some parts completed; sections 15, 16 and 17, twelve miles, near completion; sections 18 to 22, twenty-one miles, the grading finished and masonry of the Delisle River Bridge will be finished in two weeks.

Gratifying reports have been received at Ottawa of the success of the Canadian display of fresh fruit at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, the beauty and variety of our products having completely astonished British horticulturists.

Prof. Saunders, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm stations, has left Ottawa for Manitoba, to select a site and arrangments for the station in that province. He will also, if possible, proceed to the North-West Territories and British Columbia for the same purpose.

KINMOUNT.

IRON MINES.—The railway boom continues, and Mr. Pusey is pushing his line with great energy. On Wednesday of last week the engine, labelled in big white paint letters, "Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway," commenced work, and a lot of flat cars similarly painted were also on the line. So also were several cars of steel rails. There is no doubt as to the first section of the line—that to Irondale—being opened before Christmas. This in itself will be a great benefit to Kinmount. Mr. Pusey is likewise endeavoring to purchase the Parry and Mills iron furnace at the end of the Myles branch. Should that furnace be completed and worked, our district will at once enter upon a period of great prosperity, and Kinmount will become a second Pittsburg. Property in the neighborhood is already advancing in price—a garden plot close handy rents for $3.50 an acre per year.

LUMBERING.—Gilmour's limits are being worked again as usual, down in the south part of Galway. Two shanties are engaged, and the depot which is in Harvey, is taking out some boom stuff. Harvey is cleared away, and done with, but Galway will give four or five more years yet, unless a big fire sweeps the country. Mr. Killerfick, the foreman, is popular with the settlers, who always find him pleasant and honorable to deal with.

MOOSE KILLED.—Moose are coming down south, and for the first time in the memory of man, a large one was killed the other day within a mile or two of Joseph Clements in Galway. Kennedy and Coben were the slayers, and it weighed between seven and eight hundred.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

CHAPTER XXVI.

CUTHBERT.

Bronzed by the sun and thin in the face.

But emaciation was the only change in him.

And it was a change to mar nothing of his beauty, which, because of the ingrained expression of pensive thought, such as a man might wear in whose heart sorrow languishes but will not die, was of a nobler and truer type than what it had been in the lighter months before.

When a man lives a bitter lifetime in a short while his face will be a mirror to reflect the violent compression of experience.

By the earnest, plaintive gaze of the eye, by the habitual fixity of the mouth, by the unsevere resolution of feature, Cuthbert explained to the shallowest sight the harshness of his ordeal, though its nature remained his secret.

But to this distinctive expression which his face had taken—stamped there by lonely contemplation, by unutterable longings, by helpless chafing, by many fits of mental agony, by hope fallen sick and spiritless, by such things which do really and truly of this life make a hell without participation of conscience, as there are sufferers to swear—was superadded, at this time, as he walked through busy thoroughfares, a painful anxiety so acute as to fix upon his heart the shadow of physical torment.

With quick steps he pressed forward glancing on his passage at every clock, until he had crossed Blackfriars bridge, and arrived at the famous hostelry which, in those days, was the starting point for the coaches to that part of the coast where Greystone lay.

Here was the coach drawn up, and passengers clambering to their places, and another five minutes of fog had lost the returned hero a night.

There was room and to spare, happily; but no time for the hot drink which the rest of the travelers had stowed under their small clothes.

Vapor was still in the sky to darken it and a leaden dullness on the massive city, but when the horses' heads were down and the wheels spinning the sky grew light and fold after fold of fog peeled off until the blue heaven floated clear, and then the tune of the wind grew merry.

This coach was the "Rattler," and famous for good runs. At every stage did it halt as punctually as trains at stations do now, and for a careless heart the passage was a glorious journey to make. November's yellow light upon the land, upon the hilltops a full toned coloring that kept distant the blue of the sky, between the ridges masses of shadow, the brown of loam and the dwelling of sunshine on green.

At eight of the evening the coach swung through the streets of a half-way city of the road, where some relinquished the roof for an inn fire and a bed. But Cuthbert kept his place, so that faithfully at the hour of twelve, by the deep throated city clock, the coach arrived at that ancient place whence diverged the road to Greystone, and here Cuthbert quitted the vehicle.

The suggestion of a bed seemed like a landlord's mocking of a restless spirit, yet to a bed in the Old Bell inn he betook himself, laying urgent commands upon the host that a postchaise should be ready for him by six. Even an hour's sleep could do him no injury, and this he got, which relieved the veins of his head from the fullness of the blood poured into them by intense mental anxiety, and toned the heart into a softer beating, so that when he was aroused he was better prepared for the end of his journey.

The distance to Greystone was twenty-one miles, and this the post horses could run, with one halt for a bait. At nine o'clock the chaise wheels took the stones of the High street.

In Greystone at last! And as in the High street he stood, the smooth sea stretching its gray luster to the sky from under the fronting houses, and the keen wind whitening the roadways—unnoticed, for the cold, by the few persons abroad, who hurried past, hugging themselves in folds of frieze—a passionate fear came upon him and held him to the pavement.

For right in his sight, looking now through bare tendrils of creepers, was the shipwright's wooden house; and that it might be a desolate place for the want of his wife, and a tomb for the echoes of memory only to sound in, was a dread of the awful kind that repels the heart with horror from the determination of it.

He took courage presently and went forward slowly, with his eyes fixed upon the house, until he was at the gate of it, and then he walked quietly to the door. He knocked and fell back a pace, that every window might be visible to him; and while he stood, looking first here and then there, the door was opened, and a respectably dressed woman stood forth.

He could barely speak for the constriction in his throat, and in a quite faint voice asked if Mrs. Strangfield was within.

"Oh, dear no, sir. Mrs. Strangfield has been gone these three months," answered the woman, looking at him with surprise.

"Where?"

"Why, to a house in Winston. Do not you know her husband be dead, and the business sold to Mr. McAndrew?"

"They were friends of mine, and I am just returned from a long journey." And in a wild, quick way, like a cry overleaping decision, he said: "And what of her daughter?"

"Mrs. Shaw! She lives along wi' her mother. Her husband be dead too, ye know."

"She lives with her mother, and is well, I hope?" he said, the flush brought to his face by the violence his question did him yielding to a deadly white.

"Quite well, I believe, sir. She's niver i' Greystone. They say she's known a deal o' sorrow, and there's some shame in it that keeps her i' hiding. Poor heart! A sweeter woman there is not; truly there is not."

She looked at him hard as she said this, the gaze growing keener and keener, the eyebrows lifting to it, and something like an expression of consternation coming into her face.

"I am Mr. Shaw," he said, anticipating the question that was already parting her lips.

"You!—an' she thinks ye dead!" the woman shrieked.

With a toss of the hands he turned his head to look up the High street.

"Is it known," he said, confronting her, "that I was impressed in error by a gang of sailors? What did my father think? Do you know him?"

"Dr. Shaw, of the school house? Well by name, sir. Ye know, of course, that he be well, and is giving up teachin'? A man hath come from some city i' the north to buy the school from him—so I heerd but a week since," said the woman, so fascinated, not alone by the romance of Cuthbert's return, but by the beauty of his face, that she could not lift her eyes from him.

"Is it known that I was impressed?" he asked again.

"I cannot tell ye for sure, sir. Some talk there was, I think; but them as it went among were but little known to me. And before my husband bought this business we lived at the white house, away down by Callow bay, which kept me out o' gossip."

"Is Mr. Franklin alive? or, where can I hire a coach?"

"Oh, Mr. Franklin is nicely, sir. Will ye not come in and sit down? And my gel shall fetch you a coach as quick as fver it'll come for thee."

He thanked her for her offer and entered the little parlor, never before peered by him and even unfamiliar to us, now that the quaint furniture of the Strangfields was gone and the simple old sea pieces.

He breathed quickly as he stood alone looking around him. This had been his darling's home. Through the window, into which Mr. McAndrew had let clarified glass, he saw the old bay tree and the shrubbery and green stuff, amid which he used to slip his letters to his sweetheart after dark, appointing meetings for the morrow. The walls around him had echoed to her voice. Her feet had trodden the ground on which he stood. Yonder was the scene of street and market place which her timid eyes had swept again and again that night when she waited for him to come and tell her father that she was his wife.

Mrs. McAndrew returned with a tray of wine and biscuit, and pulled a chair to the table that he should sit.

"I'm all of a tremble with astonishment, sir, truly. 'Tis the wonderfullest thing that ye should be there looking at me, and your pretty wife thinking herself a widow, not five miles away. I've sent the gel for a carriage. Ye'll have patience for five minutes, sir; and if this wine's not to your relish, I can draw a proper head o' beer."

He seated himself, looking vacantly at the woman under his lowering brow.

"You cannot tell me that my wife knew that I was carried away to sea by a press gang?" he said presently.

"I can't own as iver I heard say she knew it, sir. But I can tell you that some trouble came upon the sweetheart after ye were missing; her father was cruel, and that she were married he would not believe. That's what were said. Then afterward it were proved by Dr. Shaw she was your wife, sir. And that broke her father's heart, they said. One thing I reckon sure, howiver wrong-bo all else I say, your wife ran away from Greystone for the shame that evil thinking gossips put upon her; and her mother, as she now lives with, told me herself that her reason for sellin' the business was because Mistress Shaw had vowed niver to come to Greystone again, after she had kissed her father, lying dead on his bed for grief."

"May God forgive them all for wronging her! Poor little one! Could her father look at her and doubt her! Oh, madam, the carriage is a long while coming. This delay is a heavy trial to me!"

He went quickly from his chair to the window, where he stood a while, tapping the ground with his foot.

"How did my father treat her, do you know?" he asked.

"Why, sir, very honorably, I believe, from all reports. An old Mrs. Mead, whom some call 'mother,' was telling me a while back, that your father asked Mistress Shaw to go and live with him, promising to pack the boys home and give up the trade if she'd come. But your lady had a proper spirit, and Mrs. Mead, who loves her, said: 'How should she stay with the old man as doubted her honor once? Though I'll own I answered her, that, all things considering, seeing your lady could not prove her marriage, as 'twas said, and that you were not by, it was not what you might call onraisonable for Dr. Shaw to doubt her."

"Not prove her marriage!"

He dropped his head and swung himself to the window, exclaiming [illegible]

"That was my fear, always."

"Well, sir," continued Mrs. McAndrew, "ye see, accordin' to Mrs. Mead, it were this: Ye had charge o' the marriage paper, and the mistress could not remimber the name o' the church in London. As how should she, if it were ne'er told her? Once in all my life was I in London, and dazed was I by the noise, to be sure—in some streets it was like a bull roaring—and though my cousin, who is a London man, showed me a score o' churches, and named 'em, too, clear in my hearing, not if you was to say here be a hundred pounds for thee, if ye'll gi' me the name o'——"

But before she could make an end the hackney coach came rumbling to the gate, with the maid inside it. Thanking her for her civility and information, and learning from her that "onybody i' Winston'll tell ye where Mrs. Strangfield lives," Cuthbert shook Mrs. McAndrew's hand, jumped into the coach, and was driven off.

The strike at the Chicago stock yards has come to an end, the men going back on the ten hour system in consequence of an order to that effect from the Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

Some Miraculous Results

Have followed the use of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic." It has saved many from becoming bald, and has produced good heads of hair on bald heads where the roots arenot all gone. It has relieved hundreds of per son, from dandruff, and restored crops of gray and faded hair to their original color. A. Dorenwend, sole manufacturer. For sale everywhere. J. D. Tully, agent for Peterboough.

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

ONE BY ONE.

Though from the boughs to which they've long been clinging,
The autumn leaves are dropping one by one,
Yet, from their dust, new forms of beauty springing
Shall smile again in summer's gentle sun.

Though one by one the pearly drops of morning,
From drooping flowers, on viewless pinions rise,
We'll see them yet the gorgeous clouds adorning
With glowing arches of celestial dyes.

Though one by one the stars are fading slowly
That all night long kept vigil in the sky,
The distant mountain peaks, like prophets holy,
Proclaim that morning's light and song are nigh.

Though with slow step goes forth the sower weeping,
And on earth's lap his precious treasure leaves;
Yet comes the harvest, with its joyous reaping,
When shall be gathered home the ripened sheaves.

Though one by one the friends we fondly cherish
Withdraw from us the cold and trembling hand,
And leave us sorrowful, they do not perish—
They yet shall greet us in a fairer land.

Yet, from all climes, where'er the faithful slumber,
'Neath scorching suns, or arctic snow and frost,
Stainless they'll rise, in myriads without number;
All, all shall meet—there shall not be one lost.

FACTS

Concerning Dr. Dorenwend's

Great German Hair Magic!

It is the only prepration in the world that will do what is claimed for it. It has produced luxuriant growths of hair on bald heads where baldness has existed for years. It has restored the color and vigor to numerous crops of gray and faded hair. It has relieved hundreds of persons of disagreeable Dandruff and has saved many when hair was failing, from becoming bald.

Remember these facts and if your hair is falling out and becoming thin, get a bottle at once and save the growth, or you may lose it for ever. Ask your druggist for HAIR MAGIC and take nothing else.

ANOTHER lot of Feather Trimmings received at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

Lamp Broken.

Some time ago Mr. T. Bradburn had an ornamental gas lamp placed at the head of the arcade stairs, but some lover of darkness rather than light seemed to think that the expenditure was not necessary. A stone thrown some time on Friday smashed it to pieces.

Rowdyism.

A resident of the north part of Water street complains that a number of boys and young men are in the habit of conducting themselves in a very disorderly manner at nights, insulting people as they pass along the sidewalk. If one of the police officers were to slip up and cage two or three it would be a lesson to the rest.

Dramatic.

The Tavernier Company presented the five act comedy, "The Romance of a Poor Young Man," to a well-filled house at the Opera House on Friday evening. The performance was up to the usual high standard displayed by this company, and the increase in patronage shows they are appreciated by the public.

Special Sermons.

In connection with the young men's week of prayer most of the local pastors are to preach special sermons on behalf of work for young men. On Sunday, 14th, in the Charlotte street Methodist, George street Methodist, and St. Paul's Presbyterian Churches, such sermons will be preached by the respective pastors. On the following Sunday special sermons will be given in some of the other churches.

CARDINAL Collars and Cuffs at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

Furs.

The Haliburton correspondent of the Bobcaygeon Independent says last week the fur-buyers and the hunters had their annual meeting in the village. The attendance was good. Among the fur buyers were Mr. Lech of Peterborough, and Mr. Borrowman, of Wyoming, Ontario, and several others. It was not by any means an enterprising crowd, and one measley cuss offered four cents for musk-rat. There was talk of lynching him. Mr. Lech put an end to the miserable operations of these small men by giving ten cents per musk-rat, and other skins in proportion. He secured nearly all the fur offering. The quantities were small, and was smaller than ever known before. It did not realize more than $1,200 in the whole, and of this Mr. Lech bought nearly all. The prices were very low. The hunters were discouraged and kept sober.

Special Efforts for Young Men.

On Sunday afternoon the first meeting in connection with the week of prayer for young men will be held in the Baptist Church at 4 o'clock. It will be a union meeting open to all. Short accounts of the progress of Young Men's Christian Association work throughout the world will be given by Messrs. H. S. Griffin, Geo. M Roger and Geo. E. Williams. A collection will be taken up for the benefit of the International Committee. Every evening next week (with the exception of Wednesday) special evangelistic meetings for men only will be held in the Association Hall commencing at eight o'clock. They will be led by Mr. H. S. Griffin, and will be addressed by the ministers of the town and others. A male choir will lead the singing. At the meeting on Monday night the Rev. A. Bell will speak, and the Rev. F. H. Wallace on Tuesday evening. Those in charge will be glad to have a large attendance of the young men in the town.

BARGAIN Plush and Leather Handbags at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Logan, daughter of Mr. H. Calcutt, passed down George street towards the Little Lake cemetery this afternoon.

Here it Is.

Mr. T. Mulcahy, of Otonabee, says that he took the first prize for a year old colt at the Peterborough Central Exhibition and that he did'nt get credit for it. It is descended from the well-known stallion "General Wood." May it take first place in the two year old class next year.

After the Boys

Mr. Bradburn has hired a man, who will be sworn in as special constable, to keep order at the Opera House. The entrances are to be cleared of the crowd of boys which has until now infested them when the Opera House was in use. Those who patronize this place of amusement will be pleased with this arrangement.

New Accoutrements.

Lieut.-Col Rogers has received an invoice from the Minister of Militia stating that new accoutrements, consisting of belts, sockets, bayonets and lockets, had been shipped for the Peterborough city battalion. This, together with the new clothing which was received a short time ago, will put the battalion on a tidy footing.

The Market.

There was another of Peterboroughs' immense fall markets this morning, the square being filled to overflowing with people from town and country. The movement in grain was freer than it has been at any time this fall, the result being large receipts at the mills and warehouses. In the butter and egg market there was a perfect jam. The upper market should be thrown open from this time till Christmas, for the lower one is quite too small to accommodate the people.

Personal.

Mr. Horace W. Bucke, who has been studying law in Mr. A. P. Poussette's office for the last year, has succeeded in passing his final examination with much credit, and now is a full fledged barrister and solicitor. He intends going to London, Canada, to practice on his own account. During his stay in Peterborough Mr. Bucke by his gentlemanly demeanor has made many warm friends, who wish him all success in the practice of the honored profession which he has chosen.

Lumbering.

Messrs. Thompson & Son, lumbermen of this town, have commenced operations for the season of 1886-7. A gang of men have been at work in the township of Manvers for the last month or more, and when and when the winter sets in two more gangs will be despatched to the Georgian Bay district and Ottawa River district respectively. Messrs. Thompson & Son confine themselves to the square timber branch of the business. Last year they got out a large quantity of white pine masts and other kinds of square timber. This year they will take out a considerable quantity of ash square timber for export to Europe.

Solid Comfort.

How few there are who thoroughly understand the meaning of the above in its true sense, and yet who fancy that they are really comfortable in every respect. Position, wealth and honor will not make a sensitive man thoroughly comfortable although they are three very essential things to have so that one may enjoy life. A man who is accustomed to wearing an ill-fitting suit of clothes is never comfortable in the true sense of the word. He is ever thinking of that wrinkle in the back of his coat, or some such thing, and consequently is not the happy and contented man he otherwise would be had he left his measure with A. McNEIL, Habiliment Hall. Everybody is made comfortable by wearing his clothes.

The Churches.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. PETERS CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a. m. the second at 8 a. m., and the third at 10.30 a. m. Vespers at 7 p. m.,

ST. LUKE'S.—The regular services at St. Luke's Church will be conducted, as follows: Holy Communion at morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m., evensong at 7 p. m.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services at St. John's, Church of England. Holy Communion at 8.30 a. m.; Morning Prayer, Litany and Holy Communion at 11 a m. Evening Prayer with sermon at 7 p. m.

ST. PAUL'S.—The Rev. Alex. Bell, of St. Andrew's Church, will conduct the services in the morning. In the evening the Rev. E. F. Torrance will preach the annual sermon to young men, taking for his subject, "The Prophet Daniel." The congregation are reminded that the collection will go toward aiding the Young Men's Christian Association.

BAPTIST CHURCH, Murray Street.—The pulpit will be occupied by a representative from McMaster Hall, Toronto.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.—To-morrow, 14th inst, divine services will be held in the main audience room of this church, the alterations being now completed. The friends of the church will be pleased with the decided improvements made. The organ gallery is lowered, side galleries curved, transepts made desirable, aisles carpeted, new gasaliers added, and increased seating capacity given. DISASTROUS FLOODS.

Destruction of Property and Loss of Life in Nice—Rainstorm at Cannes.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The city of Nice has been visited by enormous waves from the Mediterranean. The water swept away the quays and promenade on the Anglais plantation. Upwards of a hundred people were carried off their feet, and the quays and promenade were covered with sand. The devastation wrought by the waves extends two miles along Nice's water front. At Cannes a fierce storm has been raging and two vessels are known to have been wrecked. Men standing on the quay were carried out to sea on immense waves. The Croisette promenade was destroyed. Rain amounting to almost a deluge has been falling for four days at Gap, the capital of the Department of Hautes Alpes. A number of houses have been utterly destroyed by the floods resulting from the waterfall. The city of Aix is so badly flooded that travel in the streets is impossible, except in boats. In Nimes two parishes are under water and a third is isolated by the floods.

SPANISH DISCONTENT.

Trouble in Catalonia—A Threatened Rising—Encouragement to the Carlists.

MADRID, Nov. 12.—Great alarm exists in Spanish Government circles over the news from Catalonia of extensive military precautions being taken owing to grave fears of a rising in that district. The Anglo-Spanish treaty has caused much discontent among the Catalonians, and a number of the most prominent business men have threatened to join the Carlists unless the terms of the treaty are so modified as to protect their interests. The action of the Government in abolishing the office of sergeant in the army has increased the discontent in the ranks. These grievances stimulated the revolutionists to renewed activity, which is being felt both in civic and military circles. Seven hundred soldiers at Cadiz, en route for Cuba, to-day refused to embark for the latter country.

ORDER WANTED.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Theatre-going people in this town are disgusted and annoyed every night in the Opera House by the rowdy whistling and savage yells of a few roughs in the gallery and other parts of the house.

The finest touches of art, the most eloquent delineations of life and character, make no more impression upon those rowdies than upon a mule. And the scoundrels have not the good manners to let others enjoy that of which they themselves have no more conception than the brute that peu isheth.

If the Opera House is to be turned into a bear garden by a scene of ruffianism every night, respectable people, like the Tavernier Co., will give Peterborough a wide berth. And surely, in all conscience, we pay taxes enough to entitle us to some police protection, which the Council should give us.

Let a stern example be made of a few rowdies and this nuisance will soon cease.

Yours, &c.,
CITIZEN.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 11.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has arranged to retain the services of about 1,000 of the men at present employed in the mountains. They will remain in the mountains until next spring, and will be engaged during the winter in cutting cordwood for the use of locomotives along the line, the understanding being that when called upon they will act as snow-shovellers at the rate of $1.25 per day, and clear any obstruction off the line which may block the track.

OUR FORESTS THE GREAT ASSISTANT TO FERTILITY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I should like to address a few words to your readers on a most important subject—that of the relation of forests, woods, and even lines of trees to the fertility of the adjacent land.

It has been thoroughly observed and is a matter of history, that those countries, such as Syria, Spain, parts of Italy and France, and many another where a forested land was altogether or chiefly deprived of its trees, grew less and less fertile, some portions becoming altogether barren, and, this being observed, some of these by replanting are now, after about fifty years of gradual improvement, becoming fertile again.

The reasons are these: Where a country is deprived of its trees, rain falling, passes away at once over the surface in torrents, carrying away with it much of the best soil to the rivers and lakes. Where woods abound, the moisture is held for a long period, passing gradually away in creeks, water courses and the numerous underground channels of the earth, thus preserving in the ground its great assistant to growth its natural moisture.

Where, too, there is no shelter from rapid winds the ground dries out very quickly, and thus loses the benefit of such rains as may lately have fallen much sooner than, with shelter, would have been the case.

There is, too, another and very important cause. The presence of woods directly tend to so distribute the yearly rainfall, as to give during the growing season many refreshing showers, showers which would otherwise have added their amount to the heavy rains of fall and spring, when they are, of course, not nearly so valuable.

These reasons have given foundation for the statement made by those who have best considered the subject, that a country one-fourth or even one-third in woods, will grow more crops with less labour than one totally cleared.

I would suggest that it should be the endeavour of everyone to keep some portion of forest on his farm. To do this it will be found of very great assistance to exclude cattle. If necessary a portion of woods may be reserved for them, but not the portion it is intended should remain in permanent forest. To keep a piece of woods in good reproductive condition, it should retain its soft leaf surface over the ground and should have many young trees growing up in all directions, to replace the older in good time, and, in the meantime, to prevent the forest bed drying up and getting into grass, and to shade the trunks of the larger trees from sun and wind. Both of these objects cattle, if allowed entrance, will prevent; they will trample and harden the leaf bed and destroy the young trees. I would also recommend the planting of rows of evergreen trees along the exposed sides of farms—say the north and west. These have proved of very great service in protecting the fall wheat and clover in winter by diminishing the drifting of snow, and have also been of great assistance in giving shelter from wind both in winter and summer.

Evergreens are easily propogated if planted in the last week in May, or first week in June, and care taken to keep the roots and covered between digging and planting.

Yours, etc.,
R. W. PHIPPS.

One, Joseph Gobiel, a French-Canadian, is now a seaman on the barque Condor, due at Philadelphia. The other is J. P. Arnoldis, a seaman on a vessel gone to Bay Islands, Nfld. Captain Glen has been dismissed from his ship by her owners.

It was also resolved that a movement should be inaugurated toward erecting a permanent memorial to her Majesty in the United States, presenting the people of this country with a work of art equal to that recently presented by France.

FATAL TAR AND FEATHERING.

Eli Lalonde Dies of an Outrage Planned by His Wife

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 13.—Eli Lalonde the victim of the tar and feather outrage at Muirkirk, on Oct. 20th last, has died at the Lisgar house here, from the result of his ill-treatment. Previously afflicted with lung troubles, the inhuman manner in which he was kicked and beaten, and his exposure to the elements when stripped on the night of the outrage, brought on combination of diseases, including paralysis, which medical skill could not successfully fight and last avening the spirit of the 'Hermit of Woodpeckers' Point' passed into eternity, in the threshold of which it has hovered for the passed four or five days. Eli Lalonde was not a man who had many friends, and he appears to have been a disagreeable class of citizen. The victim's wife Hosannah Lalonde, his son Louis Lalonde, and Mark Mann, whose arrest and recognition by the dying man were telegraphed on Thursday will be indicated on a charge of manslaughter, and no effort will be spared to capture the other alleged members of the gang. Lalonde was 55 years of age, and was a French-Canadian. His executor, Rev. Father Williams, of Chatham, has been telegraphed for, Mr. C. Macdougall, Q. C. has been retained for the defence.

Detective Miller and Constable Miller have arrived in the city from Aldborough with B. Mitchell, the alleged ringleader of the gang, who it is claimed was the man who appeared at the door of Tisheau's house claiming to have a telegram for Lalonde, by which means he was induced to go outside. He has been lodged in gaol to await his trial with the other prisoners on Monday.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

The Men Resolve to Resume Work—An Attack on a Non-Striker.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—About 4.30 this afternoon a crowd of nearly 2,000 strikers gathered about the dwelling of the Armour's employee who was attacked yesterday while attempting to move his household goods to another neighborhood. The ire of the strikers against this man is owing to the fact that he is a Knight of Labor and refused to go out with the others. He again had his goods upon waggons this afternoon when set upon by the mob. Company E, of the First Regiment, arrived before much damage was done and charged the mob, which fell back. Company E then divided into detachments, which were stationed at street corners in the vicinity, a patrol waggon full of Pinkerten's men being left to protect the goods of the employe. Another crowd was quickly organized, and had nearoverpowered the Pinkerton guard, when company G, of the second Regiment, arrived on the double quick, and charging through the mob, arrested six men and put the others to rout. No casualties are reported.

At a meeting of the strikers last night a despatch was read by Mr. Barrie from Mr. Powderly ordering the strike off and the men to return to work. The sentiment of the meeting was equally divided, and further action on the matter was posponed until Monday.

A large mass meeting of Knights of Labor was held to night, when one thousand of the strikers dissented from Mr. Powderly's order, but after being spoken to by Messrs. Carlton and Barry, the meeting was carried by storm, and a unanimous vote was taken to obey the order and resume work to-morrow. The feature of the meeting was the assurance given by Mr. Barry that they would sooner or later secure the places they had quit.

THE BULGARIAN QUESTION.

The Disheartened Regents Resign—Pacific Speech from Count Kalnoky.

His speech was very pacific, and confirmed the declaration of Herr Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, that peace for the present was assured.

COUNT ANDRASSY'S REPLY.

Count Andrassy declared that it was the opinion of the House that no sensible men in Ausgary desired war. On the contrary they wished for peace as long as it could be maintained without prejudice to the national honor. The debate on Count Kalnoky's statement has been fixed for the 16th inst.

FEELING OF SECURITY.

Count Kalnoky's statement before the Delegations has made a favourable impression, confirming, as it does, the belief that the entente between England, Austria and Italy is approved by Germany. Count Andrassy is preparing a great speech for Tuesday next, when the debate on Count Kalnoky's statement will take place. It is expected he will endorse in the main the principles advocated in Count Kalnoky's address.

FREE TRADE OR PROTECTION.

WHEN Cobden was chiefly instrumental in persuading the British Parliament and people to adopt so-called free trade he did not anticipate that the freedom would remain all on one side. He prophecied confidently that the other nations would ere long concur in adopting the same policy.

How little foundation there was for this confidence on the part of the great apostle of free trade is well known. So far from agreeing to adopt free trade the protectionist countries have even increased the protection of their home industries. Instead of becoming converts to free trade they have made converts of others and have themselves become more wedded to a protective policy.

We have just had a striking instance of this tendency in the case of our neighbors. The elections that have lately taken place in the United States have resulted in a considerable loss to the Democrats and gain to the Republicans. This was in the face of the prestige and influence of the Democratic Government. Undoubtedly there were various causes contributing to this result, but apparently the main reason lay in fiscal considerations. The Republicans, as a party, are staunch supporters of protection to home industries; the Democrats, as a party, are much less confirmed in this, and among them are to be found almost all the free traders. It may fairly be concluded that the result of the elections was largely, if not chiefly, due to the popular feeling in favour of protection and to the resolve not to give the slightest countenance even to a leaning towards free trade. A strong proof that this was the case may be found in the fact that in the most notable instances of prominent men, who were defeated or narrowly escaped defeat with diminished support, were those who were outspoken free traders, or who had made themselves marked by their advocacy of interference with the tariff. The people of the United States would not tolerate any tampering with the policy under which their industries have made such astonishing strides.

Still more remarkable is the occurrence that has recently taken place in England as showing the great change of feeling in that regard that has taken place there. A resolution in favor of protection was brought before the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and was defeated by a majority of only one. What would Cobden have thought if he had lived to see, in one of the strongholds of his doctrine, opinion nearly equally divided regarding it. In place of the fulfilment of his prophecy that his free trade nostrum would soon find favor abroad, it is losing ground in its own home. If this is the case in Manchester, in its Chamber of Commerce, what a revolution may we not look for in other localities and in other classes not so strongly prejudiced formerly? But in truth it must be remembered that Manchester men were not really theoretical free traders after Cobden's own heart. They accepted his policy because it promised them cheap breadstuffs, cheap food, cheap labour, and one form of protection is that afforded by cheapening the means of production. As to the nominal free trade in manufactured goods, they were shrewd enough to see that they could safely assent to it as a mere blind and absolute nulity. With the aid of previous protection they had obtained such complete command of the markets that they had no external competition to fear then, and if Cobden succeeded in deluding foreign countries into adopting free trade this British monopoly might be prolonged. Now, however, that foreign nations have imitated Great Britain, not in its free trade, but in the previous protective system that had built up its industries, now that the competition thus created is keenly felt, British manufacturers and British workmen are turning their backs upon Cobden. This revulsion is spreading apace.

Yet there are some who would persuade Canada to take up these discarded dogmas. We have derived too much benefit from the National Policy, with its encouragement of Canadian industries for the advantage of the Canadian people, to forsake it at the bidding of visionary theorists who would have us throw the profits of manufacturing for us into the lap of foreigners.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELVES.

MR. M. C. CAMERON says:—

"Rely not on what I say, nor on what anybody else says, but rely on the blue books."

This simply means that the slanderer brazened out his falsehoods, hoping that few of his hearers would have access to the blue books. This need not be the case with anyone in Peterborough, for the blue books are in our office, and we place them at the disposal of anyone wishing to examine them, so as to judge for himself whether Messrs. Cameron and Blake made use of true extracts or forgeries.

GABRIEL DUMONT says he is losing property to the amount of $80,000 by being kept out of Canada. He explains this by stating that this is his claim on the land of the Northwest. Like Riel he rose in rebellion against Canada, not because of any infringement of their rights to a specified holding, but to assert their claim to share in the whole Territory assumed by them to belong to the Metis. The rebels murdered Canadians to keep them from settling the Northwest Territories.

A REVOLUTION BREWING.

Spanish Republicans Resolve to Invite Zorilla to Return to Spain.

MADRID, Nov. 13.—The Republican coalition deputies to-day resolved to authorize their leaders to declare in the coming session of the Certes, that the members of the coalition unanimously consider it necessary and legitimate to use force in order to insure the triumph of their ideas as long as the Government refuses to re-establish universal suffrage and pass laws protecting them in the exercise of their individual rights against the arbitrary acts of the authorities. It was also resolved to invite Senor Zorilla to return to Spain if the reforms mentioned are not granted. The Castellar party took no part in the meeting. Their organs blame those who were present for the attitude adopted. The Government is taking extra precautions in fear of an uprising. The police are watching all ports owing to rumours that Spanish revolutionists abroad are preparing to return to Spain and that Zorilla is promoting the rising. Depots for arms and the barracks and telegraph offices are strongly guarded. Colonel Simm and the troops in Valencia and Barcelona are suspected of disloyalty and are being closely watched. The Home Secretary, Civil Governor and General Pavia remained in consultation the whole of Thursday in consequence of the rumors.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

ALL LIBERALS.

The fact, that a majority of the Presbyterian Review editorial staff, as well as Rev. Mr. Milligan, are politically in accord with the liberal party, lends additional point to the controversy under the circumstances.—Newmarket Era (Reform.)

DISHONEST USE.

If there is one thing more than another we have felt called upon to condemn, and have done so unsparingly., it has been the dishonest use made of the Riel hanging by the Reform party.—Winnipeg Sun (Indep.)

AS FRIENDLY AS EVER.

Perhaps Mr. Blake has reprimanded Mr. Cameron in private for his dishonesty and advised him to be more careful in the future, but in public the two Liberals are as friendly as ever. They spoke on the same platform in Toronto, on Tuesday night, and although Mr. Cameron exonerated Mr. Blake from any share in the preparation of the extracts he did not explain why he garbled the reports himself.—Montreal Star (Indep).

THE INDIAN QUESTION.

We have no sympathy with those who would consent to allow the Indian to live in idleness and to be fed and clothed solely by the labor of the white men. The Indian must be put in a way to do something for himself, and if he proves incorrigible the Government must decide how far it will interfere to compel him to provide by his own industry against absolute want.—London Advertiser (Reform.)

BLAKE AND THE INDIANS.

The local Grit wirepullers, prior to the meeting of the Hon. Edward Blight—beg pardon, Blake, boasted loudly that the Six Nation Indians would come up en masse from the reservation, to welcome him. They worked might and main and in many insidious ways to this purpose. What was the result? By actual and twice verified count, there were only seven Indians in the whole audience.—Brantford Courier.

CONTRADICTORY.

Hon. Alexander Mackenzie is one of the four members of Parliament who are connected with colonization companies which have grants from the Government. Mr. Mackenzie is an honest man, but Mr. Blake also says that members of Parliament who are concerned with colonization companies are boodlers. It therefore appears that Mr. Mackenzie is an honest boodler.—London Free Press.

MR. MOWAT'S LAW.

In the appeal case of the Provincial Secretary vs Massey Manufacturing Co., the Court of Appeals has decided that the Attorney-General was wrong in his notion about the discretion of the Provincial Secretary, and has ordered a mandamus to issue compelling him to insert a notice in the Ontario Gazette respecting a by-law increasing the capital stock of the company. There are some things that even a Minister of the Crown can't do against private individuals.—Newmarket Era (Ref.).

ALL THERE IS OF IT.

The Buffalo Express has been studying Canadian politics. It has discovered that the government had given the country protection of its industries, has increased the wealth of the country, has prosecuted a large and well designed system of internal improvements in the interest and aid of the development of commerce, has completed a great railway from ocean to ocean. Turning to the opposite side the Express finds that it "opposes these claims and charges corruption." That is all the policy of the Grit party. And, by-the-way, that is all that there is of it.—Hamilton Spectator.

DRAGGING IN.

Had the Grit organ left the Frenchmen to fight out the Riel question among themselves instead of dragging it into Ontario by declaring that Riel was insane and that Sir John Macdonald should be turned out of office for hanging him, it would have been infinitely better for the Reform cause. The best weapon Sir John Macdonald has with which to beat off the attacks of Mr. Blake is that which has been put in his hand by the Globe.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

MUST FEEL MEAN.

The Globe reporters kept up a kind of spy system upon Sir John from the instant he arrived in the city till he left, breakfasting with him, as it were, and putting him to bed at night. Every movement of the Premier was chronicled with an insinuating and circumstantial deliberation that lent a kind of sinister intention to every bite of beefsteak. Political animus bulged out in every paragraph of the narrative, and even the political opponents of Sir John must have felt a little mean while they read.—Ottawa Journal (Ind.)

PLAYING SEESAW.

The Toronto Globe still keeps up its attacks upon the Dominion government for the hanging of Louis Riel—for giving the Orangemen "the blood of an insane political prisoner." What it expects to gain for its party by such a course is not readily apparent. Riel was justly hanged and had the order for his execution not been given the fiercest attack on the government would have come from the Reform organ, which all through has been playing seesaw in this matter.—Winnipeg Sun (Indep.)

MR. MOWAT'S EXTRAVAGANCE.

A few days ago the Spectator pointed out the enormous increase in the expenditures of the Ontario Government. The ordinary expenditure in 1870 was $1,074,808; in 1885 it rose to $2,501,723—an increase of 132 per cent. To put the matter more plainly before our readers a calculation has been made of the expenditure per head of the population in the two years. In making that calculation, the population of 1870 was calculated at 1,596,834; that of 1885 at 2,055,018—

	1870.		1885.

Increase in population, 28 per cent.
Increase in expenditure, 132 per cent.
Increase in expenditure per head, 80 per cent.

The area of the province has not increased. No new duties or responsibilities have fallen upon the government; and while we have no disposition to demand parsimony from the Mowat government, we affirm that such extravagance is uncalled for, especially at a time when the government is compelled to borrow money for current needs, and to impose new taxes upon the people. It will be seen, too, that while the outlay on account of education was increased only 72 per cent, that for colonization roads was increased 142 per cent. But then the education expenditure cannot well be used as a bribery fund, while that for colonization roads can be and is so used. It will be noticed, too, that while the Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald needed only $5,443 for "miscellaneous," Mr. Mowat spends nearly twenty times as much under that head.

The Mowat Government is shamefully extravagant.—Hamilton Spectator.

LIBEL ON THE G. O. M.

Mr. Gladstone Accused of Being Insane —A Vigorous Denial.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Mr. Gladstone has written to the press with reference to the false statements published concerning him in the Yorkshire Post, a Conservative journal. The chief point in the libel was to the effect stater' that when Mr. Goschen visited Mr. Gladstone he found him running round a room in a frenzy, shouting:—"Power! ower! Power!" Mr. Gladstone says:—I will leave the article to speak for itself. It is less ill-natured than some others which have appeared in the lower class of society journals, which I pass unnoticed." Mr. Goschen wrote totally denying the statement attributed to him, and insisting that the Post withdraw it. The Post admitted that its statements were whole false.

Women's Right to Vote.

PICTON, Ont., Nov. 13.—At the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Prince Edward county, yesterday, special reference was made to the pledge against profanity or bad words, the wine used at the Lord's Supper and cider. The cider question evoked a prolonged discussion. Many speakers deeply deplored the injury being done in the country through the use of fermented cider, and many spoke in strong terms against the use of cider in any form. A resolution was adopted to the effect that a petition be circulated through the country requesting the Ontario Legislature to allow unmarried women over eighteen to vote for the Ontario members.

The grand jury at the Toronto Criminal Assizes brought in "No Bill" in the case in which Quartermaster Swanson, Patrick Burns and George McInerney were charged with conspiracy to defraud the Dominion Government out of $1,000.

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

CHAPTER XXVII.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.

It was a bright day, but the wind very keen, and the country white-looking for it, though there was no frost. From side to side Cuthbert's eyes roamed as the coach rattled him up the High street, but no familiar face did he encounter. Yes! one there was—an old boatman, who stood sucking a pipe at the door of an ale house. Always, when Cuthbert went fishing, this was the man who had rowed him out to sea. He was past in a moment, and out of the High street rolled the coach on to the level country road. And now, by changing his seat, might Cuthbert have caught a glimpse, on his right hand, of the roof and chimney pots of Greystone school. But he did not change his seat, nor turn his head, nor give his father a thought. That his father was well was news to satisfy into silence the faint filial instinct that stirred in him. Why, it was his own foolish silence and the trick of a secret marriage that had brought the shame of scandal upon his wife; but, pricked by memory of the cold restraint that had kept him a boy when he was a man, he would have been an angel not to refer all his own and Jenny's sorrow to his father.

With his arms folded tightly over his breast, and all his heart given to violent strife with dismaying emotion, and the terror of great love, wrought by expectation and hope to the extreme point where other passions begin, Cuthbert was carried at a sharp trot along the hard road, and over the ruts which the cold had congealed into iron: past the brown land of fields and leafless hedgerows, where balls of birds perched without flutter: and the steam from the horse's nostrils drove out from either side the coach like throbs of an escape pipe under the hammering of a cylinder.

At last came up a gray stone front, with green ivy flourishing upon it, and the wheels rang out a multiplied echo.

Cuthbert called to the man to stop.

"This is Winston?"

"Ay, sir."

"I'll get out here."

He alighted with his traveling bag, and put money into the driver's hand, which set the fellow groping for change, until he found the passenger walking away.

A man was standing at the door of the Greyhound Inn. He touched his cap to Cuthbert, thinking him a customer for Sally, for this was Mr. Walker.

"Will you please direct me to Mrs. Strangfield's house?" said Cuthbert.

"You can see him from here, sir. Come wheer I stand. There's him with the top window built out. I reckon the old lady's seein' company to-day," exclaimed Mr. Walker.

"Who is there?" inquired Cuthbert, quickly.

"Well, the litt'e schoolmaster from Greystone's there, and then there's yerself, master. One an' one maketh two, that's company for Winston. An' if it warn't for my garden stool the[illegible] record!—"

"Is Mrs. Shaw there?"

"Ay, day an' night," answered Mr Walker, taking a close look at the speaker at this.

Cuthbert noticed the glance, and went forward.

The house stood back from the lane, with a space of twenty feet or so of garden before it. A big and pretty country cottage, with the old equipment of porch and eaves, and bay windows trenching upon the oval plot of grass.

When he was at the gate of it the hammering of his heart confused his head, and for some moments he stood unable to advance, hidden by the railing and impenetrable tangle of evergreen within.

Courage came to him then, and with a swing of the body he passed through the gate and struck the door.

It was opened by Mrs. Strangfield herself. He knew her instantly, and she him. But wonderful it was to behold in her face the stupefaction of surprise, yielding to incredulity and fear, then to prodigious doubt, then to a light of wild rapture.

In a breathless voice: "Cuthbert Shaw! O, Jenny! O, my darling! It is well with thee at last!" and her hands fell upon his arm, and she drew him in.

"Where is she?" he exclaimed, lowering his voice to a whisper. "Break the news to her gently. She thinks me dead, I hear. Is that room empty? Hush! I think I hear her."

He drew a fierce, short breath, and on tiptoe stole into a room on the left of the hall, beckoning to Mrs. Strangfield to follow him.

The poor woman closed the door, and with her back against it stared at him as though the ideas his presence gave her were not to be mastered.

"Is she well—quite well?" he asked.

"Oh, yes, Mr. Shaw, she is well. Dear heart; how wonderful to see thee! Ay, is she well! But, pretty dear one, God knows she has suffered for thee! Truly she thinks you dead! Were you not in a ship that was sunk? Alack! but a minute ago you were drowned, and now you are here! Oh, my head! my head! Why, who is Jenny with now, but thy very own father! Often doth he come to see his daughter—for that she is now to him, and so he terms her, and truly loves her. Oh, Mr. Shaw, what will she say to hear of you—to see you."

Her excitement was past weeping. She was distracted by the sight of him, and could not yet believe her senses.

"Mrs. Strangfield, pray go to her at once, and tell her I am here. Go, I beseech you. I cannot endure delay."

And saying this he went to the door, from which she drew away, and held it open, and she passed out.

Now, in the adjacent room, toasting his feet at the fire, and his frill showing frotily upon his breast, in contrast with the ruby light from the grate, sat Dr. Shaw, snuffbox in hand, cozily nursing his figure in a good arm chair. Facing him sat Jenny, in deep mourning, her pale loveliness taking from dejection and the somberness of her apparel a fine and unapproachable delicacy.

Her hands were upon her lap, and her head drooping, and in that pose she listened to Dr. Shaw, who was explaining to her the offer he had that morning received for the transfer of his school.

It was easy to see from the manner in which he addressed her, and the expression in the eyes that he bent on her, that she had made her way to his heart, and was, indeed, to his soul what he named her with his lips—daughter.

Otherwise it was not in nature that it should have been. He was a lonely old man now, for whom his calling held no more relish; quite friendless in Greystone, with an ever-present ache in his heart which his proud face might dissemble, but which ruled his conduct.

This had brought him to the tender girl whose honor he had once rudely doubted; and she, for the love she bore his son, had given him her love, and he had no happiness away from her.

Thus they sat, and he was telling her that he should accept the offer made him, when Mrs. Strangfield came in.

Jenny turned in her chair to look at her.

"Mother!" she cried, jumping up, "what is it?—who has come? Is it bad news? You are ill."

"Oh, Jenny! Oh, Dr. Shaw! be seated, dear heart!" exclaimed the poor woman, involuntarily wringing her hands in her desperation; for the news she had to deliver was like a load heaped upon her back, above her power to support, and she reeled and trembled under it. "Something most wonderful—oh, how shall I tell it you!—something God hath done to make us merry! Oh, my darling, come to me!"

She held out her hands; but Jenny, leaning on the back of her chair, stood motionlessly surveying her, and the blood came and went in her face like the shadow of clouds on moonlit land.

"Mother," she said, in a deep whisper, "speak! What hath God done for us?"

The doctor had left his arm chair, and was peering with a pale face at Mrs. Strangfield.

"Is it—is it Cuthbert?" he said.

"Ay, as the Lord is just, he is here! Jenny, he is here!" the mother shrieked.

The girl stared at her mother with eyes that looked beyond her. She moved, but fell back again with her hand upon the chair, and turned her eyes upon the doctor, and then gave a wild, hysterical cry.

"She hath a brave heart, and will meet him bravely!" wailed poor Mrs. Strangfield; and opening the door, she cried, "Mr. Shaw, come to your wife—she is waiting for thee."

Cuthbert crossed the hall, and stood at the open door. Eyes for his wife only had he. Their glances met, and with the gladdest, maddest cry that ever rung from a woman's lips, she fled to him.

Dr. Shaw fell, with his face in his hands upon the table, and wept.

Of all violent shocks, sudden joy is the hardest to bear. Great grief, dreadful calamity, oppression tragical and crushing mercifully will make stone of the heart it falls upon; but joy finds the heart living, and sore and tender, and its blow may well kill.

The wonder of love was in Jenny's actions: the quick cries, the passionate clinging, the sudden release, the mad and laughing closing again, the crazy frown of bewilderment, the glorious illumination of conviction—these were here.

Piteously sobbed Mrs. Strangfield behind, with restless strides, making little pluckings at her daughter, as if to stay the excess of this distemper of bliss, until a kind of silence fell, and the wife, with heavenly consciousness upon her, lay in her husband's arms—peaceful and beautiful and smiling.

"Cuthbert," cried Dr. Shaw, suddenly lifting his face from his hands, "is it not my turn?"

"Kiss him, my darling one—kiss him," Jenny said, and stood firm to ease his support of her. "He loves me as thy wife, and—oh, mother! how good is Almighty God!"

Father and son met in close embrace; but there was sadness in the sight of the old man's trembling, the passionate play of feature which the pride of Satan could not have restrained under the inexorable dictation of natural emotion; and when their arms fell to their sides, the doctor turned to a chair, and dropped upon his knees before it and said:

"Master, as Thou didst teach, so now I say, giving thanks: For that my son is ever with me, and all that I have is his. It is meet that we should make merry and be glad; for my son was dead and is alive again; and was lost, and is found."

And so saying he arose, and there was tranquility and joy in his face.

Such a meeting as this makes amends; and the story of sufferings endured and hopes delayed, and the fears and bitter convictions arising, shall be told with kisses and smiles and sighs.

Cuthbert shall relate how by shipwreck he made his fortune, and [illegible] wearing eyes.

The doctor shall tell his story. The mother hers.

And, over and over again, the wife her story, claiming for her one old friend, the ancient gossip Mead, the affection and the gratitude of her husband, and a more shining tribute of his respect withal—as who needs to be told?—while the darkness of the November afternoon gathers around, and shadows swarm in the fire play, and the spell of winter holds the world pale and still outside.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

Special Sermons.

Special sermons to young men were preached on Sunday by the Rev. I. Tovell, the Rev. E. F. Torrance, and the Rev. F. H. Wallace. Next Sunday the Rev. A. Bell and the Rev. J. W. Wilson will preach similar sermons.

Hall's Factory.

Mr. G.W.Hall's buscuit and confectionery works are closed down for a few days owing to the putting in of a new boiler to supply motive power. It is ten feet long, nearly three feet in diameter and has fifteen horse-power. Mr. H. Sherwood is doing the brick work.

Our Bridge Works.

Mr. Law shipped this afternoon another of his wrought iron high truss bridges to Brussels, Ontario. It consists of one span 98 feet long, and has an 18 foot roadway and 5 foot sidewalk. It is a very heavily constructed bridge, its carrying capacity being 100 pounds per foot. It will be placed across the river Maitland.

Our Boys.

On Saturday night the Tavernier Company played the sparkling comedy, "Our Boys," to a crowded house. The briallancy of the wit, cleverness of repartee, and the drollery of the situations brought applause and laughter from every part of the house. The parts were all well taken especially that of Talbut Champneys. To-night the Colleen Bawn will be presented.

Back From the Rockies.

A number of young men from Peterborough, Messrs. W. Rehill, W. Huffman, R. Sherlock and others, arrived home this morning from Rogers' Pass, British Columbia, where they had been working for the past six months building snow sheds, etc., on the Rocky Mountain section of the Canadian Pacific Railway. They were all n good health and spirts. They report about six inches of snow on the level through the mountains, but there was very little snow on the prairies. The work is nearly finished for the season and only a few men remained behind to complete the balance. A Mr. Earle, who was injured in the accident in the mountains, is still very low.

Special Meetings.

A union meeting in connection with the Y.M.C.A. was held in the Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon. The work at home and abroad was presented by Messrs. Geo. M. Roger, H. S. Griffin and Geo. E. Williams. The marvellous growth of the Association work was dwelt upon, and a collection was taken for the benefit of the International Committee. The Rev. Prof. McGregor addressed the evening meeting. The meetings for men only every night this week (except Wednesday) promise to be very interesting, and we hope will be largely attended. Mr. H. S. Griffin, who is a very able leader, will take charge every night. The Rev. A. Bell will address the meeting to-night.

A Poet's Present.

One evening last week Mr. Wm. Telford, of Smith, the well-known writer of verse and Bard of the St. Andrew's Society, was pleasantly surprised by having a fine writing desk left at his door. The present was made by Mr. D. Belleghem, who appreciates Mr. Telford's poetical efforts.

Nipped.

This forenoon while Mr. D. Kennedy, who has charge of the Grand Trunk Railway's yard here, was coupling cars he had two of the fingers on the right hand bruised, but fortunately not seriously so. Mr. Kennedy had the same two fingers jammed some time ago while he was braking at Buffalo.

Personal.

Rev. Prof. McGregor, of McMaster Hall, Toronto, preached two excellant discourses in the Murray St. Baptist Church on Sunday.

The Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association would like to answer "A. B.'s" letter, but cannot until some further address is given, as the post office will not deliver letters addressed to initials only.

A Scottish Concert.

Mr. D. B. McDuff, violinist, of this town, is now making arrangements for the grand evening concert to be held under the auspices of the St. Andrew's Society on St. Andrew's night. Miss Maggie Barr, the celebrated Scottish vocalist, has been engaged, and Mr. McDuff will also take part in the concert. The bills, which will be issued to-morrow, will give full particulars.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

Solid Comfort.

How few there are who thoroughly understand the meaning of the above in its true sense, and yet who fancy that they are really comfortable in every respect. Position, wealth and honor will not make a sensitive man thoroughly comfortable although they are three very essential things to have so that one may enjoy life. A man who is accustomed to wearing an ill-fitting suit of clothes is never comfortable in the true sense of the word. He is ever thinking of that wrinkle in the back of his coat, or some such thing, and consequently is not the happy and contended man he otherwise would be had he left his measure with A. McNEIL, Habiliment Hall. Everybody is made comfortable by wearing his clothes.

CARDINAL Collars and Cuffs at the Golden Lion R. FAIR.

Salvation Army Jubilee.

The three days farewell jubilee to Staff Captain Eadie and Special Captain Philpot, held under the auspices of the Salvation Army, commenced on Saturday. In the evening there was a parade headed by the Lindsay salvation brass band, consisting of eight pieces. The Aylmer street barracks were crowded after the parade was over. On Sunday four meetings were held, knee drill at 7.30 a. m; and general meetings at 11 a. m; 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. In the evening addresses was delivered by Staff Capt. Eadie, Special Capt. Philpot, Capt. Pople and his Cadet and a Lindsay bandman. During the day six converts were made, two in the afternoon and four at night. To-night another meeting will be held at the barracks when soldiers from Lakefield, Lindsay, Omemee, Port Hope, Millbrook and members of the local corps will take part.

A Compliment.

Under the heading "A Gift from Canadian Masons" the Rochester morning Herald says:—The Masonic fraternity in this city will remember with pleasure the visit, a few months ago, of some of the members of Corinthian chapter, R. A. of Peterborough, Ont. The visitors were greatly pleased with their trip, and have given expression to their feelings in substantial form in the shape of the photographs of seven members taken in a group, which was received here yesterday. The gift is a handsomely framed in gilt and plush, and was sent to Hamilton chapter as an acknowledgement of courtesies shown. The names of the donors are A. St. A. Smith, G. W. Hall, John Hunter, James Alexander, Benjamin Shortly, David Spence and Daniel Belleghem, and they are all fine specimens of Canadian gentlemen. The testimonial will be presented to Hamilton chapter at its next meeting by the secretary John Alexander, in whose care it was sent.

Prize Drawing.

The Tavernier Dramatic Company, when opening their engagement on Monday night last here, announced that on Saturday a $5 gold piece would be given to the pupil of the public schools who composed during the week the most words out of the letters contained in "Ida Van Cortland"; that a valuable silver pitcher would be given to the person holding the right number on his coupon ticket, and that a handsome wax doll would be given away at the family matinee held on Saturday afternoon. All of these prizes were given away as was announced. At the matinee held on Saturday afternoon the medal and the doll were awarded. May Stephenson drew the doll and Maud Perry won the medal by composing 236 dictionary words out of the fourteen letters given. Mary Menzies came next in the competition. Her list contained 293 words. In the evening after the performance was over the drawing for the silver pitcher took place. Mrs. M. Dunsford drew it. All of the presents given were handsome.

The George Street Church.

The George street Methodist Church was re-opened on Sunday, the repairs and remodelling having been completed. The congregations were large, especially in the evening, when the whole auditorium and galleries were filled. The first service of the day was commenced with the singing of the doxology, after which the pastor offered up an invocation prayer. In making the usual announcements the Rev. Mr. Tovell made a few appropriate remarks as to the improvements which had been effected during the past few weeks, the completion of which had given them a very comfortable and commodious place of worship. He also announced that on next Sunday a special collection would be taken up to defray the expenses incurred through the remodelling of the auditorium. He would like to have $1,000 placed on the plates. The music rendered was of an appropriate kind, and both hymns and anthems were very beautifully sung by the choir. The latter, under Mr. Jaques training, is showing marked improvement.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER,

Attack on a Miserly Old Couple—The Woman Strangled to Death.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13.—A very mysterious murder is occupying the minds of Cleveland people to-day. Benjamin Wheller and his wife Jane, the former eighty years and the latter eighty-five, lived on Eagle street, near the centre of the city. He was originally a blacksmith. Being very economical, he managed to save a little, and in a few years married a widow, named Mrs. Fudge, who had about $5,000. A certain patent bucket appearing about this time took the blacksmith's fancy, and dealing in it he realized largely. Several successful deals in real estate augmented his fortune, and in the panic of 1873 both he and his wife made large amounts. Their combind fortunes are by many estimated at $200,000. The life of the couple was as peculiar as the individuals themselves. Though living under the same roof, the Wheilers were as separate in the majority of matters as different families occupying a double house. Mrs. Wheller conducted her own business affairs, and Wheller knew nothing of them beyond what she chose to tell him at nightly chats before the kitchen fire, when they ate their supper and drank their beer. He was equally silent about his own money affairs, and always addressed his wife as "Mrs. Wheller" instead of "Jane." If Jane did anything to gratify Wheller, or made any improvement in his clothing, she charged him money for it and he paid it. Did Wheller have anything among his possessions that his wife wanted she had to pay for it, although it may have been a trinket of scarcely any value. Many stories are afloat about the neighborhood concerning the business deals the Wheilers had with each other. Although rich, both dressed in the poorest style, and the old man wears a coat that a rag-picker would hesitate to bargain for. On Friday night about nine o'clock, according to Wheller's story, the old couple were sitting in the office of their residence as usual reading the newspaper, when the door was thrown open and Patrick Graves came in. Graves struck Wheller with some heavy instrument, felling the old man to the floor. Wheller says that after this he was muffled and his hands were tied, and then he remembers little that occurred after except that he managed to crawl along the floor to the front room to his bed. He looked around before going into the front room and saw his wife at the office door struggling with Graves. The old man finally reached and got into his bed, where he lay for an unknown time, and by repeated efforts finally succeed in freeing his hands from the cords that bound them. He then gave the alarm. After the old man left the room it is presumed that Mrs. Wheller was attacked by Graves, and despite her struggles was strangled and laid on the floor. After this the murderer escaped. Such is the story told by Wheller. Suspicion was directed to him and he was arrested along with Graves, who claims he can prove an alibi. The house was ransacked and a claim is put forward that robbery was the motive of the murderer, whoever he was.

A Mite Meeting.

A mite meeting will be held at Mrs. McDonnell's house corner of George and London streets, on Wednesday, 17th inst., at 8 p m. Object, the organ fund of St. John's Church.

The Irish Visitors.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—Mr. Justin McCarthy will be the guest of the Hon. Edward Blake, and Mr. Michael Davitt of Mr. George Kiely.

A Schooner Founders.

PARRSBORO, N.S., Nov. 13.—The schooner M. and L. Whise, with a cargo of coal, from Parrsboro for Windsor sprung a leak and foundered. The crew escaped in boats. There was just time enough to get up and out.

Wheat Spoiled by Smoke.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 13.—Some carloads of wheat have arrived here from the Western part of the province, which, on inspection, has been found to be worthless from a peculiar cause. The grain was so saturated with smoke blown into fields of standing grain from prairie fires as to give it an acrid taste and render it utterly useless.

Forgers Convicted.

COBOURG, Nov. 13.—At the assizes held here to-day the prisoners Brown, Cummings and Christensen, who were arrested here some time ago for counterfeiting $20 bills on the Mohawk Valley Bank and a number of Canadian bills were found guilty, and were sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for terms ranging from two to three years.

Schooner Seized for Smuggling

HALIFAX, Nov. 13.—The schooner Margaret was seized to-day at this port for smuggling gin. This vessel was seized two years ago, confiscated and subsequently bought in by her owner.

ANNAPOLIS, N. S., Nov. 13.—The schooner Annie Brown seized here for smuggling, had just arrived from Boston. This is the fourth vessel seized this week in Nova Scotia.

The Grand Trunk Railway.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—A meeting of the heads of departments of the Grank Trunk railway was held yesterday in the Queen's Hotel. It is understood that the re-erection of the Stratford shops, the building of the Sault branch and the construction of the Sarnia tunnel were decided upon, in order to inaugmate a vigorous policy for competition with the Canadian Pacific Railway. The line officials are still in the city.

Competition Threatened.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 13.—The coke operators assert that they cannot grant the demands of the miners without raising the price of coke. If they raise the price of coke the price of iron must be increased, as the iron manufacturers are at present selling their product at the lowest possible margin. If the price of iron is advanced, America will at once be stocked with iron from Europe. If foreign manufacturers can only realize twenty-five cents per ton profit they are ready to do business with America.

Manitoba Elections.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 12.—The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council has approved of a recommendation of the President of the Council, the Hon. Mr. Norquay, advising the issue of a proclamation dissolving the present House of Assembly. The new House is to be called pro forma for December 16th. The nomination of candidates in all the electoral divisions of the province will be held on Thursday, December 2nd, and the polling in constituencies where there are contests will take place on Thursday, Dec 9th. The writs of election will bear date. Nov. 12th, and will be returnable on Dec 14th.

Wealthy Gypsies.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The steamship Bolderinero arrived to-day from Havana with a band of gypsies. Orders were given not to land them until they were investigated. The band consisted of Pietro Markowitz, a native of Bosnia, the chief of the tribe, his wife, a son and his wife and baby, and five children of Markowitz. The band had a donkey and three bears. It was found that Markowitz had with him in bags $13,000 in Spanish gold. They could not, therefore, be called paupers, and were allowed to land. They camped on the dock. The children were half-starved, but Markowitz refused to buy food. They were fed by kind people. Finally the whole band was taken to a police station.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

Imitations and counterfeits have again appeared. Be sure that the word "Horsford's" is on the wrapper. None are genuine without it.

THE OTONABEE.

BY THOMAS BOYLE.

Sailing up the Otonabee, that solemn, placid stream,
Her impressive, silent course suggests a poetic dream;
This beautiful, winding river is interesting to behold
When her banks are lined with flowers in tints of green and gold;
When nature is in bloom, along her shores are scenes so charming—
Green pastures with their flocks, and men busy with their farming;
Her banks are lined with trees and plants for miles along her course,
And her scenery is most charming from Rice Lake to her source.

The travellers who visit her are inclined to linger there;
They find the vale of this quiet river so interestingly fair;
In their musings they dwell on scenes they travelled far to see,
But none pleases them much more than this quiet Otonabee;
Tall trees of great variety fringe every bank and glade,
Throwing their reflections on the water in long vistas of shade,
Which would arouse the mind's reflections and cause us to think
Of Indian hunters watching wild deer, when stealing down to drink.

Or the Indian in his birch canoe paddling leisurely along,
Listening to the forest birds warbling their morning song;
Her scenery is so pristine, it reminds us of the past,
And makes us feel as if old times had not moved away so fast.
But the scene it quickly changes as you near that lovely town
Of Peterborough on her pretty banks where the waters tumble down.
There everything is bright and clear—prosperity on every side—
Things could not be more flourishing in all the world wide.

Harwood, Ont.

DISHONEST CREDULITY.

Mr. Blake appear to have been altogether too credulous, unwisely accepting the extracts prepared for him as authentic without investigation If this is the way it happened it was a serious mistake, unbecoming a great lawyer who aspires to the position of premier, but still it was not dishonorable and Mr. Blake will be readily pardoned when it is remembered that he is a very busy man. However, an explanation is due to the public. Either Mr. Blake made these alterations himself or some one else made them for him. If he has been deceived and will say so, the public can make allowances, but hd should make known the name of the man who imposed upon him. It will, of conrse, be unpleasant to have to admit that he got these quotations at second hand and used them without investigation, but better that than to have it supposed that he was so dishonorable as to make them himself for the purpose of misrepresenting his opponents.—Montreal Star (Indp.).

THE RFUGE STORMED.

Mr. Blake gives up the Cameron forgeries and grablings. They are too bad for defence They have done their work, however. They have been circulated by the Grits in a campaign document; they have been printed in the debates of the House of Commons; they have appeared in the columns of Grit journals; they have been printed by the Grits in fly-sheets sent all over the country; and they have been read by Mr. Blake and other Grits from a hundred platforms. The Spectator and Conservative papers pointed out their falsity months ago; but the Grits calmly went on repeating the forged stuff as though its antheuticity were unimpeachable. Only a few days ago Mr. Blake went over the old story as if he knew that every quotation was a genuine extract fairly made. Well, at last the refuge of lies has been stormed. The thing was too barefaced. Mr. Blake coolly says, in effect: "Well, I don't know anything about it I suppose the things are lies, but that does not concern me. Mr. Cameron must defend his quotations."—Hamilton Spectator

MORE PROTECTION WANTED.

Cigar Makers and Cutlers Wait Upon Dominion Ministers.

Hon. Messrs. Mackenzie Bowell and McLelan arrived in the city on Saturday afternoon from Ottawa and immediately proceeded to the Customs House where, according to arrangement, they were to meet a deputation of cigar manufacturers, cigar makers and cutlery men who desired to have a change made in the tariff. The cigar manufacturers were represented by Messrs. Davis, Fortier, Tasse, Woods and others. It appears that under the Canadian system, the cigar manufacturers pay $6 per thousand on all cigars manufactured from foreign leaf and on foreign cigars there is a custom duty of $1.20 per lb. and 20 per cent. ad valorem.

Under the system in the United States, the cigar manufacturers pay $3 per thousand on all cigars manufactured from foreign leaf, and on foreign cigars there is a Customs duty of $2 50 per lb. and 25 per cent. ad valorem, and in addition to this the inland revenue tax of $3 per thousand is imposed.

The cigar manufacturers stated to the Ministers that they are all desirous of having the present system here changed to that in vogue in the United States. Mr. S. Davis was seen by a Star reporter this morning, with reference to this, and he stated: "We ask to be placed on the same footing with American manufacturers. We are now taxed by the Inland Revenue for the privilege of manufacturing, and as the National Policy was inaugurated to protect home industry, we claim it should be applied in such a manner as to do so effectively. Our position, it appears to me, leaves no room for argument. The system in vogue in the United States has worked satisfactorily there for the past fifteen years to all concerned. I claim further that there should be no question about it for the reason that we have no advantages that the American manufacturers do not possess, and we have some disadvantages that they have not at all. Much of the material used in cigars is of American growth, and if the Government wishes to assist the cigar manufacturers of this country, I cannot see what objection there can be to place us on the same footing as the American manufacturers."

A second deputation waited upon the Ministers later in the afternoon, composed of Messrs. George Clarke, A. Gravel and W. T. Costigan, representing the Knights of Labor on behalf of the cutler, employed by the Kennedy Cutlery Company. St. Henri, and asked that the industry be further protected by increased duty, as at present the manufacturers are unable to compete with the United States and Europe.

In both cases the Ministers promised to take the matter into consideration and lay it before the Cabinet.

A third deputation, composed of three delegates of the cigarmakers union, Messrs. Hart, Pepin and Silverstone, met the Hon. Mr. Bowell this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the St. Lawrence Hall, for the purpose of obtaining an increase of duty on foreign imported cigars. The deputation were introduced by Mr. J. J. Curran, M.P.P. They represented that the best workmen went to the United States on account of the more favorable tariff. The Minister asked "Why do some men from the United States come into Canada for less money?" The answer was, "Some of them are of a wandering disposition and do not care to remain in settled positions. There are nearly 1,500 working cigar makers in Montreal. The cigar makers are paid by the 1,000 at equal prices."

The hon. gentleman asked if skilled workmen who could make the higher brands of cigars were paid more than the others. The representatives said no, they were all paid alike. The average number of cigars made per day by skilled workmen would be about 250, for which they were paid $8 per 1,000. After hearing other statements the Minister of Finance stated he had carefully noted the representations made, and would submit them to his colleagues for full consideration.—Montreal Star.

Strikers Return To Work.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—At an early hour this morning the late striking employees of the packing houses applied for employment. The crowd was orderly and perfectly quiet. The foremen of the different houses selected such men as they required at once, and the remainder departed, evidently satisfied that they would be taken back as soon as the houses were in full running shape again. The number of old men re-employed this morning is between 1,200 and 1,500. No difficulty between the old and new employees is anticipated.

JUSTIN McCARTHY

THE PLAN OF ACTION

What the Allied Powers Will do in the Event of Russia Occupying Bulgaria.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—It is stated that the Government, in concert with Austria, Italy and Turkey, will resist the candidature of the Prince of Mingredia or any other Russian for the Bulgarian throne. Sir Arthur Paget, the British ambassador at Vienna, and Count Kalnoky, in a conference at Vienna, exchanged an agreement that if Russia should occupy Bulgaria or seize her ports, Austria will sand two corps to join the Servian troops, and they will advance into Bulgaria, while England will send her fleets stimultaneously to enter the Black Sea and guard the Danube, and prevent the passage of Russian troops. Turkey at the same time is to concentrate her troops on the Roumelian frontier. It is hoped the projects of the allied powers, being known in Russia, will modify the Czar's plans.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—The Herald has the following cable despatch from London: "As long as Russia declines to recognize the action of the Bulgarian National Assembly as legal neither Prince Waldemar nor any other Prince of like political relations will accept the Bulgarian crown. It is reported that M. de Giers favors the candidacy of Prince Nicholas, of Mingrelia; Prince Bismark thinks the Georgian Prince would be as well as any other, but at Vienna, and especially at Pesth, the name find a cold welcome. The Prince is a careless, good natured, insignificant man of the world, who has long outrun the constable and is ready for any chance to restore his shattered finances. He is a captain in the Russian Gaurds, and, if elected, would be a mere puppet to do the Czar's bidding at Sofia. Another candidate is Prince Blazo Petrovich, of Montenegro, brother of the Montenegrin Senator, and a cousin of the reigning Prince. He is thirty years of age and quite popular in the Black Mountains. Personally he is worthy of the crown, more so than the Mingrelin Prince, but Vienna would never consent to see a Montenegrin on the Bulgarian throne. The Social Democratic Federation has issued an address condemning the actions of the authorities on Lord Mayor's day, and calling another meeting on Trafalgar Square for next Sunday when the unemployed workmenn are to assemble and protest against the neglect of their claims by the Government.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Daily News draws the inference from Count Kalnoky's speech that the Austrian Premier has been assured that Russia will not occupy Bulgaria. The European Sunday press, particularly that of Berlin and Vienna, express a favorable impression from Count Kalnoky's speech, and are unanimous in the belief that it indicates peace.

PHILIPPOPOLIS, Nov. 15.—The examination of a number of persons accused of conspiracy has revealed the fact that an extensive revolutionary scheme, which was fostered by the Russian Consulate, has been nipped in the bud by the discovery of the plot.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 15.—It is stated on authority that Prince Waldemar is personally willing to accept the throne of Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Nov. 15.—Captain Nabokoff has been delivered to the Russian Consul at Bourgas.

A SERIOUS MISTAKE.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 15.—In semi-official circles here, Count Kalnoky's speech has made a bad impression. Russian diplomatic circles consider that Count Kalnoky had no right to refer to what Austria had done in view of the Russian occupation of Bulgaria, seeing that the Russian Government had never suggested the occupation of Bulgaria. Still the Government adheres to a pacific programme.

A FRIENDLY TONE ADVISED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 15.—Some eminent officials have advised the Czar to instruct Gen. Kaulbars to adopt a less absolute tone and to meet the friendly disposition of the Bulgarian Government. Meanwhile Russia will continue to disregard the acts of the Sobranje.

AWAITING A REACTION.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 15.—Russia disapproves of the candidacy of a Kecklenburg Prince or the Duke of Cumberland, and will await a reaction in favour of the Russian candidate.

IMMIGRATION.

The Macdonald Administration Check the Immigration of Mechanics.

We take the following extract from the report of an interview of the Hon. John Carling with a Mail reporter:—

"I was applied to during the summer, through the Toronto Immigration Agency, by the master builders to bring out a certain specific number of artizans in order to supply them with labor which they alleged they needed, but I did not think it well to take any action on this demand in the circumstances. As respects demands made by manufacturers, I may further state that we very often have applications to bring out particular classes of hands for special kinds of factories, particularly in the fabrics, but even in those cases, and where the class of labor is not actually in the country, I have always hesitated to take the responsibility of making any representations with respect to the employment of those classes. Nothing can be more definite or stringent than instructions which have been from time to time been sent to the High Commissioner, and by him communicated to all agents, not in any way to encourage mechanics to emigrate to Canada. As a matter of fact, moreover, very few of this class do come, as may be seen by an examination of the returns."

"What about the demand for agricultural laborers and domestic servants?" asked the reporter.

"So far as I understand we have never yet been able to satisfy the demand for genuine agricultural laborers or female domestics. It appears to be perennial, and I find the Ontario Government make the same kind of statement. In visiting the Immigration Agency in Quebec a few days ago, I obtained from the Ontario office at Point Levis a pamphlet which is being distributed to immigrants arriving by Mr. Persse, the Ontario agent at that point. This pamphlet, it is stated, is issued by the authority of the Government of Ontario, and it bears the imprint of the Hon. Arthur S. Hardy, M. P. P., Commissioner of Immigration, and Mr. David Spence, Secretary of the Immigration Department, dated 1886. I find in the most prominent type and most conspicuous place in this pamphlet, the following statement, under the heading, 'Farm Laborers and Female Domestic Servants';—'From the beginning of April to the end of October there is always a steady demand for farm laborers, especially for single men. More than double the number who arrive could easily find employment at fair wages by the year.' I find also in another part of this book, page 28, a statement to the effect that 'many railroad laborers, mechanics, weavers and other tradesmen from the Old World become successful pioneer farmers in Canada.' This is a stronger invitation to mechanics than any words in the Guide book which is issued from my department. The statement is undoubtedly true that many such men have succeeded in changing their avocations and have become successful farmers in Ontario, as well as in other parts of the Dominion, and it may be as well that the fact should be made known, but it might be accompanied by some cautions, such as those which appear in the Guide book, but which I do not find in this pamphlet of Mr. Hardy's.

"In making these remarks I think it well to point out that I refer specially to the past policy, that is since 1872, when the invitation was made, and strengthened and extended in 1874, when Mr. Mackenzie was in power, the class of mechanics being then included in the assisted passage. I do not speak of the present policy of the Government, or rather that to be determined. We have arrived at a time when it may be advisable to make some change, and to bend our strength more exclusively to the settlement of the North-West."

MURDERER ARRESTED.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Rosee alias Rosset, the murderer of Madame Loyson, has been arrested at Constantine, Algeria. After committing the crime Rosee took the first train for Marseilles, where he embarked for Algeria, intending to join a band of strolling traders. Arriving in Algeria without money he incautiously offered to sell some of the jewellery he stole at the time of the murder. The jeweller to whom it was offered, suspecting the honesty of Rosee, informed the police, with the result stated.

FORCE REIGNS SUPREME.

BRESSELS, Nov. 15.—L'Etoile Belge publishes an interview between one of its editors and one the highest military authorities of Belgium. The latter is reported to have said that in the present state of Europe, force reigns supreme. Treaties are violated without scruple and the small nations of western Europe would be shortly threatened like Bulgaria in the east, Belgium, among others, having to fear Geman invasion. His conclusion was that Belgium should immediately make an immense effort to strengthen its military defences. The military authority is supposed to be General Brialmont, one of the most remarkable officers of the time.

BERESFORD'S PLUCK.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Owing to the partial failure of the recent experiments the public are beginning to distrust the potency of torpedoes. Experts, however, assert that the recent trials have not been altogether fair, and insist that in order to make them so the vessels attacked must necessarily be under his full headway and the torpedoes launched as in actual warfare. This sort of test is risky, but it is understood that Lord Charles Beresford has offered to find and command a volunteer crew to man the ship attacked.

MOBILIZING HER TROOPS.

SOFIA, Nov. 15.—It is rumoured that Russia is mobilizing troops. General Kaulbars has demanded the dismissal of the Perfect and Sub-Perfect of Philippopolis because the patrol late at night disarmed and conducted to the Russian Consulate a Russian cavass who had refused to give his name or the password when challenged.

ANGRY AT BEECHER.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Post has an angry article on Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's statements in an interview concerning England. "Mr. Beecher," says the Post, "seems to have fallen into bad company. He mistakes the tinpot rattle of a few noisy sectarians for the mind of the British people."

KENSINGTON EXHIBITIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—There has been much discontent over the fact that no statement was made public regarding the financial results of the Kensington exhibitions. The balance sheets have at length been published. The Fisheries Exhibition shows a surplus of £14,752, which will be applied to fishing charities. The Health Exhibition shows a surplus of £15,560, which will be carried on to the credit of the Inventions Exhibition, which shows a deficit of £5,437. The Colonial Exhibition shows a surplus of £50,000, which will be handed over to the proposed Imperial Institute.

ARRESTED FOR PREACHING.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 15.—Six American citizens have been arrested in Southern Russia for preaching in an orthodox assembly of Russians. The United States Minister at St. Petersburg has been endeavouring to effect their release, but so far has been unsuccessful.

A PETITION FROM CUBA.

MADRID, Nov. 15.—The principal planters of the Province of Matanzas, Cuba, have telegraphed to the Madrid Government and the leading papers stating that at present prices it is impossible to make the sugar crops pay the cost of production. They therefore implore the Government to suppress all export duties on sugar, and encourage the prompt introduction of free laborers, or Cuban agriculture would be ruined.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

LONDON Nov. 15.—John MacPherson and Rev. Mr. McCallum, who were arrested in Skye on the charge of inciting violence, were examined to-day. McCallum was committed for trial and released on £100 bail. MacPherson was remanded.

HOME RULE MEETING.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of Protestant Home Rulers Rev. Mr. McCutcheon, of Kinmore, presided. A resolution was unanimously adopted in favor of Home Rule as the only measure that would benefit Ireland.

A MURDERER DISCOVERED.

The Austrian Police Successfully Work Out an Ingenious Theory.

VIENNA, Nov. 15.—On the night of the 4th inst., on a street near the Russian Embassy, Jacob Schloesberg, the proprietor of a printing office, was murdered. Theories of robbery and revenge having been discared, the police took up the idea of the murder having been committed by a despairing beggar who had been refused alms. Persons immediately came forward with corroborative evidence, and a tailor who had refused charity to a beggar answering to the description of the murderer that very evening found, on examination, a slit in his coat and waistcoat, showing an attempt to stab him. A vagabond named Gerhardus Kreitler was arrested and recognized by all the witnesses. He had on his person a blood-stained knife. He was formerly a gold-beater and had lately been released from prison. Beggars will now reap a harvest from the terror of persons whom they accost, and additional police precautions have been taken.

Kentucky Faction Feud.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 15.—The war in Perry County, Ky., between the French and Eversole factions has broken out afresh. Almost every citizen of the county has taken sides with one or the other of these mountain merchant princes, as they are called. Both factions seem to have come to the conclusion that there can be no settlement except by extermination. Both factions are armed, and the first shot will bring about a general war. The feud between French and Eversole dates back several years. They are rivals in business, and control the entire trade of several mountain counties. The report that both were killed some time ago is not

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1886.

THE PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS.

MR. MOWAT has hurried on the general election for this Province, dissolving the House nearly a year before the time of its legal expiration. We will on another occasion consider the bearing of this hasty movement. As the early dates fixed—Dec. 22nd for the nomination and Dec. 29th for the polling—leave little time for preparation, it is the more pressingly urgent that all the friends of good government, all those who have the best interests of our Province at heart, should bestir themselves without delay.

SQUABBLING FOR LOAVES AND FISHES.

Ever since the organization of the Catholic League, some fifteen years ago, every recurring election brings with it a squabble as to which political party has been most liberal to Roman Catholics in the distribution of the public patronage, and, if we may judge by what has already come under our notice, this will be a burning question, with some, in the campaign upon which we may be said to have entered. As our readers are well aware, we have ever held the introduction of such issues into the political arena as most unfortunate, and calculated to divert the attention of electors from issues of infinitely more importance than whether the patronage of the Dominion and Province has been distributed between Roman Catholics and Protestants, in the same proportion that the one bears to the other in the Dominion or Province, as the case may be, to the manifest disadvantage of all save the few wire pullers who thereby obtain a softer seat than they could otherwise possibly hope to do.

Of course, so long as public appointments have to be made, they must fall to the lot of some one whom, it is to be hoped, is a professor of some Christian creed, but so long as it cannot be shown that one man has been passed over in order that some one else, because of his creed, should receive the appointment, the question of the appointee's creed should not even be discussed. And even then (unless the great rank and file of both parties are more given over to the love of office rather than of country than we are disposed to admit), we question the wisdom of making such appointments a campaign issue. Such appointments must, from the very nature of things, be a political family affair, the whole ins and outs of which can only be known to those of "that ilk," and with which its members can best deal.

For instance, to take a local appointment as an illustration of what we mean: Many have alleged that Mr. Morrow was appointed Registrar of this county in preference to other applicants solely because he was a Roman Catholic, and as a quid pro quo for the support received, by the party making the appointment, from his co-religionists in the preceding campaign. As to how far this and the many kindred allegations which have been made in support of this charge, are or are not true, we are not going to even express an opinion, but we wish to point out that even if true, we believe it to be the part of wisdom for us Liberal-Conservatives to leave this matter entirely in the hands of those who as supporters, or adherents of Mr. Mowat, are more or less responsible for that appointment, and who, knowing the facts, as we cannot know them, will in a short time have an opportunity of passing judgment thereon.

Although we are not, and never have been, of their way of thinking politically, we believe there are many men among those of the other party who are as sincerely and earnestly opposed as ourselves to the introduction of considerations of creed and nationality into the political arena, and who are quite capable, if they believe the circumstances which led to Morrow's appointment to be such as have been alleged, of following the example of a Hartington and a Bright, and of sacrificing their party for one election for the benefit of their country. If, on the other hand, the allegations to which we have referred, and it is easy to make allegations, are not justified, then we would be the last to attempt to make political capital simply because Mr. Morrow happened to be a Roman Catholic. Let us fight an honorable battle, no matter what our opponents may do. Defeat with honor is better than victory obtained at the price of honor and straightforward dealing!

Sir John Macdonald, accompanied by Hon. Messrs. Thompson and White, arrived in Toronto on Sunday and left for Owen Sound

THE HOUSE DISSOLVED.

THE GENERAL ELECTION FOR THE PROVINCE TO TAKE PLACE AT ONCE.

Nomination and Polling in December—Mr. Mowat Abandons the Concluding Session of the Legislature—Springing an Election.

It is announced on authority that Mr. Mowat has dissolved the Provincial Legislature of Ontario. The writs, we are told are to be issued immediately, the day of nomination being fixed for Wednesday, December 22nd, and for the polling on Wednesday, December 29th, just in the midst of the holiday season.

JUDGES DIFFER.

CHANCELLOR BOYD recently, in condemning the members of the municipal council of Adjala to pay the amount of the defalcation of their treasurer, spoke in strong terms of the impropriety of their continuing him in his office after becoming aware of his being a defaulter. Mr. Mowat, Attorney-General and ex-judge, in the case of a defaulting municipal treasurer in this district, placed the culprit on the Bench. He compelled the people who could not trust his friend to deal honestly with their money entrusted to his keeping, to trust to him to administer justice among them. But, then, Mr. Mowat wanted to purchase and reward the party services of his renegade supporter, and he would allow no consideration of honesty or justice stand in the way of his strengthening himself in place and power.

THE Reform journals are charging the Dominion Administration as being culpable in having a deficit for the past year, though they thought it highly laudable for the Reform Administration to have a deficit for several successive years. We may remark that when the Reformers were in office they had no Conservative rebellion to contend against. The deficit of the past financial year is mainly caused by the expense and loss caused by the Rielite-Reform rebellion and its suppression.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

REFORM MR. MOWAT.

The position with regard to manhood suffrage is exactly similar. The people cannot be expected to credit the Grits with wishing to do for the Dominion what they have repeatedly refused to do in Ontario. Mr. Blake should try and reform Mr. Mowat, if only as a guarantee of good faith.—Toronto News (Indep.)

CAMERON, BLAKE & CO.

Well, we cannot follow them through all their inventions. We simply ask our readers to believe that the men who could so shamefully violate the truth in one matter are not to be believed in any matter. False in one, false in all. They are pilloried before the people of Canada, and they are henceforward wholly unworthy of credence.—Hamilton Spectator.

WOULD BE EXPELLED.

One of England's foremost Liberals, Mr. John Bright, in a recent utterance, claims the right of individual judgment against the political club doctrine that wherever the leader of a party goes the whole party is bound to follow. If the distinguished gentleman who thus declares himself was a member of a Reform Association composed of certain professed Liberals we wot of, he would be expelled nem. con. for uttering so grave a political heresy.—Newmarket Era (Reform).

BLAKE'S FISCAL POLICY.

The Liberal policy will evidently be to overthrow the National Policy, adopt a low tariff for revenue only, placing the highest duties on luxuries which cannot be produced in Canada and low duties on the necessaries of life which are manufactured in Canada, allowing foreign manufacturers to send in their goods and compete with those manufactured by Canadian workmen. The deficit in revenue with Mr. Blake apparently expects under this system to be made up by an income tax and a succession tax, that is a tax on inherited estates. This is Mr. Blake's policy if he is correctly reported. If it is not the Liberal policy then Mr. Blake is not the Liberal leader.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

THE MOWAT GERRYMANDER.

A plank in the platform of the Globe for 1887 is, to use its own words, "the repeal of the scoundrelly gerrymander act." The obliteration of South Simcoe is evidently causing unrest to the Globe's conscience, and we may expect to see the much pummelled Mowat next session of the Legislature re-establishing county lines, and reconstructing that unfortunate zig-zag Cardwell to something light straight lines. A seventy miles stretch is too much of a thing in these days of Parliamentary Reform. We are one with the Globe in demanding that the author of gerrymander in Canada, the saintly Mowat, shall repeal forthwith this act of his own creation.—Barrie Northern Advance.

CONSCIOUS SLANDERERS.

In its peculiar way the Globe gives them up, though it says that the passages omitted by Mr. Cameron "are of no importance whatever as against the great fact that Indians often starved, while the larger part of the money voted for their relief was being squandered on Mr. Dewdney's court, on his contracting friends, and on rotten flour and stinking pork." That is, Mr. Cameron produced certain testimony to prove that the things just quoted were true. The testimony is a monstrous mass of falsehood, but this is of no account against the fact that the charges are true. But if the testimony is false, the charges are not proved true. If there was genuine testimony to their truth, Mr. Cameron and the Globe would not have relied upon the forged and fraudulent testimony.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE CHIEF ISSUE.

Hon. Mr. Laurier, the leader of the Quebec Grits in the Dominion House, declared prior of the Chambly election last summer that the Riel question, was almost the only question was almost the only issue. If the English Liberals be disposed to accept Mr. Laurier, as an authority on this point, how do they purpose voting? Do they intend to condemn the Government on the Riel issue? Do they intend to help Mr. Laurier to overflow the Government on the Riel issue? If they do they must be prepared to sanction the principle, which is at the bottom of this whole Riel issue, and the principle for which the Rielites are striving to obtain recognition, that the race to which Riel belonged is entitled to privilliges not accorded to other Canadian citizens, and that the members of that race may violate the laws with comparative impunity?—Sherbrook (Que.) Gazette.

HIGH WORDS.

THE LIBERALS GAIN NOTHING

By Mr. Gladstone's Recent Suggestions—Little Chance of Healing the Breach.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Gladstonians gained nothing by the suggestion of their leader that a union of the Liberals is attainable by insistance upon an early production of the Government's plans for Ireland. The Unionists treat the tactics indicated in Mr. Gladstone's letter to Baron Wolverton and the Scottish Liberals as a feebly conceived snare to entrap them into assisting in the destruction of the Government immediately upon the opening of Parliament, by leading them to support a Gladstonian amendment to the Queen's speech to the effect that the Government have not made sufficient provision to meet the claims of the Irish Legislation. Mr. Gladstone is certain to move such an amendment, but there is no doubt he will again find himself faced by a solid antagonistic vote, made up of Con-ervatives and Liberal Unionists. The resolutions to be adopted at the coming conference of Unionists will seek to define the position of that party toward the Gladstonians with unmistakable clearness. Lord Hartington, Sir Henry James and Mr. Goschen have drawn up a programme affirming the permanent principles of the party, without the absolute acceptance of which they believe a reunion of the old Liberal party to be impossible. The revision of this platform is proceeding privately, but it is known to affirm that a settlement of the agrarian question must precede local government legislation; that a continuance of the agitation to give legislative powers to the Irish can only tend to retard the deveopment of prosperity in Ireland, and that after a sufficient time has been allowatto determine the effect of the removal of agrarian grievances, Home Rule schemes may be considered if Ireland still remains discontented.

WALKING IN THE LIGHT.

DR. JOHN HALL'S NOTES ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson VIII. for Sunday, Nov. 21—The Golden Text will Be Found in the First Chapter of 1 John, Verse 7. Lesson Text, I John, 1, 5-10.

It is frequently objected that Christian teaching is too much about what we should believe and too little about what we should do. When this letter was written by John he was quite old, and the truth had been tried for a long time among men. It is easier to profess belief than to do right, and no doubt many affect belief who act badly. One of the great advantages of studying a lesson like this is that it shows how true believing is followed by right acting, and that the believing is the means of bringing out the good living.

Some of our lessons have been historical, Some have been statements of truth to be received. This is in a good degree experimental. It teaches the actual feelings of believers, the practical religious life of men. Probably there were men teaching at this time in the name of Christianity that they were personally sinless; for every truth that God reveals, the devil and men guided by him will twist and misrepresent. May the Spirit of God help us to see and hold each truth in its fullness and in its proper place to other truths! Then we have a true, living and symmetrical "body of divinity," as the good men of other days were wont to say. Having asserted in the strongest way that it was Jesus the Son of God that he had declared unto them, and this in order that they might be really happy (v. 4), he proceeds to show how this declaration believed ought to act on the life of the believer.

V. 5. From Jesus John had learned the character of God. He was the revealer of the Father, the brightness of his glory, the very image of his person. He, Jesus, had taught men that God is light, with no darkness in him. Heathen gods were men overgrown, with jealousies, passions, crimes set down to them, as one sees in reading even the classics at school. Think of what they counted Jupiter, Mercury, Bacchus, not to speak of demigods, to be! "God is light." There is no darkness of sin or of ignorance in him. He is the infinitely Holy One. Now

(V. 6) if we profess to be in his fellowship, in sympathy with him, as children with a father, as soldiers with a leader, as friends with a friend, and yet walk in darkness, ignorance and sin, "we lie, and do not the truth." This is plain. The darkness is not that of grief, sorrow or doubt, but of wrong. It points to "deeds of darkness." The profession, if not attended by practice, is hypocrisy and lying. On the other hand

(V. 7), if we are walking "in the light"—not of intellect, education, science or even moral courage, but the ways of God according to his nature (as in v. 5)—we have fellowship one with another—for the aim is a common one and such walking is against selfishness—and the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth," or is cleansing us, from all sin. This does not refer so much to pardon, which is full, free and complete, as to the moral effect of the death of Christ on us. Of course, that moral effect implies the pardon, or, in other words, justification goes before sanctification. Here is one who says: "I was lost; Jesus came after me and saved me. To do it he had to shed his blood. Through that blood I get pardon. I love him for shedding his blood for me, and because I love him I am trying to quit sin and to be holy." That man is being cleansed by the blood. He is walking in the light. He loves the holy Redeemer, the image of God, and because he loves him he is trying to keep his commandments. Get this fixed in the mind.

V. 8. If we say that we do not need to try, that we are perfect, sinless, we are cheating ourselves, putting a false view before our own minds and showing that whatever we may know about other things, "the truth" about God and his salvation has not possession of us. It may be about us, in our hands; it is not shaping our thoughts nor affecting our hearts. Let us not say this, but own the facts of our forgetfulness, folly and inconsistency. Then we shall carry out, for we shall feel the need of, the words in

V. 9. We are children—often rebellious and wayward—of God. If we feel the wrong and own it to our Father, "confess it," two things will follow: (a) He will forgive. That is faithfulness in him. He has promised it and he will keep faith. See Ps. xxxiv, 4, 5. That is justice. Jesus Christ has made atonement. The law is fulfilled and honored. God is just and yet pardons a believer his sins. See Rom. viii, 3, 4. (b) He will cleanse us from all unrighteousness. He does not deal with us as with filthy matter, but as with polluted minds. When it is our way sincerely to own sin to God and beg his forgiveness, we watch against sin; we beg his grace to strengthen us against it, and he gives the grace. So we become pure, holy and Christlike. True humility thus goes with true religion. But with self-righteousness pride goes, and hence

V. 10 puts it strongly, "If we say we have no sin," etc. Why, he sent Christ to save us as sinners! It is as sinners he invites us to confess. If we deny that we give him the lie, and his word—which is based on this very fact—is not in us. See Ps. li, 1-12 for illustration of all this.

V. 1. The aged and loving apostle calls the Christians he addressed "My little children." He is telling them these things to keep them from sinning, not to make them easy in sin. "Ah! but," their hearts reply, "we have sinned, oh, so much!" The closer the truth comes to us through holy men the more we shall feel this. So he replies, "If any man sin," here is his relief, we have an advocate with the Father, a representative, a friend, a pleader, one who is fit and entitled to plead for us, for he is "the righteous." We have offended God, but he never displeased him at any time. And

(V. 2.) not only is he righteous in himself, but he is the propitiation for our sins. (See Heb. ix, 15.) He came for this; he suffered as our substitute; he is the "Lamb slain" for us; the Shepherd giving his life for the sheep. Nor was it for you and me—an apostle and a handful of believers—but for all the world, without distinction of race, rank or character, for the chief of sinners as well as for the moral and humane. No human being can justly stand aloof and say, "There is no hope for me in Christ."

V. 3. And if we wish to be clear that we know him, here is the way: we are anxious to keep his commandments. That was the way with the twelve. They knew Jesus in part; they followed him. So with us. The knowledge is not of the head only, it is of the heart also. It is like the knowledge a child has of his mother.

V. 4. He that saith, no matter how loud or public his profession, I know him, and does not obey him, is a liar, etc., as in 1, 8. On the other hand

(V. 5), he that keeps the Saviour's words, in memory and in life, in him is the love of God perfected. To put it plainly, in him it has done its work. It has won him from sin, it has drawn him to God. If this is not the case with a professor, it is thrown away on him. "By this we know that we are one with Christ," children of God. So

(V. 6) "He that saith," makes a profession, that he is in Christ ought to walk as Christ walked. See the gospel for this. See Heb. vii, 25. Christ is holy and came to put away sin. A man who truly believes in him will not keep sin, but will try to walk as he walked, be an imitator of Christ. It may be put thus to a child: A man says, "I am of one mind with John B. Gough," and he goes on drinking! Who will think much of his profession!

The following points may be emphasized:

1. "There is none like unto thee, O Lord, among the Gods."

2. Jesus is the revealer of God, and means to make us like God.

3. We are in the way to this when we trust him.

4. We are to confess him, but it is to be a genuine, true confession.

5. Its truth is shown by our life.

6. Christ is the model, pattern, example.

7. He is more than God's son, more than a holy teacher; he is a Saviour, and he saves not by merely teaching us and setting us an example, but by dying for us.

8. Love to him is the spring of good living. —Sunday School World.

LAKEHURST.

From a Correspondent.

AN OMISSION.—I noticed in your last edition an account of our last tea-meeting and would state that your correspondent has forgotten to mention the services rendered by our worthy chairman, Mr. Chase, and the choir, the latter having, under the able leadership of Miss E. Young, added great to our evening's enjoyment. We think were all have done so nobly all deserve equal mention. We will add that the proceeds, which amounted to twenty-three dollars are to be used in repairing the church and supplying other necessaries. The work being already in progress.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Your North Harvey correspondent has made a slight mistake in his statements regarding the Methodist Church, also. The subscription amounted to nearly $400.

ANNUAL TEA MEETING.—We are pleased to learn that our Methodist friends contemplate holding their annual tea meeting in near future. We wish them every success.

PRESENTATION.—The Methodist Sunday School closed Oct. 31st for the winter. The event was rendered interesting by the presentation of a beautiful album, to Mr. Coons the superintendent. The following is a copy of the address:—

"DEAR SUPERINTENDENT AND FRIENDS —Five years ago when first this Sabbath school was organized, it was universally acknowledged that you were the right man in the right place to be the superintendent; a duty which you have fully performed. The principles which you have endeavored to instill into our minds are such—if put into practice by us, as will tend to make us better men and better women, and make us a blessing to our fellow men. We feel it would be an act of ingratitude to let this opportunity pass without giving you a token of our thankfulness for services rendered. We hereby present you with this album, and while wishing yourself and family happiness and prosperity in this life, and that you may be forever with the Lord throughout the countless ages of eternity.

"Signed on behalf of the school,
"MARY TEDFORD
"ALVIN JOHNSTON."

Trial proves that honesty is the best policy in medicine as well as in other things. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine preparation, an unequalled blood purifier, decidedly superior to all others.

A fire in Louisville, Kentucky, on Saturday night destroyed property to the extent of $225,000. During the fire an explosion occurred which demolished two fire engines instantly killed an engineer, a fatally wounded a fireman, two others being badly injured.

The degree of Bachelor of Music was conferred on Rev. W. Roberts, Miss H. E. Gregory and Miss E. S. Mellish at Trinity College. This is the first occasion on which a degree of Music has been conferred by a Canadian University.

Hundreds of letters from those using Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and curing baldness, and cleansing the scalp, its use cannot be too strongly commended.

The morning express on the Northern and North-Western railway from Hamilton was derailed near Javis on Saturday morning and the engine badly wrecked. Fortunately no one was injured; the driver and fireman, however, had a miraculous escape from instant death.

The Department of Marine have decided to build during the winter two lights on the Limekiln Crossing at Armherstberg. Orders have been issued for the immediate repair of the Government lighthouses on the lakes, many of which were severely damaged by the storms of last month.

Garfield Wanted Flour.

At Pittsburg Landing, in 1862, a line of teams came down from the army for rations. There were so many wagons to be loaded that great dispatch was necessary. A fine looking soldier, wearing a blue overcoat, presented his requisition. The commissary saw him take up a barrel of flour and toss it into a waggon as if it required no effort.

"I suppose you will require a receipt for these provisions," said the soldier to the commissary.

"Yes, your commanding officer must receipt for it."

"Can't I sign it?"

"Oh, no; it must be signed by a commissioned officer."

"Very well; I'm a brigadier general. My name is Garfield."—Baltimore American.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

General Middleton.

General Middleton will pay a visit to Peterborough on Wednesday of next week. On Monday evening Col. Villiers, the Deputy Adjutant General, will arrive in town. On Tuesday evening General and Lady Middleton and staff will arrive. On Wednesday a review of the City Battalion will take place, either in the Riverside Park or one the P.A.A.A. grounds. On Wednesday also the Brown memorial will be unveiled.

New for the Shanties.

Mr. Ted. Cavanagh is as successful this season as ever at hiring men for the shanties. Already he has despatched a number of gangs in various directions, affording employment for a good deal of surplus labor. This afternoon he sent off another gang consisting of twenty men, this one for Messrs, Gilmour & Co.'s shanties at Nogie's creek. They went north by stage. From $19 to $20 a month was the wages paid.

On Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 18th, at 2.30 p. m., the P. G. C. will shoot a match at Riverside Park. All members are requested to be present as sides will be chosen on the grounds.

Your Vote and Influence.

The general elections are coming on and the above solicitation will be the order of the day until they are over. The excitement will grow greater as the time draws nearer; it invariably does. Excitable people (and there are plenty of them) will be heard in every quarter upholding their favorite candidates, and otherwise indulging in talk more or less of a parliamentary nature. There is an old adge that "everything is fair in war," and the saying is apropos during election times. You have read thus far, read on: "Your vote and influence." For what? For the very superior fit and the excellent quality of the goods that are every day turned out of A. McNEIL'S Habiliment Hall. Your vote and influence for that which is right.

C. E. T. S. Entertainment.

The St. Luke's Church branch of the Church of England Temperance Society held its first entertainment of the season in the school room, Ashburnham, on Monday evening. There was a good attendance, and all seemed well pleased with the programme provided, each piece being warmly applauded :—

S. is to be congratulated on the success of their first entertainment. It was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

A good programme has been prepared by Mr. Parker. Refreshments will be served during the evening. Admission, adults, 25 cents; children, 10 cents.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The first of the special meetings in the Young Men's Christian Association was very interesting. A touching address on the Prodigal Son was given by the Rev Mr. Bell. Mr. H S. Griffin conducted the meeting and a number of young men took part in it. The singing was very good. At to-night's meeting the Rev. F. H. Wallace will speak on the subject "From Darkness to Light." All men are cordially invited.

Ashburnham Flashes.

I wish to say a few words about the conduct of some of our village boys particularly on Sunday evening. Last Sunday evening while your correspondent was on the way to church his attention was directed to the condect of a crowd of boys numbering from six to twelve collected at one of the corners on the principal street. They seemed to take great delight in trying to annoy a lady and gentleman who passed at the time. I was walking close behind at the same time when I was surprised to hear the expressions made use of while ladies were passing. While they went through the crowd they barely made room on the sidewalk for them to pass, no sooner had they passed then the crowd began pouring forth a volley of oaths, and making a hidious noise of a very unpleasent character. This kind of conduct has been going on for some weeks and I have heard a number of persons say it is a great pity such conduct could not be stopped. It is really too bad that such conduct should be allowed to go on in our village, especially on the Sabbath day, when people are on their way to church. Why should it be so in a civilized community? I would like to call the attention of the authorities to the matter. This state of affair does not exist on Sunday only, but almost every night those passing along the street can observe the same think. I trust the authorities will take this matter into consideration and have it stopped.

Death of Mr. J. C. Hughes.

We regret to learn of the death at New Westminster, B. C., of Mr. J. C. Hughes, who has many relatives and friends in this town to lament his decease. Our correspondent mentions that Mr. Humphreys is the only man left there of the Peterborough pioneers of 1862. The following is the account given by the New Westminster British Columbian:— "Josias Charles Hughes died at his residence in this city at 6.30 this morning. The deceased was born as Omemee, Ont., on the 15th May, 1843, and was a little over 43 years of age. He was one of a party of about 20 who left Peterborough, Ont., on the 12th March, 1862, to seek their fortunes in British Columbia. Early in May he reached this city, and in the fall he was employed as express messenger for Deitz & Nelson's express between this city and Yale. This position he held until 1867, when the firm obtained an interest in Moody's mill at Moodyville, and Mr. Hughes was transferred to that place, where he remained until 1876. While at Moodyville he was, in 1871, elected as one of the representatives of this district to the first popular legislature, and afterwards received the appointment of government agent at this city. He held the office until a few years ago, when he went into the real estate and conveyancing business, which he carried on until last summer, when he was appointed by the Dominion Government Indian agent for the north west coast. He proceeded to Metlakahtla a few months ago in the performance of his duties, but returned shortly afterwards complaining of not feeling well. After remaining with his family a few weeks he again left for Metlakahtla, but never proceeded farther than Victoria, where he became so much worse that he had to be brought back to this city. Notwithstanding the care of his physicians and friends, he sank rapidly and expired as stated. It is believed that he was suffering from an affection of the brain. Mr. Hughes was known all over the province, and had many warm friends. He was of a genial disposition, warm hearted, and always ready to attend to the appeal of the suffering. He took great interest in natural history, and contributed to some of the leading periodicals. He leaves a wife and three children and a brother in this city. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, under the auspices of the Masons and Workmen, the deceased being a member of both orders."

Constructions to Ward off the Snow Avalanches in the Rockies.

Out of the forty men from Peterborough who went to the Rocky Mountains last April several have returned. These men were hired here to work on Ross & McDermot's contracts on the Canadian Pacific Railway. They kept in one body till they got to their destination, when they were scattered along to work at shed building through fourteen miles of mountain territory. They are now returning home as the works on which they are engaged are finished.

The sheds are built so that traffic over the railway in the winter months will not be intercepted by the snow slides, which are almost as much to be dreaded as an avalanche. Commencing at some lofty peak the slide gathers strength and volume as it descends. It tears down the mountain side with inconceivable force and thundering sound, leaving its track as bare as if a tornado had passed over it. Sometimes the valleys below are filled to the depth of forty feet with snow. To prevent ruin to the track and consequent delays the company have built sheds at points along the railway where these slides are likely to occur. The mountain side is excavated to a depth that will allow a wall of crib work nineteen feet high to be built. From this an offshoot is made of a character as will bear great weight, the frame being heavy and substantial. The snow when coming down, instead of burying the track and tearing it to pieces, simply glides over the shed and speeds on its way. There are a great number of these safeguards in the mountains, the largest of which is nearly a mile and the shortest one hundred and ten feet.

Mr. R. Sherlock, who supplied this information, says that the Rockies in the month of June baffles description. The base of the ridges is clad with the richest green. As the summer advances the vegetation creeps higher and higher up the mountain side. The trees spread into life; shrubbery of many kinds spring up at the bidding of a genial sun. The glow of sunshine melts the snow and ice above, and down the mountains in hundreds of streams, now taking the cascade's giddy leap, and now the proportions of a turbulent cataract, carry the dancing and glittering waters to the fertile valleys below. But away in the air the straining eye discerns the snow that sits perennially on the lofty peaks.

The Summit, a village four miles from where Mr. Sherlock was stationed, is a rough place. It possesses the wildness of a miners camp; Moxie, which readily retails at 25 cents a glass and flor de fume cigars, which sell at a quarter also. A Presbyterian minister was the only evangelist who attempted to attack the place.

The men who have returned are satisfied with the wages they earned, and delighted with the trip to this noted range of mountains. Laborers were paid $1.75 a day and carpenters as high as $2.75 per day. Out of this they had to pay $4 a week for board, which was of a very fair kind. More of the Peterborough fellows will likely be home in a few days.

Mechanics Institute.

A general meeting of the members of the members of the Mechanics' Institute was held on Monday night, the president, Mr. Wm. English in the chair. Two notices of motion given at the last meeting, one relating to the charge of by-law regulating the election of Directors, and the other giving the librarian power to issue tickets at any time in the year to the same date of the next year, were both passed. A meeting of the class committee was held after the general meeting.

The Colleen Bawn.

The Tavernier Company presented the ever popular Irish melodrama, "The Colleen Bawn," to a large audience at Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening. The Tavernier Company failed in this play. The support was, with one or two exceptions, very good, but the "Colleen" wasn't there. Miss Van Cortland has not acquired the rich Irish accent so essential in undertaking to impersonate a character of the kind, and to attempt to put it on is like a novice trying to use the paint box and brushes. Among the caste Mr. F. Drew, who took the part of Myles, the outlaw, is specially to be credited with taking his part well. If he isn't an Irishman he can't be far off it. To-night the emotional drama, "East Lynne," will be played.

BIGAMY IN BELLEVILLE.

John Haslip Pleads Guilty to Having Two Wives.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 15.—John Haslip, a labourer, 37 years of age, pleaded guilty in the police court this morning to a charge of bigamy, and the magistrate reserved judgment until to-morrow. Haslip was married in this city on Jan. 1st, 1877, by the Rev. Thomas Cullen, of Toronto, then pastor of the Bleeker St. Methodist Church here, to Isabella Palmer, of Tyendinga, who bore him one child. The married life of the couple was unhappy and they separated twice, the last time permanently. The woman and child went to her mother at Hamilton, and Haslip found employment at Trenton. While there he fell ill, and was nursed back to health and strength by Nettie Lyons. The result was that Haslip and Nettie were married at Christ church on November 11th by Rev. E. W. Sibbald. The marriage license was issued to John Haslip, widower.

A SITE CHOSEN.—At a special meeting held Friday, Nov. 12th a decision as to the site of the new church was arrived at. The sites considered were, one at Lakehurst corner, offered by Mr. Clarkson, and another near the school, offered by Mr. Irwin. After the chairman had stated the object of the meeting to the people he left the matter with them. It was then moved by Mr. Shaw, seconded by Mr. Coons, that the site next the school house be selected. Moved in amendment by Mr. Adams seconded by Mr. Shearer, that the church be erected at the corner. The vote being cast it resulted in the majority of seven against three, in favor of the Lakehurst corner site. The building committee was then appointed, viz., Mr. Shaw, Mr. W. Weir, Mr. Shearer, Mr. Johnston, Mr. Coons.

A Batteryman Stabbed.

KINGSTON, Nov. 15.—On Saturday night two civilians, Quigley and Dunlop, were arrested for stabbing Patrick Corbett, a soldier in "A" Battery. Three soldiers got into an altercation with the civilians, and during the conflict a knife was plunged into the soldier's left breast, making a wound an inch deep and wide, but not fatal, though the knife would have reached the heart had it not struck a rib. The knife is in the hands of the police.

Filibustering Expedition.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 15.—Two men were here for five days last week organizing an agency in the interest of the filibustering expedition into Mexico. There are now enrolled in Dallas twenty or thirty trusted men, ready for a raid the moment the summons is received. The number will be swelled to a hundred. The Chicago Anarchists.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A meeting of British Anarchists has been called to assemble in Cleveland Hall, London, on the 23rd inst., to protest against the action of the Chicago court which tried and sentenced Spies and his colleagues. The circular calling the meeting denounces the jury that convicted the Chicago Anarchists as a bribed and packed body, and condemns Judge Garry for refusing the prisoners a new trial. Hon. Auberon Herbert, brother of the Earl of Carnarvon, will probably preside over the meeting.

Another Serious Hitch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—At the house of Nelson Morris another disagreement has arisen. The packers proposed to pay by the hour, and to pay only for time successively worked. Heretofore if men reported for the day and had but two or three hours' work they got full time. The men who went to work for Morris yesterday accepted the new deal and are at work to day, but those who were selected to return to-day sent a committee to Mr. Morris this morning to say they would not enter his house unless paid for full time, and they did not go to work.

BROCKVILLE, Nov. 16.—About a year ago, the Recorder says, John Dunn, a sober, industrious moulder employed in the James Smart work s, married Sarah Coleman, a Quebec girl, aged 19. Though the bride was not particularly strong, and was of a morose disposition, the couple are said to have lived happily together. They boarded at the house of James Ingram near the fort of Abbot street. Early yesterday evening Dunn remonstrated with his wife for having taxed her strength by carrying a couple of pails of water, and though she said little it was apparent that she took the scolding to heart. About seven o'clock it was noticed that she was ill, being attacked with frequent fits of vomiting. Finally she became so bad as to arouse her husband's suspicion and when charged with taking something admitted that she had swallowed a large dose of Paris green. By this time it was nearly eleven o'clock, and though Dr. M. D. McGannon was at once summoned the poison had made such havoc that its course could not be arrested. Subsequently D. E. A. McGannon was also called in but all efforts were futile. The unhappy sufferer lingered until about three o'clock in the morning, when death ended her sufferings. She retained consciousness until the last and calmly gave all the particulars regarding her wilful act. No inquest will be held.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

Peterborough, November 15, 1886.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1886.

THE CAMPAIGN.

THE Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, and the Government candidate, Mr. Stratton, having announced a meeting to be held in the Opera House on Friday evening, the 26th inst, at which they "will be the only speakers," Mr. Carnegie has engaged the Opera House for the Tuesday evening (the first subsequent one upon which it was disengaged) when he will reply to the Hon. Mr. Ross and Mr. Stratton, and deal generally with the issues involved in this contest, and when HE will be happy to have Mr. Stratton present, and to afford him a reasonable opportunity for address-the meeting.

PUBLIC DISCUSSION INVITED.

BY advertisements to be found in other columns it will be noticed that Mr. Carnegie has already announced several meetings for the discussion of Provincial issues, and that Mr. Stratton is invited to attend the same, in order that the electors present may have an opportunity of hearing both candidates face to face, and under circumstances which ensure a better sifting of the truth than is possible when only one side is represented. We hope the electors on both sides of politics will turn out freely to the several meetings which will be held in their respective localities during the campaign. To act up to the spirit of the ballot—which we take to be that every elector should cast his vote without outside interference of any kind—there should in fact be no personal solicitation of votes. The candidates should explain their views, make their charges, if they have any to make, and defend themselves from the platform, and then leave the rest in the hands of the electors without any button-holing. Unfortunately, however, there are still a number of electors who act upon the principal that what's worth having is worth asking—as if any man ever became a candidate for any public position who was not thankful for every vote given him, and still more thankful for those volunteered, without even the asking. What a happy time it will be when every elector realizes that his franchise is an important trust, to be disposed of in the interests of his country, and the well-being of himself and those who are to come after him, to the best of the judgment with which the Almighty has endowed him.

A REFORM CLAIM.

THE Reform journals of Ontario have been loudly proclaiming that the recent elections for the Legislative Council of Prince Edward Island had resulted in a Reform victory that was a presage of a success for the Reformers in the next Dominion elections.

We have just received our copy of the Charlottetown, P.E.I., Weekly Patriot, published on the eve of the election, and we find that these boastings of the Reformers are utterly unfounded. From the columns of this very extreme Reform journal we find that the contest did not turn at all upon Dominion issues, but that the sole question in editorials, correspondence and reports of meetings was as to the maintenance or abolition of the Legislative Council, the Upper House of the Island Legislature.

It seems that the Conservatives, with that practical good sense and partiality for well considered improvements which distinguish the party, are in favour of the abolition of the Legislative Council, wisely holding that a second house is an unnecessary and extravagant luxury for so small a community. The Reformers, on the other hand, with that aversion to practical and useful reforms which is the leading characteristic of modern Canadian Reformers, are fiercely opposing the abolition of the Legislative Council. From the telegraphic despatches that have come to hand it appears that the Island Reformers have been successful in their maintenance of an unnecessary institution and in opposing improvement, having elected a majority of Councillors pledged to resist the sweeping away of their House.

These so-called Reform victories afford very poor grounds for boasting. Their success in Nova Scotia was by the advocacy of secession. Their success in Quebec was by the advocacy of rebellion and murder. If their success in Prince Edward Island has the advantage of not being tainted with disloyalty or crime, it at least shows the utter hypocrisy and inconsistency of the self-styled Reformers. In this Province their leaders are attacking the Dominion Senate, established by our constitution to assist in legislating for this great country, yet they are claiming as a Reform victory the success of their brethren in staving off the abolition of an unnecessary Upper House in our smallest Province.

All devices, however contradictory of each other, seem welcome to our sham Reformers, if they can only be used on behalf of their craving for power and place. This Prince Edward Island "victory" must be exceptionally pleasing to them, coinciding with the views of the Ontario Reform leaders in their aversion to practical reform.

MR. MOWAT'S LAW BUSINESS.

THE exposures made in certain legal proceedings in the town of Woodstock are of such a serious nature as to call for comment. Woodstock is a Scott Act county, and hotel keepers have been fined for breaches of the law. One of them, who had already been fined, and against whom fresh proceedings were pending, brought suit against Mr. Field, the Police Magistrate, for over $1,500 penalties for a breach of the law in not returning a list of his convictions as required by law. In subsequent similar proceedings by another plaintiff it was proved by the evidence of Mr. Field and other witnesses, that this worthy Police Magistrate had made an arrangement with the first plaintiff to give him a release on condition that the Police Magistrate should act leniently and without prejudice in Scott Act cases. We will not attempt to apportion the blame in this transaction, for it would be premature, as there must evidently be further judicial or official investigation.

There is one phrase of the matter, however, that calls for immediate and decided protest. It was shown in court that the legal advisers of Mr. Field were the firm of Mowat, McLennan, Downey and Biggar, which acted for Mr. Field in the matter, assisted in carrying out this objectionable transaction, and drew a retainer for the plaintiff to sign substituting as his solicitor one favorable to Mr. Field in place of one who was hostile.

Now we have no right to charge Mr. Mowat with culpable knowledge of these grave improprieties, but we must remark that his partners must have had a strong sense of his unscrupulousness when they ventured to bring his firm and him into contact with such a dirty puddle. We would suggest that if he has not already done so, Mr. Mowat should forbid his partners to implicate his firm in transactions having at least a tendency to corrupt justice, to make a mockery of the law of the land, and to keep by a dishonest compromise a considerable sum of money out of the Provincial treasury that would be payable by their client.

Let us see in what position Mr. Mowat has allowed himself to be placed. As Attorney-General Mr. Mowat has the power of appointing the Police Magistrate and of officially controlling him; as a member of a legal firm he aids Mr. Field in abusing his office. As the first law officer of the Province it is Mr. Mowat's duty to see that the laws are enforced; as a member of his law firm he has an interest in aiding Mr. Field in frustrating justice in regard to two different species of breaches of the law. As Premier of Ontario Mr. Mowat is especially charged with the duty of seeing that money due to the Province goes into the Provincial treasury; as a member of the firm of Mowat, McLellan, Downey & Biggar he is interested in allowing a private bargain to save his client from paying a heavy penalty, a quarter of which would go to the Province, for a breach of the law which it is admitted had occurred, though by inadvertence. There might possibly be features in the case which would justify Mr. Mowat as Attorney-General and Premier in recommending the remission to Mr. Field of the Province's share of the penalty, but this should be done openly and on his official responsibility, not in the seclusion of the law office of the interested Mowat, McLennan & Co.

We are aware that Mr. Mowat has very little regard for the purity of the bench and bar, or the honesty or obedience to the law of officials, as witness his conduct in connection with Peck, Currie, Walker and others. But Mr. Mowat might at least have the decency, as long as he is Premier and Attorney-General, to keep his private law office clear from transactions tainted with the corruption of justice and the depletion of the Provincial treasury.

MR. MOWAT'S SELFISHNESS.

WITH his usual selfish disregard for the convenience of the people, Mr. Mowat has fixed the Provincial General Election for the very midst of the holidays. What does Mr. Mowat care if the consequent disturbance of bussiness takes money out of the pockets of all our merchants, who are in the habit of looking forward to the Christmas and New Year holiday season as affording them a welcome harvest, of which they will this year be largely deprived by Mr. Mowat's action? And it must be remembered that whether Mr. Mowat wishes to hold another session of the dissolved Legislature or not, he had no valid reason for fixing upon this date — January or Feburary would have served equally well. It seems to be a mere gratuitous piece of selfish mischief on Mr. Mowat's part.

THE SEABRIGHT DIVORCE CASE.

The Marriage Annulled—The Judge's Severe Charge.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Judgment was rendered to-day in the action brought by Mrs. Arthur Seabright to have her marriage with Mr. Seabright declared void on the ground that she was forced into it through fear. The marriage was declared annulled. The judge, in rendering his decision, commented upon the fact that the evidence given by the plaintiff had not been denied by the defendant. No man, he continued, with a practice of self-respect, if able to deny, would have allowed such testimony to go on uncontradicted. The plaintiff had been reduced to condition of mind by the defendant where she was no longer able to resist the pressure of his importunities to marry him, and although at last a ceremony had been gone through with, she had not given her consent, which the law requires. Seabright was to day adjudged a bankrupt.

LIQUOR IN THE NORTH-WEST.

Long Discussion in the Nort-West Council on the Subject.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16.—There was a long discussion on the following resolution and amendment in the North-West Council yesterday. Mr. Turriff moved, "That the manufacture of and sale of spirituous liquor or beer should not be allowed in the North-West Territories until the majority of the people have declared in favor of it by popular vote; that the North-West Territories Act be amended so as to prevent the Canadian Pacific Railway from selling liquor and beer on their cars in the territories, and that permits be issued only for medicinal and chemical purposes." The amendment was as follows: "That the Memorial committee be requested to embrace in their memorial to the Dominion Government a resolution affirming the wish of this Council that the principal of local option be adopted by the Dominion Government in reference to the introduction of spirituous beverages in the North-west, instead of the obnoxious permit system now in force." Considerable difference of opinion prevailed, buut the majority appeared to perfer the continuance of prohibition. Finally, the motion to adjurn the debate was carried.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

TAXES.

Councillor CAHILL moved seconded by Councillor MCNAUGHTON—That the matter of Mrs. Alford be referred to the Court of Revision.

GEN. MIDDLETON.

LIEUT.-COL. HARRY ROGERS addressed the Council in the capacity of Chairman of the Brown Memorial Committee. On the 24th of this month the Committee would be in a position to hand over the memorial to the town. On that day Gen. Middleton would be here and it would on that day be unveiled. The Council might also take into consideration the matter of entertaining Gen. Middleton in some way.

LIEUT.-COL. J. Z. ROGERS suggested that the Council show Gen. Middleton some attention. The officers of the battalion were going to entertain him at a military dinner.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That the Mayor and Councillors Moore, Davidson, Rutherford and Kelly, be a committee to work in connection with the military authorities in tendering General Middleton a fitting reception on his visit to Peterborough in connection with the unveiling of the Brown Memorial.—Carried.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor DAVIDSON read the report of the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of the following accounts:—J. W. Flavelle, $14.62; J. Butcher, $5; Metropolitan Grocery, $49.50.

FRONTAGE-TAX.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That a Special Committee be appointed to consider what steps, if any, be taken to introduce the system of local or frontage tax, in whole or in part, for street improvements, water tax, and such other local or frontage tax for local improvements as they may deem advisable, such committee, consisting of Messrs. Davidson, McNeil, Moore, Yelland, Kendry and Menzies, to report to this Council.

Councillors Moore and McNeil asked to have their names struck off the committee.

Councillor CAHILL, in supporting his motion, said that if a plank was put down in front of one man's door his neighbor generally wanted to get three, when usually it was not at all necessary. If a system of frontage tax were introduced he was sure it would have a beneficial effect. And another thing, he did not think the ratepayers living on the outskirts of the town should be called on to pay the water rate when they received no benefit from the waterworks. At the beginning of this year the Water Company had a line marked out for them where they were to lay the pipes. Instead of adhering to this they had laid pipes outside of that plan altogether, and in a measure had deceived the people.

Councillor RUTHERFORD—You're talking buncombe now.

Councillor CAHILL—No, sir.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the Company had another year to lay this line of pipes. He thought they were doing wonders in prosecuting the work. The waterworks were now getting toward No. 1 ward as fast as possible. He saw the men working on Stewart street to-day.

Councillor McNaughton referred to the fact of the waterworks having been extended to the Dickson property, while No. 1 ward was left unprotected. The laboring man's cottage in No. 1 ward was as dear to him as other people's homes.

Councillor CAHILL came back to the question by stating that it would not be amiss for the committee to consider such a measure as indicated in the resolution.

Councillor MENZIES saw no reason why the Committee should not consider the question.

The resolution was caried.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Councillor RUTHERFORD offered an explanation as to why there was no report. During the last recess he had called the committee together twice, but owing to having no quorum no meeting was held. He recommended that the Council adjourn for a short time, and that the committee meet to consider the matter of putting an electric light on Smithtown hill and other matters.

BY-LAW.

Councillor DAVIDSON introduced a by-law, founded on a motion passed some time ago, regarding the security to be given by town officials, the chief of police to give securities of $1,000, himself at $500 and two surieties as $2.50; and each of the constables and the License Inspector securities of $250.

The by-law passed its first reading and the Council went into a Committee of the Whole on the second reading.

After a long discussion the Committee rose with leave to sit again.

SCOTT ACT.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That in the opinion of this Council the Chief of Police and the officers under him are expected to fully carry out the Temperance Act of 1878, better known as the Scott Act, and that any officer failing to do this the Mayor have power to suspend for wilfully neglecting his duty.

Councillor MOORE said that if Mr. Rutherford would add, "and the Acts of the Province and the by-laws of the town," he would be glad to support it.

Councillor RUTHERFORD then added Councillor Moore's suggestion, and Councillor Rutherford's motion was carried.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor MCNAUGHTON,—That the by-law relating to the civic officers giving security be reconsidered.—Carried.

Councillor Davidson and McNaughton then gave notice that if the bylaw was not passed they would not hold themselves responsible if any deficiency should occur on account of the lack of such precautionary measure.

TAXES.

Councillor HARTLEY moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That the matter of Mrs. Plunkett's taxes be referred to the Court of Revision.—Carried.

A LOAN.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Chief of the Fire Department be instructed to loan the Gas Company sufficient hose with which to fill a new gasometer with water.—Carried.

A COMPLAINT.

Councillor MCNEIL brought in a formal complaint, which, after he had spoken in support of it, was referred to the Police Supervision Committee. The Council expressed a wish that the press would not give the particulars until the Committee reported.

Councillor DAVIDSON then withdrew his name as seconder.

THE MAGAZINE LOT.

The matter of whether the Council should accept the $400 offered for the magazine lot was referred to the Property Committee.

SMITH BOUNDARY.

Mr. Burnham's communication with reference to the Smith boundary was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

The Council adjourned at five minutes to twelve o'clock, a motion for continuation of the session having been passed at eleven o'clock.

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Thanksgiving Social.

On Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, the 18th November, the ladies of St Andrew's Church will hold a social in the School Room. Refreshments from 5 to 7 p.m. All are cordially invited. Admission, 25c.

Neat.

A serviceable piece of furniture has been placed in the committee room at the Town buildings. It is a cabinet which stretches across the room. It has thirteen lockets for holding coats and hats, one for each of the councillors and one for His Worship the Mayor.

Scott Act Fines.

The Mayor announced at the Council meeting on Tuesday evening that by his order the Clerk had placed $1,000 of the Scott Act fines to the cridet of the town pending the action of the Government. He had no doubt that the Town would, after all, get its fair share of the fines.

Infirm.

For several years past an old couple named Newbold have been kept at their home on Edinburgh street, partly through town assistance and partly by the kindness of neighbours. They have now grown so infirm as to require the assistance of a nurse, and in order that they should get preper attention they have been removed to the Protestant Home.

A Fair Chance.

We want two reliable agents to represent, Fire, Life, Accident, and guarantee Insurance Companies, can take choice. Seven Companies, of which the undersigned is the General Agent, will pay either monthly salary or commission or both, largest Companies easiest to work. Applications to be made either personally or in writting at once to E. E. Henderson, general agent. Office over Mr. Tully's Drug Store, George street, Peterborough.

GOLDEN LION for stylish Dress Goods and Trimmings. R. FAIR.

Mr. Hoover's Concert.

Mrs. Caldwell will sing the celebrated Cuckoo song at the musical feast Mr. Hoover is preparing for the people of Peterborough. The American press, as will be seen by the following extract from the Inter-Ocean, Chicago, gives unlimited praise to Mrs. Caldwell:—"The star of the evening was without doubt Mrs. Caldwell. She did more than justice to Mulders Staccato Polka, but her Cuckoo song creat the greatest admiration and applause."

Cheese.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. W. Cluxton shipped seven hundred and fifty six boxes of cheese, weighing in all 41,828 pounds, nearly all of which brought 12 cents per pound. This is the last cheese delivery of the season, all sold at the closing meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board have now been delivered. The last meeting was held in September when the fall make was sold for future delivery. The amount paid by Mr. Cluxton to the salesmen was something over $4,500.

Billboards.

At the meeting of the Council on Tuesday evening Mr. E. C. Hill made a spirited speech on the matter of a grievance which he brought before the Council's attention. Fifteen years ago, he said, he would as soon have thought of flying as to think that he should ever address the Council on the billboard question. But buying out the music hall he had to go into the business, and he could say that he had always done his work respectably. The board referred to had been put up on Reid street. It was a fine new board well made. He placed it at the back of the St. Andrew's Church lot, but a certain professional man, one of the board of managers, gave him notice to take it down. It was not taken down by him, but it was thrown down by someone else. He put it back again several inches out from the fence and nailed it firmly to posts, but the posts were chopped down. Now, it looked to him as if the professional man was trying to ride over the workingman. Was this Council going to allow it? He paid nearly $100 a year in taxes and he had a right to demand his rights. The workingmen were the bone and sinew of the country and were to-day educating the professional men. If the workingmen depended on getting their education from the professional men they wouldn't get farther than their a b c's. Several of the councillors who had the rudeness to laugh at this were brought to time by Mr. Hill telling them that if they were out on a cold winter's night stfeking bills they would whistle another tune. Councillor Menzies, who is a prominent member of St. Andrew's, replied that if Mr. Hill was allowed to put a billboard in front of St. Andrew's he would demand that a billboard be placed in front of every other church in town. The Council granted Mr. Hill's request to be allowed to put the board back on the condition that he get the consent of the St. Andrew's congregation.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

Gents Furnishings.

Those who require gents furnishing, underwear, etc., should look at J. J. Sheehy's window. It speaks for itself.

Elders.

A number of those who were nominated as elders for St. Paul's Church recently having withdrawn, more nominations will be made on Sunday morning next.

To Work!

A meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Carnegie will be held this evening in the Liberal-Conservative rooms, over Mr. Stethem's store. The time to prepare for the election is brief. Let there be a rally at the rooms to night to prepare for action.

Social.

All who wish to spend a pleasant evening can do so by attending the entertainment to be given by the Mission Band in St. Paul's Sunday school room on the 18th (Thanksgiving day), commencing at 8 o'clock. A good programme has been prepared by Mr. Parker. Refreshments will be served during the evening. Admission, adults, 25 cents; children, 10 cents.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The attendance and interest in the special meetings at the Y. M. C. A. rooms is growing. The Rev. F. H. Wallace spoke at the one on Tuesday night from the subject, "From Darkness to Light." A number of the young men present also took part. There will be no meeting on Wednesday night, but a large meeting is expected on Thursday night, when the Rev. Mr. Torrance will speak. All young men who have not yet been to these meetings should go.

Lecture on Labor.

Assembly No. 6,952 of the Knights of Labor, Peterborough, has arranged with Mr. Phillips Thompson, of Toronto, to deliver a lecture in Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Saturday, Nov. 27th, on capital and labor and the benefit of organization of the workingmen. Mr. Thompson, whose writings over the signiture of "Jimuel Briggs" were popular, has been identified with the labor movement for some time, and will no doubt present a clear and able statement of the views of the Knights and kindred associations.

GOLDEN LION for stylish, perfect fitting, bargain Mantles. R. FAIR.

It May Be Remarked.

—That Mayor Stevenson's trip to Ottawa has done $1,000 of good.

—That the town may get more.

—That Thanksgiving turkeys were in demand at this morning's market.

—That the Gun Club prefers blackbirds—to-morrow.

—That big scores are expected from the dark horses.

—That Gen. Middleton will likely be the town's guest while here.

—That East Lynne drew a fairly large house last night.

—That "The Danites" fills the bill to-night.

Your Vote and Influence.

The general elections are coming on and the above solicitation will be the order of the day until they are over. The excitement will grow greater as the time draws nearer; it invariably does. Excitable people (and there are plenty of them) will be heard in every quarter upholding their favorite candidates, and otherwise indulging in talk more or less of a parliamentary nature. There is an old adge that "everything is fair in war," and the saying is apropos during election times. You have read thus far, read on: "Your vote and influence." For what? For the very superior fit and the excellent quality of the goods that are every day turned out of A. McNEIL'S Habilment Hall. Your vote and influence for that which is right.

An Arduous Journey.

QUEBEC, Nov. 15.—Two officers of the Inland Revenue Department here have just returned from an arduos journey over the Mountains and seashore from Matane to Mont Louis, driving, after leaving the Intercolonial, at St. Flavie, some 240 miles, and walking more than 70. At Mount Louis they seized two stills, from which coarse whiskey was distilled and retailed at $5 a gallon to the thirsty fishermen on the coast. Both the offenders are well-to-do farmers, and one a Justice of the Peace.

An Atrocious Crime.

CLARENCE, Mo., Nov. 15.—Last night a stranger named George Deboynes came dragging himself slowly and painfully into the city. He was badly burned and presented a frightful appearance. As he was walking along the railroad track two miles east of this place he was attacked by two unknown men, who after relieving him of all the money he had ($5) beat him until he was insensible and then set fire to his clothes. The flames burnt into his flesh, restoring consciousness, and by rolling on the ground and tearing at his garments with his hands he finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until he had received terrible and probably fatal burns.

POLICE COURT

VAGRANCY.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 17.—Adam Dobbin, well known in police circles, paid his regular visit to His Worship this morning and asked to be allowed to hibernate on the hill for the winter. He reported that he worked and kept himself all summer but that he had now no work and no place to go to.

The COURT—Let me see; the birds commence to sing on the 17th of May.

"The 17th of March" said His Worship the Mayor, who was standing by.

Adam received an article of committment for six months and he went off to the gaol without the usual escort.

PORT HOPE.

AN APPLICANT FOR A PENSION.—We learn that Mr. William Downs, a member of E. Company, Midland battalion, has instructions to appear before the Board of Commissioners at Kingston on Friday. He had intended going to the hospital, at Toronto, on Wednesday but will now be detained until next week. We trust he may be successful in his application for Governmental recompense.—Times.

SMITH.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Gow Preston, when returning from church on Sunday last, was nearing his residence in a vehicle along with his family, when a dog rushed at the horse and the rig was upset. Mr. Preston was pretty badly hurt, and the family narrowly escaped serious injury. Dr. Caldwell was called in to attend Mr. Preston, and his speedy recovery is wished for by his many friends.

A Legal Point.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—The Court of Appeal has had a hard nut to crack this week, involving a curious point of law. A lawyer named Delahache, with his mother and a servant, was murdered last year at La Gloire de Dieu. Some time before his death Delahache had made a will, leaving all his property to his mother. The case hinged on the question as to whether the son died before the mother or the mother before the son. Had Mme. Delahache survived the lawyer even for a minute the property would have legally descended to her natural heirs. The doctors, however, basing their opinion on circumstantial evidence, held that Delahache died after her. His direct heirs consequently inherit his fortune.

A Maniac's Freaks.

GREENVILLE, Tex., Nov. 15.—A few miles from Liberty Hill is the plantation of Chas. Baker, a well-to-do farmer, who recently lost his wife and became insane. An unsuccessful attempt was made to capture him in his own house, during which he shot one man seriously. Several times Baker tried to leave the house, but finding every door and window blockaded he seized a razor, placed himself before a window where the neighbors could see him, deliberately cut his throat, and stood there bleeding to death. Hearing Eagan, a neighbor, coming up stairs, notwithstanding the gaping wound, Baker attempted to kill him, but the bullet missed its mark, whereupon he turned the pistol against his head, fired, and fell dead.

What to Teach our Daughters.

At a social gathering some one proposed this question: "What shall I teach my daughter?" The following replies were handed in:—

Teach her that 100 cents make a dollar.
Teach her to arrange the parlor and the library.
Teach her to say "No," and mean it, or "Yes," and stick to it.
Teach her how to wear a calico dress, and to wear it like a queen.
Teach her how to sew on buttons, darn stockings and mend gloves.
Teach her to dress for health and comfort as well as for appearance.
Teach her to cultivate flowers and to keep the kitchen garden
Teach her to make the neatest room in the house.
Teach her to have nothing to do with intemperate or dissolute young men.
Teach her that tight lacing is uncomely as well as injurious to health.
Teach her to regard the morals and habits, and not money, in selecting her associates.
Teach her to observe the old rule: "A place for everything, and everything in its place."
Teach her that music, drawing and painting are real accomplishments in the home.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

SAILSBURY & BROS.

The Daily Review.

ERIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1886.

AT a political meeting at Millbrook several years ago the Hon. William Macdougall excited disgust in the minds of the Conservatives who heard him by his virulant attack upon the late Chancellor William Hume Blake. And now Mr. Edward Blake welcomes to his side this "abandoned man" as he then called him, no doubt thinking that the slanderer of his dead father will be a valuable assistant in his dirty work of slandering his living political opponents.

IN its appeal to the electors in its announcement of the dissolution of the Provincial Legislature, the Globe more than once assails the Dominion of Canada, its people and their chosen leaders as being Ontario's worst enemies. And it must be remembered that this vile slander comes from a journal that is under the absolute control of Mr. Mowat, being managed by his agents, elected by virtue of the proxies entrusted to him and his partners by the chief shareholder in consideration of the grant of a monopoly which authorizes him to pillage every public school pupil in Ontario.

ACCORDING to the Globe, Mr. Mowat has a surplus of seven millions. If so, how is it that he is obliged to go into the money market for loans? He really has not enough cash in the treasury to pay his way, in spite of the cash surplus he inherited from Mr. Sandfield Macdonald, in spite of his selling our real estate to meet current expenditure, in spite of the increased grants from the Dominion authorities, and in spite of his continual inroads upon our municipal funds. The cash surplus has well nigh vanished, together with much of our property in land and timber.

IN censuring Mr. Mowat for deciding that bricks to be used in the new Parliament Buildings in Toronto shall be made by convicts, the Hamilton Spectator speaks of the discouragement of brickmakers who are not thieves and swindlers. Such discrimination in favor of crime is, however, no new departure on the part of Mr. Mowat. When he has placed swindlers and thieves on the bench in Northern Ontario and a registry office in Western Ontario he is not likely to respect honesty in working men, for whom he has shown little consideration in the past.

IN his recent speech at Listowel Mr. Blake attacked the Dominion Government for not having sold a greater quantity of North-West lands. He failed to take into account that his friends, supporters and organs, Purvis, the Toronto Globe, and so on, warned settlers not to come to the North-West to take up lands. Neither did he take into account that his friends and allies instigated, carried on, encouraged and sympathised with a rising to murder or expel the settlers. He and his friends opposed settlement by these foul means with the very object of blaming the Administration for not being more successful in disposing of the lands.

THE Toronto Globe says:—"Mr. Nelson never interferes with the management of this journal." Apparently it was to induce Mr. Nelson not to interfere, but to leave the management with handier tools of Mr. Mowat like Messrs. J. D. Edgar & Co., that Mr. Mowat has compelled every public school pupil in Ontario to contribute to an enormous bonus to Mr. Nelson in the shape of a share in the profits of a scandalous school book monopoly, dishonestly granted to Mr. Nelson by Mr. Mowat and his colleagues. Mr. Nelson in return does not "interfere," but places his proxies as a Globe shareholder in the hands of Messrs. Mowat & Co., who thus are absolute dictators of the Globe office.

THE PREMIER'S VISIT.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD WILL SPEAK IN PETERBOROUGH ON DEC. 2ND.

Several of Sir John's Colleagues are Expected to Accompany Him—Afternoon and Evening Meetings.

The Rt. Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, Prime Minister of Canada, will visit Peterborough on Thursday, the 2nd day of December, and will on that date address the people of this town and neighborhood.

The Premier will be accompanied by several of his colleagues in the Dominion Cabinet, including the Hon. J. S. D. Thompson, Minister of Justice; the Hon. Thos. White, Minister of the Interior; the Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Marine, and the Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Secretary of State.

In all probability there will be two meetings in Bradburn's Opera House on that day, in the afternoon at 2 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Stratton will not Allow Discussion at His Meetings.

Mr. Carnegie received this morning, Nov. 19th, the following letter from Mr. J. R. Stratton, the Reform candidate for the Provincial Legislature, which speaks for itself:—

Peterborough, Nov. 17th, 1886.

John Carnegie, Esq., Town:

DEAR SIR,—As you will be aware from my posters, during the political contest into which I am about to enter, I think it best, and I purpose to conduct my campaign meetings separately, and I take this means of giving you timely notice thereof in order that you may have no ground of complaint hereafter.

For this course of action I have most valid reasons. Such, I think, is the universal practice in the old country, and it is one which has both judgment and common sense to commend it.

The great aim of political discussion is education. In order to acquire the most beneficial effect from public speaking the mind should be as far as possible untrammelled by party prejudice and disabused of party animosity, so that the better part of the man may be brought to bear upon all questions in issue.

I am convinced that that virulent bitterness, that disgraceful personal hostility and that indecent animosity which have so often characterized political discussions, are engendered and fostered by joint political meetings, and that out of them everything objectionable and nothing which is effective, good and commendable is accomplished.

When Liberals and Conservatives are able to live in perfect friendship and social harmony during the ordinary course of their life, I have yet to find out what substantail good is to be derived by setting class against class, party against party and individual against individual, during six weeks out of four years, especially as such a line of procedure is so opposed to all that spirit of peace and good will which should characterize all men who love their country, and especially as the wounds caused by such dissensions and by such contests long remain open and are unlikely ever to heal.

I trust the contest between yourself and myself will be a friendly one, for whilst I will urgently strive for that harmony that should, and may, exist between us, I shall resent in the strongest manner anything and everthing which appears to transgress the limits of fairness and justice.

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

The following was Mr. Carnegie's reply:

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 19th, 1886.

J. R. Stratton, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt this morning, by messenger, of a copy of the letter which you have deemed it expedient to address to myself through the columns of yesterday's weekly Examiner.

I may say in reply that a twenty years' experience of election campaigns leads me to an entirely different conclusion from that at which you have arrived. In my opinion "that virulent bitterness, that disgraceful personal hostility and that indecent animosity" which you deplore, has been caused, not by what occurred at "joint political meetings," but by hole and corner meetings at which only one side was represented, and especially by those unscrupulous persons who do not hesitate to adopt any means to attain a temporary advantage by setting class against class and by invading the sanctity of private life—and who do not, of course, like the light of day to be cast upon their doings.

Yours truly,
JOHN CARNEGIE.

WE take the following extract from the Globe's report of a speech by Dr. Baxter M. P. P., at a recent political meeting in the village of Dunnsville:—

"It was said by some at a loss for something to say against Mr. Blake, that he had no policy.

"A Voice—What is the Reform policy?

Dr. Baxter—If he had only one plank in his platform; "turn the rascals out," he would be worthy of the confidence of the people, and that confidence would be given."

Dr. Baxter was certainly happy in compressing the substance of Mr. Blake's policy into so few words. That policy is to call those who do not agree with him in politics "rascals," and to ask the people to turn them out on this ground for Mr. Blake's advantage. It is a simple policy, but not calculated to arouse much enthusiasm in the people of Canada who remember Mr. Blake's course when in power.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

TO LEAVE BULGARIA.

SOFIA, Nov. 18.—The Czar has instructed Gen. Kaulbars to leave Bulgaria at once with all the Russian consuls if his note to the Regency demanding the dismissal from office of Gen. Mutkuroff, Commandant at Philippopolis, far arresting Russian Cavasse is not complied with. In the event of departure, Kaulbars is ordered to place all Russians in Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia under the care of the German agent at Sofia. Gen. Kaulbars is expected to leave Bulgaria on Saturday.

MORE RUSSIAN INTRIGUE.

SOFIA, Nov. 18.—The Regents have asked Gen. Kaulbars to give them time to reply to his ultimatum. They wish until the end of the week, when all the ministers will be in the city. It is believed Gen. Kaulbars has been instructed to find a pretext to end his mission in Bulgaria by some coup d'etat, which would make his departure a political necessity. Suspicion prevails that he is attempting to work up a case out of the incident of the arrest of a Russian cavass at Philippopolis.

WILL NOT PROSECUTE.

DUBLIN, Nov. 18.—The Government has decided not to prosecute the constables charged with murder in shooting people during the Belfast riots.

FIGHTING IN THE CAUCASUS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 18.—A force of Cossacks recently attempted to press into the military service the able-bodied men in one of the tribes in Caucasus. The tribe revolted and a free fight ensued, in which the Cossacks lost 100 men before the tribe was subdued.

MR. MOWAT'S REASONS

Mr. Blake His Dictator—A Log too Big to Roll.

An editorial contributed to the independent Toronto World says:—

"Mr. Mowat goes to the country now because on counselling with Mr. Blake they have decided that this the most opportune time, and it is opportuneness that determines politicians. The talk in yesterday's Globe about the franchise having been widened and therefore an appeal ought to be made is mere tongue-clacking.

"Another 'l n that threatened Mr. Mowat's path was the new Parliament Buildings. If he had brought on another session he would have been forced to tell the Legislature that the cost of the structure would run well on to a million and a half. That would have been a big log to roll out of the way."

ARTHUR DEAD.

Another Ex-President of the United States Passes Away.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Ex-President Chester A. Arthur died at 5 o'clock this morning at his residence No. 123 Lexington avenue. He had been ailing for some time from a complication of diseases, principally kidney affection. He had spent the summer at a watering place and it was supposed that this had strengthened somewhat his enfeebled constitution. His death was unexpected, it not being supposed outside of his home that he was in any immediate danger. As soon as the news of Mr. Arthur's death was made public many flags on public and private buildings were placed at half mast. Mr. Arthur had lived at No. 123 Lexington avenue for twenty years or more. A stroke of cerebral apoplexy, sudden but not wholly unexpected by the attending physicians, terminated his life. The stroke came in his sleep between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, and he did not rally thereafter.

JACTITATION OF MARRIAGE.

Conclusion of a Peculiar Suit—The Marriage Declared Null.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—The jactitation of marriage case was concluded before Mr. Chancellor Proudfoot to-day. The defendant Butler offered to accept a verdict against himself if Miss Beaty would state that she did not wish to live with him as her husband. At the outset of the argument his Lordship ruled that the statute of George II, making the consent of a parent necessary, did not apply to Ontario, as the point was covered by the revised statutes of this province. After the argument of counsel his Lordship said that the best way of settling the case was for the prosecution to accept the offer of the defendant, and if the young lady stated that she did not wish to live with her husband then the defendant would drop the case and he would decide that there was no marriage. This was agreed to.

Mrs. Butler, or Miss Beaty, then took the stand. Standing in the box she looked at the crowded court with perfect unconcern. Excepting as her eye rested momentarily upon her husband, when she pouted and cast her eyes down, she maintained her composure to a remarkable degree. In reply to Mr. Christie, she said the proceedings had been taken before she left home, somewhere towards the latter part of December, 1885, and with her own knowledge and consent. To the question, "Did you ever have any affection for the defendant, Mr. Butler?" she replied, "Oh, no," with an amused smile. She further stated that she did not wish to live with her husband.

At this statement a brief conservation took place between Mrs. Butler and Mr. Mosgrove, when the latter arose and said that Mr. Butler would agree to a decree annulling the marriage on the ground of insanity, without costs. The entry was accordingly made by the Chancellor, and thus ended one of the most, if not the most, peculiar case ever tried in Canada.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

Peterborough, November 15, 1886.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1886.

REFORM TRICKINESS.

THE sudden dissolution of the Ontario Legislature, with the consequent general election, is a characteristic specimen of Reform methods of working. For several weeks past every Reform journal has been howling at Sir John Macdonald to tell them when he proposes to hold the Dominion general election, occasionally varying the clamour with the contradictory charges that he was planning to spring an election upon them, and that he was refusing to have an election, though it was his duty to do so before the next session on account of an extension of the franchise.

Meanwhile the Conservative press indulged in no impertinent dictation to Mr. Mowat, for though the circumstances were the same, they recognized that under our constitution it was his duty to advise the Lieutenant-Governor and to choose a fitting and convenient time to go to the country. The Conservatives do not claim that it is the duty of a Premier to take the press or the people into his confidence till he has given his advice constitutionally. But the Reformers do make this claim and consequently they have proved themselves recreant to their duty as defined by themselves.

But under cover of this clamour against Sir John, a clamour started and maintained by Mr. Mowat in his organ, the Globe, which he controls by means of the proxies of his hireling, the chief shareholder, Mr. Mowat and his advisers were planning a cunning trick. It was a piece of petty duplicity, just of the calibre suited to Mr. Mowat's small mind and crafty spirit, to raise this outcry as a mask for his plot to take, if possible, the people of Ontario by surprise, thus doing his utmost to evade a true expression of public opinion. He designed to give an unfair advantage to his supporters by spurring them on with hints of his intention, with the result that his party had a far larger number of nominated candidates in the field than the Conservatives.

But as we have said above, this trick is only a specimen of the Reform method. It is their constant practice to howl persistently at the Conservatives for acts which they are doing or contemplating themselves. Whenever they are most abusive, it is certain that they are raising the turmoil to cover some exceptional iniquity on their part; whenever they make claims to purity they are plotting to corrupt the electors; whenever they raise an outcry against trickery it is because they are devising some trick.

Organized hypocrisy and organized slander has to serve them in lieu of a policy.

THE SYSTEM OF SLANDER.

The Reform Montreal Witness publishes in its editorial columns the following apology for publishing a slander:—

"The statement that Lieutenant-Governor Dewdney received the fees paid for permits to sell liquor in the North-West Territories, had been made again and again before the Witness referred to it. There had never been any contradiction of the statement, s far as we know, so that we regarded it as a generally accepted fact. The first contradiction we received was in a letter which we published a few days ago. We have seen calculations made by residents of the North-West, of the amount which Mr. Dewdney was supposed to have received from this source. There appears to be no doubt, however, that the fees are paid into the North-West Treasury and are at the disposal of the Council. This is as it should be. We regret having published a mis-statement concerning Lieut.-Governor Dewdney.

The excuse put forth by the Witness in mitigation of its guilt in defaming the innocent, has no valid weight. It is impossible to contradict every one of the torrent of calumnies and lies poured out by Messrs. Cameron, Blake and Charlton and others and circulated in the Reform press These slanderers emit their falsehoods in regard to their political opponent and to public officers in the utmost possible profusion with the express object of rendering individual refutation of such a mass of calumny difficult, and with the hope that the refutals may escape the notice of those they wish to influence. The Reform press welcome these slanders and copy them one from the other without the slightest attempt to ascertain the truth or falsehood of the charges. The Witness is as dishonest and cowardly in this respect as any other Reform journal. If it had one spark of manliness or any conception of honesty it would not have repeated without investigation the false charge against Lieut.-Governor Dewdney, which it now has ignominiously withdrawn because its falsehood is proved.

The grand jury at the Toronto Criminal Assizes brought in "No Bill" in the case in which Quartermaster Swanson, Patrick Burns and George McInerney were charged with conspiracy to defraud the Dominion Government out of $1,000.

NORTHWESTERN SETTLERS.

Letter By the Late Capt. E. Brown, a Victim of the Rebellion.

The following letter was written by the late much regretted Captain Edward Brown in consequence of a wish expressed by Mrs. Traill for some plain reliable information on the subject of the first breaking of the ground and settlement on the wild prairie lands of Manitoba with such advice as might prove serviceable for those persons who desire to make a home with but little capital for starting life on a farm.

The plain sensible manner in which the writer gave his opinion on the subject, drawn from his own experience, and devoid of any desire to deceive, renders this little document truly valuable to the intending settler, and it seems a pity that the information contained in its pages should be lost to such as might be glad to profit by its contents. This idea induces Mrs. Traill to offer it to the attention of those gentlemen who have taken so kind an interest in the author, and have paid so gratifying a tribute of respect to the family of the brave young soldier, whose memory will be kept fresh by the fountain dedicated to his name, though his body rests in its quiet grave in the soil of the "Great Lone Land," which he died to defend against the lawless aggression of Louis Riel and his misguided Indian allies:

SHELL RIVER, Man., Feb. 25, 1883

MY DEAR MRS. TRAILL,—By last night's mail I received my usual fortnightly letter from home. It mentioned your wish to receive information regarding settlement in this part of Manitoba, so I send it direct to yourself. You will no doubt remember that nearly four years ago we came out here with uncle George Stewart on a survey to the Riding mountains. Of that trip and work I need not say anything, as it will be of little interest to you, but will commence at where that work left off, give a short account of our trip up to the Shell river, and what progress the settlement has made since. After leaving the survey I worked for the Hudson Bay Company for two months, when hearing one day from the factor at that post that Walter was on his way to Shell river with Major Boulton, and was at one of the numerous stopping places on the main trail, I immediately set about to see him. I found him with Major Boulton and two young English gentlemen on their way to Shell river with horse and ox teams, farming implements, provisions, etc. After talking on the subject a short time Major Boulton persuaded me to join the party at Shoal lake next day. They proceeded on their journey that afternoon and I returned to the Hudson Bay Company's post to get my small bundle of belongings. This was early in April in the spring of 1880. At that time of year there is excellent snowshoeing, and a snowshoe tramp being an exercise I always enjoy, I started next day to catch the party up at Shoal Lake. Up to this time while working on the survey and with the Hudson Bay Company I had been working in the woods altogether, so that the dazzling brightness of the sun on the snow had not affected my eyes. It, therefore, never occurred to me to guard against snow blindness. Consequently I trudged across the treeless prairie, with my pack on my back, occasionally feeling my eyes dazzled by the glare of the sun, but thought little or nothing of it. I met, when about half way to Shoal Lake, Walter Stewart and one of the young Englishmen (W. Barrett-Lennard) coming back for part of a load that had been left at the stopping place where I had met them the day before. I turned back with them, got our load, and then went on to Shoal Lake That night I found out what snow-blindness meant. It is a most painful feeling; my eyes were red, and water ran from them. I could not bear to look at the light. Before going to bed the "hostess" of the stopping place placed a poultice of "drawn" tea leaves on my eyes, which caused almost instant relief. I kept it on all night and next morning was as well as ever. Had I been able to procure colored spectacles at Shoal Lake, I would have proceeded on the journey without fearing a relapse, but unfortunately at the general store there they had almost anything one could ask for but colored spectacles, so I was obliged to proceed without.

Here I may as well give you a short description of Shoal Lake. It is a lake about three miles long, by from one to one and a half miles in width, with a gravelly beach. The water is clear and good, and has not got that brackish taste that a great number of the large lakes in this country have. This place is where the emigrant first encounters the mounted police. There was at that time a large detachment of them here. The barracks stand on a rising knoll, overlooking the lake, the men's quarters and officers' houses, a little apart, and stables, are all substantial log buildings, some with shingled and others with thatched roofs. The other buildings of the place were a general store and post office, a blacksmith shop and two or three stopping places. The mounted police are very watchful over the liquor traffic, but never interfere much with the emigrant, watching more closely the traders and freighters. They invariably ask the emigrant if he has whiskey, but on receiving a negative answer do not search, unless they have good ground for suspecting the parties. The morning we left Shoal Lake a party, who had come in the night before, was searched by the police, although they stoutly denied having the whiskey; but it was found on them, and they were marched up to the barracks, where an examination was held. They were let off with a caution.

We proceeded on to the Bird Tail Creek (called in Indian Keeawatinaysippee), this being the only stream of any size we had to cross before getting to Shell River. Our object was to get all our loads over before the ice broke up, camp there, and remain for a few days until we could use waggons. We had come this far with sleighs, but there being no trail to the Shell River, that had been travelled that winter, the snow was too deep to go on. We remained here about a week, and, the snow having nearly all gone, we loaded our waggons (they being part of the loads brought up on the sleighs) and started for Shell River. Major Boulton hired, at the Birdtail, an Indian to guide us to Shell River. We were a little surprised the morning we started to see our Indian guide drive up to our camp with buck board and pony, leading a spare pony behind. Some of the Indians here are quite civilized, having their houses and ox stables. A great many use first-class breech-loading shot guns and rifles, but numbers of them still stick to the old flint-lock guns, of which the Hudson Bay Company's posts keep a supply always on hand. We found the journey to Shell River very tedious. We were a little more than three days making the trip, something between thirty and forty miles. On the 30th day of April, although the trail was bare in places, there was still considerable snow on it, and on each side of the trail there appeared to be as much snow as there was all winter. This night where we camped all the ponds and lakes still had ice on them, and occasionally a few ducks would come and light on the ice. Next morning all ponds and lakes were open and teeming with ducks, and by noon not a particle of snow was to be seen on the prairie. It was a lovely day. We travelled very slow, as the heat affected our oxen very much. That night, the first of May, we camped about four miles from the Shell River, although we did not know it at the time. Next morning we were up early, and when the sun rose we could distinguish the high banks of the Shell and Assiniboine rivers a few miles ahead.

We had seen the country the summer before between the Portage la Prairie and where we were surveying, but all between the Birdtail and Shell River was a much superior looking country, not being so much broken by lakes, ponds and wooded bluffs, and greater stretches of clear prairie.

After two or three days' looking round hunting up surveyors' posts, Major Boulton pitched on a very pretty place, with a creek through it. We immediately set to work getting ploughing done. None of us being used to these prairie ploughs we made sorry work of it, but finally got them to work very satisfactorily.

On account of my Extremely Low Prices some people are very skeptical, and desining dealers will tell them that my goods are shoddy, etc., etc. Well, be that as it may, I only ask the public to praise as they prove me, and in the face of this I boldly make the assertion that my stock for SUPERIORITY IN TEXTURE and MAKE SURPASSES anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday Evening, Nov. 18th.

The daily delivery of grain this week has been steady and is on the increase, barley taking the lead. The regular buyers on the market, as well as the representatives of the mills, have all been pretty busy this week. There is not much doing in oats, peas or rye, though what is offered is readily taken. There has been an advance in the price of butter owing to local competition, the price paid now ranging from 15 to 17½ cents per pound for good firkin butter.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

By Mr. Cluxton.

Messrs. Gaylord, Downey & Co., of Oswego, say in their report dated 15th inst.:

"The receipts of barley this year and to corresponding date in former years compare as follows:—

1886	2,271,900 bus.
1885	2,133,400 "
1884	2,421,500 "
1883	1,748,000 "
1882	3,132,100 "

"The following sales have been made since our last letter: 20,000 No. 2, 67; 6,000, 67¼; 13,000 above grade, 68; 10,000 Ex. 2, 69; 4,000 No.1 72: 20,000 No. 1 bgt. 76; 10,000, 75½; 6,000, by sample, 68¼; 19,000, 70; 17,000, 70¾, and 12,000, 70¾.

"It will be noted that while receipts have been large the demand has been active and sales very liberal. We nearly always have an active inquiry as we near the close of navigation, and the unparalleled severity of the storm Saturday for this early in the season, increased the anxiety of malsters to add to their supplies. To-day the demand is still active though not so keen as on Saturday, and prices are steady for low grades and very firm for high grades.

"We quote No. 2, at 67; Ex. 2, 69; No. 1, 71½ to 72; No. 1 Bright, 76."

The market for barley has ruled steady all fall, with but little variation in the price. I look for no important changes during the winter. The price is low enough and malsters seem ready to stock up at present values. But as already stated the large crops in the States and Canada will keep prices at about the present level.

Wheat in England and France is gradually gaining strength, and the markets are firm and steady. In the States the large visible supply still depresses the markets. But even there the price is steady with but slight changes, and it appears as if the bears are at last losing power. Wheat has been settling for the last three or four years, but the bottom should not now be far off, if it has not already been touched.

Butter holds its own. The price continues steady at 16 cents for choice dairy. Owing to the large increase in the manufacture of cheese much less butter has been made. In fact the trade in Canada has greatly fallen off; and as butterine is not used in Canada, the demand for butter for home consumption continues as large as ever. The price continues too high for exportation to countries where it has to come into competition with butterine.

Clover seed in the States continues unusually low, with scarcely any shipping demand. In England the market has not opened so far, and the price is still unfixed. The French crop, which is bold fine seed, is offering in England at very moderate prices.

The price for prime red clover last week an down to $4.27½ per bushel in Toledo, Ohio. It has since recovered 7½ cents. This looks bad for Canadian seed this year, and, as I intimated in my first "Outlook," it looks like $4 per bushel for red, and about $5 for Alsyke clover.

CHEESE.—The last of the cheese manufactured in these counties has been shipped, and the business is finished. The season has closed satisfactorily both to the makers and the dealers, and has been profitable to both. The price opened in May last at 6¾ with seven cents for selections, and closed at the September sale at 11 cents. England continues to advance in price, Liverpool being quoted at 61s., which is a jump of 1s. 6d. per 112 lbs. this week, but on this side there is no change. The price is high enough.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettisburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear.

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

SPECIAL FEATURES.

(with illustrations) include a series of articles on affairs in Russa and Siberia, by George Kenan, author of "Vent Life in Siberia," who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc., by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D., Editor of the Christian Advocate; astronomical papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

PRICES. A FREE COPY.

Subscription price, $4.00 a year, 35 cents a number. Dealers, postmasters, and the publishers take subscriptions. Send for our beautifully illustrated 24 page catalogue (free), containing full prospectus, etc., including a special offer by which new readers can get back numbers to the beginning of the War Series at a very low price. Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

THE REMEDY:

The Peterborough Mattrass Company

Have commenced the manufacture of all kinds of Mattrasses, Bolsters, Pillows, etc. All the material used by this Company is guaranteed new and clean and are sold at the same price as inferior makes. Ask your cabinet maker for the PETERBOROUGH MATTRASS CO'S. mattrass and pillows. If they have not got them call at the Factory and you can be supplied with anything of the kind you may require. If you consider your health you will act wisely. Factory on the Otonabee River, at the east end of Hunter Street Bridge, over Wm Paint's Woollen Mill. The name of the Company will be stamped on every Mattrass. Take no other. d100w44

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1886.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Gents Furnishings.

Those who require gents furnishing, underwear, etc., should look at J. J. Sheehy's window. It speaks for itself.

Skating.

One of Thursdays diversions was skating. On the pond above White & Co's foundry the ice had frozen to such a thickness as to bear up the few skaters who ventured on it.

New Barber Shop.

Harry Robinson's new barber shop in Dunsford's block, Water street, opposite Cavanagh's Hotel, is now open for business. The public are respectfully solicited for a share of their patronage.

Meetings for Men.

Those special meeting for men in the Y. M.C.A. rooms are being continued with success. At the one held last night the Rev. E. F. Torrance gave an address on the topic "From Loss to Gain." The subject for to-night's meeting is "From Inquiry to Knowledge." The Rev. Mr. Tovell will speak.

Mr. Hoover's Concert.

Mr. Hoover's concert promises to be one of the musical treats of the day, as he has the finest talent in the country, including Mrs. Caldwell, of Toronto, and Herr Jacobine, the well known German violinist. Don't fail to hear them on Tuesday evening, Nov. 23rd, in Bradburn's Opera House. Plan of hall at A. L. Davis' book store.

Thanksgiving Services.

Special services were held in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, the St. Paul's Church, St. Andrew's Church and St. John's and St. Luke's Churches on Thursday. All of the services were held in the forenoon except that in St. Andrew's, which took place at three o'clock in the afternoon. The regular services were held in St. Peter's Cathedral.

Curosities.

Mr. David Ramsey, one of the Rocky Mountain men, has returned to town bringing with him a collection of curosities. In the collections are specimens of copper ore, lead ore, transparent pebble, petrified moss and wood, a block of the fir, tree timber from which the sheds are built, and other articles. Mr. Ramsey, who is staying at the City Hotel willing shows his treasured collection to anyone interested in it.

Ticket of Leave Man.

The Opera House was filled last by an appreciative audience that witnessed the above play from the rise to the fall of the curtain with much interest. Miss Ida Van Cortland as "May Edwards" made the audience feel perfectly at home and showed the fidelity which the true woman is capable of possessing towards an ill-fated husband. Miss Mary E. Bankson as Mrs. Willoughby, "a woman of very few words" kept the audience busy attending to her numerous hits; and on many occasions, assisted by her grandson "Sam," which part was capitally taken by Miss Emma Whittle, brought down the house. Mr. A. Tavernier as "Jim Dalton" the tiger, and villain, a character which of all others seems to be his pet, was a decided success, as was also Mr. Chas. Kidder in the role of "Milter Moss" the Jew, and bosom friend of the tiger, and between the two of them keep Bob Briarly, the Ticket of Leave Man, in hot water from the time of his arrival from Glasgow till the capture of the tiger at the scene of the robbery at Gibson's.

Social.

The Mission Band in connection with St. Paul's Church held a social in the church school room on Thursday evening. The room was well filled with people, among whom the little folks were well represented. Sheriff Hall acted as chairman. After the customary remarks he called on the following named to contribute to the entertainment in the following named manner:—

THE PROVINCIAL CAMPAIGN.

Organization for the Contest in West Peterborough.

A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Carnegie, Liberal-Conservative candidate for the representation of West Peterborough in the Ontario Legislature, was held in the Conservative rooms on Wednesday evening. The object of the meeting was explained by Mr. Carnegie, and Mr. James Stevenson, Liberal-Conservative candidate for the Commons, was called to the chair.

The CHAIRMAN made a short speech in opening the meeting, pointing out that, Mr. Mowat having sprung the elections on the province, while they should keep in mind the Dominion contest, the Provincial election should now receive their attention. He spoke of the favorable prospects for the success of the Conservatives in both contests.

A Central Committee for the Provincial contest was then formed, with the following officers:—

CHAIRMAN—W. H. Moore.
VICE-CHAIRMAN—James Kendry.
SECRETARY—John Corkery.
ASSISTANT-SECRETARY—A. Graham.

A strong Central Committee was named, with power to add to their number. Ward Committees were organized, also with power to add to their numbers, with the following gentlemen as chairmen of the Committees:—

No. 1 WARD—Charles Porter.
No. 2 WARD—Geo. W. Hall.
No. 3 WARD—John Fanning.
No. 4 WARD—James Kendry.

Other matters were attended to, and after the Chairman of the Central Committee had delivered a spirited speech, the meeting adjourned.

A meeting of all the Committees will be held in the rooms, over Mr. Stethem's store, at a quarter to 8 o'clock this evening. All members should be present without fail, and all friends and supporters of Mr. Carnegie are invited to attend and assist.

Gen. Middleton's Reception.

At a meeting of the Town Council's reception committee, held on Thursday, it was decided that the Mayor receive General Middleton and staff at the railway station on Tuesday evening and conduct them to the Oriental Hotel, and that if the weather be favorable he show them around town on Wednesday forenoon. The committee requests as many of the members of the Town Council as possible to be present at the unveiling of the Brown memorial in the afternoon, when the Mayor will accept the memorial on the town's behalf. It is to be hoped that the employers of those belonging to the battalion will allow them a half holiday, so that there may be a full turnout for the review.

Death of a Catenarian.

On Saturday, Nov. 13th, Mrs. Isabella Heaslip, relict of the late David Heaslip, one of the earliest settlers of Manvers township, passed away from this life at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. B. Heaslip, at Ballieboro, South Monaghan. The deceased lady, who was the mother of Mrs. Thomas Jamieson, of Peterborough, was born in County Cavan, Ireland, in the year 1781, and was consequently 105 years old. She emigrated to Canada in 1834 and settled in the township of Manvers, Durham County. She leaves behind her two sons, John and Robert Heaslip, and three daughters, Mrs. B. Heaslip, Mrs. T. Jamieson and Mrs. J. Lawrence.

Lock Work's Ball.

The employees of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company's Works held a social dance in the Parlor roller rink on Wednesday evening. There were about fifty couples present. The evening passed off delightfully, the twenty six numbers on the programme being disposed of in the happiest manner. No. 2, a waltz, toasted "Our Friends"; No. 9, a quadrille, "Ontario" No. 10, "Our firemen," and No. 17, "the Lacrosse Club." After tripping the light fantastic till twelve o'clock lunch was in order. The thanks of the assembly are due to Mr. Rufus Stevenson who acted so capably in the position of Master of Ceremonies.

Do Not be Duped.

In the present age of the Nineteenth Century the whole universe is more or less filled with deception of every conceivable kind. Sometimes it is the hard worked farmer who is "nipped," so to speak. Again it is the shrewdest of business men, who in an unguarded moment commits a blunder that makes a him lament his action for perhaps months; and oftentimes the hard working, industrious and sober mechanic—men who are admittedly the bone and sinew of our country—who is taken in. Deception is bad, and the sooner people rid themselves of it the better it will be for everybody. There is no deception practiced at Habiliment Hall, every garment turned out is guaranteed to be just as represented. Try us and be convinced. A. MCNEIL.

Gun Club.

A special meet of the Gun Club was held in the Riverside Park on Thursday afternoon, when a match was shot off between teams captained by Messrs. H. W. Kent and C. H. Geale. There was a large attendance of spectators, who took a lively interest in the sport. Owing to there being a high and gusty wind the birds did not fly evenly, and that, together with taking into account the difficulty in aiming well, tended to keep the scores down. The result, which shows a victory for Mr. Kent's team, is as follows:—

Mr. Hartley, whose score is much below his average shooting, says that he hit nearly every bird that was flown for him but some how or other, he didn't bring them down. He will investigate the matter. A bystander avers that he heard the shot rattle every time Mr. Hartley fired. Mr. R. Tate manipulated the trap to the satisfaction of all.

PULLMAN CAR BURNT.

Disastrous Fire on Board a Grand Trunk Train East of Belleville.

This morning at about three o'clock a fire occurred on the westward bound Grand Trunk train midway between Napanee and Belleville. The flames seemed to originate from some unexplained cause, in a Pullman car, and they spread so rapidly that nothing could be done to save it or the adjoining Pullman car, both being completely destroyed. The passengers had no time to save any of their personal effects except what they had on their backs, and in some cases this amounted to very little, owing to their being so suddenly aroused from their sleeping berths. Some had to be dragged from the car, having been overcome by the effects of the dense smoke. Fortunately none received any material injury.

Mr. John Millar, of this town, who was on board the train, gives a graphic description of what occurred. He says that the flames spread in an incredibly short time, only a few minutes elapsing from the outbreak until the both cars were in a mass of flames. The people having berths in the Pullman, to the number of eighteen, came trouping into the passenger coaches, some seared with flames, some blackened with the smoke, some scarcely awake, and all, save one, with nothing on them but their night clothing.

One man had four thousand dollars sewed up in his vest pocket. When aroused he snatched his vest and hurried out nearly crazy until he found that his money was safe. His brother had $800 stowed away in a similar manner, which he also got in time. Others were not so fortunate. Several of the others lost valuable watches, jewellery and other personal effects, all of the men lost their overcoats, and all but one their ordinary suits. The lucky individual was a moxified commercial traveller. He made his appearance in the coach with his trousers wholly on, his vest half on, but without either boots or socks.

The passengers in the coaches parted with their wraps to clothe the almost denuded seventeen. Some were given overcoats, some cloaks and other covering, while the drummer took care of his feet with a pair of borrowed rubbers.

The train went on to Toronto where the necessary clothing was obtained.

AUBURN MILLS.

Improvements and Repairs Made—The Mills Doing a Good Business.

During the past few months the Auburn Woollen Company have made considerable repairs and improvements in their mills.

The chief improvement made is the putting on a new galvanized iron roof on the main building, the boiler room and the office. The northern and southern wings are to be similarly roofed. This job has been done in a very satisfactory manner by Messrs. Breeze & Bain, who have already laid over eleven hundred square feet of galvanized iron.

The wings have been repointed and a considerable amount of mason work done so as to preserve the walls.

An improved rotary press has lately been added to the machinery in the finishing room. By its introduction the old fashioned screw presses are done away with, and the work is accomplished with less trouble in one quarter the time. This machine puts on the last finish. The tweeds pass through several sets of steam charged cylinders capable of one hundred pounds to the inch pressure, and come out as smooth and neat as if ironed in the most careful manner. It cost $1,500.

The company's office has been made much neater and more comfortable in appearance by the judicious use of wall decoration and paint.

The mills now are working to their fullest capacity, giving steady and remunerative employment to a large number of hands.

Personal.

Mr. T. Bengough, stenographer registered at the Oriental Hotel on Thursday.

Ball.

A Midland District Baseball League was to have been formed at Port Hope on Thursday. The affair ended in smoke.

Junior Conservatives.

All members of the Junior Conservative Club are requested to meet at the Club rooms, over Mr. Stethem's store, at 7.45 this evening.

Sports.

A quartette of sports shouldered their muskets and marched away to the woods on Thursday. By sunset they succeeded in treeing a chipmunk which they slaughtered and bore back to town in triumph.

Social.

A pleasant evening gathering of the members of St. Andrew's Church and their friends, took place in St. Andrews Church School room on Thursday evening. The evening was spent in social conversation enlivened with music furnished by the choir. Refreshments were served.

From Madoc.

J. Maughgraugh, Esq., of Madoc, was in in town on Thursday on a visit to Mr. James Dolan. It was expected that Messrs. Peter Snibbleton and Tommy Wabstraw would be along also but on account of a press of amusement in Madoc they postponed their visit.

LINDSAY.

NAVIGATION NOTES.—Over 11,000,000 ft. of lumber has been shipped by M. Boyd & Co. this season, which is over shipments made last year by a considerable amount. Navigation closed temporarily on Saturday last. Coming up the river that morning the Esturion found two of the steamers in difficulties on account of the ice and helped them through. The weather has since moderated and an effort will be made to get down a large quantity of freight awaiting shipment.—Post.

CAMPBELLFORD.

THE DANGEROUS DYNAMITE.—A sad accident occurred to a young daughter of Mr. Edward Cassan, a girl about twelve years of age, in Seymour east, about 3½ miles from Campbellford, on Thursday last. She came into possession of a dynamite cap, or detonator, which had been carried there by men who were blasting upon the premises, and began picking it with a pin to ascertain its contents. While doing so the cap exploded with great force, and the unfortunate victim was injured in a shocking manner. The thumb and two fingers of her left hand were blown off, and the palm of her hand cut open, two fingers of the right hand were seriously injured, one of her eyelids was cut clear through to the ball, a portion of one ear was blown off, her lip was cut open, and quite a gash was made just above her stomach. The poor little sufferer was attended by her parents and friends, until the arrival of Drs. Goldsmith and O'Shea, who performed the operation of amputating the shattered bones of the fingers and dressing the wounds. She will be disfigured for life.—Herald.

BOBCAYGEON.

ACCIDENT.—John Murphy, jr., was accompanying his father, on Monday, in a waggon both being seated on a board placed across the waggon box. By a sudden jerk of the team, the seat broke, and Mr. Murphy was thrown out of the waggon, alighting on the back of his neck and shoulders, on the hard road. He was slightly cut and bruised, and is laid up, the exact injury, which may be serious, being not yet ascertained. Mr. John Murphy was thrown out but held to the lines and was uninjured.

ESCAPED.—Mr. Collins, sr., was standing by the gate of the Rokeby House, the other day, the gate way being a heavy timbered arch affair. A load of hay had just pushed through, which was a close fit for the arch and pulled it over as it went through. On the swing back it toppled clean over. Mr. Collins saw it was likely to come over, and that he would not have time to run out of reach, so keeping his eye on it, and guaging his position, he moved a shade forward, and the arch passed just behind him, and within a few inches of his head, leaving him standing in the gate way. It was a close call, as a few inches brokward would have been instant death.—Independent.

NEWS NOTES.

It is rumoured that the Manitoba elections will have to be conducted on the open voting system except in Winnipeg and Brandon owing to some informality in connection with the Ballot Act.

Mr. William Smith, of Columbus, and Mr. I. S. Larke, of Oshawa, have been nominated by the Liberal-Conservatives of South Ontario as their candidates for the Dominion and Ontario Legislatures respectively.

Mr. George Moncrieff, of Petrolia, and Mr. Geo. Shirley, of Brooke, have been nominated by the Liberal-Conservatives of East Lambton as their candidates for the Dominion and Ontario Legislatures respectively.

Reports from points along the Canadian Pacific railway from Vancouver, B. C., to Winnipeg, show that the line has completely escaped the snow blockades which have suspended traffic on the American transcontinental lines.

Supposed Burglars Captured.

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—Two men, giving the names of Thomas Lee and James Dunn, were arrested in the third storey of a new building on St. Paul street, next door to Messrs. Steiner & Bros.' fur store, and all the implements and tools of burglars, including a loaded revolver, were found spread out. It is thought they intended waiting until night time so as to break through the brick wall and enter the fur store. An employee of Messrs. Steiner saw the men enter the building and telephoned for the police. They say they are Americans.

NOVA SCOTIA REFORMERS.

Declare in favor of Blake's Policy—Secession and Rebellion.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 17.—The Know-Nothing combination held a meeting at Annapolis this afternoon, about 300 people attending. Premier Fielding admitted that Mr. Blake as well as Sir John, opposed Nova Scotia going out of the confederation, but of the two evils he preferred seeing Mr. Blake in office, and would work for his accession to power. He said the repeal agitation had frightened the Dominion Government into building the Cape Breton railway. He denounced the execution of Riel, and sympathized with the Quebec Rielites. Attorney-General Longley described the Dominion as a "ragged, disconnected lot of provinces," and ridiculed the idea of trying to build up a Canadian nationality. The demonstration was a dismal failure.

WANTED AN HEIR.

Two Million Francs That Belong to a Poor Canadian Girl.

Search is being made just now throughout the manufacturing towns of New England for a man who is entitled to an inheritance of two millions of francs in France. Under Napoleon I, a relative of the beautiful Madame Recamier came to the States, and married a poor French Canadian girl, whom he subsequently abandoned with her child, returning to France to marry a rich woman of the name of Ariet. There he brought up a new family, without ever hearing anything of his first marriage. It was only after his death that his French children discovered his bigamy, but they destroyed the compromising documents from which they had learnt the facts, and divided his fortune amongst themselves. A recent quarrel has been the means of first revealing the secret; one of the usurpers has been indiscreet, and a lawsuit has been the result. The outcome of the whole business has been the search for the French Canadian who is the legitimate heir to this large fortune.

AN APPALLING RECORD.

Numbers of Vessels Wrecked on Lake Michigan During the Gale.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 19.—The record of marine disasters during the gale of Wednesday and Thursday is an appalling one. Reports up to a late hour last night show that the following vessels foundered: Barge Emerald, near Kewaunee, five lives lost; barge F. M. Dickinson, near Kewaunee, three lives lost; two unknown schooners, one supposed to be the Helen, near Port Sherman; an unknown schooner, near Hog Island reef; and the barge Star of the North, East Tawas, the fate of the crew being unknown. The vessels known to be driven ashore are: The barge Wallace and consort, on Ocolay Beach, east of Marguette, crews probably lost; several vessels at Presque isle names unknown, many lives lost; the schooner South Haven, near Port Sherman, captain badly injured; the schooner Mary, near Blenheim, Ontario, the schooner Pathfinder, near Two Rivers, cargo and vessel a total loss; the schooner Cayaloga and two scows in North Bay; the schooner P. S. Marsh and an unknown schooner at St. Ignace; the schooner Harvey Bissell, near Alpena; the propellor City of New York, near Cheboygan; the schooner Kolfage, near Goderich, Ont., all broken up; the propeller Fassan, on Grass Island, Green Bay; the barge Bisselle, near Kewaunee, and leaking; the schooner Golden, below China Beach; the propeller Belle Cross and barges, across from China Beach; the schooner Florida, on Marquette Beach, a total loss; the barges Buckout, McDougall, Baker and Golden Harvest, near East Tawas; two unknown schooners on Old Mackinac reef. In a majority of these cases the crew are safe, but the result in a number of others is at best uncertain.

BODIES RECOVERED.

KEWAUNEE, Wis., Nov. 19.—Most of the bodies from the barges Dickinson and Emerald wrecked yesterday were recovered today. Among them were Captain Alexander Gorham, of New Baltimore, Mich.; Louis and Mike Pantak, of Pittsfield, Wis., and Miss Maggie Clark, cook, who resides near Milwaukee, all of the Emerald; also the bodies of Mary Burns, cook, of Toledo, Jerry Jeru and a man who is only known by the name of Arthur, all of the Dickinson. The survivors are Captain Thos. Robinson, Mate Louis Todd, Henry Demara and James MacDonald, who were on the Dickinson, and William Cowdry, of Toledo, mate of the Emerald.

FEARS FOR CHICAGO VESSELS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—It is feared the schooner William Jones was lost in the storm prevailing on Wednesday night. The schooners Hunter, Savaidge and David Mack, which cleared from Chicago on Wednesday, have not arrived at Grand Haven as yet. Much anxiety is felt for their safety.

WHOLESALE BUTCHERY.

Six Persons of One Family Murdered at White River.

WHITE RIVER, Ont., via Michipicoten, Nov. 17.—For some weeks large number of employes have been engaged about White River preparing the Canadian Pacific track for the winter. Among them was Richard K. O'Brien, a handsome young fellow about 30 years of age. When he first came here to work he met Mrs. Charles Williams, the wife of a county shoemaker, and improved his acquaintance until he became on intimate terms with the family. Living with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Williams were the father and mother of the husband as well as three small children of the wife. For the last six weeks Mr. Williams suspected his wife of infidelity and had a trap to catch her. Taking the train on Sunday for Chapleau, he left word he would be absent over night, but instead of going to his destination he took a return from a way station and arrived home in the night, and going to his house found his wife in company with O'Brien. He aimed a blow at the latter with a heavy stick, when O'Brien, quickly recovering himself, drew a revolver and shot Williams dead.

The noise attracted the other occupants of the house, and to shield his crime O'Brien shot the father as he was entering the room partly dressed. Having no more cartridges as the old lady put in an appearance and screamed, startled by the sight of her husband lying weltering in his life's blood, the murderer seized a heavy chair, and struck a cruel blow, which laid her senseless before him. To conclude his work, he beat her until her head was reduced to a pulp with a heavy stick of stove wood. Two of the three children were then disposed of with the same club which ended the existence of the old lady. The youngest boy, only eighteen months old, was spared, as he could bear no evidence against the murderer. O'Brien then stabbed his paramour four times about the heart, and left her for dead. He then fired the house and left hurriedly. Attracted by the flames the neighbors came to the relief and succeeded in removing the bodies of the killed and Mrs. Williams and her infant from the burning building. Mrs. Williams lived long enough to make a statement of the affair to the authorities, and then expired. An officer quickly started in pursuit of the assassin, and he was arrested about 25 miles from the scene of the tragedy. He denied the crime and claims to be able to prove an alibi. There are, however, many circumstances against him, and it is more than probable he will be lynched.

THE TRAGEDY DENIED

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 19.—The story published in the Chicago Tribune about a whole family being murdered at White River, Ont., is entirely false.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 19.—For several years past there has been about the docks a young man known among his fellows as O'Brien. On Tuesday night he took lodgings in a cheap lodging house on Ferry street. Yesterday morning he was found dead in bed. From papers found on his person it was ascertained that he had been living, while here, under an assumed name, his correct name being John Rusk, the son of a wealthy Quebec shipbuilder. It would appear that Rusk ran away from home four or five years ago, soon after attaining his majority, on account of trouble with his family.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

THE RIELITE-REFORM PLOT.

A MEETING has just been held in Montreal, convened by circulars addressed to the signers of the "Race and Revenge" protest, to take steps for holding another mass meeting in the Champ de Mars.

The proceedings throw considerable light upon the nature and present status of the combination. Mr. Mercier, the Rielite-Reform leader and judicially condemned blackmailer, who seemed to assume the management of the affair, moved for re-election as president Mr. Rolland, who held that position last year. What immediately followed we will give in the words of the Montreal Herald's report:—

"Mr. J. B. Rolland, on taking the chair, delivered a brief address, which was far from receiving the approval of the meeting. He said in substance that he had protested against the execution of Louis Riel last year because he felt that the Government were wrong in hanging him. Though the Government had committed a fault at that time he could not condemn them on their general policy, which he approved of, especially that part of it relating to the protection of manufacturing industries. He was unwilling to assist in the bringing into power of a party which he had always opposed. He held that they had done their duty last year and that there was now no necessity to carry on the movement."

Mr. Mercier again intervened and moved to turn Mr. Rolland out of the chair to give place to one more to his liking. This being accomplished violent speeches were made by Rielite-Reformers and by some Conservatives who for various reasons have resolved to play into the hands of the Reform party. The Macdonald Administration was abused and threatened, more especially Messrs. Chapleau, Langevin and Caron, the loyal French Canadian members of the Cabinet, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for a new sectional demonstration.

That their chosen president should take such a stand is an indication of two things: first, that the Conservative Nationals are beginning to see that they are being made the mere tools of the Reformers, and, secondly, that some Conservatives who had been lead away by the excitement of last year find on reflection that they had impulsively taken a wrong step.

The fact still remains, however, that by this dishonest and disloyal cry the Reformers have succeeded in their plot to add to their strength in the Province of Quebec and to excite sectional feelings which must inflict lasting injury upon the Dominion of Canada.

MR. BLAKE ON KANSAS.

MR. BLAKE, in a recent public speech at Brantford again had to betake himself to apologies for his past course. This time his excuses were for unpatriotic conduct in so puffing Kansas as a more attractive field for immigragts than the Canadian Northwest, that his panegyries were eagerly pounced upon and widely circulated by United States land agents to decoy settlers. Mr. Blake actually inflicted upon his Brantford hearers the weariness of hearing him read an enormous extract from his long speech in the House containing his unpatriotic utterances, hoping, no doubt, that in the crowd of words the real point would be obscured. But his main defence was an attack upon the Mail, for, as he alleges, recently publishing a similar statement. With our recent experience of Mr. Blake's dishonest use of forged extracts we are not prepared to admit his accuracy in this respect, but at all events the Mail is not the leader of the Conservative party, while Mr. Blake is the authorized and official leader of the Reform party.

Mr. Blake also endeavors to excuse himself by showing that the population of the Canadian North-West has not increased so rapidly as was hoped. In fairness Mr. Blake should take into account that his followers and political friends warned settlers not to come there, also the deterring effect of a rebellion, instigated by his friends and defended by himself and followers, he himself being in personal correspondence with the rebels.

THE GLOBE'S HERRING.

THE Toronto Globe devoted nearly two columns of its space to an editorial showing that it is customary and constitutionally correct to have a general election after an important extension of the franchise. It is an old trick of the Globe to raise a discussion on a point not in dispute, so as to distract attention, if possible, from real issues. It is granted that Mr. Mowat had a perfect right to advise a dissolution, but it is pointed out that it was a very small trick on the part of Mr. Mowat to mask his intention of a sudden appeal to the country so as to give his supporters the advantage as much as possible, by raising a clamour as to Sir John Macdonald's probable course, using for this purpose his rented organ the Globe, rented as truly as any tenant rents his dwelling house. This secrecy and duplicity is a comparatively small point, but there is another aspect of the case that is more serious. In order to carry out the constitutional theory of consulting the enlarged electorate Mr. Mowat might just as well have fixed the election for the end of January. He's taking money out of the pocket of every merchant whose goods have a greater demand in the holiday season (and this in very comprehensive) by holding the election between Christmas and New Years day, was not necessitated by the constitutional rule, but was perpetrated by Mr. Mowat in order the better to evade public opinion, and without the slightest regard to the injury thus inflicted.

The Globe, Mr. Mowat's hired organ, evades these points under pretence of discussing what is not disputed.

COWARDLY AS KNAVISH.

WE find the following, with much besides equally far from the truth, in a Globe editorial:—

"Mr. Cameron made in the House of Commons, in presence of the responsible Ministers whom he accused of misconduct and neglect of duty, the very same charges he has since made on many platforms."

Mr. M. C. Cameron, the champion slanderer of the House, and a competitor with Mr. H. H. Cook for the championship in corruption, is, like many other rascals, a coward also. He made his charges against the Indian Department, supported by forged extracts from the official reports, in the absence of the responsible Minister, Sir John Macdonald, then holding the portfolio of Indian affairs. He did this knowing that Sir John had been seriously ill, but that he was so far recovered that he would be in his place, as was announced, in a day or two. Mr. Cameron would not wait for a few days, but like a cur he seized the opportunity of making his slanderous attack in the absence of the Minister. The business at the end of the session did not admit of time for a reply—it would take many days to trace out all Mr. Cameron's crafty forgeries, so a pamphlet exposing them has been issued as promised. Any who prefers to consult the reports and compare them with Mr. Cameron's forgeries, can come and inspect the blue books.

THE only excuse made in behalf of Mr. Mowat for depriving Mr. Mercer's son of Mr. Mercer's property after he had made a solemn official promise not to fleece any one in such circumstances, is that he could not bear to encourage immorality. So to encourage morality Mr. Mowat built with the Mercer money a residence for women of more or less damaged morals and sets them to take in family washing, thus depriving of the work the many women of good morals who would be glad of the employment. The Reform Ministers of Justice were wrong in their law when they vetoed Mr. Mowat's Escheats Act and when they contested his claim to an escheat in the Courts, but it must be admitted that they had some ground for doubting that Mr. Mowat was a fit person to have the control of such property.

IN the list of nominations for the Provincial Legislature as given by the Globe appears the name of Pacaud as the Ministerial candidate for North Essex. This Pacaud, the standard bearer and persona friend and employe of Mr. Mowat, is the vile slanderer who denounced our gallant volunteers as murderers of wounded men, outragers of women and thieves. He assailed as murderers the Canadian authorities, judicial, legislative, administrative and military, because they suppressed a rebellion and brought a murderer to justice. Such is Mr. Mowtt's supporter and ally.

MR. MOWAT is very fond of working men, but he has an even greater fondness for thieves. He has resolved to build enormously expensive Parliament Buildings in Toronto at the expense of the tax-payers of the whole Province, the very foundations costing more than the sum appropriated by the Legislature for the whole building, and to lighten the burden to honest working men Mr. Mowat has arranged that the bricks shall be made by convicts. Yet Mr. Mowat is now asking the working men to give him their votes. We think the working men will stand by their friends.

THE London Advertiser thinks that Mr. Cameron of Huron has been a source of great annoyance to Conservatives. If a chimney sweep runs up against a cricketer in white flannels he is undoubtedly a source of annoyance. Mr. M. C. Cameron is a sweep morally and he is an annoyance to all honest men with whom he comes in contact. Mr. Blake has been rubbing up against Mr. Cameron till there is little to choose between them in regard to foulness.

CONDEMNED BY A FRIEND.

Paralyzing Effect on Trade — Needed Business Activity Sacrificed by Mowat.

The Kingston Whig, an ultra Reform journal, gives editorially the following raps to Mr. Mowat for his wanton injury to the merchants by robbing them of the expected profit of the holiday season by his premature general election, which might as well have been held in January:—

"It was the general expectation that there would be another session, an early one, begun early in December, continued until the end of January, and followed by an appeal to the people. This was believed to have been the original purpose of the Government, and there has no doubt been good and sufficient reason for the change. The culmination of the excitement usually attendant upon an event of this character comes at an awkward time, when the people are wont to give themselves up unreservedly to domestic felicity. The campaign may be a drawback to business and it may not. It usually has a paralizing effect upon trade; hence the haste with which the end is sought once a dissolution of parliament has been determined upon. The Christmas festivities are, of course, of a dominent kind, and they may be sufficiently powerful to soften political asperity and force that business activity for which our merchants are so much in need. Let us hope so at any rate."

NORTHWESTERN SETTLERS.

Letter By the Late Capt. E. Brown, a Victim of the Rebellion.

We were the advance guard of the immense immigration that came in here that summer, and every summer since. We were here nearly a month before we saw any strangers; then they commenced to come in steadily and gradually, until all the even sections of land (between the Birdtail Creek on the south, Shell River on the north, Assiniboine River on the west, and the Big Woods on the east) and most of the odd sections, or railway lands, have been taken up, covering an area of between five hundred and six hundred square miles.

That summer one of our most enterprising settlers, Mr. Denmark, whose friends live in Campbellford, Ont., started a general store, which I assure you was of great benefit to the settlement. We could buy provisions, clothing, &c., there, at a little advance on Birtle or Fort Ellice prices; but it saved us going to those places, a distance of thirty-five or forty miles.

In the autumn another great advantage was conferred upon the settlement, namely, having a post office located here, with Mr. Denmark as postmaster. We then received our mail every three weeks; now we get it fortnightly

Last summer the immigration was very large; settlers pushing away beyond us, who could not get land near the Shell, and now a great deal of land has been taken up across the Assiniboine and Shell Rivers.

First of July, 1881, was loyally observed in this settlement; all congregating for a picnic, where games, &c., were indulged in. It was very enjoyable, indeed. That day everybody knew everybody else. Last Dominion Day was celebrated also, but everybody didn't know everybody else, for where the year before there were upwards of one hundred collected together, last year there were probably four times that number. In the fall of 1881 we were joined to the Province of Manitoba, and the first election was held for the Local House. Since then we have had three elections, and are on the eve of another, the member we returned last, Mr. Leacock, having been appointed to the Cabinet.

In 1882 we formed our first Municipal Council, with Major Boulton as Warden. This year the Councillors were nearly all elected by acclamation, myself amongst the number. In 1881 Major Boulton removed from the land he first took up and went south, and founded the future city of Russell. It now contains three stores, two hotels or stopping places, and two or three private houses and a town hall, and on days when the mail comes in it is quite a lively looking place. This is about twelve miles south of the Shell River.

The settlers here are of a very superior class. In our immediate neighbourhood the majority are from the Old Country, and a number of them men of means. The majority of them are young and bachelors. Several weddings have already taken place amongst our immediate friends, and two or three more are to come off soon. We have a resident Church of England minister at Russell, who visits our part of the settlement the first and third Sundays of the month. We are about eight miles from Russell and four from the Shell River. Several balls and large dances have come off and very enjoyable evenings have been spent. Dancing is always kept up till daylight next morning.

Walter and I are working together. One of us goes out for a few months to earn ready money to keep things moving, and the other works at home, and then the other goes out, and so on turn about. In this way we can fulfill our settlement duties by living and working on our places six months out of the year. At first we lived in a little log shanty on my place, and while living there built a good log house on Walter's land, in which we are now living. We are now getting out timber for a log house on my place, which I will build next summer. We only put in our first crop last year, and had a very good return. I shall be perfectly satisfied if we have as good every year. The summer season seems very short, yet all kinds of grain come to maturity. When people have good seed it is their own fault if it does not turn out well.

One blessing enjoyed here is good health. I never felt so well in my life as I do at this moment, and with the exception of a slight cold now and again, I have never had a day's illness in the four years I have been in the country. In fact it does not pay to get sick. There was one serious case of illness in the settlement this winter, and the doctor was called from Birtle two or three times. His charge was forty-five dollars a visit, and that wouldn't suit a poor man.

Some of the views are very beautiful on the Shell and Assiniboine rivers. The streams in this part of the country are in some places some hundred feet below the level of the prairie. The valleys are wide, and the streams wind in and out through them. One can stand on the top of the bank and look down into the valley; the river looks very small from there, but when one gets down to it one finds it a large and rapid river. I made a trip down the Shell river last spring from the lumber woods. It is about 70 miles by land, and must be over 300 by water, the river winds so much.

I have several times wished myself at home again, but within the last year everything has been going on so smoothly with us and we are making such comfortable homes that I have no wish to leave, but had I known what was before me, I would never have ventured into the country. Now I am convinced that I am much better off here than in Ontario. A person leaving for Manitoba to take up land thinks of it as a holiday trip, but the illusion soon vanishes when they once leave railway communication and strike across the prairie. If one wishes to get on they must work and work hard. Thank goodness, I was brought up on a farm and knew pretty well what hard work was, or I should never have been able to stand it. Those settled here, who were brought up in luxurious homes, and never did a hard day's work till they came out here, have pluckily stuck to it and are doing well; but a good many are taking it pretty easy, and when what money they have got is done they are done. I find it is a very prevalent idea amongst a great number who come to the North-West, that one has just to come in and turn over the sod with the plough, throw the grain down anyway, and sit still till it is ready to harvest. This is a most mistaken idea; the prairie land gets better for crops the more it is worked. It is so choked up with weeds, etc., that it takes a great deal of working and cropping to kill them off. A great many settlers coming in in the spring are always in a great hurry to get some land plowed to put in a crop on what is called the first breaking. From what has come under my personal observation, putting in a crop on the first breaking is the greatest mistake a man can make. No one crop out of ten put in in this way will come to maturity. The frost will catch it before it can ripen, and it is then fit for little or nothing. I grant you there are exceptional cases. We now and then see in the papers; "Mr. So-and-so has forty bushels of oats to the acre off the first breaking." He might have had that, but five hundred might try the same and not succeed, consequently I hold it is a waste of time to put in any kind of crop the first spring a person takes up land.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration, important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettsburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery; Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and lungs, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moling, Hilliard, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twelve years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran Home," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise nothing that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am sure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and have recommended it to others with the happiest results." L. J. Addison, M. D., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

John J. Uhlman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a skilful physician to be very dangerous, and liable to terminate in Pneumonia. After using one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I found great relief, and an occasional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. V. M. Thebaud, Montreal, Canada, writes: "Last spring my daughter was attacked by membraneous croup, or diphtheria. The doctor prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her of the diphtheria. Being still very weak and sick, she began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which restored her to vigorous health."

Plan of the hall for reserved seats at A. L. Davis' bookstore.

Discontented People.

What a pity it is that there is so much of discontent and so little of true contentment in the world. Some people are forever grumbling. They go to bed grumbling, rise up in the morning grumbling, and grumble at everybody and everything during the whole day. It is next to an impossibility to do anything that will please them. They live in a perfect state of discontent always, and, as a rule, are left to do so, for others will shun them as they would the sting of the adder, preferring to associate themselves with people who are not always looking at the dark side of things in general. Discontented people are to be pitied, indeed. There is some excuse for a man to grumble at an ill-fitting suit of clothes, but if he is not content with wearing them, throw them off altogether, and go to A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, and try if the clothes turned out there will not bring genuine happiness and contentment.

A SWINDLER'S GAME.

A Dodge to Trap the Unwary—How it is Worked.

A prominent citizen of Peterborough received the following "private and confidential" letter a day or two ago, and in order to put others on their guard who may have received similar epistles has handed it in for publication:—

DEAR SIR,—Thinking you are in a position to safely handle my goods I have concluded to write you. If I have made a mistake do me no harm, let the matter drop, I am willing to prove myself your friend if you are desirous of engaging in this speculation, if you don't care to invest in this enterprise I hope you will excuse the liberty I have taken in making the proposition. My business is not legitimate, but the goods I deal in are safe and profitable to handle. The sizes are Ones, Twos, Fives, Tens and Twenties. Do you understand? If you conclude to answer this letter I will send you full particulars and terms, and will endeavor to satisfy you on every point that if you are my friend I will prove a true and lasting one to you. If you have been unsuccessful in your business I can supply you with goods with which you can pay off all your debts and start free and clear again. You can purchase mortgages, in fact my goods can be safely used, the same as any money you ever handled in your life. It was never intended that one man should have millions of dollars and another nothing. So don't throw away this chance to make a fortune. Others have grown rich around you, no one knows how, why not help yourself? I manufacture the goods, so in trading with me you purchase from first hands, and no one shall ever know what passes between us. Answer at once and be sure to return this letter or you will not hear from me again. I shall return your letters and you must do the same. Write no one else about this business, for if you do I shall know it, and you will never get the article. I intend sending letters to see if you will write any one else; remember this, and look out for other letters. I don't think it safe to trust people with my goods who are willing to write any and every one on such a subject. As an evidence of good faith on your part, I ask you to send me all letters you may receive in relation to this matter. I shall send others to you and will know whether you return them to me or not. Give me your name and post office address plainly written so that I can write plain to you and no mistake. Now act honorable to me in this matter, and before God I will do the same by you from first to last, and let Heaven judge the traitor. I consider it no sin to engage in a business of this kind when there are others in Washington who do the same, and I know it from years of experience. These goods are not counterfeits, but far better, and so help me God, safer. There are others who will send you printed and small written circulars to try to get you to trade with them, but I here promise you before Almighty God in heaven I am the only person who can sell you these goods, all other dealers must buy them from me, to get the right article, and if you want me to have full confidence in you send me the letters and circulars you will receive from others who are trying to imitate me, for should you correspond with them and get a poor article you have no one to blame but yourself, for God knows I speak from my heart, and time will prove me your friend if you need my assistance, as I can help you out safely, or any friend you may have who is in money troubles, and no person need be the wiser for it, and in the face of heaven and earth I am committing no sin to help those in distress, and to save their homes from being sold over their heads by hard-hearted sheriffs and creditors.

Remember, write to no one else but me. I am the only person from whom you can obtain these goods. Return to me the printed circulars you will receive, for I shall send printed ones and others, and if they are not returned to the address written on this slip, I will know you are not acting in good faith, and you will never get the goods, not if you were willing to pay dollar for dollar. Now be particular, and do as I request you, for if you do not you will lose the chance to make a fortune. Address as follows:

Yours, heart and true friendship,
Z. L. HOPPER,
Box 20, 5 East 4th street, New York.

The way that the Hopper class of gents manage their business is this: After preliminery correspondence they send a sample of their "goods" in the shape of a $2 bill or a $5 bill. This they direct you to take to a bank to see if it is good. The banker tells you it is, for it is a genuine bank note. Thus assured you contrive to buy their bills the ratio being one to ten—thus, if you send $100 they will agree to send $1000. But they never send it. They will also agree to a personal interview. If you agree to this and go to New York they lead you artfully along till you can't tell where you are. In their power once you must invest in their bills. You may see it bundled up labelled and expressed to your address, but when you open it you will find nothing but blocks of wood or other rubbish. If you decline to have it parcelled up they will smilingly place the amount bought in your pocket, bid you good day and wish you luck. But just as you are about to quit the place a man comes up to you, looks sharply at you and demands your business there. If you hesitate he commands you authoritively to tell what you are doing there. You tell him. Do you know what that place is? he asks. It is a counterfeit's den, and I am going to arrest the gang. He goes back with you, covers the whole gang with a brace of revolvers and then states that he must search you. He finds the money on you and arrests you along with the others. The gang pay over an immense sum to the party in the role of the detective to settle the matter and you are glad to escape with a whole skin. If once committed to these scamps there is no escape. Your very correspondence may be used by them to blackmail you in a hundred ways. Once having you in their power they can force you deeper and deeper, and if you resist they hold your letter over your head. A business man may have his credit utterly ruined by even as much as corresponding with these rascals.

A Great Day.

Tuesday next the Salvation Army are going to have a visit from Major Margetts and 12 officers who are going east. Adjustant Boulton will be sworn in as the new divisional officer for Peterborough Division. Holiness meeting at 3 p.m. Wonderful march at night and then a great jubilee—timbrel and brass bands. Admission 10 cents.

Personal.

The employes of the printing offices in Peterborough will regret to learn of the death in Chicago of Mr. Arthur Haskell, a young man who formally worked in the REVIEW. The cause of his death was Asthma, a disease that he has been troubled with for years.

Mr. John French, formerly of Peterborough, and now living in Midland city, is here for a few days renewing old acquaintances.

THE ONTARIO ELECTION.

Change of Date—Another Sudden Shuffle by Mr. Mowat.

It is officially announced by the personal organ of Mr. Mowat that the date of the general elections for the Province has been changed. The dates named for the present are: The nomination on Dec. 21st and the polling on Dec. 28th. This we are told will necessitate the new voters list being in the hands of the clerks of the Peace on Friday, Dec. 3rd.

Battalion Drill.

The City Battalion held a special drill on Friday evening, at which there was a good attendance. The battalion will turn out for church parade to-morrow. The volunteers will assemble at the drill shed at a quarter past ten o'clock and march to St. John's Church at 10.30.

The Market.

This morning's market was attended by the usual throng. There was a great quantity of dressed meats of different kinds offered; a considerable movement in grain took place; the offer of apples fair, but that of vegetables, particularly potatoes, was light. Butter, eggs and fowl were offered in the usual large quantities and brought fair prices.

Accepted.

This afternoon at an adjourned meeting of West Riding Reformers, Mr. Geo. A. Cox after a week and a half's consideration, accepted the nomination as the Reform candidate to contest this riding against Mr. Stevenson. In the few remarks he offered he stated that he knew he was entering into a contest which was very discouraging. For four elections the Conservatives had carried the riding, but if he had the support of the party he would accept.

C. P. R. Service.

On and after Monday, Nov. 22nd, the Winnipeg express trains going west at 8.39 a.m. and east at 7.53 p.m. will only run between Toronto and Havelock. A new through train will be put on to run from Toronto via Northern and Northwestern Railway to Winnipeg and Pacific coast. This new arrangement will shorten the distance from Toronto by two hundred miles. Mr. Dunn or Mr. Elliott will supply full particulars.

Knights of Labor.

At a meeting of the Knights of Labor held on Wednesday evening, the 17th inst., a motion was unanimously carried, declaring that the society having heard upon reliable authority that certain tailors and shoemakers have refused to pay the union bill of wages, it was resolved that the members of Knights of Labor No. 6,938, will not in future patronize such establishments refusing to pay the legitimate wages decided by their respective unions. adv.

Orange Blossoms.

On Thursday afternoon the marriage of Mr. S. Fitzgerald to Miss Maggie, daughter of Mr. Joseph Buller, took place at the residence of the bride's father, King street, Mr. Alex. Elliott acted in the capacity of groom, and Miss Florence White as bridesmaid. The Rev. J. W. R. Beck performed the marriage ceremony. After the nuptial celebration the usual congratulations were in order. The bride's many friends wished her joy in a very substantial way, there being a large number of handsome presents sent to her. Among them was a beautiful silver tilting water pitcher, the gift of Messrs. Porter Bros., with whom Mr. Fitzgerald is engaged. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald went west on their wedding trip.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidental friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. MONDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1886.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

RETAINED FOR MR. MOWAT.

Motto for the Globe for the next six weeks: "Nelson expects every Grit to do his duty." —Toronto World (Indep.)

NOT MR. MOWAT.

Of course a general election right in the middle of the Christmas season will be bad for business—but what Cadadian cares about business anyhow when politics are concerned?—Toronto News (Indep.)

A LITTLE MISTAKE.

A special despatch to the Star says that the Ontario Legislature has been dissolved. Nomination day is fixed for December 22nd and election day for December 29th. This is entirely unexpected, as Mr. Mowat is not obliged to go to the country until 1887. It looks as if, when the Globe and Mr. Blake announced that they had information that the Dominion elections were to take place immediately, they had mistaken a confidential note from Mr. Mowat for one from Sir John.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

A SLY TRICKSTER.

The Globe was awfully afraid Sir John would spring the elections, and while it was keeping both eyes upon the Old Man, Oliver Twist slipped around and pulled the string. Who is trying to take the electorate by surprise this trip? Certainly not Sir John. Mr. Mowat's coup puts his organs once more upon the defence of their own words, put it also puts the Tories on their backs, temporarily, at least. Their only consolation is that after every spring there comes a fall.—Toronto World (Indep.)

MOWAT THE ARCH-TRICKSTER.

It is a stroke of strategy worthy of the arch-trickster himself. The suddenness and secrecy with which everything has been arranged, and the cunning evinced in warding off suspicion by diverting attention to Ottawa as the quarter whence the announcement of the opening of the political fray was likely to emanate, show a master hand at the game.—Toronto News (Indep.)

PUPILS UNFAIRLY TAXED.

The Education Department of Ontario have committed many serious blunders, to use no harsher term, since the advent of Mr. Ross. Perhaps that gentleman is not fairly chargeable with the perpetuation of the monopoly system under which the parents of pupils are taxed by the payment of extortionate prices for text books for the benefit of a greedy ring of publishers. But the evil has been greatly intensified by the frequent changes in school books, owing to the continual authorization of new and often very inferior works, to make room for which the old ones are thrown aside. Government favorites are given a bonus at the expense of the public, by being thus permitted to foist trashy and worthless compilations of their own upon the Department, in place of much better standard text books.—Toronto Labor Reformer (Labor).

LONDON SOCIALISTS.

Meeting in Trafalgar Square—Incendiary Banners.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Socialists marched to-day from fifteen outlying points to Trafalgar square. The various bodies were headed by bands of music, and the paraders carried banners bearing incendiary inscriptions. Among the mottoes were, "By heavens, our rights are worth fighting for," and "Work for all, overwork for none." Some of the men carried Phrygian caps on poles. As the southern contingents crossed Westminster bridge the bands played the "Marseillaise." The people in windows of the Government offices were hooted at. When the paraders passed through Downing street they hissed Lord Randolph Churchill. The sight of the Horse Guards' sentries incensed the mob, which fairly howled with rage. An officer closed the gates and the mob proceeded. The East end sent a full force and two bands of music.

When speaking began there were present 5,000 Socialists, 25,000 unemployed workmen and criminals, and 20,000 spectators. The speakers included Messrs. Hyndman, Champion and Burns. A resolution was adopted calling upon the Government to relieve the distress existing among workingmen. A deputation of ten proceeded to Lord Salisbury's house, on Arlington street. They were received by the concierge, who stated that Lord Salisbury had gone to Hatfield house. The deputation grumbled and retired, leaving a copy of the resolution adopted by the meeting.

The crowds at the meeting dispersed in an orderly manner, but the police afterwards found a difficulty in clearing the square. The mounted police charged and gradually moved the people. All is quiet to-night.

The Lord Mayor will form a Council to enquire into the prevailing distress with a view to affording relief during the coming winter.

INTERFERING WITH TRADE.

A Strong Reform Journal Expresses the Selfishness of Mr. Mowat.

This is what the Reform Hamilton Times thought a few days ago of the holiday election, when it imagined that Sir John Macdonald, not Mr. Mowat, would be the culprit. Mr. Mowat's organ discribes Mr. Mowat's conduct very lucidly as follows:—

"Allowing for a legal time that must elapse between the proclamation of the dissolution of parliament and the day of polling, the Dominion elections cannot take place until some time in December. Unless there is to be a perfect rush, leaving to neither party time to perfect organization, and full discussion of the issues involved, the polling can hardly come off before January. The effects of the excitement upon the Christmas holiday trade will be the reverse of beneficial. However, Sir John Macdonald's reason for not letting parliament live out its full term is a personal reason, and he is not the man to let even the triumph of his party, to say nothing of the convenience of the country, stand in the way of the personal interests. Whether defeated or successful in the elections, he will not long be the leader of the Conservative party, and he appreciates the danger (to himself) of delay in accepting the otium cum dignitate upon which he has set his heart. When business men find politics interfering with trade, they can put it down as another item in the price of Sir John's services. He is never backward in calling upon his friends to make sacrifices for him." —Hamilton Times, Nov. 12.

THE "NATIONALIST" DODGE.

All Men Dubbed "Hangmen" Who Will not Join the Reformers.

The Montreal Star, an independent journal, gives the following extract from the French Canadian press, showing how the Rouges are making the "National" cry a mere trap to secure allfes for the Reform party:—

"Le Patrie announces that the Liberal party has resolved to oppose Mr. Girouard in Jacques Cartier, and Mr. Desjardins in Hochelaga, not because they didn't vote right on the Riel question, but practically because they wouldn't become Rouges. Mr. Desjardins didn't work in Mr. Mercier's favor at the late elections, so his Riel record goes for nothing. Le Canadien remarks on this head that what the Liberals call a pendard, is one who does not become Liberal, does not help the Liberal leaders, does not profess Liberal principles. Nationalism is nothing else. It always behooved National Conservatives to take care how they got in with the Liberals, and to treat with them as from power to power. They have now opened their eyes, and the work of cohesion is rapidly and surely going on amongst the Conservatives. Le Courrier du Canada says that if there is a man who has condemned the execution of Louis Riel publicly and energetically, it is Mr. Girouard, the member for Jacques Cartier. He protested in the collective telegram to Sir John prior to the 16th of November; he protested also after that date; he spoke on the Champ de Mars; he wrote in L'Etendard; he voted in the House against the Landry motion; he broke with his party on the Riel question; he sacrificed his political friendships and preferences, but he did not renounce his whole past. Therefore, Liberals "want to get rid of Mr. Girouard." Mr. Laflamme or Mr. Geoffrion, men of the Rouge school, will naturally fall into their places in the Blake ministry." Now as in 1872, the Liberal party is trying to work the national movement for its own benefit, and will then tear down the flag that protected their contraband goods. La Patrie says again that Mr. Girouard has come too late; everybody wants Mr. Laflamme back. This gentleman has already occupied the post of Minister of Justice in the Mackenzie administration. All the Liberals in the country are indignant at Mr. Girouard's conduct in the past. As Mr. Laflamme is incapable of presenting himself, Mr. C. A. Geoffrion will be the man and will receive an extraordinary majority.

MEREDITH ON MUNICIPALITIES.

Mr. Mowat's Invasions of Municipal and Local Self-Government Repelled.

In his address to the electors at Owen Sound, Mr. Meredith thus described the encroachment of Mr. Mowat upon our ancient rights of municipal and local self-government, and thus outlined the policy of the Conservatives:—

"These gentlemen were all the time charging the Administration of Sir John that it was grasping power in different provinces, that it was seeking to aggrandize itself by taking power from the Local Legislatures and centralizing everything in Ottawa. But while they urged this against Sir John, they themselves had been making serious encroachments on the municipal institutions of Ontario. Those municipal institutions were to a large extent framed by means of Reformers in days gone by; they were the bulwarks of the liberties of the people; they were the means by which the people influenced the Local Legislature, and they were the training grounds where our young men were educated to take upon themselves later on the higher duties of representatives of the people. (Loud cheers.) He charged Mr. Mowat's Administration with having attacked our municipal institutions, he charged that they had endeavored to shake the confidence of the people in them, and it would be the first duty of the Conservative party if it came into power completely to reverse that policy, to give to our municipal institutions wider powers, to enlarge rather than to curtail them. (Loud cheers.) One of the great disadvantages in connection with the administration of affairs was the system of distributing offices, and he thought the commencement of reform might well be made by placing in the hands of the local institutions patronage of a certain kind now dispensed by the Government in Toronto. (Hear, hear.) He admitted that politics sometimes entered into the composition of municipal and county councils, but not to anything like the extent that it did in the Local House, and consequently the offices he had referred to would be more liable to be filled fairly than under existing circumstances. (Hear, hear) No less than four important public offices in Ontario had remained vacant for nearly a year. The registrarship of the county of Carleton, which under the present system Mr. Mowat had the power to fill, for some reason they had failed to fill. The shrievalty of the County of Welland was another vacant office, and it was reported that a gentleman of whom they had all heard, Mr. Robert McKim—(laughter)—was anxious to get it. Then the county attorneyship in Toronto had been vacant nearly a year, but no appointment had been made. It was reported, however, that Mr. Badgerow, member for East York in the Legislature, was only waiting for the election, when he could gracefully retire and take the position. Another vacancy, somewhat recently created, was that of the shrievalty of Lincoln. In his own county the registrarship of North and East Middlesex had been unfilled for nearly a year, although it was reported that Major John Walker, famous in political history as the hero of the saying, "Come along, John. We've lots of money. Let's put down bribery and corruption," was to get it. (Roars of laughter.) The first plank then in the Conservative platform that he presented to them was, Reform in our municipal institutions, and an extention of their powers rather than a curtailment. (Cheers.)"

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

ITALY'S PROPOSAL.

ROME, Nov. 20.—Le Moniteur says: "Italy has proposed to Germany that the powers hold a conference to consider the Bulgarian question in all its aspects."

IMMENSE LOSS OF LIFE.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Information has been received that a ship whose decks were crowded with native laborers returning from the plantations in Queensland recently foundered in the Pacific Ocean and 14 persons were drowned.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Yesterday's Cabinet Council was the last at which Sir Michael Hicks-Beach will be present for some time, as he leaves immediately for Ireland. The Local Government bill, which will be introduced when Parliament meets, has now reached and advanced stage. It is the principal subject of discussion at present. The members of the Cabinet are not agreed as to the manner and extent in which its provisions shall apply to Ireland.

CHURCHILL TAKEN TO TASK.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—On the text of his speech to the London corporation, showing Radical tendencies on the question of the local coal and wine duties, the Standard bitterly attacks Lord Randolph Churchill for doing what he can to discredit the Conservatives, especially in casting an imputation on the property owing classes distinct from the working classes. It says:—"If the unfortunate owners of property are to be bullied by Conservative finance ministers as well as by the Radical ministers, the prospect before them is gloomy indeed." The Standard fears that Lord Churchill has hitherto been judged with an excess of charity. The impressions created by his latest effusion, it says, must be undone speedily, and the Conservatives will expect their leader to take the most full step to disown, in the name of the Cabinet, the mischievous ideas promulgated by Lord Randolph Churchill.

STILL ANOTHER THREAT.

SOFIA, Nov. 20.—General Kaulbars has demanded the liberation of the Montenegrins imprisoned at Bourgas, threatening that if they are not released he will resort to extreme measures.

PLEASED THE CZAR.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 20.—The Czar has telegraphed his warm thanks to the official whom the Bulgarian Regent Mutkuroff arrested for service in the Russian cause, and has granted the man a pension and a decoration.

"STEEPLE JACK" OUTDONE.

VIENNA, Nov. 20.—"Steeple Jack," who climbed the steepie of the cathedral on the Emperor's birthday, on August 28, and fixed a flag to its peak, recently ordered another flag at a decorator's, intending to repeat his performance on the occasion of the Empress' birthday on December 24. He incautiously disclosed his intention to one of the decorator's apprentices, a slender, delicate looking boy, and the lad yesterday forestalled the adventurous "Steeple Jack" by climbing the steeple himself and fastening the flag to the top, ascending by the lightning conductor and descending in safety amid the shouts and cheers of an admiring crowd.

SEVERE FIGHTING IN BURMAH.

RANGOON, Nov. 20.—Severe fighting is reported between the British and native troops at Myogyee, in which sixty Burmese were killed and a large number wounded. The British loss is not specifically stated, but reports intimate that it is small.

THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The committee of the Imperial Institute announce that they have advised the Prince of Wales that it would be unwise to utilize the late Colonial and Indian Exhibition or one of a similar character as part of the Imperial Institute. There is not now sufficient time left in which to complete the preparations in 1887, as was originally proposed, and indeed the form of the Institute has not yet been decided upon. The committee say that most of the statements made by the Times concerning the Institute are incorrect.

THE IRISH CAUSE.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Mr. Gladstone, replying to a resolution of confidence adopted at a meeting in Bradford, writes as follows:—"Even the disasters of a party redound in its honour when they arise from sacrifices due to public principles and to conscientious conviction such as are the cause from which we suffer. But patience, quiet firmness and moderation in the demands and conduct on the part of Ireland, the gradual extension of historical information and the progress of reflection on the subject will in no long time bring about the triumph of the right."

DEPARTURE OF KAULBARS.

SOFIA, Nov. 21.—Gen. Kaulbars and his staff departed from Sofia yesterday. Only twenty persons were at the station to bid the Gen. farewell. The town was decorated with flags and illuminated in honor of the first anniversary of the battle of Slivnitza.

RUSSIAN CONSULS RETIRE.

SOFIA, Nov. 21.—All the Russian consuls have left Bulgaria. The French consul here will protect the Russian subjects, the German consul having refused to do so.

WILL NOT PAY RENTS.

DUBLIN, Nov. 21.—The Marquis of Lansdown having refused abatements, his tenants yesterday gave notice that they declined to pay their rents.

PRICE OF WHEAT.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—English farming returns for 1886 show that the unremunerative price obtained for wheat was due to foreign competition, a large decrease in the area of wheat and a corresponding increase in the area of grazing land.

THE ENGLISH MAIL.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Government has arranged with the Inman Steamship Company to take Tuesday's American mails; with the North German Lloyd steamship line to take Thursday's, and with the Guion line to take Saturday's. German steamers are to wait at Southampton until Thursday night for the arrival of mails for America. The vessels of the first and third named companies are to stop at Queenstown, and the Guion line are to use the Alaska and Arizona in carrying the mails under the new arrangement.

A FRENCH SENSATION.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Badischelandes Zeitung states that the German ambassador at Paris has been instructed to inform the French Government that their application to the Chambers for a credit of 140,000,000f. for military and naval supplies would be regarded by Germany as a declaration of war. The statement has caused a sensation in Paris, although its truth is doubted, the belief being that the German ambassador was only to enquire into France's relations with Russia and to ascertain whether the proposed credits have anything to do with those relations.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

ANOTHER MOWAT TRICK.

Mr. Mowat and his hired organ seem to grow more and more bold in their triumphant joy over petty trickery. In the "Political Intelligence" of the Globe on Nov. 18th appears the following:—

"Mr. Mowat already has two seats filled by supporters of his who will sit in the House next session—East and West Algoma. The Elections Act provides that the nominations and pollings for Algoma shall take place only between May 20 and Nov. 30, and that the members of the last House shall continue to sit in any session that may intervene between the disolution and the election for Algoma."

Thus on an authority only less near to Mr. Mowat than that of his own lips we learn that he is triumphing in the reflection that he has already secured the services of two supporters who do not represent the people. With his customary shrinkng from unbiased popular opinion, he is congratulating himself that two of the Ontario constituencies will have no opportunity of pronouncing their constitutional verdict on his conduct. He has secured an unfair advantage over his political opponents, a partial packing of the great jury of the Province, and in his petty chicanery he hugs himself with the delight of a gambler playing with cogged dice. Thus there leaks out another reason why Mr. Mowat was so eager for a mid winter session. He pretends to be anxious that the new voters scattered through the country should not be left for a session without an opportunity of voting, while in reality he was plotting to disfranchise two whole constituencies for this session.

ILLIBERAL REFORMERS.

WE are told that the recent election in Prince Edward Island is a crushing defeat for the Conservatives and that it presages a similar defeat for the supporters of the Macdonald Administration at the next general election for the Dominion.

The little Island of Prince Edward, the smallest of the Provinces of the Dominion, with a population little, if any, larger than that of Toronto, indulges in the luxury of two Chambers in the Provincial Legislature. At the last general election for the popular House, the manhood suffrage electorate gave an unmistakable Conservative majority. In the recent election for the Upper House, its restricted electorate gave a decision in favour of the Reformers, with the aid of those Conservatives who have a personal interest in the maintenance of the Upper House, the main point at issue.

There are, therefore, great rejoicings among Ontario Reformers, who claim that the verdict of the aristocratic electors for the Legislative Council shows the bias of public opinion in Prince Edward Island, though it is opposed to the verdict of the popular electorate for the Legislative Assembly.

This evidence that the mass of the people is Conservative no doubt accounts for the efforts of the Reformers under the Mackenzie-Blake Administration to disfranchise wholesale the bulk of the population of Prince Edward Island, a plan that was happily frustrated by the Conservatives. Your true "Grit" fears the people and dreads the popular vote, while in this respect, as in many others, it is the Conservatives who show themselves to be truly liberal.

A RIELITE LEADER.

THE following is a despatch sent by Mr. Mowat, in his official capacity, and therefore implicating the honor of Ontario:—

"To the Hon. H. Mercier, M.P.P., 88 Berri street:

"PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., October 16.—Have just received here the joyful news of your great triumph. I congratulate you and all our friends on your important victory; may your premiership be a long one and full of advantage to your province and the Dominion, and of honor to yourself.

"O. MOWAT, Prime Minister of Ontario."

This was sent to the Rielite leader in Quebec immediately on receipt of the news of the success of an electoral campaign, which was avowedly based on a cry of vengeance upon the Canadian authorities for the execution of Riel, the rebel and murderer. If Mr. Mowat is such an advocate of crime against Canada and its people, he might at least abstain from affixing to his treasonable congratulations his official title, identifying the Province of Ontario with his baseness. He should be deprived of the power of disgracing us further.

A FAIR FIELD AND NO FAVOR.

APPEALS to considerations of race and creed have in the political arena been very common of late. To show clearly our position on this subject, we wish to state briefly what has been our course in the past, as it will be in the future.

We have supported candidates of English, Irish and Scotch descent, and we have opposed candidates of each of these nationalities. We have supported candidates of the Roman Catholic, Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist Churches, and we have opposed candidates of each of these denominations. In no instance have we been influenced in our support or our opposition by the race, birthplace, or creed of the candidate, but by his political opinions and the policy he advocated. Such has been our course in the past, and such we trust may continue to be the course of the REVIEW and its friends in the future. We believe it is the only proper course—the only line of conduct that will secure the peace, the prosperity and progress of this Province and this Dominion. With a population of such mixed constituents as ours, there can be no safety or content on any other principle than that of perfect equality and fair play, without these disintegrating considerations being allowed to have weight either favorably or adversely.

THE Reform party is now advertising for subscriptions to a Reform campaign fund. It seems, to quote the advertisement, that "the rank and file" are not coming forward very readily. Thus the desired corruption fund is unsatisfactorily small. We all know what comes of the Reform campaign funds, for the corruption of Reformers is not a mere charge by political opponents, it is written on many a page of the records of our law courts.

MR. MOWAT'S hired organ the Toronto Globe threatens that if the Conservatives are allowed to remain in office there will be more rebellion and more bloodshed. It is possible that the disloyal portion of the Reformers will again make such an attempt, but as before it will be suppressed by the loyal men of Canada.

MR. MOWAT'S BUILDING.

Foreigners Preferred to Canadians, Thieves to Honest Workingmen.

Take the case of the new Legislative buildings at Toronto. First the Mowat government called for plans for those buildings from Canadian architects. Though some of those plans were excellent, Mr. Mowat threw them all aside on a flimsy pretense, and called in a foreign architect to make plans and to supervise the erection of the buildings. The Canadian plans were thrown aside because the buildings contemplated by them would cost $600,000, and the building snow to be erected will cost three times that sum.

Then the brick in the new buildings are to be made by convicts. The honest workingmen of Ontario will be called on to pay taxes for the new buildings, but none of them will be allowed to make the brick of which it will be built. The money to pay for the building will be earned by the sweat of honest labor, but every brick in its walls will have the curse of crime upon it, and will represent a wrong done to free men.—Hamilton Spectator.

ONE OF THE WORST ON RECORD.

The Loss of Life and Damage to Property by the Recent Storm.

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—The storm that prevailed over land and water over part of the North-West is now over and reports of losses coming in from points on the lakes show it to be one of the worst on record. A carefully compiled list of casualties shows the aggregate damage to be not less than $700,000 to $800,000, almost all in the loss or serious damage of vessels of the cheaper class, lake barges and towing schooners. The loss of life by reports already received is thirty-nine. Both the property loss and the number of fatalities will be swelled by the stray reports still to come in, for though the damage has been all done, it has not all been reported, nor probably all even discovered yet.

A MILLION AND A HALF.

A Family in Cape Breton Heirs to an Immense Fortune.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 20.—The American branch of the Ball family may rejoice. Several families of Balls living at Sydney, Cape Breton, have received letters from a firm of solicitors in London that $1,500,000 has been left them by some relatives in England long since deceased. The Ball family here were related to Sir Alexander Ball, at one time an Admiral in the British Navy, and who fought in the battle in which Lord Nelson received his fatal wounds. Afterwards Sir Alexander was appointed Governor at Malta. He had one son, Sir William Ball, to whom he willed his estate. The will, however, stated that if Sir William died without issue the estate was to go to one Ingraham Ball and his heirs, who was the father of the Ball family now living at Ball's Creek, Cape Breton. The will, however, was tampered with by one of the solicitors of Sir William Ball, and after many years of litigation, judgment was recently given in favour of John Ball's heirs for $500,000. The letter containing this pleasing intelligence has been received by the family. Last week Mr. Murray Dodd, M. P., of Sydney, who has been corresponding with a legal firm in London, received a letter stating that the sum of $1,500,000 was held by a bank at Melecose, Scotland, for the Ball family in Cape Breton. A meeting of the heirs is being held in Sydney to-day for the purpose of taking steps to get the money.

A BATCH OF MURDERERS.

Cruel Killing of a Man For His Money—Commutation of Sentence.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—The sentence of James Maxwell, who with Peter Derose and James Connoly, was sentenced to be hanged at Lyton, British Columbia, on the 24th of November for the murder of Thomas Dillman, has been commuted to imprisonment for life. A respite has been granted in the case of Derose and Connoly until the mental condition of Derose can be inquired into. It will be remembered that during the month of October last Peter Derose, James Connoly, James Maxwell and Thomas Dillman, the latter coming from Minneapolis, startrd out to look for work on the mainland of British Columbia and not finding employment tramped their way towards Kamloops. Dillman had some money with him, which was known to the other members of the party, but when asked by Derose to lend him a few dollars he refused and left his comrades and travelled alone to Lyton, where he arrived the day preceding the murder and took shelter in an unoccupied hut, where he was killed. At five o'clock in the morning of the day the murder was committed the three men were seen by a man named Rice climbing over the fence enclosing the grounds around the hut where Dillman slept. On circumstantial evidence the three were arrested and on examining their clothing, a large number of blood stains were found upon them, which the medical man called as witness swore was human blood. It was proved by another witness that the blood-stained clothing of Derose was the same he had worn on the morning of the murder. He had endeavoured to cover over the stains with paint found in a tunnel near Yale, but failed.

Alleged Libel on a Priest.

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—Rev. Mr. Lynch, a retired priest, residing near Cornwall, has taken an action against the Witness here for $15,000 damages for publishing an alleged libel, in a paragraph in its issue of the 20th of October last, casting a stain on the plaintiff's moral character.

I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. NORTHWESTERN SETTLERS.

Letter By the Late Capt. E. Brown, a Victim of the Rebellion.

Had I to start over again the following would be my plan of work. We will suppose I reach the portion of the country I am going to early in May; I would select my land, and would always take land with a good deal of wood on it. I would pitch my tent and immediately start to plough, and would plough as much as I thought I could work well, say twenty acres, or even ten would satisfy me. I would then get logs for a shanty; the smaller it is the better for winter, as it keeps warmer. I would build this in a sheltered place, and my stable near it. That would keep me busy until haying time in July. I would then cut all the hay I could, whether it was more than I wanted or not; then in August or early in September plough again what I had ploughed in the spring, and it will be ready for seeding the next spring. Before winter comes get a supply of wood to the shanty; a week or ten days will do that. With first good sleighing hunt up seed, grain, etc., for next year. In the winter time get out rails and timber for a good log house. There are lots of days in the winter when it is not safe for man or beast to be out, and if one hasn't a supply of wood on hand it will be miserable work hunting it up on a cold, stormy day. The real reason why a great many run this country down, is that in winter time they are utterly unable, or too lazy, to keep good fires going. If a house or shanty is well plastered, and one keeps lots of good dry wood on hand, and manages to keep the fire going, they can very easily keep warm. It is a noticeable thing here, that a Canadian's house is very seldom cold, and there is always a good fire burning and lots of wood to put on it. Another reason a great many feel the cold, is, that they sit in the house all day and every day and when they have to go any distance they feel the cold much more than those who do a few hours' work every day out doors. There are far more grumblers in that respect among the men than the women. Some get very severely frostbitten, and sometimes I think is their own fault too, and is in a great many cases caused from the reasons I have stated above. People do not do enough active work, and do too much sitting over their stoves.

Another very wrong thing published in all these pamplets, that are circulated to encourage emigration that is, the amount it will cost one to start on a farm here is generally put down at five or six hundred dollars. It is a great shame that people are deluded by this. There is no doubt five hundred dollars would give some a good start, but it is nothing like enough for the majority. If a man wants to take up land, he can start with anything from the amount required to enter the land (twenty dollars) to thousands of dollars. If he is a man able and willing to work, he can start and work out for six months after he has entered his land and earn wages. He can with what he earns buy perhaps a yoke of cattle and a plough, and some provisions, and will then have to stay on his place six months. He can go on that way and in a few years he will be able to remain altogether on his place. But if person hasn't got an income of at least two or three hundred dollars a year, they must be prepared to hire out to earn a little ready money now and again, for no matter what quantity of produce a person may raise on their places it will not always take the place of money. There are settlers in this very settlement who have spent three and four and five thousand dollars, and can show no more for it than lots who have only spent a few hundred, for the simple reason that one had no money to start with and had to depend on his hard work to get on, and the other had money but preferred letting it go to working, and should the day come when the money supply runs short, it will be a sorry day for this man that he did not spend his money a little more judiciously, and work a little more himself.

If a person has a paying farm in Ontario or in the Old Country, I should never advise them to leave it, but for farmers' sons who have not a farm, this is no doubt the country for them. I think there is a great future in store for this country, and although I have sometimes wished I had never seen it, yet now we are both content and happy, and are in a much better condition than we expected to be when we "squatted" on our land three years ago. We fully intend to remain here till we receive the deeds for our own places, and then either sell out and take up land in another place, or remain and work and improve our places. We can always find plenty of work to do when we have to work out and earn a little money, and have plenty to do at home when we are there. We are about eight miles from the village (city) of Russell. Another very pretty town site has been laid out at the Shell river, about four miles from us, and a third on the Assiniboine river, about nine miles from us. We are in great hopes of a railroad coming near us soon, and should it touch any of these points I have named, we will be in a very central position. A remarkable feature at any large gathering is the predominance of bachelors, about twenty to one. Whenever a young lady comes to this part she scarcely remains single a year, but is picked up at once. Some of the bachelors, I must admit, are excellent housekeepers and can get up some capital dinners, especially if he is an Englishman; they have their cook books to refer to, and really get up first-class dinners. Sometimes there will be a dinner party at So-and-so's place, and twenty or twenty-five bachelors will be present. It generally comes off about six or seven in the evening, and the remainder of the evening is devoted to singing and telling stories. Sometimes So-and-so gives a dinner party to the ladies, and they always answer the invitation in person. Some of these gatherings are very jolly indeed.

In winter time here one sees some very extraordinary things in the sky. I noticed one morning, when the sun was about an hour high, a bright circle all around the sky just the height above the horizon that the sun was. There were three mock suns in this circle, one each in the south, west and north. Then immediately over the sun were half circles, some with the concave and convex sides of the circle towards the sun. It looked very strange indeed. The northern lights are very brilliant sometimes. Last summer was the most delightful season I ever saw; very little rain, just enough to make things grow, and sometimes days and days of fine weather. The two summers before were very wet.

Sunday, March 4th, 1883.

I am sure you will be weary of this lengthy epistle. I shall bring it to a close as soon as possible. Everything is looking very favorable for the coming season. There is every hope that we will have some railway communication near us sometime this year, and two boats I understand are going to run up the Assiniboine beyond Fort Ellice to the mouth of the Shell River and to Pelly. A great deal of lumbering has been going on up the Shell River and Birdtail Creek this winter, upwards of six million feet, which is very good for this country.

The winter has been perfectly lovely for some time, but I suppose we will soon get a change, now that March has come in.

Major Boulton went down to Ontario some time ago. He has to go to Peterborough and Lakefield. I only hope you may have seen him, and you will get much more valuable information from him than what I can give you.

Hoping this letter may prove a little interesting to you or any who have friends in the "Great Lone Land."

Believe me, my dear Mrs. Traill,
Yours sincerely,
ED. T. BROWN.

P. S.—Will you kindly tell me the publishers of your book "The Canadian Crusoes," and if it is still in print?

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

"HACKMETACK," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES,

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettisburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery; Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals O. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

SPECIAL FEATURES.

(with illustrations) include a series of articles on affairs in Russa and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of "Tent Life in Siberia," who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc., by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D., Editor of the Christian Advocate; astronomical papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

Scott Act.

At the Police Court this morning the hearing of two Scott Act cases was adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Gents Furnighings.

Those who requite gents furnishing, underwear, etc., should look at J. J. Sheehy's window. It speaks for itself.

Handsome.

The Oriental Hotel is now supplied with two dozen new and artistic platform rocking chairs, which will add still more to the comfort of its guests. They were furnished by Mr. M. McFadden, and are very handsome as well as comfortable chairs.

We are requested to announce that the special service of prayer on behalf of missions will not be held on Tuesday but on some day in the following week, notice of which will be given next Sunday. This service is to be general in the Anglican communion throughout the world.

Personal.

We regret to learn that Mr. John R. Hall, secretary of the Department of the Interior, is seriously ill at Ottawa. Mr. Hall is a son of the late Mr. Geo. B. Hall, Judge of the county of Peterborough, and a nephew of Mr. John J. Hall, onr collector of Inland Revenue.

All members of committees, and friends and supporters of Mr. Carnegie, are requested to attend the meeting as often as possible.

Music in Peterborough.

We call special attention to the notice of the Peterborough Musical Society in this issue. The society is starting out under very favorable circumstances in every respect, and we auger great success for the undertaking. There is a great deal of musical talent in Peterborough and it only requires energetic management under Mr. Seward's able training, to develop it. The society exhibit a praiseworthy feeling in postponing their practice so as not to interfere with Mr. Hoover's concert.

Closing Performance.

The Tavernier Dramatic Company closed a two weeks' engagement at Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday night, the popular comedy, "The Private Secretary," filling the bill. The title role was taken by Mr. A. Tavernier with satisfaction to all, and the others of the caste ably supported him. The drawing of the silver pitcher took place at the close of the performance, Mr. J. Butcher, a member of the orchestra, being the lucky man. The attendance was large.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

Mr. Hoover's Concert.

Mr. Hoover's grand concert, which takes place in Bradburn's Opera House, to-morrow evening, promises to be a great success. Among others Mrs. Caldwell, Herr Jacobsen and Mr. Thos. Dunn, the popular baritone, will take part. Of the singing of Mrs. Caldwell the New York Philharmonic Journal says:—"Mrs. Caldwell is a stranger here, and made her debut at these concerts. She is a brilliant singer, has great boldness in making her effects, taking very high notes with surprising ease and certainty, and displaying wonderful execution." Plan of hall at A. L. Davis'.

Discontented People.

What a pity it is that there is so much of discontent and so little of true contentment in the world. Some people are forever grumbling. They go to bed grumbling, rise up in the morning grumbling, and grumble at everybody and everything during the whole day. It is next to an impossibility to do anything that will please them. They live in a perfect state of discontent always, and, as a rule, are left to do so, for others will shun them as they would the sting of the adder, preferring to associate themselves with people who are not always looking at the dark side of things in general. Discontented people are to be pitied, indeed. There is some excuse for a man to grumble at an ill-fitting suit of clothes, but if he is not content with wearing them, throw them off altogether, and go to A. McNEIL, Habiliment Hall, and try if the clothes turned out there will not bring genuine happiness and contentment.

CHURCH PARADE.

The City Battalion go to St. John's to Attend Divine Worship.

On Sunday morning at a quarter past ten o'clock the City Battalion mustered in the drill shed for the purpose of attending church in a body. There was representatives from all the companies, together with the following officers:—Lieut.-Col. Rogers, Major Bell, Adjutant of the battalion, Capt. Edwards, Capt. Langford, Lieut. Lee, Capt. Rogers, Lieut. Hill, Capt. Burke, Capt. Cooper and Lieut. Hammond.

The battalion band, led by Drum Major Graham, headed the march, which was made along Murray street to George, down George to Hunter and up Hunter to St. John's Church. Arriving at the church the red coats were taken to the front seats, which were kindly set apart for them. The opening hymn sung was "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The Rev. Mr. French read the lessons and the Rev. J. W. R. Beck preached the sermon, taking for his text Acts x, 1-2—"There was a certain man in Caesarea called Cornelius, a centurion of the band called the Italian band. A devout man and one that feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people and prayed to God always."

The text described what might be called a type of the Christian soldier. Cornelius was a heathen; all that he knew of God he had gathered from his connection with God's people. He made use of the knowledge which God had granted to him. He was a devout man, as was said by St. Luke, and he gave much alms, and he was a man given to prayer always. He also had faith—so much as to astonish our Lord. When beseeching Jesus to come and heal his servant he disowned that his house was worthy to receive Jesus, but besought him simply to say the word and his servant would be made whole. The great lesson to be gathered from this was that we should live up to our knowledge of God. Cornelius was in peculiar circumstances of temptation, living as he did about two thousand years ago, when the light of Christianty had not overspread the earth as it does now. The darkness was just beginning to be dispelled. The Church was just founded. What a difference there was between the life and action of Cornelius and that of the Roman soldiers that took part in the crucifiction of Christ? He heard a new music; he had faith in the reality of the God of Isreal, and because he had faith the Lord brought him to the true light through the agency of Peter. This demonstrated God's wonderful power and wonderful mercy. By supernatural means he led this devout soul into the way of righteousness. Cornelius was instructed in a dream to go to Peter, and likewise Peter in a dream was instructed what to do and what to say.

After the service the choir sang "God Save the Queen." The battalion then formed into line and marched back to the drill shed.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Dr. Tassie, Principal of the Collegiate Institute.

On Sunday morning when Dr. Tassie, principal of the Collegiate Institute, rose rom his bed and partly dressed himself he sat down in a chair as he was accustomed to do. While busy in arranging his clothing he fell forward heavily to the floor in a kind of fit. He did not, however, lose consciousness, and in a few minutes after recovered. He remained in the house during the forenoon and at about 11 o'clock lay down on his bed. He slept till ten minutes to twelve o'clock. At waking he spoke to his sister who was sitting at his bedside, saying in a cheerful manner that he felt a great deal better. Before the clock struck twelve he was dead. The family physician, Dr. Burnham was called and the cause of death was pronounced to be apoplexy brought on by an affection of the heart.

The deceased was a man to whom educational interests in Canada owe much. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1815. and there at Trinity College he received his education. While still in the vigor of early manhood, being only nineteen years of age, he left home and came to Canada. He settled in Hamilton, and for a number of years was connected with educational institutions in that city. He left Hamilton to take charge of the Galt Grammar school, which institution he managed with marked ability. While in Galt, as in Peterborough, he had the education of a large number of boys under his personal supervision, and many of the prominent men of this province look back and credit their success in life to their thorough grounding in essental subjects at Dr. Tassie's hands. His strictness of dicipline, too, had the effect of grafting habits of punctuality and order on the characters of the boys under his care. Among others the Rev. D. J. Macdonell, of Toronto, was one of his former pupils, and, coming to our town, Mr. John Burnham, M. P., and Dr. Burnham were among them. After twenty-eight years as Principal at Galt, during which time the Gramar School was raised to the status of a Collegiate Institute, he went to Toronto and managed a private school with much success for two years. At this time he accepted the position of Principal of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, which position he held with credit to himself and the Institute till his untimely and much lamented death.

Since coming to Peterborough, two years ago, the deceased, by urbanity and courtly manners and impartial dealings in affairs relating to the Institute, has won the respect and esteem of every member of the staff and of his pupils; as well as the approbation of the Board of Education. All who knew him deeply regret the loss of one so faithful in the discharge of duty.

In the George and Charlotte street Methodist churches on Sunday evening the death of Dr. Tassie was referred to and prayers were ogered that the widow in this her hour of trial might be sustained, and sympathy with the congregation which had lost so useful a member was expressed.

Prof Reynor, of Victoria University, Cobourg, preached scholarly sermons in the George and Charlotte street Methodist Churches on Sunday.

Prof. Weldon, of McMaster Hall, Toronto, preached to large congregations in the Baptist Church on Sunday.

On Sunday next the new chancel in St. Luke's Church will be dedicated.

On Sunday evening the Rev. W. H. French, of Coldwater, occupied the pulpit in St. John's Church. Before commencing his discourse, he stated he had come to Peterborough to endeavor to obtain assistance for his mission, where it was necessary to build a new church. He described the circumstances of the mission, and then delivered an interesting and practical sermon.

At the close of the service in St. Paul's Church on Sunday evening, the Rev. E. F. Torrance spoke appropriately regarding the sudden death of a prominent member of the congregation, Dr. Tassie. "Last Sunday night he was sitting in the gallery yonder; to-night he is in eternity."

A MYSTERY OF THE SEA.

Horrible Discovery on a Stranded Schooner.

HUNTER'S POINT, L. I., Nov. 21.—The schooner Long Island, from Oyster Bay, ran ashore at Sea Cliff yesterday. Before she stranded the people of Sea Cliff noticed something strange. All sail was set but the craft drifted hither and thither until finally she drifted ashore. The party who boarded her found that she was abandoned. The after part of the vessel was besmeared with blood, while in the immediate vicinity of the wheel large pools were found, indicating that the man at the helm had been murdered and that his body had been cast into the sea. The Long Island was in command of Captain Thomas Carpenter, an old man, assisted by Henry Frank. The theory of the police is that Carpenter was murdered by Frank, or that both met their death at the hands of pirates or river thieves. The only boat the schooner had is missing.

A MURDER MYSTERY SOLVED.

The Assassin Traced from Pennsylvania to Italy and Arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—The mystery of the brutal murder of Guiseppe Davina, an Italian railroad laborer, who was found on October 21st, 1884, lying with his skull crushed in a ravine on the outskirts of Chester, Pa., was solved yesterday by the announcement of the arrest of a man in Italy, around whom the Philadelphia officials have formed a strong chain of circumstantial evidence. A fellow-laborer who had been seen with Davina before the murder, and who suddenly disappeared, was suspected of the murder. He was traced to New York, where he took a steamer for Italy. The case was then reported to the Italian Consul, who communicated with the home authorities, and to-day Count Galli notified Chief Kelly that Navaciante Clampi, the suspected man, was under arrest in griganto. A watch and chain, identified as the property of Davina, were found in the prisoner's possession. Under Italian law an Italian can be convicted and hanged in Italy for the murder of an Italian in a foreign country.

The Peterboro' Musical Society

THE PETERBOROUGH MUSICAL SOCIETY, in announcing that there will be no practice in their rooms to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, take this opportunity of intimating that, as the Society wishes to encourage legitimate musical enterprize in Peterborough, they have postponed their practice to Tuesday, the 30th inst., to give the members an opportunity of attending Mr. Hoover's Concert to-morrow evening. It is to be hoped in future that local talent will not fix upon Tuesdays for public concerts, as it interferes with the arrangements of the Society, and is also detrimental to the success of the concerts. Mr. Seward gives notice that the rudimentary class of the Society will meet at Hartley's Music Rooms on Monday evenings, until further notice. The object of this class is to give special instruction in local sight reading. It is hoped that members who wish to improve themselves in reading music at sight will take advantage of this very favorable opportunity.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. RUN DOWN BY A STEAMSHIP.

Collision in the St. Lawrence—Narrow Escape form a Serious Calamity.

QUEBEC, Nov. 22.—While the steamship Polino was coming up the river at 4.30 yesterday morning, and when off St. Patrick's Hole, a dark object was discovered right under the vessel's bows. The engines were immediately stopped, but too late to avoid a collision. The object proved to be the schr. Marie Seraphine, Captain Tremblay, which left Quebec at two o'clock yesterday morning bound to Isle Aux Coudres with a general cargo and nineteen passengers, including three women, besides the crew. It is stated that the schooner had no lights up at the time. The Polino struck the schooner on the starboard quarter, cutting her down to the water's edge. The vessel at once began to fill, causing great consternation among those on board. Capt. Lachance at once got out his two boats and saved all on board the sinking vessel. The crew of the steamer then attached a hawser to the Marie Seraphine, and, although the water was up to her deck, managed to tow her up to Quebec and placed her in the Louise basin. She was subsequently moved to Renaud's wharf, where she now lies, the tide flowing in and out of her.

Great praise is due to Captain Lachance and his crew for the prompt manner in which they acted after the accident. The Marie Seraphine came up to Quebec from Isle Aux Coudres a few days ago with a cargo of potatoes and fowl, and the passengers on board were returning home with their winter stock of flour and groceries, all of which has been destroyed. It will be a severe loss to them, none of them being in very prosperous circumstances. There is no insurance on either schooner or cargo. The Polino sustained no damage and proceeded to Montreal.

MYSTERY IN A CLOSET.

The Nude Body of a Young Girl Found in a Paris Tenement House.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—This is a city of curious crime, and there has come to light one of the most weird and mysterious murders of the year. On Oct. 29 a young man, dressed in a workman's blouse, called at No. 20 Rue de la Cerisaie, near the Boulevard Henri-Quatre. He asked the concierge, who is a thin, nervous little man with long hair, named Forcade, to lease him a small back chamber, or rather a closet, them vacant and which could only be entered by means of a ladder. The young man in the blouse paid ten francs and said:—"On the 15th of November I shall come to live in that room with my wife." He took the key and walked off, and the concierge never saw him again.

Several days passed and the concierge, becoming uneasy, thought he would enter the cabinet, let, but not occupied. He, however, first knocked, and not being surprised at receiving no answer, opened the door with a pass key. The room was dark, and the concierge noticed a strange, suffocating smell. In a few minutes, the concierge's eyes becoming accustomed to the darkness, he noticed two naked human feet projecting from beneath a small iron bed. He touched the feet and found them icy cold. The concierge then ran to the police station and there announced his horrible discovery. A commissary of police, a doctor and a secretary arrived a few moments later and found themselves in the presence of the entirely nude corpse of a beautiful, well-formed blonde young girl, apparently about twenty years of age. Decomposition had already taken place in the arms and breast, but although a long time must have elapsed since the commission of the crime, the rest of the body was intact.

The doctors suggest that the death was caused by poison, as no wounds were visible. The autopsy takes place to-day, but as yet the police have no trace capable of clearing up this new Parisian mystery.

Scott Act Fines.

The recent visit of Mayor Stevenson and Councillor Moore to Ottawa where they interviewed Sir John Macdonald and the Minister of Justice has had the effect of placing a good round sum to the credit of the town. By the first order in council passed all of the fines were to go to the county, but under the recent one passed a few days ago the town gets its due share. The amount collected in fines so far in town and county is about $1,700.

MEREDITH'S SCHOOL POLICY.

Non-Partisan Administration Under a Non-Political Leader.

Mr. Meredith in his speech at Owen Sound announced the removal of public education from the sphere of party politics as one important feature of his policy, speaking as follows:—

"The next important change the Opposition proposed was in regard to our school system. That was a branch of our public affairs which was of the gravest importance to the people of this country. He appealed to them whether it was not essential in the interests of the young that our educational system should be entirely free from politics. (Cheeers.) Dr. Ryerson built up our magnificent educational system, and his was a non-political appointment. When, however, the Mowat Government came into power they completely changed the system by placing it under a political head. If the old system had been in existence there would have been none of this trouble about text books and about Bible reading. (Hear, hear.) But, it might be asked, would not party considerations have entered into the administration of educational affairs? He said no. Had the department been left under a non-political head, assisted by a Council of Education, there would have been no interference from any one body in the interests of any party in this country. (Hear, hear.) Did they think it was in the interests of education that the Minister of Education should be parading the country in company with a Dominian member? That kind of thing was calculated to shake the confidence of the people in the honest, fair, and non-partisan administration of the education Department (Hear, hear.) Therefore, the policy he and his colleagues on the Opposition benches advocated, and in regard to which they had the support of the leading educationists of the Province, would be a return to the old system of placing our educational affairs under a non-political head. The Reformers talked a great deal about the C. P. R. monopoly, but the school book monopoly which they had inflicted upon the people of Ontario for a term of years was all right in their own estimation. (Laughter.)"

UNEXPECTED AID

Given to Gladstone's Proposal to force the Government.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Mr. Gladstone's proposal to apply pressure immediately after Parliament meets to force the Government to declare its Irish policy has received unexpected aid from the Radical Unionists. The fact that Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Caine and other Radicals will be absent from the coming Unionist Conference is already recognized as a symptom of an imperfect agreement with the Hartington section, but the serious nature of the difference has transpired only through a private communication received from Birmingham circles that Mr. Chamberlain disapproves merely of the negative position which Lord Hartington maintains on the question of Home Rule. Mr. Chamberlain desires no delay in the statement of the Government's views, and he will, if a perfected bill is not ready, support the demand for the outline of the Conservative plan. Such a move by Mr. Chamberlain will be hailed eagerly by the Radical Unionists as leading towards the reunion of the party, and will increase his influence, multiply his following and lead up to the Tory acceptance of his scheme for Irish local government. Lord Randolph Churchill is suspected, probably with good reason, of being willing to connive at Mr. Chamberlains strategy, and he will influence the Cabinet to yield to the demand in face of the certainty that if they refuse it the reunited Liberals will expel the Government and carry through an amended Home Rule scheme. The split of the Radicals from the Hartington wing adds to the complexity of the considerations on which must be based any forecast of the positions of parties in the ensuing session.

A Rielite Paper Condemned.

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—The Rielites have received another bad shock, this time from Bishop Lafleche of Three Rivers, who has issued a mandament forbidding the circulation of the Rielite paper, Le Sentinel, in his diocese, and condemning in the strongest terms possible the Riel agitation, which he declares is carried on by an association of men for that particular purpose, is subversive of the influence of the clergy and opposed to the best interests of the country and particularly dangerous to the position of French Canadian people. The mandament is the most scathing denunciation of the agitation yet issued and when made generally public will no doubt cause an immense sensation.

A Cabinet Council.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—It is understood on good authority that the rumors that the question of dissolution was discussed at to-day's Cabinet Council (which was convened when the local arrangements at Sarnia prevented Sir John speaking there to-night), are untrue. The subject is not coming up at all. A large amount of routine business was transacted, but the question of dissolution was not even mentioned, the Government having no desire to follow Mr. Mowat's example and spoil the holiday trade by elections.

The Conservative Chieftain.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Sir John Macdonald and his Ministers spoke at Dungannon last night. In closing, Sir John said, "We are now approaching the end of the Dominion Parliament. We shall shortly go to the country and ask for a renewal of the confidence you gave us in 1878 and 1882." The party speak to-night in Hamilton to-night, after which Sir John will leave for Ottawa, having been suddenly called there. He rejoin the party as soon as business at the capital is concluded.

Extensive Wheat Crop.

FARGO, Dakota, Nov. 22.—The wheat crop of the Red River Valley proves larger than the estimate. The elevators and warehouses along the Manitoba road are full to overflowing. In some of the towns farmers pile sacks out of doors, as the railroad is unable to furnish cars fast enough to haul it to market. The railroads say the movement of grain from the Red River Valley is unprecedented.

Mr. Arthur's Funeral.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The funeral of the late ex-President Arthur took place this morning, a large concourse of people having assembled to do the last honor to the dead statesman. Among the dignitaries present were President Cleveland and his cabinet, the Chief-Justice of the United States Supreme Court, the Governor of the state and many others.

Not a Lasting Cure.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 22.—Mrs. James McKenzie, the lady whose case attained notoriety during the recent visit of the evangelists is Brown and Avis, as having been cured by faith and prayer, died yesterday of her old ailment, paralysis.

Suicide by Shooting.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 22.—A young Dutchman, who had only been in the country about a year, committed suicide on Saturday by shooting himself in the breast. He was found dead in the waggon house of his employer, Louis Synder, of Odessa.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

A HINT TO RUSSIA.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—It is stated that Count Kalnoky's second decisive statement concerning the close nature of the Austro-German alliance was directly suggested by Prince Bismark as a hint to Russia.

MARRIED A WARD IN CHANCERY.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Percy Crompton, the actor, has been committed to prison for contempt of court in marrying Miss Pater, a ward in the chancery, against the wishes of her legal protectors and guardians.

FIRED IN THE AIR.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.—A band of moonlighters recently raided the house of a farmer named Gleeson near Listowel. A servant rushed upon the leaders, tore the masks from their faces and dared them to kill her. They decamped after firing several shots in the air.

NATIONALISTS ATTACKED.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.—A party of Nationalists returning from a meeting of the League was attacked by a body of men with sticks and stones. Four Nationalists were injured.

SOCIALIST TAMENESS.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Trafalgar Square meeting yesterday passed off with perfect order, indeed tameness. The Square was not nearly so full or the people so conspicuously of the lower artisan class as on the occasion of the famous meeting in February last. The truth about the artillery rumour turns out to be that the information was given to the press by a military officer in the hope that its publication would prevent the assembling of a large mob.

FRANCE AND THE VATICAN.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The rupture between France and the Holy See is not settled. It is stated that M. De Freycinet telegraphed to the Pope requesting him to either give up sending Nuncios to China or withdraw his Nuncio from France. The Pope knew that this meant that the French Government intended to deprive the French clergy of Government support in case of a refusal, and replied that, wishing to preserve amicable relations with France, he would recall his Nuncios from China. This action is likely to precipitate a quarrel between supporters and enemies of the Church in France.

CARDINAL JACOBINI.

ROME, Nov. 22.—Cardinal Jacobini, the Papal Secretary of State, on the plea of ill-health, asked the Pope to accept his resignation. It is known that the chief cause of his desire to resign is the approach of a difficulty with the Quirinal. It is reported the Pope wrote to the Emperor Francis Joseph, asking him to intervene, on the ground that he would be obliged to quit Rome unless the position of the Vatican improved, as the Anti-Clerical party is taking every chance to insult him. The Emperor Francis Joseph has not replied yet. There will be much intriguing to succeed Cardinal Jacobini, if he should be allowed to retire.

GERMANY'S REFUSAL.

SOFIA, Nov. 22.—General Kaulbars before leaving asked the German consul to protect Russian subjects. The Consul replied that he was willing to protect genuine Russians, but not Montenegrins or Bulgarians. This implies Germany's censure of Russia's protection of the Zankoff and other conspirators. The Czar then instructed Gen. Kaulbars to confide Russian subjects to the care of France. Only a handful of Zankoffites bade farewell to General Kaulbars at the different towns through which he passed.

A CHANGE.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—It is believed here that Count Kalnoky, Prime Minister, will soon be succeeded by Count Andrassy. There will, however, be no change in the attitude of Austria towards Russia.

BULGARIAN THRONE.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—Austrian diplomats and officials believe that the rupture between Russia and Bulgaria will facilitate a solution of the crisis in the Balkans. It is thought the Powers will disapprove of any precipitate action respecting the proposed election of Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia to the Bulgarian throne.

A SIGN OF WEAKNESS.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Standard, referring to the appointment of Sir Robert Hamilton to the Governorship of Tasmania, to which office is attached a salary double that which he received as Under Secretary for Ireland, considers this a sign that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is weak and irresolute. The Chief Secretary, it says, should have dismissed Sir Robert before now.

THE ITALIAN FASTER.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The Italian faster, Meriatti, is still vivacious, but he suffers from pain in the stomach, and has terrible dreams at night. He has decided not to repeat the experiment, even if he succeeds in accomplishing his present task.

THE MAIL CONTRACT.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 22.—The Chamber of Commerce has adopted a resolution denouncing the Government's policy of giving contracts for the carrying of the mails to subsidized foreign steamers. This action has particular reference to the carrying of the American mails from Southampton by German steamers.

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

BRESLAU, Nov. 22.—A death has occurred here from what was apparently Asiatic cholera.

WAR AMONG THE SHANS.

MANDALAY, Nov. 22.—The Shan country is the scene of much fighting and anarchy. Friendly natives are appealing to the British for assistance.

A DEFENSIVE LEAGUE.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The entente with England and Austria is closely associated with the formation of a defensive league between the Servian and Bulgarian Governments. Overtures will also be made to Roumania with a view to her joining the proposed league. The latter power recently informed Count Kalnoky, the Austrian Premier, of the existence of an agreement between Roumania and Russia permitting the passage of Russian troops through Roumanian territory to the Danube, and she asserts that her present inactivity is caused by the fear of reprisals, as in the event of war she would be exposed to the brunt of Russia's onslaught.

RIOT AT LISTOWEL.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.—A number of bailiffs, under the escort of a large body of police, seized the cattle of the tenants on an estate at Listowel, county of Kerry, because the latter refused to pay alleged unfair rents. A mob of 400 peasants soon gathered and attempted to rescue the cattle. The police charged the mob with fixed bayonets and batons, and in the melee that took place several perons were wounded.

TO RENDEZVOUS AT ODESSA.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—Russian steamers in the Danube have been ordered to rendezvous at Odessa. M.M. Karaveloff and Zankoff will shortly leave Sofia. They have obtained Russian passports.

The Statue Again Lighted.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The Bartholdi statue on Bedloe's Island is illuminated to-night. The torch will be lighted every night hereafter.

Four Men Killed.

SAVOY, Ill., Nov. 22.—In a collision between two Illinois Central trains to-night four men were instantly killed and one fatally wounded.

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

MR. BLAKE'S TAXATION.

It is pleaded on behalf of Mr. Blake by some of his friends that he did not pledge himself to introduce his income tax and succession duties, but only suggested that if so and so happened he would do so and so. That is Mr. Blake's manner. He shrinks from pledging himself to any practical policy, but is great at insinuating what he might do, while leaving himself free to repudiate his own suggestions, should he gain power and find them inconvenient. Thus he declines to alienate the manufacturers by declaring it to be his policy to repeal the N. P., while he endeavors to capture votes by such claptrap as lamenting the number of cents a working man would have to pay if he bought imported stuff for his shirt, and had it made with a tail seven feet long, and such absurdities.

But under our system of government when the official leader of the Opposition makes suggestions they cannot be rated as the mere speculations of a private individual theorist, it being very properly held that he is announcing the views of himself and his party. We have a right to assume that if he were placed in office he would adopt the system of taxation to which he publicly declares himself favorable.

Let us, therefore, examine this system of taxation which Mr. Blake, being in opposition, theoretically advocates. The imposts which he tells us he admires are a graduated income tax and a succession duty on the death of owners of real or personal property.

The income tax is in force in the mother country, and their experience shows it to be the most odious and unpopular of all varieties of taxation. It was originally imposed and is still considered as a "war tax," though as Great Britain is nearly always at war it has almost become a permanent method of collecting revenue. It is objected to as being odiously inquisitorial, especially by business men, who do not wish any prying into their financial position. It is considered unfair, for it levies upon the transient earnings of the skilled mechanic, or the learned professional man, as well as upon more permanent sources of revenue, and no satisfactory plan of classifying different species of income, so as to avoid this injustice, has never been devised. It is a direct premium on dishonesty and an incentive to falsehood, for the unscrupulous man who underrates his income escapes much of the burden that falls upon the honest man who makes a full return. We all know how very unsatisfactorily the municipal assessment of income results. Why, in the recently published lists of Toronto assessments, we find that even such an exceptionally scrupulous firm as the Blakes' appears for an amount that in the opinion of the profession is altogether inadequate.

Still worse would be the succession duty on real and personal property in such a country as ours. Who would wish to see the system adopted of fining the widow and orphan because the earner of the family income was taken from them, of adding to the distress of a bereaved household by an imperative demand for money just when beginning to feel the pinch of crippled resources. It would be insurance reversed, like the devil's backward reading of the Lord's prayer. What an incentive to industry would Mr. Blake offer. Imagine the case of a young mechanic, who, having married and seeing a young family springing up around him, by steady industry and careful economy saves money to purchase a little building lot, to build a snug cottage, to secure, as he thinks with satisfaction, at least a roof over the heads of his dear ones in any event. Even if stricken down prematurely by accident or disease in early manhood he would feel comforted on his death bed by the thought that his widow and children would have a home in which, with their small earnings and the help of his little life policy, they might still live together. But as soon as the breath had left his body Mr. Blake would have the tax collector come along and say: "I must have the money for the succession duty; give me your insurance money, or put a mortgage on your house, or sell it, which, perhaps, would be best, now your husband is dead and you will not have his weekly wages to keep it up." Or imagine the same mechanic living to maturer age, and as one of his lads grew up bright and studuous, planning to educated him as a lawyer or doctor or perhaps a minister, and gradually accumulating a fund in the savings bank for this purpose. Perhaps the whole amount is not saved when death comes, but the aspiring lad determines to make it do, when Mr. Blake's tax gatherer says; "No, I must have a slice of that, too, for the succession duty." and the hopeful lad and his proud mother have to relinquish their dream.

This and such as this might be the result of Mr. Blake's taxation crochets, if he were trusted with power. Under our present system our supposed mechanic, if he were a total abstainer, had given up his pipe, and stuck to Canadian articles instead of Yorkshire broadcloth and Scotch tweeds for his Sunday suit, need have paid only a very few cents towards the general Government of his country.

Would it not be far safer to leave Mr. Blake in Opposition, where he can theorise without doing much harm, than to entrust him with the power of carying into baleful effect such mischievous schemes?

A POLICY OF SHREDS.

In most of the Provinces of Canada there have either recently been general elections or they are now at hand. Our Reformers have their allies in those Provinces with whom they identify themselves, especially when there is anything that can be construed into a Reform success. It is interesting to notice the variety of cries that are used by the Reformers in these different localities. In Nova Scotia it is secession, in Prince Edward Island maintenance of an Upper House, in Quebec French superiority to the laws, in Manitoba a denunciation of French domination. No matter how contradictory they are to each other or to the Reform policy for the Dominion, they are welcome to these hypocrits, especially if they point at disunion and disintegration. Two Provinces, New Brunswick and British Columbia have not recently had a general election or no doubt the Reformers would have raised some sectional cry there also. In Ontario the Reform programme is a thing of shreds and patches —in the absence of a policy they rely upon a foul mass of slander, upon calumnies of Mr. Meredith, and appeals to the electors to place in Mr. Mowat a confidence which he has forfeited.

In Dominion politics the chief hope of the Reformers is in the sectional cries which we have above enumerated, especially in the success of the Riellte movement in Quebec, while they want nothing said about it in Ontario. Among their other planks are manhood suffrage, which they refuse in this Province, hostility to an Upper House, which they support in Prince Edward Island, abuse of gerrymandering, of which Mr. Mowat has three times been guilty, vituperation of the Franchise Act, because it is in accordance with our constitution, extends the franchise and prevents Reform tampering with the electorate, sneers at the National Policy, though Mr. Blake insinuates that he will not repeal it, and disparagement of our great transcontinental railway, though its construction has caused the admiration of the civilized world, and has greatly promoted the development and unification of our country. And above all there is slander, falsehood and forgery, weapons which even their leader condescends to employ.

Such a worthless, mismatched and rugged patchwork is not likely to allure the people of Canada from the beneficial, patriotic and progressive policy of the Conservative statesmen.

MR. MOWAT, on Friday evening addressed the members of the Toronto Reform Association at their annual meeting. Almost the whole material of the campaign speech was abuse of the Dominion Government. He dwelt long on the subject of the Factory Act, which he allowed to remain inoperative for nearly two years after he had passed it, in order to curry favor with the workingmen by this pretence. That he had the further hope of interference by the Dominion authorities, on which he could raise a campaign cry, is shown by his admission that he begged the Canadian Minister of Justice to contest the validity his Act in the law courts when he found they had not vetoed it. Mr. Blake interfered with many more of Mr. Mowat's Acts than any Conservative Minister of Justice.

THE Winnipeg Free Press, the organ of Mr. Blake and the Reform party in the Northwestern capital, is making its chief chief cry in the present electorial campaign in Manitoba, that the Government is submitting to French domination. It is fiercely attacking the French Canadians, the French halfbreeds and all belonging to them. It Quebec the Reformers take the exactly opposite line of charging the Conservatives with antagonism and injustice to the French and to the halfbreeds. They have a different cry in every Province, being only consistent in advocating sectionalism and disintegration everywhere. Well were these self-styled Reformers described as an "organized hypocricy."

SIR R. CARTWRIGHT seems to have been taken into favor again by the Reform leaders, and to have been adopted as a candidate in a constituency of Reform complexion. The reconciliation follows closely, and is probably caused by Sir Richard's good service to Mr. Blake in advocating the right of Reformers to rise in armed rebellion when they are in the minority. This treasonable talk, though it has restored him to the good graces of the Reform wirepullers, will not endear him or his leaders to the great mass of honest, loyal Reformers.

THE honest working men of Ontario are not good enough to make bricks for Mr. Mowat. They are good enough to pay for the bricks made by Mr. Mowat's friends, the thieves. They are also good enough to give their votes to Mr. Mowat—if they like his treatment.

AUSTRIAS FOREIGN POLICY.

Report of the Budget Committee to the Austrian Delegation.

PESTH, Nov. 22.—The Budget Committee of the Austrian Delegation, in making its report on the foreign estimates, alludes to what it calls "the universal disapproval of Kaulbars' arbitrary interference, compared with the wise and moderate attitude o the Bulgarians," Referring to the speeches made by the Emperor Francis Joseph and Count Kalnoky on Austria's foreign relations, the committee declares that the Austrians "are ever ready to make any sacrifices when the honor of the Monarchy has to be defended, but are grateful that they enjoy the blessings of peace." The committee rejoices over Count Kalnoky's statement that in foreign affairs the confidence which Austria enjoys is fortified by a clear and unselfish policy of Government, and that it is grateful that Austria's relations with Germany have been strengthened without affecting her friendly relations with Russia. Allusion is made to the accord and identity of interests between England and Austria in many important points, and reference is made to the fact that Austria expects to reach an understanding with Italy, which will prove mutually advantageous and in the interest of peace.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettaburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals O. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

THE REMEDY:

The Peterborough Mattrass Company

Have commenced the manufacture of all kinds of Mattrasses, Bolsters, Pillows, etc. All the material used by this Company is guaranteed new and clean and are sold at the same price as inferior makes. Ask your cabinet maker for the PETERBOROUGH MATTRASS CO'S. mattrass and pillows. If they have not got them call at the Factory and you can be supplied with anything of the kind you may require. If you consider your health you will act wisely. Factory on the Otonabee River, at the east end of Hunter Street Bridge, over Wm. Faint's Woollen Mill. The name of the Company will be stamped on every Mattrass. Take no other. d100w14

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

WORKING MEN, ATTENTION.

Here is something for the consideration of the workingmen: Hon Oliver Mowat after years of serious consideration, has concluded to go on with the building of a new parliament house. A great many bricks will be used in the construction of that parliament house. Mr. Mowat has decided that these bricks shall be made by convicts in the Central prison at Toronto. To that end the jails of the country are being emptied of prisoners who are incarcerated for even so short a term as thirty days. These prisoners are taken to Toronto and put to work making bricks for the new parliament house. It is estimated that it will take four years to make, in the Central prison, all the bricks that will be required. It is a big job. If the bricks were made by free, honest labor, a great many free, honest men would find profitable employment in their manufacture. Mr. Mowat has decided that none but rogues and thieves shall have a hand in the making of the bricks for his parliament house. It may be that this is illustrative of the fitness of things; but it is sadly discouraging to the brickmaker who is not a thief, a swindler or a vagrant.—Hamilton Spectator.

TRICKY MR. MOWAT.

The Ontario Premier kept his counsel well to himself; and while public attention was being directed towards Ottawa, he quietly arranged to create a diversion of his own.—Newmarket Era (Reform.)

LAWYER, NOT STATESMAN.

He is a great lawyer. It is clever in a lawyer to devote more attention to his opponent's case than to building up his own, but a statesman is stronger with a positive and daring policy. Mr. Blake has been so afraid in the past of splitting his party, by taking the ground warranted by his own arguments, that he is in danger of losing his party altogether in the quicksands of political inertia and doubt.—Montreal Witness (Reform.)

MR. MOWAT'S DISTURBANCE.

The merchants should, we contend, also be treated with consideration. Anything that turns men's attention, which, in fact, forces them from the home enjoyments of Christmas, with its purchase of small luxuries even by the poor, and very generous investments by the rich is so much loss to legitimate and anticipated trade. Christmas Day will come between the nominations and the elections, and when the fierceness of the coming contest is recollected there can be no doubt that the celebration customary at the season will be very seriously disturbed.—Ottawa Journal (Indep.)

REFORMERS AND THEIR ALLIES.

They have identified themselves with everything inimical to Confederation. They have gathered unto themselves all those who believe in an English Canada and a French Canada, all the secessionists and annexationists. When Sir John goes to the country his cry will be "the Dominion in danger." He will point to the elections in Quebec and Nova Scotia and say to the electors of Canada, "these are Liberal triumphs, how many more such triumphs can the Dominion stand?" What the electors will say in reply to this conundrum who can tell?—Montreal Star (Indep.).

SHOULD HAVE A LUNCH CART.

The omission of these words in no sense affects the gravity of the charge—that the Government allowed the Indians to starve. The Indians ought [illegible] out on a hunt" or on their reserves. The Mail appears to think it quite right that the Indians should be allowed to starve "out on a hunt." We think not.—Toronto Globe (Rielite-Reform).

MOWAT AND NELSON.

The Globe of Saturday essayed to answer "the old exploded falsehood that there have been dealings between Mr. Mowat and Mr. Nelson, of Edinburgh, respecting this journal (the Globe)." And notwithstanding the denial there made it is still true and undeniable.

Mr. Mowat's firm represents Mr. Nelson; Mr. Maclennan, Mr. Mowat's partner, sits on the Globe directorate as president; Mr. Maclennan holds Mr. Nelson's proxies and elected Mr. Jaffray and Mr. Edgar to the board, and by virtue of the same "removed" the former editors. This is the answer to the first assertion of the Globe, viz., that "the Globe is wholly independent of Mr. Mowat."

The second is "that it supports him (Mr. Mowat) for exactly the same reason as those which actuate the large majority of the people of this Province in supporting him." The truth is that it supports him because he has it in his power to compel the support, and because the men now in control and on the board are nominated by him and must do his bidding. The best proof of which is in the third answer, namely, "that Mr. Nelson never interferes with the management of this journal." Certainly; he leaves it all to Mr. Mowat.

The last answer is "that neither Mr. Mowat nor Mr. Nelson would, under any circumstances, become a party to any disreputable bargain of any sort." The truth is that there was a deal; that the school book monopoly was so "fixed" by Mr. Mowat and his colleagues that Mr. Nelson got $28,000 for his interest, and is in receipt of an annual percentage which, in ten years, will foot up to $100,000 in all.

This deal was as much a bargain and sale for support—the journal was turned over to Mr. Mowat's control—"Mr. Nelson never interferes" are the words—and the goods were given and delivered in consideration thereof. It is not a question whether Mr. Nelson or Mr. Mowat would be a party to the transaction; the issue is, were they? They were.

The Globe is therefore more disreputable than the "kept Tory press" which it is denouncing every day, for to its own prostitution is added the sin of pharisaical pyhocrisy.—St. Ian, in Toronto World (Indep.)

HASTINGS.

OUR PROGRESS.—The past year has been one of satisfactory progress, in the way of buildings and improvements. In brick buildings there has been erected, A. Wilson & Sons, brick store 23x50 two storeys; M. Tierney brick store 23x50 two storeys; G. Tough brick blacksmith and carriage shop two storeys; D. Callahan brick dwelling 20x40 two storeys; P. Barry brick tenement, double 24x40 1½ storeys with brick kitchens, John Tracy two brick cottages 18x24, Methodist Parsonage 20x30 with kitchen, in all seven substantial buildings. In wooden dwellings there has been six, viz:—H. Black, H. Puffer, P. Page, B. Doris, Z. Hill and A. Linn, jr. (now in course of erection). In addition to the new buildings, extensive and costly improvements have been made in others, foremost among which is the grist mill at a cost of over $3,000. Mr. T. O'Connor, also, has effected considerable improvements on his property. Mr. D. Anderson has made a complete renovation in his building on Front street which adds very much to its appearance. On the whole our mechanics have had a very busy season, and the outlook for the next year is equally encouraging.—Star.

BELLEVILLE.

VINEGAR WORKS BURNED.—The Intelligencer says that the Belleville Vinegar Works were totally consumed by fire at an early hour on Saturday morning. The alarm was sounded at 2 a. m. and the brigade, upon stationing their engines at the bay, found they could get no water on account of not being able to get a suction because of mud and shallow water. The building, which is on Dundas street, was formerly owned by Hon. Robt. Read. Years ago it was used for a distillery until a boiler explosion shattered it and left it in ruins. A few years ago Mr. D. E. Leavens purchased the property, repaired it and started a vinegar factory and fruit evaporator. Subsequently the premises and plant were leased to Messrs. W. D. Moody and Geo. Easton. Only a few barrels of cider or vinegar were saved. The brigade were powerless and could only form part of the crowd of idle spectators.

Little and Lively.

The times change and we change with them. Hardly larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts, Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have caused the old style, large, drastic, cathartic pills to be abandoned by all sensible people. The little sugar coated Pellets are a sure cure for constipation; for persons of sedentry habits they are invaluable. They are little and lively, pleasant and safe.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and lungs, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moling, Hilliard, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twelve years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran Home," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise nothing that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am sure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and have recommended it to others with the happiest results." L. J. Addison, M. D., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

John J. Uhlman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a skilful physician to be very dangerous, and liable to terminate in Pneumonia. After using one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I found great relief, and an occasional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. V. M. Thebaud, Montreal, Canada, writes: "Last spring my daughter was attacked by membraneous croup, or diphtheria. The doctor prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her of the diphtheria. Being still very weak and sick, she began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which restored her to vigorous health."

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods. Without which none are genuine.

'CROMPTON CORSET CO.'

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A two t Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contest in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Wigwag a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

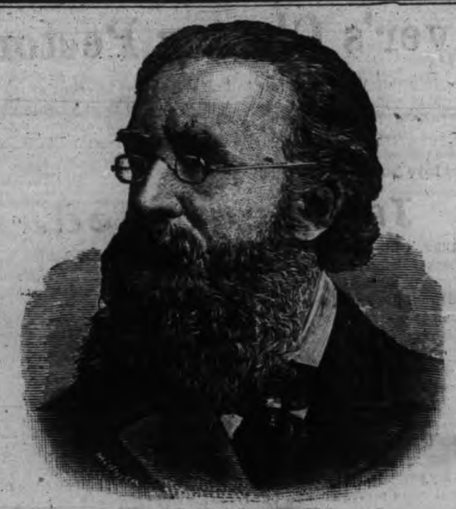
Mr. Hoover's Concert.

Owing to Herr Jacobsen having been taken suddenly ill he will not be able to take part in the concert this evening, but Herr Somlchsen, the German violisist of Buffalo, late of Hamburg, Germany, will take his place. The public need not stay away from Mr. Hoover's concert on account of Herr Jacobsen not being able to come, as they will hear fully as good a violinist.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

First Campaign Meeting.



Mr. Carnegie addressed a meeting at the Temperance Hall, 4th line Smith, on Monday evening. There was a fair attendance, nearly all present being voters. Mr. Jos. Paul was, on motion, called to the chair, and opened the meeting with a few remarks. Mr. Carnegie then addressed those present, dwelling for about an hour and a half on the various questions connected with Provincial politics. The meeting closed with loyal cheers.

Deaths.

The monthly statement of mortuary statistics of twenty Canadian cities and towns has come to hand. According to the statement only 11 deaths have occurred in Peterborough, caused chiefly by constitutional, local and developmental diseases. The least number reported from any city is 9, in the case of Belleville, and the city having the largest death list is Montreal, with 388. It is pleasing to note that small-pox has entirely disappeared. Among the most prevalent diseases are diphtheria and typhus fever.

More Swindles.

Since the explanation of a swindles game published in Saturday's REVIEW a number of simular circulars have been found to have been sent to prominent citizens. The tenor of all is the same; they profess to have a quantity of real United States greenbacks which were issued with the Government's knowledge. Various signatures are attached to the circulars. It needs only reflection to convince anyone who may receive such correspondence that the game is a game simply to extract hard earned money from him.

JUSTIN McCARTHY, M.P.

Needed at Once.

It is no credit to the corporation that the hundred and seventy operatives employed in the factories on Mill street have to wade through the mud going to and coming from work when the extension of the sidewalk a short distance would prevent it. If there is any more sidewalks to be laid this year let it be on this street.

Scott Act.

Two Scott Act cases were heard at the Police Court this morning, Cooper vs. McIntyre and Cooper vs. Giroux. Mr. R. Smith appeared for the defendant in the former case and Mr. Jas. Henry for the defendant in the latter. Both pleaded guilty. A first offence being admitted in the former case a fine of $100 and costs was imposed. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed in the latter case.

Gen. Middleton.

Gen. Sir Fredrick Middlecon, Lady Middleton and Capt. Wise, Gen. Middleton's aide de camp will arrive in town on the evening train by the Canadian Pacific Railway. They will be received by Mayor Stevenson at the station and conducted to the Oriental Hotel. To-morrow the General will review the City Battalion and unveil the Brown Memorial

The Late Dr. Tassie.

An editorial notice in the Toronto Mail of the death of Dr. Tassie, Principal of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, concludes as follows:—"In 1871 Queen's College, Kingston, conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, a distinction rarely granted by that institution. The tidings of his death will be heard with sorrow by many to whom he was well known, and especially by the thousands of his former pupils who are scattered throughout Canada and the United States."

Funeral.

The funeral of the late Dr. Tassie took place at eight o'clock this morning, proceeding from his residence on Water street to the Canada Pacific Railway station. His private pupils and a number of the Collegiate Institute boys on foot were first in the procession, the minister second, the hearse and pall bearers third, the Collegiate Institute in carriages fourth and friends and acquaintances last. A number of beautiful floral offerings were made, one especially handsome one from the institute boys. The body will be taken to Nelson, near Hamilton, where it will interred.

Personal.

Mr. T. Flaherty, who has been engaged in the tailoring business in Peterborough for some time, has decided to go to Belleville, where he will open up a tailoring and gents' furnishing store. Mr. Flaherty has made friends since his arrival in Peterborough, and he carries away with him the well wishes of many for his future prosperity.

Mrs. Caldwell, of Hamilton, and Herr Somlchsen, of Buffalo, late of Hamburg, Germany, who are to take part in Mr. Hoover's concert to-night, arrived in town on the noon train and registered at the Grand Central Hotel.

Generous.

At the last meeting of the Town Council the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, Councillor Rutherford, was instructed to interview the Water Company in regard to supplying water for the Brown memorial fountain. To-day he received a communication from the Superintendent of the wooks saying that in consideration of this fountain having been erected in the Central Park by the citizens of Peterborough, as tribute to true patriotism, the Company had desired to contribute towards so laudable an object, and they therefore tendered the supply of water as a gift. All necessary excavation and piping will also be put in at the company's expense.

The Reason Why.

It is an old saying that "coming events cast their shadow before," and there is scarcely any reason to doubt it. At the present time it is quite evident to the careless observer that there is something in the wind. What can it be? Is it the general Provincial election (?) or can it be caused by the preparations that are going on for the reception of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues? Well, if it is not caused by any of the above reasons, what can be the cause? We have it—General Middleton is coming, and there will be a big military turn out. That is one of the reasons why, but there is another reason as well, and it lies in the fact that A. McNIEL, Habiliment Hall, is turning out winter suits with a rapidity and style that astonishes everyone. The boys appreciate a good article and leave their orders accordingly.

Shot and Killed.

HAMILTON, Nov. 22.—At Oaklands Jersey Dairy Farm to-day some men were engaged in killing hogs by shooting them. A man named McCalman had a self-cocking revolver, and another man got a hold of it. Not knowing it was loaded, he pulled the trigger and an old man named Lobb, who was standing by was shot in the head, dying instantly. An inquest will be held.

The End of a Notorious Highwayman.

FORT KEOUGH, Mont., Nov. 22.—Last Tuesday the remaint of Jim Swan, alias Jack Sheppard, prince of northwestern highwaymen, were found in the Big Horn mountains. He escaped from the sheriff some time ago while handcuffed and was never caught afterwards. He died from starvation, as his manacled condition prevented him from procuring food. A knife and a revolver with the chambers empty were found beside him.

MR. JUSTIN MCCARTHY, M.P. for Londonderry, was born in Cork in 1830. In 1847 he became a reporter on the Cork Examiner. In the troublesome time of 1848 Mr. McCarthy, John Pope Hennessy and others started the Cork Historical Society, every member of which subsequently joined the Young Ireland movement. In 1852 Mr. McCarthy was engaged on the Liverpool Northern Times as reporter, and subsequently contributed to its editorial columns. When the paper failed, in 1860, he went to London. His first employment was as parliamentary reporter for the Star. Mr. McCarthy is a good French, German and Italian scholar, and soon began to write for the leading magazines. One of his articles, in the Westminster Review, attracted the attention of John Stuart Mill. An introduction followed and young McCarthy stood on the stepping stone to fame. He became editor of the London Morning Star, in which John Bright had a large interest. In 1868 he visited America and wrote a series of articles for the Galaxy. He also delivered lectures in the principal cities of the Union. In 1871 he accepted a call from the London Daily News as parliamentary writer. Mr. McCarthy is the author of a number of novels. His "History of Our Own Times" established his fame as an historical writer. This distinguished man is well received when he addresses the English House of Commons, a very critical audience. He will lecture to-morrow evening in the Opera House on "The Cause of Ireland."

LINES OF THANKS TO MR. D. BELLECHEM.

For the freewill gift he presented to me in the form of a large and beautifully finished writing desk as a token of his appreciation of my humble productions which has appeared so frequently in the papers in Peterborough.

Yes you made it, your man laid it
On my floor, of charges free;
Many knows it, your act shows it—
The generous heart possessed by thee.
Quite amazing, I stood gazing
At its beauty, style and size,
While in fact, sir, your kind act, sir,
Gave both pleasure and surprise.
True and clear, sir, forty years, sir,
Whither writing truth or fable
All my writing and inditing
Was done on my kitchen table.
You have changed it, well arranged it,
That my pen may run more free;
Kind and witty, you showed pity,
And sent this nice desk to me,
When I wrote, sir, I never thought, sir,
My weak lines had power or art,
Not so much, sir, as to touch, sir,
The springs of your generous heart.
Neighbors views it while I use it,
And they one and all agree,
In one mind, sir, think you kind, sir,
To present that desk to me.
I sit before it, I adore it,
And the first work I shall do;
With delight, sir, I shall write, sir,
Those few lines of thanks to you.
To be truthful it is useful
All my papers to contain,
It charms and fires me and inspires me
Gives me flight to loftier strain.
I must tell you, 'tis not its value,
Sir, whatever that might be,
Love of the donor, and the honour,
Gives its precious worth to me.
Wood worms may bore it, or fire devour it,
Time and use the varnish wear,
If it lasts, sir, till my life's past, sir,
I will leave it to my heir.
I won't bespatter you, no, nor flatter you,
I possess no blarneying art,
As friend I rank you, and I thank you
From the bottom of my heart.

WILLIAM TELFORD.

Smith, November 19th, 1886.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

Storm Coming.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—The Signal Service states that a great storm is brewing, and predicts that by the middle of the week a gale of wind and rain and snow, accompanied by perhaps a zero fall in the thermometer, will arrive from the west and cross the lake with terrible vengeance, doing great damage to vessels out of port. The storm is raging in central Nebraska to-day, and it is travelling eastward at railroad speed. It will be here by Wednesday.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

INCITING RACE NEUDS.

The worst feature of the too successful appeal which has for a year past been made by certain politicians to French-Canadian race prejudice is that it suggests the repetition of the same tactics by all parties at all times and for all purposes.—Montreal Witness (Reform.)

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

NO DEFENCE AVAILABLE.

Our highly esteemed contemporary, the Globe, has not yet complied with the request that it should give the public its views on the Hurdman timber limit transaction, the particulars of which were recently stated at length in these columns. Mr. Pardee's course in the matter ought to be explained, if it can be, and our contemporary is always very willing to perform such little offices for its friends when it knows how. For that reason its silence is damaging to Mr. Pardee.—Toronto Mail.

SELF-LOATHING.

The Globe does not love monopolies—Toronto Globe.

How the Globe must hate itself. It removed its job department to another street and changed its name; but it rakes in $30,000 a year by reason of having a monopoly of the printing for the Ontario government. The owner of the Globe has a monopoly in making all the school books used in the province, and for which he forces the people to pay double prices. The Globe does not love monopolies—it must hate, abhor, loathe the Globe.—Hamilton Spectator.

REORMERS OPPOSE REFORM.

The Liberals are rejoicing over the recent election to the Legislative Council in Prince Edward's Island as a great Reform victory, but the fact if that in this instance the course of reform was in reality defeated. The two parties went to the country on the distinct issue as to whetner the Legislative Council—that is, the Provincial Senate—should be abolished or not. In each annual session since the year 1879 the Conservative Government have brought into the assembly a bill for the abolition of the Legislative Council but it has always been thrown out. The local Reformers opposed this reform and the result has been that a Grit Council has been returned by the property owners, who are evidently desirous of retaining special representation. It is certainly very strange that Reformers who clamour for the abolition of second chambers should greet such an event as a great Reform victory.—Montreal Star (Ind.)

WISE AND PRUDENT.

On the whole the increase of the debt has been large, but it is not as if no provision for the repayment of any portion of it had been made. In a country so vast as Canada there is much to be done; a prescient statesmanship could not avoid making provision for the extension of agriculture and commerce over new regions; and, where distances are so great, public works had to be constructed on a scale which necessarily involved a colossal expenditure. The financial operation, far from portending ruin, may prove to be as wise and as prudent as it is bold. Let us not despair of the future.—Toronto Week (Indep.)

HONESTY OR KNAVERY.

Honest workmen now have a chance to put in an Ontario Government that will not get its bricks made in the central prison by thieves.—Hamilton Spectator.

DISTURBING THE HOLIDAY TRADE.

It will be a great interference with business to have the elections brought on during the holidays, the very time to which the merchants and tradespeople look forward and calculate on doing a lively trade. But politicians care nothing about this, their sole object being to do what is best for their own party. There is no reason whatever why the elections should not have been left until after the holiday trade had been done.—Toronto Telegram (Independent).

Another Blizzard.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 23.—The second blizzard of the season reached Dacota early yesterday. The storm is coming up from the northeast. Portland reports twelve inches of snow, and drifting badly. Jamestown reports passenger trains on time, but freights abandoned. At Grafton, at 10 p.m., the thermometer showed 16 above and was falling rapidly. Fargo reports four inches of snow. Aberdeen reports the supply of coal in that region nearly exhausted. The signal officer here says the blizzard was general over Montana, Northern Dakota and Northern Minnesota. In St. Paul the weather is mild, with light snow.

One of the Last Captures.

There appeared before a court in Sparta, Ga., the other day a negro named Cooper Lamar, who was captured off the coast of Africa and brought to America on the Wanderer twenty-six years ago, and consequently was one of the first negroes ever stolen and smuggled into slavery. Notwithstanding his twenty-six years' residence here, he knows but little of the English tongue, and had to be questioned by signs.

AN OLD ACTOR'S AFFLICTION.

A Blind Comedian Guided by His Faithful Wife.

WATERBURY, Nov. 23.—The that has been made public that actor J. B. Turner was stricken with blindness while acting "The Minstrel" with W. J. Scanlan, in Waterbury, is not exactly correct, but the facts are as pathetic as some of the tragedies of real life, which actors now and then have to carry the burden of while they are acting their parts. Turner is regarded as an excellent cast for old men's parts, especially as does not have to make up for them, and it seemed natural that he should appear with goggles in his part in "The Minstrel," but the goggles were a necessity, for, owing to a cold, inflammation had set in and made him almost blind. Mrs. Turner, who plays the part of Bridget, guided him around the stage as well as she could without attracting the notice of the audience, and when he was off stood in the wings and directed him in a low tone. Once when he came behind the wings groping his way along, the poor woman burst into tears, though a moment later she was obliged to go on and speak trifling lines. The sympathy of the entire company was so greatly moved by the affecting sight that it was with difficulty they kept themselves from betraying it. Though he suffered excruciating pain, the audience knew nothing of what was really going on, and most generously applauded Turner's acting. Mr. Turner has gone to New York for treatment.

WANTED TO BE A JUGGLER.

And Swallows a Table Knife—A Delicate Surgical Operation.

A St. Louis despatch says:—Joseph Hoffman, a tailor, 40 years of age, resides with his family on South Broadway. He is small in stature, but has always endeavored to impress people that he was a wonderful man. A year ago he endeavored to rival a famous juggler by swallowing a poker. He succeeded in getting it down his throat but getting it out was a different thing.

A young man who was in the room came to the rescue and seizing the poker drew it out. Hoffman suffered severely afterwards from inflammation of the stomach, finally recovering. His experience did not cure him of his appetite for swallowing solids. Wednesday night after partaking of supper and while somewhat under the influence of liquor, he took a silver-plated table knife, 9½ inches long and horrified his family by announcing that he was going to swallow it. Throwing his head back to the angle assumed by professional jaggiers, he took the knife by the point and inserted the handle in his mouth. He pressed it slowly inward until all but about an inch of the blade had disappeared from view. Hoffman then showed signs of alarm, and when finally the knife disappeared from view he ran from the room in apparent agony and fright. A neighbor who happened to be in the room, attempted to pull the knife out, but could not obtain a sufficient hold and it suddenly dropped down into the stomach.

Hoffman's agony then became terrible and physicians were summoned. The first to arrive were at a loss what to do. An hour after the knife had been swallowed, Dr. Bernays placed Hoffman under the influence of chloroform, then throwing off his coat he commenced one of the most delicate surgical operations known to medical men. He made an incision in the abdomen and after locating a knife in the stomach made a small incision opposite the place where it was found. The knife was removed and the cuts carefully sewed up. The whole operation was performed in less than 20 minutes. Yesterday Hoffman was resting quietly and the doctors say there is a good prospect for his recovery, unless inflammation sets in.

THE ALTERNATIVE POLICY.

Mr. Blake's inconsistencies Scathingly Exposed—Any Cry But Union.

The Hon. Mr. Thompson, Minister of Justice, a Nova Scotian Roman Catholic lawyer of high repute, has till lately not been much known in our province, but his recent addresses have now confirmed the favorable reports received of him. We quote as follows from his speech at Hamilton:—

"Having a definite policy themselves, the Conservatives naturally looked to their opponents to see what policy they had. Repeatedly had they been asked in Parliament, what policy have you for the people of Canada if you come into power? (A voice—"They haven't got one.") That was the answer always given. (Laughter and applause.) At Owen Sound, however, Mr. Blake did have a policy in his pocket. (Laughter.) He had a right to christen his own baby—(Laughter)—and therefore he called it the alternative polity. (Renewed laughter.) A better name for it, however, would be the "all turnative" policy, as it existed in reality. (Roars of laughter.) It appeared as if Mr. Blake wanted to make the offer to Sir John, "whatever you propose I oppose, and what you oppose I propose." (Laughter.) A gentleman now in the Grit fellowship once said of Mr. Blake's policy that it was like a rocking-horse—a great deal of motion and no go. (Loud laughter.) The rocking-horse had an alternative policy, too. (Roars of laughter.) He proceeded to point out the stand taken by Mr. Blake and the Reformers generally on the question of the admission of British Columbia into Confederation. Mr. Blake had spoken of that Province as a "sea of mountains," and Reformers generally had advocated the non admission of the Pacific Province into Confederation. What was the spectacle recently witnessed? Mr. Charlton, on a visit to British Columbia, knowing that to the Conservatives alone the British Columbians were indebted for what they had received from the Dominion told them that they were actually being wronged by the Government of Sir John, and that the older provinces had run off with the public money. The alternative policy in Nova Scotia was a pandering to secession. To the Nova Scotians the Liberals practically said Put us in power and we will see what we can do in regard to this question. Mr Thompson proceeded to point out the inconsistent position assumed by the Grits in connection with the rebellion. He said immediately the outbreak occurred Mr. Blake, and those acting with him, advocated and justify so, the very best equipment for the volunteers, and now the opposition were condemning that expenditure as profligate in the extreme. He briefly contrasted the position assumed by the Grit leaders and Grit press before the execution with that which they are assuming now. He believed that there was men all over Canada—lifelong adherents to Liberal principles—who were saying that they would no longer be counted in the Reform ranks if Mr. Blake and his friends were to obtain power by the means they were now using. (Loud cheers.) As indicative of the sympathy of the Reformers of Ontario with the Rielites of Quebec, he read Mr. Mowat's letter of congratulation to Mr. Mercier on the result of the Quebec Provincial elections. The mention of Mr. Mowat's name attached to the letter was greeted with a terrific storm of hisses. Mr. Thompson concluded a forcible and eloquent speech by saying that if the people of Canada wanted to be happy and contented they would sustain the hands of Sir John Macdonald and do as Mr. Mackenzie advised, "Vote for your country rather than for your party." (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

A REVOLT.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The American missionary, Rev. Mr. Wilcox, has arrived in Durban from the Portuguese settlement on the east coast above the Transvaal. He reports as follows:—The natives at Inhambane, a Portuguese port, down 200 miles above Delagoa bay, rose up against Portuguese taxation and murdered the collector. On October 23 a battle was fought between 8,000 Portugues and friendly natives on one side and 30,000 hostile natives on the other. The Portuguese were defeated and routed, and the loss in killed on both sides is estimated at 9,000 men. Mr. Wilcox says the Governor of Mozambique has gone into the country to endeavour to suppress the revolt and save the port of Inhamband from falling into the hands of the insurgents. The town was barricaded when the missionary last heard from it, and the women and children had been removed to ships lying in the roadstead. The entire country round about the town had already been abandoned by the Portuguese, and arrangements had been made to remove the population of Inhambane out to sea, if the hostile natives attacked the town in force.

Naming a Newspaper.

It is said that when the first number of the Jimplecute, published at Jegerson, Tex., was about to be printed, the proprietor, who had not decided upon a name for his paper, picked up a handful of "pi" from the imposing stone, and setting the type thus taken at random in his composing stick. The result was the work "jimplecute" which he adopted as the name for the newspaper.—N. Y. Sun.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT.

MR. MEREDITH has placed in the very forefront of his platform a question as to which we have always very strongly advocated a policy very different from that pursued by Mr. Mowat. The Conservative leader plainly denounced the encroachments of the present Toronto Administration on municipal self-government, and expressed his intention equally plainly of extending rather than restricting the system of local management of local affairs.

Mr. Mowat has continuously and persistently invaded these rights on every possible occasion. He has gradually concentrated in his own hands the powers, the patronage and the funds of the municipalities and local institutions. The powers he has assumed, apparently from an insatiable though petty ambition; the patronage he has seized upon so that he might make the most unfair use of it for his political advantage instead of the public good; the funds he has grabbed to enable him to come nearer meeting his extravagant expenditure, leaving the ratepayers to supply the gap by increased direct taxation. Nor is it solely the municipal corporations on which he has thus encroached. Local institutions, local officers, have all felt his invading hand. He has not stopped at the County councils, the city, town, village and township councils, but school boards, county judges, school inspectors, sheriffs, &c., have all had to submit to his bureaucratic interference. He has grabbed license fees and fines, has interfered with local appointments, dictated regulations, fixed salaries to be paid out of local funds, thrown additional or increased expenses upon the municipalities, and, in short, has interfered in every possible way for his own aggrandizement and advantage.

In thus restricting local rights and aiming at centralization, Mr. Mowat has invaded one of our most ancient and dearest privileges. It is a privilege almost identified with our race that local matters should be regulated and administered locally by the people interested. This old inheritance of our blood may sometimes have been partially usurped for a time, but neither our right nor its enjoyment has ever been wholly extinguished, and if, like the waves of the flowing tide, there has sometimes been a falling back, it has been followed by a recovery of the lost ground and a still further advance. It is to this ancient system and its development that the British people and their offshoots may largely attribute what they have gained and what they are. There could be no better school for sturdy independence, combined with respect for the law and for the rights of neighbors. Yet this is the system that Mr. Mowat has systematically invaded and disparaged. Some of his encroachments seem to have been perpetrated out of pure wantonness. For instance, in his first Gerrymander Act he actually cut in two several townships, slicing up these primary and important municipal units, placing the dissevered fragments in different constituencies, thus forcing neighbors with common interests to seek different representatives, and the townships as corporations to trust to the fragmentary interest of two legislators, who might not be in accord.

It is of pressing urgency that one who has thus tampered with our rights should be removed from a position in which he might do further mischief. Great as is the importance of a satisfactory administration of our Provincial and Dominion affairs, our local matters perhaps affect us even more nearly. Our municipal and local self-government should be encouraged and fostered, not encroached upon and enfeebled, as has been done by Mr. Mowat.

MR. BLAKE AND DR. GRANT.

WE do not think that Mr Blake will gain much credit by the publication of his correspondence with Principal Grant. Not unnaturally Dr. Grant objects to Mr. Blake's course in endeavoring to raise a misconception as to his position by dubbing him a "Tory Government officer" when referring to the notorious "Sea of Mountains" quotation. Mr. Blake maintains that he was technically correct in so describing the unpaid secretary of Mr. Sandford Fleming's expedition, sneers at the reverend gentleman, and tauntingly withdraws his description if it offends. Mr. Blake knows well that his sneering reference before a meeting of sympathizers to any man as a "Tory Government officer" is designed to be insulting and to suggest his own slanders, borrowed or otherwise, against all who serve their country without owing their position to him or his political allies.

His letter throughout is a tissue of petty quibbling. It is also in its whole tone most wanting in good taste and decent courtesy, as in its jibe as to his not caring greatly whether Dr. Grant derived any pecuniary advantage from his work, and in the paraded statement at length of book, chapter and verse in a trite quotation from the Bible while writing to a minister of the Gospel of the highest standing. Mr. Blake's pointedly discourteous treatment of Principal Grant is indeed, of a piece with the insulting disrespect with which he habitually treated the late Bishop of Toronto when the venerable prelate was presiding in his Synod.

The fact is that Mr. Blake is attempting by his disgraceful letter to divert attention from the original issue, but he will not succeed. There is the widest possible difference in the use made of the words "a sea of mountains" by Dr. Grant and Mr Blake. They were used by Dr. Grant to give a more vivid idea of a certain portion of the Pacific Province, in a work which was designed and calculated to bring into notice the advantages of that important portion of Canada. They were used by Mr. Blake to give point to his unwarrantable depreciation of British Columbia, and to enforce his argument that Canada should not expend money in order to keep faith with, as he represented it, so worthless a member of our great Dominion.

A STRONG CONTRAST.

WE have seen exception taken to Mr. Sol White, the Conservative candidate for the representation of North Essex in the Provincial Legislature. It would be a great pity if he were defeated, for he has proved himself a credit to his constituents and a worthy, useful member of the House.

Mr. White, like Riel, has both French and Indian blood in his veins, but there the resemblence ceases. Mr. White is an able, honorable, upright man, loyal to his Queen and country, true to his church (the Roman Catholic), while fair to those of other denominations, and faithful to his associates. Riel, on the other hand, was false to his native land, for he rebelled against its authorities, false to his adopted country, for he waged war on its friendly neighbor, false to his church, for he imprisoned some of her missionaries, and procured the murder of others, false to his deluded followers, for he offered to sell them and their cause for a large sum of money to be paid to himself for his desertion of his dupes, and false to humanity, for he incited an Indian rising with all its horrors. On the same level with Riel stands, by his own profession, Pacaud, the opponent of Mr. White in North Essex, the standard bearer and friend of Mr. Mowat, who has adopted the Rielite cause as his own.

It would indeed be a sad pity and a disgrace to the constituency if one like Mr. White were rejected in order to send to the House a wretched creature like Pacaud as a supporter of the sympathetic Mr. Mowat.

IS HE STAINLESS?

We are told that Mr. Mowat's success is chiefly due to his stainless personal character. Is it no stain that he should have disgraced himself and the Bench, by placing on it a man who had embezzled public money entrusted to him, as Mr. Mowat did in this district, to reward this criminal for becoming his abject supporter though elected as a Conservative? Is it no stain that he should have placed in an office of trust and emolument in Western Ontario another political friend who had been kicked out of his profession for misappropriating trust funds? Is it no stain that he should have insulted the judiciary by legislating against their condemnation of the corruption of Dr. Dowling, that he should have declared that he would not be a party to such a thing, and then that he should have put a motion to that effect written by himself into the hands of a supporter to move, thus adding cowardly falsehood to his attack upon the Bench? Is it no stain that he should give an oppressive monopoly to Mr. Nelson, of Edinburgh, while holding by means of Mr. Nelson's proxies in his own hands or those of his law partners the absolute control of the Globe newspaper? If such acts leave no stain, what criminality would do so?

MR. BLAKE was invited in September to meet Sir John Macdonald at the Bay of Quinte Mohawk reserve, but he shirked the meeting. As he had arranged to address a public meeting at Deseronto, the Conservatives asked him to allow the right of reply, and obtained a promise from the Hon. Mr. Foster to be present. Mr. Blake shielded himself behind his committee, and his committee said "no." Again Mr. Blake shirked open discussion. It is not an uncommon trick of Mr. Blake thus to shirk. He could not with comfort quote Mr. Cameron (of Huron), or adopt similar dubious expedient if he were liable to immediate exposure.

AT the meeting at Hamilton some ruffians at the back of the hall endeavored to raise disturbances and prevent the hearing of the speeches of the Hon. Messrs. Thompson and White and Sir John Macdonald. The Globe in its report alludes to this blackguard conduct as "signs that the audience was by no means entirely composed of those who were favorable to the Ministers," thus at the same time admitting that these rowdies were Reformers, and showing its sympathy with them.

A Suspicious Character.

Last week, as the New Haven delegates to the grand lodge, Daughters of Liberty, were returning from the annual session of the grand lodge at Philadelphia one of the lady delegates from New Haven discovered that her pocketbook, containing $23, was missing. She reported her loss, and at the next station an officer was called in to investigate. Directly back of the lady sat a suspicious seedy-looking character. With the instinct of a professional thief-catcher, it required but a moment for the officer to jump to the conclusion that he had located the culprit. The suspected person good-naturedly submitted to the search which the officer made, but the missing pocketbook was not found. After the search was over the suspicious-looking party remarked: "Well, officer, I know I look rather seedy, but I never supposed anyone would take me for a thief. I am the Rev. Mr. Clark, of New Haven." Turning to the lady who had lost her pocketbook, he presented her with $3 to help to pay her fare home. The reverend gentleman was returning from a fishing trip.—Hartford Times.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the ourden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boechee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettisburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery; Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear.

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

JOHN'S VISION OF CHRIST.

DR. JOHN HALL'S NOTES ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson IX of the International Series for Sunday, Nov. 28—Golden Text, "I am He that Liveth, and was Dead"—Rev. i, 18—Lesson Text, Rev. i, 4-18.

No more important lesson than this has been studied, and the difficulty will be to bring into the fixed limits even a brief notice of the many great truths here touched. The teacher will explain at the outset that the whole book is a letter, and while the "seven churches" are formally addressed, the entire book is an epistle to the whole church throughout the world.

A second thing the teacher will bear in mind, namely, that the bold imagery of the book—and this lesson has much of it—is to be traced to foregoing scripture. The Old Testament is therefore the standard by which we are to interpret many of the symbols of the book. Indeed, it presents and completes the unity of Revelation; for while man begins in Paradise, from which his sin drives him, he is seen in the end of Revelation again in Eden, and holding converse with God without temptation and without sin.

Our lesson naturally divides itself into the introduction, the description of Jesus and the message he sends; but for the purpose of the class, it will probably be better to take it up verse by verse.

V. 4. John, the friend of Jesus, the life-long preacher, the writer of the gospel, the sufferer for the truth, the aged disciple, is well fitted to receive and deliver the message of the Church's Head. The "seven churches" in Asia represent, while they are one by one, no doubt, truly described, the conditions of the whole Church in all time. Asia—sometimes called Proconsular Asia—includes only a small part of the continent now so described. It is the Asia referred to in I Peter i, 1; Acts ii, 9; vi, 9. "Grace and peace" are in the usual New Testament blessing. "Mercy" is inserted in the Epistles to Timothy. The description from him "which is," etc., can only apply to God the Father, the "I Am," who is "from everlasting to everlasting." See God's description of himself to Isaiah, Isa. xli, 4; xliv, 6. The "seven spirits" cannot be angels or creatures of any sort, or they would not be placed between the Father and the Son in this account. The lamp of the tabernacle, the sacred and perfect number seven, found in the same connection in Zech. iv, 2, 6, and the fact that the gift of the Spirit are sevenfold in Isa. xi, 2, explain this language. The perfect, sevenfold work of the one divine Person we have brought before us. It is the idea of I Cor. xii, 4, "diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit." This Spirit is given through Christ; hence Rev. iii, 1; iv, 5, and v, 6.

V. 5. Jesus is the faithful witness to God's character and law, concerning all eternal things, from God to men. Jesus himself often employed the word "witness." He is the "first-begotten from the dead"; for though there were resurrections before his (Lazarus, e. g.), they were only temporary, and the last enemy came again. But Jesus "dieth no more," and his rising is the ground of all other triumphant resurrections. He is "prince of the kings of the earth"; as he said, "all power is given," etc., Matt. xxviii, 18. (Ps. ii, 2; cx, 5.) Then comes the doxology, in which Christ's great work is owned, running on into v. 6. Mark the order—love, washing, making kings and priests, etc. We are to give this glory to Jesus now and forever. We are—all believers—now, kings and priests unto God. (Peter ii, 9.)

V. 7. Christ came once in lowliness. He will come again in glory, "with clouds" of awe-inspiring darkness. The idea is of terror to his enemies, as we see by the next words, "they which pierced him" "wail," etc. To the saints his coming is joyful; it is terrible to unpardoned sinners. Read carefully Ps. lxvii, 3, from which perhaps this idea comes. But John and all believers rejoice in his coming and in all he does. So "Even so, Amen."

V. 8. The divine Being describes himself at greater length, as in v. 4, taking the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, alpha and omega—"the beginning and the ending"—to represent his eternity, and repeating the language of v. 4, adding "the Almighty." Of this supreme cause of all, Jesus is the representative; and while men reject him now, and in so doing reject the Almighty, when he comes again it will be to assert and vindicate divine right, and his enemies will quail before him. (See Zech. xii, 10.)

V. 9. John now describes himself in language which could apply to no other John than the apostle. "Brother"—how he puts himself on a level with the ordinary believers! All were there suffering for the truth, hence "companion in tribulation;" but all had joy and strength in the kingdom and patience of Jesus. He was an exile in Patmos, a rocky isle in the Ægean sea. The government of Domitian was trying to put down Christianity. The cause of his banishment was for "the word of God" and the witness he was bearing to Jesus. They could place him on the bare, bleak rocks, but they could not rob him of his joy.

V. 10. The "Lord's day" first occurs here as a phrase, and soon came into general use. It is a good description of the "first day of the week," the day of his rising. He was "in the Spirit"—not merely as all God's people are "in the Spirit" (Gal. v, 16, 17,) but specially taught, helped and comforted. When God's people suffer for him, he gives them blessed compensation. Notice the significance of the description—the Lord's day, house, supper, people, service. For the voice, as of "a trumpet," see Num. x, 2; Ps. lxviii, 33.

V. 11 gives instructions to write the communications now to be made to him and send them to the seven churches named. There were doubtless many more than these, but probably these are chosen to represent to the future the dangers, duties, encouragements and hopes to be kept in mind by all God's people in their various conditions. The history of the church shows the need of such revelation. We do not take the commission to include only the epistles to each, but the whole revelation to the end.

V. 12. The speaker is seen among "seven golden candlesticks," the description as in the Septuagint of Ex. xxv, 31 (Heb. ix, 2), reproduced in Zech. iv, 2.

(V. 13), and representing the churches, many in number, dependent for the light they give out on him who is in the midst. A candlestick by itself gives no light. It holds up the light. Failing in this it is useless. (See Eph. v, 11.) The preciousness of the church is represented by the "golden," as in v. 13, Rev. iv, 4, xxi, 21. Gold is rarest and most valuable of all the metals.

John knew "the son of man," hence "like unto," though his "garment down to the foot," representing rank, and his "golden girdle" showed more dignity (Gen. xxxvii, 3), and differed from his appearance in his humiliation. It is meant to show his glory. (See Dan. x, 5; Isa. vi, 1.) Men toiling were girt about the loins, but dignified persons were girt about the breast. (See Rev. xv, 6. Compare also Isa. xi, 5 and Eph. vi, 14.)

V. 14. The "white hair" of this verse corresponds to the "wool" of Dan. vii, 9, and represents not age, but dignity. The eyes are as in Dan. x, 6. They penetrate and consume. (See Rev. xix, 11, 12.)

V. 15. No covering is mentioned for the feet. There is no defilement in the streets of heaven. The idea is shining, glittering. (See Rev. x, 1.) The "sound of many waters" is from Ezek. i, 24. The idea is of awe-inspiring sound, not lovful.

V. 16. As a wreath held in his hand were the "seven stars," and the sword, sharp and two-edged, is in allusion to such passages as II Sam. xviii, 8; Isa. i, 20; and in Isa. xlix, 2 we see the basis of the symbol. Some of the fathers found the Old and New Testaments in the "two-edged." More likely it is the piercing sharpness that is meant. (See Heb. iv, 12.)

V. 17. "His countenance" suggests the angel in Matt. xxviii, 3. (See Rev. x, 1.) It is clear that it was never meant that the painter or sculptor should represent the appearance of Jesus. It is not a figure to strike the senses that is presented, but one to impress and teach the soul. So John felt the impression (V. 17), and "fell at his feet as dead." (See for parallels Ex. iii, 6; I Chron. xxi, 20; Isa. vi, 5; Dan. viii, 17; Acts x, 4.) It is an involuntary act, not willing worship. There is comfort for him, however, in the kindly "right hand" laid on him, and the words "fear not," as in Isa. vi, 7, in Dan. x, 12 and in Matt. xvii, 7 to the three disciples, of whom John was one. His touch revives. The claim "I am the first and the last" could only be the language of a divine being. (See Isa. xli, 4; xlviii, 12.)

V. 18. The knowledge of Jesus dying and rising again, and having power over the unseen world and over death, was the solid comfort to John, as it is to all God's people to this day and forever. (See I Tim. vi, 16.

The length to which the explanation has necessarily gone prevents any full statement of points to be dwelt upon. The following, however, are indicated: The need of knowing all scripture; the completeness of the Bible; the responsibility and dignity of the Church; the glory of Jesus Christ, her King; the terrible guilt and consequences of rejecting him, and the certainty and glory of his coming again.—Sunday School World.

The Brachiongraph.

A patented invention, called the brachiongraph, is claimed to render the art of writing possible in the absence or uselessness of the hand. It is therefore serviceable in cases of writers' cramp and of paralysis of the fingers. The instrument is of simple construction, and consists of a long, light strip of iron, curved so as to be easily adapted to the ulnar border of the forearm. This splint is sewn into a casing of supple leather material, shaped so as to form a kind of gauntlet or sleeve for the forearm. The gauntlet is fastened to the forearm by an ingenious arrangement of screw-hooks and studs, allowing of an adjustable degree of pressure. The bar or splint carries at its lower end a mechanism with a universal joint by means of which a pen may be held in any desired position. With this instrument the act of writing is performed by the muscles of the arm and shoulder, while those of the digits and thumb are thrown completely out of use. It is easy to acquire the necessary dexterity in the use of the invention for legible "handwriting."—Scientific Journal.

Henry George's Literary Work.

Henry George, unlike Mr. Howells, is not a methodical worker. "I write when the mood seizes me," he said, "sometimes getting off a mass of copy but often vey little. My works, particularly 'Progress and Poverty,' were the hardest labors I ever performed. Many a time I've sat down with a whole chapter mapped out in my mind and been unable to get beyond the first sentence in expression. Yet when I was a newspaper man I could reel off 'takes' as fast as any of them. But it is one thing to write for the hour and another for the years, so to speak. I regard journalistic work as the most valuable training a literary man can possibly have. It is, I think, more important than a college career, though I can't say so from experience, as I never went to college."—New York Tribune.

Why the Women Are Pleased.

The women of the United States seem especially gratified at the compliment paid their sex by the superintendent of the bureau of engraving and printing in selecting the vignette of Martha Washington to adorn the new $1 silver certificates. Mr. Graves has received a large number of congratulatory letters from the friends of the women's movement all over the country, but the present superintendent deserves only the credit of selection, for, as a matter of fact, neither the vignette of Martha Washington nor that of Gen. Grant, which is on the $5 notes, has been engraved expressly for this purpose. They were chosen during the administration of Casilear in the bureau of printing and engraving, and have been waiting for years to be used.—Washington Letter.

Originated in a Kneipe.

During the same year I spent a few days in Bonn, Germany. In a "kneipe" I noticed in the centre of the table a thick cord, the same as you find in some of the old restaurants for call bells. To the cord was fastened a fox's tail, and whenever any one told a dry story or related an exploit that seemed doubtful there was a call for "Fox," and a junior student, who acted as waiter, or fag, as the English call it, pulled the fox's tail and rang a bell. I was told this custom had existed for fully 200 years.

Now if that doesn't explain the origin of the chestnut bell call me stupid.—Philadelphia News.

The Deepest Artesian Well.

The deepest artesian well in the world is at Pesth. It has reached the depth of 3,120 feet, and is not yet finished. At present it yields water of the temperature of 158 degs. F. It is intended it shall reach such a depth that the water shall have a temperature of 176 degs. F. The well supplies 176,000 gallons of water daily.—Exchange.

Within the last few years 45,000 trees have been planted in the streets of Berlin, Prussia.

Discovered by a Dog.

A dog made himself useful in Vienna recently by falling through a fissure in the pavement before a half demolished Catholic college. The effort to rescue the animal led to a curious archæological discovery. The dog had it was found, fallen into a large vault containing ninety coffins. The existance of this underground burial place has hitherto been quite unsuspected. The inscriptions on the coffins date back to the reign of Maria Theresa, and the bodies are of the monks of that period and of the nobles who helped to support the monastery.—Foreign Letter.

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Little and Lively.

The times change and we change with them. Hardly larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts, Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have caused the old style, large, drastic cathartic pills to be abandoned by all sensible people. The little sugar coated Pellets are a sure cure for constipation; for persons of sedentry habits they are invaluable. They are little and lively, pleasant and safe.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Platt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (Free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Gents Furnishings.

Those who require gents furnishing underwear, etc., should look at J. J. Sheehy's window. It speaks for itself.

Saved Band.

The Saved Band held their first jubilee in the old Music Hall on Tuesday evening. Several of the officers took part. There was a fair attendance.

Hear Ye Him!

Justin McCarthy, M. P. for Londonderry, the greatest literary celebrity of the age, will lecture on the "Cause of Ireland" in the Opera House, Thursday, Nov. 25th. Tickets may be had at the bookstores, and at Messrs. T. Kelly's, J. Hackett's, John McKee's, John Garvey's and Jas. H. O'Shea's. Reserved seats at E. J. Hartley's music store.

Adjutant Bolton.

Adjutant Bolton, of the Salvation Army, is now established in Peterborough. From this point he will oversee the work of the Midland district in which there are now thirteen stations. He will shortly open new stations and organize new corps. Adjutant Bolton possesses a good personal address, a vigorous manhood, and no doubt the charge committed to him will be faithfully watched.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

Personal.

We are glad to learn that Mr. John R. Hall Secretary of the Department of the Interior, whose illness was mentioned recently, has recovered sufficiently to attend his office for a short time.

Mr. Barton Earle, who has been laid up these last eight weeks with a broken leg, today resumed his duties at the Collegiate Institute.

The Hastings Star says:—"As we go to press we learn that Dr. O'Shea, of Campbellford is dangerously ill."

Salvation Army.

On Tuesday Major Margetts, of Toronto, his two Adjutants, Van Allen and McHardy, and Adjutant Bolton, who is now in charge of this district, arrived in town accompanied by several other officers. In the afternoon a grand march out was held after which a wonderful holiness meeting was held. In the evening the Jubilee was held in the barracks at which Adjutant Bolton was sworn in to undertake his new charge, and Major Margretts, who is to take charge of the Maratime Provinces, delivered a farewell address. There was quite a number of people out. Adjutant Bolton will have his headquarters in Peterborough and will have thirteen stations under his command.

The Reason Why.

It is an old saying that "coming events cast their shadow before," and there is scarcely any reason to doubt it. At the present time it is quite evident to the careless observer that there is something in the wind. What can it be? Is it the general Provincial election (?) or can it be caused by the preparations that are going on for the reception of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues? Well, if it is not caused by any of the above reasons, what can be the cause? We have it—General Middleton is coming, and there will be a big military turn out. That is one of the reasons why, but there is another reason as well, and it lies in the fact that A. McNEIL, Habiliment Hall, is turning out winter suits with a rapidity and style that astonishes everyone. The boys appreciate a good article and leave their orders accordingly.

Mrs. Caldwell, who is received with great favor here as in other places, was met with applause at her appearance. Her voice is just as round, full and smooth as it was when she visited Peterborough four years ago. The "Carnival de' Venice" afforded scope to display those pretty cadences and flowing trills which she uses without the least effort, and which go far toward the formation of the charming style which she possesses. Responding to an encore she sang with captivating expression "In Talking in my Sleep." In the "Cuckoo Song" She managed the appeau parts so cleverly as to produce a really charming effect. When the audience recalled her she re-appeared and bowed but there was such a tumult of applause that she was obliged to respond, when she sang the "Staccato Polka."

Herr Sonnichsen, violinist, of Buffalo, made his first appearance in Peterborough in the "Souvenir de Hadyn." He has acquired the art de archet to a high degree, his performances were marked with precision and grace throughout, and his extemporaneous embellishments were very happy and fantastic and sometimes startling. His stage postures, though, are capable of improvement. At the conclusion of No. 4 he was greeted with decisive applause to which he responded.

Mr. T. Dunn, our popular baritone, was in fine voice. He gave "The Gay Hussar" in magnificent style, and when recalled with a storm of applause sang a rolling sea song, "The Skipper." In the second part he was also recalled.

The Misses Lech gave the pianoforte duet "Rosamonde" in a very pretty style; and the duet by Mr. Hoover and Miss Cluxton was also well received.

Mr. Hoover made his first appearance in Peterborough as a piano solist in the opening number. Those who had reason to believe him to be a finished pianist and who heard him on Tuesday night were in no way disappointed. The exactness without restraint, which is to be attained in few places outside of the great German conservatories, he is master of, while his style is rounded off in a very artistic manner. It is to be regretted that Mr. Hoover had not an audience filling the hall, for certainly the concert fully deserved it.

ANOTHER TOWN BABY

Deposited Without Consent in a Hotel Bedroom.

On Tuesday evening at some time before seven o'clock a young woman stole into Brault's hotel, on the corner of King and Aylmer streets, and going up stairs put a baby in one of the rooms, tucked it in the bed comfortably and left the house. Soon after some of the people in the house heard the child's wail. It was soon found out and upon examination was found to be a healthy baby boy.

The police were informed of the occurence, but not a member of the force laid the slightest claim to the property on the town's account. They agreed, however, to watch the trains to see that the mother should not get away from town. A description of her was obtained at a place near by where she got some clothing for the youngster, and at which place the wraps on the child were found to be the same as those given the day before.

Mr. Brault is placed in a peculiar position. He does not feel inclined to be responsible for the bringing up of the boy and he cannot cast it away. What he intends at present to do is to present it to Mayor Stevenson.

FRIDAY'S MEETING.

MR. CARNEGIE this morning received an invitation from Mr. Stratton as follows:—

John Carnegie, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—As the Hon. G. W. Ross has expressed a desire that you be allowed a hearing at my meeting on Friday evening, I beg to invite you to the same, and I am willing to make the following arrangement:—Chair to be taken at 7.30. An address by myself, when you will be allowed one hour to state your views, after which Mr. Ross will speak. Hoping that you will see your way to be present and take part, I am,

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

Peterborough, Nov. 24th, 1886

Mr. Carnegie has accepted this invitation and will address the meeting.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING.—The Liberal Conservative convention for Otonabee township held in Keene on Tuesday evening was largely attended, although the weather was rough, there being about one hundred present. All were enthusiastic, and the prospects for success are bright. Mr. Geo. Read presided and Mr. T. Campbell acted as secretary. Delegates were elected to represent Otonabee at the Convention at Norwood on Thursday, Nov. 25th. A motion was adopted unaminously approving the manner in which Mr. John Burnham, M. P., had represented the Riding in the Commons, and other important business was transacted.

OBITUARY.—On Thursday last Mr. James McIntyre, a young man residing in the village, and well known and generally esteemed, passed away after a lingering illness which had not confined him to the house until the evening before his death. He took suddenly worse on Thursday morning, shortly after midnight, and Dr. Harrison was called in, but Mr. McIntyre soon expired. He had been a correspondent for a Peterborough paper for fourteen years. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon and was largely attended.

METHODIST CHURCH.—The Rev. F. Johnston will preach a sermon especially for the Sunday School pupils next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

GEN. MIDDLETON HERE.

The Review of the Battalion Taking Place This Afternoon.

On Tuesday evening Gen. Sir Frederick Middleton and his aide de camp arrived in town by the Canadian Pacific Railway. They were met at the station by Mayor Stevenson and were driven in a carriage to the Oriental Hotel.

To-day Mayor Stevenson and Lieut.-Col. Rogers accompanied Gen. Middleton to several places in town.

This afternoon the review of the Battalion and the ceremonies connected with the unveiling of the Brown Memorial are in progress.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Allow me as a ratepayer a few lines in which to speak of the Collegiate Institute. For some reason or other the school in this town is in bad repute in the neighboring towns, villages and surrounding country, and, in consequence, it has very few non-resident pupils. What is the reason of this? Is it to be found in the constant changing of teachers? In other schools the teachers get good salaries and in consequence keep their positions year after year without change. The school is thereby benefitted. In this school not a year has passed but one or more teachers have left it. Some through death, no doubt, but the majority have gone to better positions. I have come to the conclusion that through the constant meddling of the trustees, and in their parsimony can be found the reason for the teachers leaving this town.

In consequence of the above the pupils become careless and are not as regular in their attendance as they might be. Do the people of this town know that the average attendance of the Collegiate Institute here is the lowest in Canada—it being nine per cent. lower than the average through the Province. One part of the Government grant is 50 cents per head on the average attendance; so that our grant in that respect is the smallest in proportion of all the schools in the Province. The number on the roll of the school in the last governmental report was 166, but the average attendance was only 76, less than ½. In consequence of the lessening of the grant through non attendance at school, the cost of each pupil at this school, on the average attendance, is $86.11; while at the Cobourg institute the cost per pupil is only $46.69, and at Port Hope it is $47.41. These amounts are nearly one half of the Peterborough costs and these are not made up in extra fees for the fees at those places are very little, if any, more than they are in Peterborough.

Is it not time our trustees appointed a strong staff of teachers—all male—and raise the esprit de corps of the school. The government grant will be larger and the expenses will be lightened in the long run.

There is now another vacancy through the sudden death of the late Dr. Tassie; let his position be filled at once by a man strong in mathematics, so that the mathematical and science departments may be properly looked after; for on the science that is taught another large proportion of the Government grant depends—in fact the largest part of the grant is now given on account of equipment, staff and work done, chiefly in science and English. If these do not come up to the standard possessed by other schools, the grant to this school is lessened, so that it pays in the long run to have a good staff and good equipment. Let the trustees seize the present opportunity and make the year 1886 a starting point for a long and prosperous school regime.

Yours, &c.,
ANEMONE.

JUSTIN McCARTHY.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

REBUILT.—Mr. J. P. Davis' house has arisen over the ruins of the old. It is a large frame structure, 26x60, and containing ten large rooms. When fully completed there will be a balcony in the fore part, from which there will be a fine view of the outlet of Nogey's Creek, and of the Bobcaygeon road. Mr. Davis purposes building a look-out in the top from which can be seen Pigeon Lake southward to the source of Pigeon creek, and eastward to the channel connecting it with Ball Lake. On the whole it is a very fine building.

THE ICE.—Pigeon Lake has fought hard in resisting the icy embrace of winter; having been coated several times with ice but this was soon broken by the waves. However, this morning, it has succeeded at last. No more will the ripple play on its surface or the angry billow dash in madness on its rocky shore, until bland spring appears to do his part in conquering the white king.

LUMBERING.—The section north of us is alive with men busy at felling the lofty pines. The Gilmour firm has over 50 men employed at the depot, and more are arriving continually. This season will be unusually lively, as Mr. Biglow and Mr. Davis will have men employed in the vicinity of the Gilmour camps. Life in the lumber camp as pictured in "Picturesque Canada" presents an interesting scene, but the original only can give a true picture.

A REPLY.—In the last issue of the REVIEW certain amendments were made to my correspondence, which appeared in the issue of the 11th Nov. In reply, 1st, I beg permission to offer my thanks to the correspondent making such amendments, but also beg to decline the favor in the future; 2nd, I was not fully informed respecting the particulars of the tea, therefore I had forgotten to mention the honor to whom honor is due. I sincerely ask the pardon of such a gentleman or lady; 3rd, Respecting the amount subscribed for the building of the new church, I was present at the meeting called by the Rev. Mr. Adams, on Friday, Oct. 28 last, and there learned that $300 only was subscribed. No doubt by this time the sum will have increased, but on that evening there was only the amount subscribed that I stated.

Destructive Fire.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 23.—A fire broke out in the fire station at Portage La Prairie last night, and burned it down, consuming the engine, hose, reels, furniture, men's clothes and brass band instruments, valued at $400—in short everything in the building except the horses, which were rescued just in time. There was nobody in the building when the fire started. The origin is supposed to be the exploding of a lamp. The estimated loss to the town is $10,000. The authorities have telegraphed to Winnipeg for a spare engine to temporarily protect the town.

A Crank and the President.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—One Sheeler, a crank, who tried to get at President Cleveland's carriage, while attending Mr. Arthur's funeral Monday, showed a reporter last night a letter that he says he is going to send to the President. It betrays great illiteracy and evident insanity. It is a piteous appeal for a place where he can earn an honest living and support his parents. He says he helped Mr. Cleveland by getting several votes for him.

THE CZAR'S EXCITABILITY.

Boxes a Physician's Ears for Reporting Unfavorably on the Cazarevita's Health.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—It is reported that the Czar's excitability is developing to an alarming extent. There is a report current that he recently asked a distinguished German physician of St. Petersburg for a positive opinion in regard to the health of the young Czarovitz, who is to pass the winter at Nice or Cannes with his mother. The demand concerned the state of the boy's mind as well as that of his body. The physician made his report to the effect that the lad would never be mentally fit to reign, for which piece of information the Czar rewarded the doctor with a terrific box on the ear, and at once issued orders for his expulsion from Russia. There is such a thing as being drunk with power; this is the Czar's case. He is said to complete the intoxication with something else, and when in that condition has been known to beat his wife.

AFGHAN TROUBLES.

The Ghilzais' Insurrection Against the Ameer Spreading.

BOMBAY, Nov. 23.—A party of merchants from Ghuznee report that the Ghilzais have beaten the troops of the Ameer of Afghanistan. They also say the rebellion is rapidly spreading under the influence of religious fanatics, who lead the insurgents. Many of the Ameer's troops are also joining the rebels, owing to the honorable reception given to the members of the British-Afghan Boundary Commission by the Ameer, which gave rise to a suspicion that he intended to yield to British occupation.

GEN. HAMPTONS ADVENTURE.

The old Senator Has a Narrow Escape From Death in the Woods.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 24.—Senator Wade Hampton while deer hunting on his Mississippi plantation on Monday, became separated from the rest of the party who toward evening supposing that the senator had left the field, returned home. At 8 o'clock that night Gen. Hampton being still absent a searching party started, out and found the old general a short distance from the house much exhausted and painfully hurt, but making his way homewards. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon as he was riding through a thick wood a "supplejack" vine caught his gun and discharged it, the load of buckshot entering the head of his horse and killing the beast instantly It took Senator Hampton in his maimed condition (he having but one leg) some time to extricate himself. He had been walking through the woods for nearly five hours.

Favorable Impressions Produced in England—Our Excellent Fruit in Demand.

The displays of Canadian apples at Exeter and Edinburgh have aroused no little interest at the Exhibitions in those places. Reports from Exeter state that a most favorable impression was produced by the Canadian apples. The fruit, we are told, "excelled in color and included some magnificent specimens, all in a fine state of preservation, notwithstanding the double consignment, first to London from Canada and thence to Exeter." The Mayor is opening the Exhibiton called special attention to the Canadian fruit, pointing out that the importation of apples from Canada had increased from 15,000 barrels in 1874 to 242,144 barrels last year. A friend of his had, he said, transplanted and grown Canadian apples in great Fulford in this country with great success. The Canadiah fruit was at close of the exhibition distributed among the mayor, sheriffs, town-clerk, local editors, and officers, all of whom spoke most highly of its qualities. A special report is shortly to be made by the judges of the tasting Committee as to the flavor and general quality of the fruit.—Canadian Gazette, London, England.

COMING ROYAL MARRIAGE.

The Betrothal of Princess Victoria of Teck to Lord Weymouth.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The formal announcement of the betrothal of Princess Victoria of Teck to Lord Weymouth, son of the Marquis of Bath, will probably be postponed for some weeks, as the Thynnes have been thrown into mourning by the sudden death of Capt Vesey, Lady Bath's brother. The Queen and Duchess of Cambridge were in conference for half an hour on Friday last, and the Duke and Duchess of Teck and Princess Victoria are to go to Windsor this week. The Duchess of Cambridge will give her granddaughter a dowery of $100,000, with a trousseau and jewels.

Thomas Henry, Viscount Weymouth, is the eldest son and heir of the Marquis of Bath, and was born on the 15th July, 1862. He is a Lieutenant in the Royal Wiltshire Yeomanry. The family is one of the oldest in the peerage of Great Britain, and from documents in its possession it would appear that its ancient surname was Boteville, and that under that name it enjoyed lands in the manor of Stretton, in Shropshire, for many generations, from the time of King John, in whose reign the brothers, Sir Geoffrey and Oliver Boteville, persons of great eminence and rank in Potton, went to England, according to Matthew Paris, to assist the king against his rebellious barons. The head of the family was created Baronet in 1641, Baron and Viscount in 1682, and Marquis in 1789

Princess Victoria Mary Augusta Louise Olga Pauline Claudine Agnes is a daughter of R. S. H. the Prince and Duke of Teck and of Princess Mary Adelaide, sister of the present Duke of Cambridge She was born on 26th May, 1867, and is a cousin to the Queen.

REMARKABLE SURGERY.

Boring a Whole in a Man's Breastbone to Reach His Heart.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says:—Officer Chas. Whitney, one of the victims of the dynamite bomb, was yesterday the subject of one of the most radical and extreme operations known to scientific surgery. Whitney, on the night of the Haymarket riot, besides receiving other injuries, had a gash cut in his breast by disconnected particles of the exploded bomb. He was taken to the hospital and made such favourable progress that within a month he was transferred to his home at No. 429 Robey street. Here, too, he made rapid strides, and at one time it was supposed that he had completely recovered. About two weeks ago, however, a sudden and very ominous relapse set in, and the policeman's life has since by turns been given up and despaired of. Yesterday an operation was performed upon him. Three times only in the history of surgical jurisprudence in this country has a like measure been resorted to. In both these cases the patient left the operating table for the grave. Whitney's breast wound had completely healed up. A cursory examination as to what ailed the rapidly declining man was made by Dr. J. B. Murphy. It developed the fact that a particle of the casing of the boom had passed through the breast-bone, opposite about midway between the second and third ribs, had deflected slightly to the left, and was then resting an eighth of an inch from the covering of the heart—the pericardium. At every heart beat the poisonous metal was being drawn nearer that organ It was literally eating its way into Officer Whitney's heart. Dr. Murphy hurriedly summoned Dr. E. W. Lee, and the delicate task of boring a hole through Whitney's breast bone, as with an augur, began. The policeman was put under the influence of ether. Taking a trephine capable of chiselling a hole five-eighths of an inch in diameter, Dr. Murphy began his work. It took just eighty minutes to cut a hole through the breast-bone, which at this juncture was nearly one inch thick. The button-shaped opening readily disclosed to view the piece of shell, which was deftly fished out with the aid of a pair of tweezers. Already it had imbedded itself in the fatty outer coating of the heart. It was a conical shaped piece of metal, composed of copper, zinc and lead in about equal parts. Had Dr. Murphy not acted promptly in the matter the probabilities are that at this writing Officer Whitney would have been the ninth on the list of deceased victims of the 4th of May. He is now doing well.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

THE EDUJATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

AMONG the changes made by the Mowat Administration in order to carry out their system of the centralization of power and patronage in their own hands with a view to their political aggrandizement, there is nothing more striking than their doings in connection with the Department of Education. When Mr. Blake handed over them the Administration to which he had attained by means of a base plot, misrepresentations of Mr. J. S. Macdonald, and appeals for vengeance for the death of Scott, they found our educational system conducted with great success under a non-political head. This freedom from utter subservience to them was not at all to their taste, and after a time they arranged matters more to their liking by making education a department under a political head, and systematically using the power thus acquired for their party advantage. The natural results followed: Increased expenditure on the staff for the benefit of political friends, troubles as to text books, favoritism in regard to authors, dissatisfaction in connection with examinations and complaints of their unfairness, improper changes of the law, vexatious and arbitary regulations, corrupt monopolies to purchase political support, fleecing of the pupils by over charges for books and unnecessary changes, a feeling of the danger of independence in any one in the power of the Department, invasion of our local powers of control, rejection of any complaints in the Legislature by political partizans as implying want of confidence in the Government. These, and a number of other evils, either were the direct growth of the new system, were increased by it, or were rendered more difficult to remedy. Few, if any of them, would have arisen or attained such dimensions under the more healthful plan of placing the department under a non-political, non-partizan head. By forcing it into the political arena, Mr. Mowat, however, attained his end of utilizing the powers thus secured for party advantage.

We will illustrate by one instance the evil effect of giving a political status to the head of our educational system. It will be remembered that when the late Mr. Crooks was Minister of Education some gross blunders were committed, causing much inconvenience and eventually contributing to a great waste of public money. These blunders were pointed out, but any criticism was hotly repelled as an attack upon the Administration. There arose a chorus from the Ministry, their supporters and journalists:—"There never had been an abler Minister. There never was such an excellent Administration. Every decision that was criticised was above cavil, being the very quintessence of wisdom. The complaints were quite unfounded, being mere prejudiced attacks upon the Government for political motives." This view had to prevail perforce, for the Government was in a majority and every one of its supporters was quite ready to take its view and to swear to the flawless perfection of the actions of one of its members. But soon there came a change. To the sincere regret even of his political opponents, the brain disease with which Mr. Crooks was afflicted unfortunately made such strides as wholly to incapacitate him from his duties and a successor had to take his place. Then some departmental action which had previously been upheld as above criticism was found to be inconvenient, and we were calmly told that it really was all wrong, but the Ministry must not be blamed, as it was all owing to Mr. Crooks' unfortunate infirmity. Now, we are very much inclined to think that Mr. Crooks was really made the scapegoat for his ungenerous colleagues, that the steps complained of were forced upon him by them when he had become incapacitated to resist such pressure. It is at all events certain that there have since been far more objectionable and indefensible things done in the Department under a presumably sane Minister than anything that could ever be laid to Mr. Crooks' charge. We are sure, for instance, that he would never have consented to purchase the control of a journal from its chief proprietor by giving him in exchange a scandalous monopoly, so that he could levy his pay by overcharging the school children for his books, or by selling the right to do so to others.

But the point we wish to establish is that the trouble was not the result of Mr. Crooks illness but of the system of party control of education. If Mr. Crooks had been in the same position as Dr. Ryerson he would have been superannuated as soon as any incapacity was manifested. If Mr. Crooks had been in the same position as Dr. Ryerson criticism of his mistakes (or those of his colleagues) would not have been fiercely resented as unfounded and prejudiced, nor would it have been repelled as an expression of want of confidence in the Government, binding its supporters to blind resistance. This affords a striking instance of the evils of the present system.

Mr. Mowat and his friends condemn the suggested reform as depriving the representatives of the people of their control. This is not a valid objection, for the Legislature would still have the right to consider every appropriation of money for educational purposes, and to pass measures in regard to education. The non-political head would still be responsible to them for his general fulfilment of his duties. But he would not, like a political head, be guided in every detail, every appointment, every regulation, by considerations of party advantage. Nor would his mistakes be considered as above criticism, and as having to be upheld right or wrong at any cost by the supporters of the administration.

Happily our educational system is likely soon to be removed from the domain of party politics, for to this beneficial change Mr. Meredith and his supporters are pledged.

OUR VOLUNTEERS.

THE ceremony of unveiling the memorial erected as a tribute to our forces engaged in the suppression of the Northwest rebellion, and especially in memory of the late Capt. Edward Brown, who fell at Batoche while gallantly leading on his troop, was one of great if melancholy interest. Capt. Brown who left us to make a new home in the Northwest, sprang readily to the call of duty, and recalling the lessons he had learnt in the Peterborough Rangers, fought boldly under Major Boulton against the enemy till he gave his life for his country. Mr. Richard Cook who stood by the memorial to his comrade had also left us in the same manner, had also been enrolled in the 57th, and with his severe wound served his country at a cost only second to that paid by Capt. Brown. Then there was the little band of decorated men under Capt. Burke and Lieut. Brennan, who if they had not the fortune to be under fire were ready and eager for the fray and had their full share of the hardships of the campaign. The ceremony was performed by the veteran Gen. Middleton, who was there in the thickest of the fire, as he had been on many a field in far distant parts of our great empire. And in attendance upon him was his Aide-de-Camp, Capt. Wise, a former pupil of the Royal Military College at Kingston, still showing signs of the wound he received on the banks of the Saskatchewan.

The appearance after the inspection of the 57th Peterborough Rangers, newly reorganized as a city battalion, was a proof that our young men are ready and willing to fit themselves to fight in defence of their country if called upon. There is evidently no lack of loyal zeal or martial ardour. It is well that we should have a citizen soldiery capable of defending their homes against a foreign foe, for the very fact of being prepared lessens the probability of an attack. And when even men of high position advocate the right of rebellion in case of any feeling of dissatisfaction, it is well to be forearmed. With a well trained volunteer force, we are not likely to be troubled with anything more than disloyal talk.

ITS COST.

THE Brockville Recorder quotes the following from the Peterborough REVIEW:—

"The deficit of the past financial year is mainly caused by the expense and loss caused by the Rielite-Reform rebellion and its suppression."

It then appends this comment:—

"The REVIEW knows that is not true. The deficit over and above the payments on account of the rebellion is about three million dollars."

The REVIEW never writes what it knows not to be true. It has very seldom inserted even by inadvertance the most insignificant detail not strictly accurate, because it has the habit, foreign to many Reform politicians (including their leader) and Reform journalists, of verifying any statement it advances by comparison with original documents, etc.

We knew very well what we were doing when we stated that the "expense and loss" mainly caused the deficit. In these categories are included pay of troops, etc., transport of men, purchase of stores, freight, compensation for damages, pensions, judicial and legal expenses, loss of revenue and many other items. The figures that we already have, amount to a very large proportion of the deficit. Even the Recorder admits them to be over half the deficit. When the complete accounts are published for all the items we have good reason to believe that the deficit not attributable to the rebellion will be found to be very small indeed. We know already, as we have stated, that it was mainly caused by the rebellion; a short time will show precisely to what extent.

We are glad to see that the Recorder's regard for the truth is sufficient to cause its tacit admission that the rebellion was Rielite-Reform, and to lead it to confine its criticism to a question of the amount of expense and loss thus incurred.

THE Globe gives Mr. Cox the exceptional prominence of an editorial on his candidature. Mr. Mowat placed Messrs. Jaffrey and Edgar on the Board of Directors of the Globe. Mr. Cox placed Messrs. Jaffrey and Edgar on the Board of Directors of the Midland Railway. The combination is suggestive to those who look beneath the mere surface of things, and accounts for the exceptional treatment of Mr. Cox by the Globe.

IT was evident at the inspection of our volunteers by Gen Sir Frederick Middleton, and the unveiling of the memorial erected to the late Capt. Edward Brown, and as a tribute to his brethren in arms, that our people hold them in esteem and do not look upon them as assassins and thieves as they have been called by some disloyal men, notably by Mr. Mowat's standard bearer in North Essex, Gaspard Pacaud.

THE Rev. Dr. Laing publishes a letter denying that he or the clergymen associated with him selected the passages of Scripture authorised by the Department of Education to be used in the public schools. He also denies the responsibility, placing it upon the Minister of Education.

To show that Mr. Mowat and his friends have nothing to do with Quebec politics, they have made application to Mr. Mercier to send speakers into Ontario to assist in the election contest.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettisburg will be described by Gen Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelettes by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

SPECIAL FEATURES.

(with illustrations) include a series of articles on affairs in Russia and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of "Tent Life in Siberia," who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc., by the Rev. Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with nithy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

THE REMEDY:

The Peterborough Mattrass Company

Have commenced the manufacture of all kinds of Mattrasses, Bolsters, Pillows, etc. All the material used by this Company is guaranteed new and clean and are sold at the same price as inferior mates. Ask your cabinet maker for the PETERBOROUGH MATTRASS CO'S. mattrass and pillows. If they have not got them call at the Factory and you can be supplied with anything of the kind you may require. If you consider your health you will act wisely. Factory on the Otonabee River, at the east end of Hunter Street Bridge, over Wm Faint's Woollen Mill. The name of the Company will be stamped on every Mattrass. Take no other. u10w44

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE RIELLE REFORM CRY.

He (Mr. Mercier) called them pendards and then, indeed, they "lost the confidence" of many of their former supporters. There is no denying that the Nationalists have achieved a success worthy of a better cause, but they are very much disposed to exaggerate its extent and to misrepresent its character. If the pendard cry was good enough to serve during election time, why not act fairly and give the pendard cry credit for the triumph it has won.—Montreal Star (Indep't.)

THEY STAND CONVICTED.

This shameful mendacity runs through all their utterances. One grows sick at heart in looking over the reports of their speeches. It is hardly possible to believe that men holding representative positions and professing to be honorable can be so lost to a sense of right as to utter such frightful untruths. Probably their theory is that they can tell falsehoods more rapidly than the Conservative press can correct them, and, that in the end the balance will be in their favor. To a great extent this is true. The Spectator has taken great pains to correct the more glaring untruths told by Mr. Blake, Mr. Cameron and the other romancers of the party respecting Indian administration in the northwest. It has been a long and laborious task, and we fear the readers of the Spectator have been somewhat wearied with it. But our desire has been to show that the men who told these monstrous stories could not possibly have believed that they were telling the truth. They stand convicted of deliberate, intentional, gigantic lying.—Hamilton Spectator.

HENRY GEORGE'S DISCIPLES.

When George and his disciples began to preach the gospel of confiscation, we pointed out that, if his theory were carried out confiscation would not long respect all other forms of property except land. Mr. Blake, we are sure, has no idea of advocating confiscation. But he has employed a terminology which is liable to be abused by others less scrupulous than himself. He is the first to apply the term unearned increment to all forms of property and capital. In doing so, he has gone beyond the fact.—Monetary Times.

NOT LIKE MOWAT.

Gov. Lee, of Virginia, has promised the labor unions of that state that he will not allow convict labor to conflict with honest labor, if he can avoid it.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SAD DEATH.—With regard to the death of Mr. Harry Nicholls, announced in your columns, the following facts regarding the sad occurrence have come to hand. Mr. Nicholls had occasion to visit the state of Idaho and while travelling through the woods he fell and hurt himself so severely that he lay where he fell for a day and a night. He summoned up sufficient strength to crawl to the nearest house, where he was cared for until his death, ten days afterwards.

WATERWORKS BY-LAW.—The vote on the WATERWORKS by-law will be taken on Wednesday, December 1st, when it is to be hoped it will be carried, though the large majority that were found in the spring against the market square by-law are liable to be used with greater force against the present by-law by those who are opposed to it.

RECOVERING.—Mr. John Rodgers is rapidly recovering from his sudden illness of last week.

SUCCESSFUL HUNT.—A party of six hunters returned from Harvey on Saturday having killed ten deer during the ten days they were away.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING.—A meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of Lakefield was held on Wednesday evening for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend the convention to be held at Norwood on Thursday, 25th inst.

[NOTE.—We have received an account of a deer hunt from "A Reader," but as no name is attached it is not published, in accordance with the well known newspaper rule. —ED. REVIEW.]

WARSAW.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARLOR SOCIAL.—A delightful entertainment was held on Thursday night under the management of the ladies of the Warsaw presbyterian congregation at the residence of Wm. McIntosh. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, there was a good attendance and the audience had the pleasure of listening to a programme of much merit, consisting of instrumental music by Miss Mary Kidd, Mr. A. F. Choate and Mr. John Kidd; duet, entitled "Whispering Hope," by the Misses Garlick; a reading by Rev. Mr. Hide; instrumental music by Miss B. Campbell; a speech by Rev. Mr. Pozeaud; reading by Dr. Couch, "Peter Sargent in Love"; reading by Mr. C. Russell; recitation by Rev. Mr. Orlan; recitation by Miss Ella McIntosh; recitation by Mr. Asex. Smith; song by Miss Ciara Garlick; song by Mr. John Kidd; song by Miss B. Campbell, "Orange Blossoms," sung with capital effect, and chorus by the Glee Club. The piece of the evening was a dialogue entitled "Astray," by the misses Mary Kidd, May Campbell, B. Campbell and Ella McIntosh. Between the first and second parts the ladies served refreshments—tea and cake. $10.50 was the amount realized to go to the church repairing fund. The entertainment was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem. All were well pleased with the evening's enjoyment.

REFORM CONVENTION.—A good number of Liberals from Warsaw and Dummer went to Norwood last week to attend the Reform convention and to reorganize the Reform Association and select candidates. It was fully expected that Warden Kidd would have been nominated as one of the candidates, but the convention did not recognize Dummer's claim.

WARSAW.

From a Correspondent.

THE LATE MRS TULLY.—Every one in our village and surrounding country for miles was exceedingly sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Robert Tully, which occurred at her residence on Saturday Nov. 13th. She was convalescing from a second attack of illness and thought herself sufficiently strong to drive out in the country a few miles to Mrs. Russel's. She returned in the evening unfavorable affected with the drive, which brought on a relapse. Everything was done that could be to save so valuable a life. Dr. Couch, in whom she so much confided, was almost constantly in attendance. Dr. King was associated with him. Hopes were entertained that she might recover, until Saturday, when a new and very unfavorable complication arose, which precluded the possibility of recovery. The feeling of sorrow at her death is universal. Throughout the whole community, her warm heart, open hand and free and cordial manner, made her a universal favorite. The family and friends have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt, has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilised countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size. d84

Little and Lively.

The times change and we change with them. Hardly larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts, Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have caused the old style, large, drastic cathartic pills to be abandoned by all sensible people. The little sugar coated Pellets are a sure cure for constipation; for persons of sedentry habits they are invaluable. They are little and lively, pleasant and safe.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and lungs, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moling, Hillard, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twelve years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran Home," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise nothing that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am sure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and have recommended it to others with the happiest results." L. J. Addison, M. D., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

John J. Uhlman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a skilful physician to be very dangerous, and liable to terminate in Pneumonia. After using one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I found great relief, and an occasional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. V. Mathebaud, Montreal, Canada, writes: "Last spring my daughter was attacked by membraneous croup, or diphtheria. The doctor prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her of the diphtheria. Being still very weak and sick, she began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which restored her to vigorous health."

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it.—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton.—several stories by each author.

A hot Serial Story by Mrs Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St Nicholas.

War stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. B. Beau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Haw horne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions will be received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York

GENERAL MIDDLETON

Publicly Unveils the Brown Memorial Fountain.

A GREAT THRONG OF PEOPLE.

REVIEW OF THE CITY BATTALION IN THE CENTRAL PARK.

An Address Presented to the General and to the Mayor—The Replies—The Memorial Given over to the Town's Keeping.

The public unveiling of the Brown memorial which was erected in the Cent al Park [illegible] took place on Wednesday afternoon. At half-past two o'clock Gen. Sir F. Middleton, commander of the Canadian forces, Col. Villiers, Deputy Adjutant General, and Capt. Wise, the General's aide-de-camp, arrived at the drill shed where the battalion was drawn up in line.

Lieut.-Col. Rogers gave orders to march in fours, and headed by the band the battalion marched to the Park. The following officers of the battalion were present:—Lieut.-Col. J. Z Rogers, Major Grover, Major Bell, Qr.-Master Millar, Paymaster Howard, Surgeon Kincaid, Surgeon O'Gorman, Captain Edwards and Lieut. Dennistoun town of No 1 Company, Capt. Langford and Lieut. Lee of No. 2, Capt. Rogers and Lieut. Peck of No. 3, Capt. Bardsall and Lieut. Hill No. 4, Capt. Burke and Lieut. Brennon of No. 5, and Capt. Cooper and Lieut. Hammond of No. 6. The Lieut-Colonl put the battalion through the following movements: breaking into column to the right, moving in column, wheeling in column to the right and left, wheeling into line, forming into column, deploying from column to line, and advancing and retiring in line. Major Grover then put them through manuel and firing exercises. Several other movements were gone through. Afterwards the battalion formed in a square around the memorial, while the Northwest veterans, all wearing their medals, were drawn up into line on the platform. These were: Captain Burke, Lieut Brennan, Sergt. Hannah, Sergt. Graham, Sergt. Reynolds, Pte. Crowe, Pte. Brecklnridge, Pte. Crowter, Pte. Gray, of the old G Company, and Pte. Cook of French's scouts.

On coming to the platform the General and Col. Villiers were introduced to several prominent citizens and to several ladies. Among those on the platform were: Mayor Stevenson, Councillors Cahill, Moore, Rutherford, Kelly, and McClelland, Dr. O'Sullivan, Dr. Fife, the Rev. Mr. Wilson and John Burnham, M. P.

There was an immense gathering present; the police had hard work to keep the crowd at a comfortable distance. When order was called Lieut. Col. Harry Rogers read the following address to Gen. Middleton:—

Major General Sir Frederick D. Middleton, K C M.G., C.B.:

MR MAYOR, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—The object of our meeting together this day is to do honor to the memory of Captain Edward Templeton Brown, who gave his life as a sacrifice for his country, and in his name to do honor to the Canadian volunteers engaged in the suppression of the late rebellion. When in the spring of 1885 the telegraph flashed eastward the news that the traitor Riel had a second time stirred up an insurrection, that he had exceeded his former crime by inciting to murder and rapine the lawless and uncontrolable Indian tribes, that helpless women and children were at the mercy of savages, the hot blood stirred in every true son of Canada. In such an emergency it was to the volunteers we had to look, not to a paid force of professional soldiers. Our young men, whose yearly drilling had been rather sneered at by some as a sort of boyish holiday parade, just such young men as are being inspected this day, were suddenly found to be our only bulwark. Their ready response, the toilsome marches, the hardships borne without murmuring the eagerness to get forward, the coolness and bravery when face to face with the foe, the gallantry of the final struggle, are now all matters of history, and well may we be proud that on this, the first occasion when our citizen soldiers, unaided by regular troops, were to meet the enemy they proved themselves worthy of the race to which they belonged. Well, too, for them was it, and well for us, that in such a crisis we had at the head of the Canadian militia the gallant soldier, whose personal courage was a model for his men, whose skill and judgment knew how to make the most of the material at his command, who combined that prudence which neither risked defeat nor needlessly sacrificed useful lives, with the generalship which, when the proper time had come, could strike the decisive blow. Who so fitting a person to unveil a monument to him whom we desire to honor as the brave commander, who was as a father to his men, whose name will always be gratefully associated with our dearly bought victory? I therefore ask you, General Middleton, to unveil this tribute to the memory of Captain Brown, one of the heroes of Batoche.

General Middleton then took off the red, white and blue bunting with which the memorial was swathed, and the band played the "Sweet By and By." Lieut.-Col. Rogers then turned to Mayor Stevenson and said:

And now, Mr. Mayor, it remains for me, as Chairman of the Committee, to hand over to you, as chief officer of the town, this drinking fountain, which has just been unveiled. Edward Templeton Brown was a native of our county. His family and friends are in our midst. A few years ago he left us with the well wishes of all who knew him, on account of his many genial and endearing qualities, to carve out for himself a home in the great Northwest. And although he was not at the time of his death connected with our local force, he had been initiated in military life as a member of Number One Company of the 57th Battalion. This early training, coupled with his natural ability, stood him in good stead when his country required his services. At the first news of the outbreak he joined Colonel Boulton's Scouts, and that officer showed his estimation of him by promoting him on the field to the command of a troop. Not in any spirit of thoughtlessness did he enlist, but as a duty to his country, and with the solemn conviction that he was giving up all, even to life itself, for her sake. He escaped unharmed from the deadly fight at Fish Creek, and the first two days of Batoche. On the day of the memorable charge, just as victory was assured, he fell at the head of his men. Peterborough does well to honor such a soldier! And in honoring him we honor the whole force engaged in the suppression of the rebellion. The men standing here, wearing Her Majesty's medal, remind me that the 57th sent its contingent, and although the Company under the command of Captain Burke had not the fortune, like some of the "Midlanders," to take part in the fighting they in the line of duty and in obedience to orders rendered good service elsewhere. One, however, of Peterborough's sons we have with us to-day, who, as a member of another force, stood side by side with Captain Brown at Fish Creek and Batoche—Richard Cook, also an old member of Number One Company, was in the Northwest at the time of the rising, and threw up a lucrative position to join French's scouts, providing his own horse and outfit. The terrible wound he received on that first hot day at Batoche, his agony while lying exposed for hours before he was carried off the field, amidst a shower of lead, by the brave and lamented Captain French, the long months of suffering that followed with death staring him in the face, the permanent injury he has sustained, ruining all his worldly prospects, entitle him to special mention on this occasion, and to special consideration at the hands of the country he has so well served.

The form of this memorial, that of a drinking fountain, furnishing a cool and refreshing stream for the thirsty passer by, fitly symbolizes the life blood that has been shed, and the useful services that have been rendered by her sons for our beloved country. To you, as Mayor of Peterborough, I now hand it over, confident that it will ever be preserved by the town authorities as a sacred trust to commemorate the bravery of our citizen soldiers, [illegible] memory of the [illegible] Captain Brown.

MAYOR STEVENSON in accepting the memorial on behalf of the town said that he was pleased to receive so beautiful a monument, and he would see that it was well taken care of. The citizens had acted as became them in placing a token of their admiration of the late Capt. Edward Brown's courage and patriotism where the world might see it. It was but right to honor those who helped to uphold the country's honor. He then paid a tribute to General Middleton's successful quelling of the rebellion, stating that here, as in other places throughout the country, during the stormy times in the Northwest, all was anxiety until the decisive battle was fought. Then people settled down to their respective callings. He thanked General Middleton for coming to do honor to the ceremony to-day and concluded with promising to carefully guard the treasure committed to his charge.

GEN. MIDDLETON said:—Mr. Mayor, Col. Rogers and people of Peterborough: It affords me gratification to have been able accept your kind invitation received at your hands to unveil this tribute to the memory of the late Capt. Brown, and to the bravery of the brave volunteers. I have not known Capt. Brown so well as some of you have known him, but I knew him well in the Northwest. When called upon to take command of the Canadian forces in the Northwest Major Bolton offered his services. He offered to raise a troop of scouts and knowing him as I did his offer was at once accepted. He raised his force in a remarkably quick time, and I can say that his troop did constant good service during the campaign. I always felt safe when Boulton's scouts were in the front. They were employed in several kinds of duty and always acquitted themselves well. Indeed, I deem it owing to Boulton's scouts having been thrown between Batoche and Riel that the latter's surrender was accomplished much more speedily than if they had not been there. When the former Captain of Boulton's scouts was unfortunately killed Colonel—then Major—Boulton asked my permission to appoint Capt. Edward Brown to the position. I gave that permission and had no reason to regret having done so. Capt. Brown did his duty worthily and well. I had a great deal to do with him personally and I always found him willing and ready when duty called him. From my personal knowledge I can say that Capt. Brown was a credit to his force. You have been so kind as to make reference to myself. I can say that no matter how well I planned—no matter how well I may have had my plans laid—if they had not been faithfully carried into effect by the Canadian volunteers they would have come to nothing. I thank you, Mr. Mayor and people of Peterborough, for the kind way you have received me.

The band played "God Save the Queen" and the battalion marched down George street to the market square, across to Water street, up Water to Simcoe, down Simcoe to George, and up George to the drill shed. The appearance and style of marching of the battalion was admired by the crowds that lined the streets.

THE MEMORIAL

is built of Ohio sandstone and is of a gothic design. On the front the gargoyle from which the water flows is in the shape of a lion's head, made of brass. The inscription in the front is as follows:—

Pro Patria
Capt. Edward T. Brown,
Fish Creek
Batoche
1885.

On the back of the monument the following inscription is written on a pannel:—"A tribute to the Canadian volunteers and to the memory of Capt. Edward T. Brown, of Boulton's scouts, a native of this county who fell at Batoche on May 12th 1885.

JUSTIN McCARTHY to-night.

Military Notes.

General Middleton was entertained at an officers' mess held at the Oriental Hotel on Wednesday evening. Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers took the chair, having on his right Gen. Middleton, the guest of the evening, and on his left Col. Villiers. Major and Adjutant Bell occupied the vice-chair, having on his left Capt. Wise. The usual loyal toasts were drunk and briefly responded to. Volunteer toasts were also heartily replied to. Among the latter was "The Northwest Veterans," coupled with the names of Capt. Wise, Capt. Burke and Lieut. Brennan, all of whom replied suitably. Capt. Birdsall in a well worded speech proposed "The Old 57th" to which Paymaster Howard replied, very happily recounting several interesting incidents in the history of the battalion.

When trooper Cook appeared at the drill shed on review day in the handsome uniform of the Peterborough Hussars he was mistaken for Gen. Middleton. He was so crowded around that he had to make his escape to the orderly room till the arrival of the General.

Col. Villiers, D.A.G. of the district, was particularly active during the time the battalion was put through the various evolutions. He seemed to take a deep interest in the various movements.

The regimental band, under Master Millar's direction, appeared to good advantage during the review and march out.

On Tuesday evening the different companies of the battalion were served with new belts and frogs for the bayonets. These were worn at the inspection and added much to the neat appearance of the troop.

Two orderlies from A Battery, Kingston, were in attendance on the General and his aide-de-camp during their stay in Peterborough. They are very soldierly looking fellows.

A VERY CHOICE LINE—of Overcoatings and Suitings of every description—all fashionable goods—to be found at A. McNeil Habilimeat Hall.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1886.

THE LATE JAMES FREDERICK DENNISTOUN, Q. C.

With the death of James Frederick Dennistoun, Q. C., Peterborough has lost a valued citizen, and the Province one of its foremost lawyers. For the last three years he has been kept almost bedfast by a lingering disease, which the best medical attention and careful nursing failed to drive away. The end came on Thursday morning at shortly before one o'clock. The deceased was the eldest son of His Honor Judge Dennistoun. He received the groundwork of his education at Dr. Taylor's school, Peterborough, and finished it at the Upper Canada College. In 1864 he began the practice of law in his father's office. Afterwards he went to Lindsay, where he established a large legal business in partnership with Mr. A. Hudspeth Q.C. When his father was elevated to the bench in 1863 he returned to town and for a time and engaged in the practice of his profession on his own account. He after this, in conjunction with Messrs. Fairbairn & Cassels, formed the firm of Dennistoun, Fairbairn & Cassels. This firm existed for a term of years. When it was dissolved the senior partner entered into the partnership with his brother Mr. Robert H. Dennistoun and Mr. E. H. D. Hall, the firm being known as Dennistoun Bros & Hall. In 1876 he was appointed Q. C., an honor of which he was deserving. For the past three years he has given up his office connections on account of ill health, though retaining his place in the parternship till his heath. But his being in a state of ill-health did not prevent him from attending to the duties devolving upon him as President of the Auburn Woolien Company, in which enterprise he had a large interest. Himself and others purchased these mills in 1873, and since that time, under his presidency, the business has flourished and thriven. His public spirit is evinced from the fact that he sat for several terms in the municipal Council and on the Board of Education as representative of No. 4 ward. In religion he was a Presbyterian, and in politics a Liberal-Conservative.

To-Night's Meeting.

Mr. Carnegie will speak at Mr. Ross' meeting this evening in the Opera House Mr. Stratton is to speak first. Mr. Carnegie then to have an hour, and the Hon. G. W. Ross to follow. The meeting will begin at 7.30 o'clock. Note the hour!

A New Shop.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Z. B. D. Lafleur in another column, who has just opened a small shop on Simcoe street, west of George, as a working jeweller and diamond setter Large experience and well recommended. Give him a trial.

Do You Know—that A. McNeil is selling the choicest variety of Gents Furnishings to be found in Peterborough?

Campaign Meetings.

Mr. Carnegie, the Conservative candidate for the Local Legislature, held a meeting at Bensfort on Tuesday evening, at Selwyn on Wednesday afternoon, and at Montgomery's school house, Smith, on Thursday evening. Each of the meetings was largely attended and was very satisfactory.

Evangelistic Meetings.

Mr. Alexander Marshall, the well known evangelist, conducted the first of a series of evangelistic meetings to be held in the mission room, over China Hall, on Thursday night. The address was very powerful and searching and was greatly appreciated by those who heard him. The opportunity to attend these services should not be lost. Mr. Marshall will conduct similar meetings to-night and to-morrow night commencing at 8 o'clock, on Sunday afternoon at 3.30, and an Sunday night at 7.30. The peculiarity of these meetings is that the gospel is preached and that without money and without price. No collections are taken up. Everybody is invited and urged to come.

IRISH TENANT QUESTION.

The London City Companies to Sell their Lands in Ireland.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The London city companies resolve to sell their lands in the north of Ireland on easy terms to the tenants. The Salters company will transfer 25,000 acres at the purchase price of $1,000,000 under the terms of the Ashbourne Act. The Fishmongers' company will transfer 20,500 acres at a yearly rental of $46,500. They offer to sell to the tenants at a twenty years' purchase to the Government valuation, the tenants paying annually 30 per cent. under the present rental. The Draper's Company offers 27,025 acres, at a yearly rental of $62,500, at eighteen years' purchase. The tenants accept the offers. The transfer covers nearly the whole County of Londonderry.

CANADA PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Survey of the Sault Extension—The North Shore Mining Region.

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has at present surveying parties at work locating a line from Algoma Mills to Sault Ste Marie, with the object of being ready to commence active building operations by the opening of the spring season. The Algoma branch now extends from Sudbury Junction to the Mills, a distance of 93 miles. The position of the road now being surveyed is an extention of the branch in order to effect a connection with the American system of the west, and more particularly to tap the trade of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Some of the work on the American side of the line remains to be done, but it will be completed by the time connection is made.

In the meantime the C. P. R. is making every effort to accommodate the firms who have recently undertaken the work of developing the mineral resources of the Lake Superior district. The copper mines near Sudbury are the great centre of attraction at present, and the company has built two short branch lines to connect with these works and facilitate the shipment of ore. One of these branches is four miles in length, and the other only one mile.

A DEAD MAN DRIVING.

Found Dead in a Buggy with a Bullet Through His Brain.

Owosso, Mich., Nov. 24.—After drawing his salary on Saturday at the Casket works where he was employed, Harvey Rowland, 22 years of age, hired a livery rig and went into the country. Nothing more was heard of him here until this morning, when the horse and carriage returned to the barn, with Rowland sitting on the carriage seat, dead, a bullet hole in his temple and a revolver in his lap. The horse came in at an easy gait, and not at all as though excited by any undue occurrence. A coroner's inquest was begun, but adjourned until this morning. The affair occasions much talk and numerous theories, but it is probably a case of suicide. The result of the inquest will be wired later.

A despatch from Corunna says Rowland spent Saturday driving around the town and started for home at 1.30 a. m. James Wheeler was returning home from Owosso at nearly one o'clock, and met the rig driven by Rowland. It was dark and he could not see whether Rowland was shot or not. Wheeler met two women a mile further on walking towards Owosso, but saw or heard nothing to excite suspicions of wrong. Rowland was to have married Jennie Enredge next Thursday, and had bought her a ring and other mementoes. He left her at home all right and in good spirits. Opinion is divided as to whether the death was suicide or murder.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY'S LECTURE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—When, last evening, we had the great privilege of listening to a lecture by a man occupying the position of Justin McCarthy, the author and statesman, a man who stepped down from the rostrum of the great Imperial Parliament to deliver an address in a small Canadian town, we felt that we were for the time being carried away from our little local surroundings and made partakers of that greater world in which Justin McCarthy forms no inconsiderable figure. Why could we not be allowed to go away from the hall with that pleasant feeling upon us, to think over the eloquent speech we had heard, calm, deliberate, logical and convincing in itself, and in the manner of its delivery, the best argument that Irishmen are fitted to be entrusted with legislative control of their own country? But somebody blundered. Not content with a vote of thanks moved and seconded in the usual way, one after another of the gentlemen on the platform was called upon to "give his experience," and for three-quarters of an hour we were kept listening to their speeches, more or less eloquent, with their little points and their little jokes, amusing enough in their way, appropriate enough at an ordinary meeting of the local branch of the League, but certainly out of place after the full treat we had already enjoyed.

May I suggest that in the event of our being again favoured by hearing an address from a lecturer of anything like Justin McCarthy's calibre, there shall be no "afterclaps" to detract from the effect of the "big thunderer?"

Little and Lively.

The times change and we change with them. Hardly larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts, Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have caused the old style, large, drastic, cathartic pills to be abandoned by all sensible people. The little sugar-coated Pellets are a sure cure for constipation; for persons of sedentry habits they are invaluable. They are little and lively, pleasant and safe.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

Peterborough, November 15, 1886.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1886.

OUR PUBLIC PROPERTY.

INSTANCE after instance has recently been brought to light of the systematic manner in which the Mowat Administration deals with our property, not for the benefit of the people of the Province, but to enrich their friends, purchase their support, or reward their services.

A short time ago we described their doings in relation to the Hurdman timber limit case, showing they had deliberately swindled a political opponent for the purpose of corruptly enriching a political friend and supporter. Now a Reformer divulges another disgraceful transaction in which he was cheated out of the benefit of mineral discoveries that he had made, in order that Messrs. Mowat & Co. might have an opportunity of making a valuable grant of Ontario public property to Mr. Murray, M. P. P. Who we believe is the same Murray, through whose influence Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have authorized liquor licenses far in excess of the legal number, Mr. Murray being said to be interested personally and through his connections the license officials.

This method of dealing with our public property is nothing new on the part of Mr. Mowat. It is well known that at one of the largest timber limit sales prominent Reformers were almost the only successful bidders giving higher prices than could be afforded by their competitors, who could not understand "their game." They understood afterwards when, as if by preconcerted arrangement, the Government reduced the dues of their friends, so as to make their high bid a really profitable speculation not open to those outside the ring. Other instances, some in this locality, show that Mr. Mowat looks on our timber as a material for securing him political support. So with our minerals, this Murray job is nothing new in principle. We all know how Mr. Mowat favoured Mr. Coe and his associates as regards mineral lands in the eastern part of this county and the adjoining townships of Hastings. These grants were given to supporters to the prejudice of honest settlers, of the municipalities and of the people of Ontario, so objectionable being the transaction that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues stubbornly refused to give the particulars to the light, even disregarding the orders of the House in their craving for concealment.

Not only has Mr. Mowat thus misappropriated for his own advantage the property of the people of this Province, their lands, timber and minerals, but he has been dishonest in manner as well as in act. While he and his friends have been howling at the Dominion Administration on false charges of corrupt dealing with members as to timber limits and mineral lands, he has been making a regular practice of giving our timber and minerals to the members of the Provincial Legislature supporting him, or to their near relations. Occasionally, as Mr. Blake has no patronage of his own Mr. Mowat has accommodated him by using the property or funds of this Province to reward Reform members of the House of Commons.

It is time that Mr. Mowat should be stript of the power of further misappropriating our property.

MR. MOWAT A LAW-BREAKER.

FOR such a very "stainless" man, Mr. Mowat has a strange liking for getting into dirty puddles. From his professions one would be led to believe that he is both an upholder of the law and an advocate of temperance. It is well known that in Peterborough, as elsewhere, he has habitually employed the machinery of the law for regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors, not so much for the repression of illicit drinking as for the manufacture of political capital. But in the Nipissing District, probably because it is further off, he has been bolder in his law-breaking. He and his colleague, Mr. Hardy, have sanctioned the issue of higher licenses, in numbers far in excess of the legal limit. And to make the violation of the law more easy he has employed as license officials hangers on of his friend and supporter, Mr. Murray, M.P.P. The result of this very pretty combination is that in the village of Mattawa there are said to be as many as twelve liquor licenses for a population of less than a thousand. If Mr. Mowat were to attend to his duties, instead of giving so much attention to assisting Mr. Blake, he might avoid bringing so much disgrace upon himself.

WE are sneered at because we have taken as serious Mr. Blake's airing of his taxation hobbies, and are assured that he did not announce them as part of his practical policy. To this we must reply that Mr. Blake being leader of the Opposition, and an aspirant to the Premiership, was guilty of gross impertinence towards the people of Canada, and especially the electors, if when they asked, as they have a right to do, for an expression of his practical policy, he played with them and fooled them by giving them as a substitute a discussion on some of his visionary, fantastic notions which he has no intention of putting into effect if he is entrusted with the power of shaping the policy of the country. The electors want to hear what is Mr. Blake's practical policy, not to be entertained with the relation of his dreams, sleeping or waking.

THE Montreal Herald seems vexed at being surpassed in slander and falsehood even on one point by Messrs. Cameron and Blake, so it hastens to add its say on the "starved Indian" question. The greater portion of the article consists of repetitions of the old falsifications and abuse of the Department for refuting them. The only new point we notice is a bold denial by the Herald that all the Indian treaties in the North-West Territorirs were made under the Mackenzie Administration. Yet a few lines further on it admits that treaties No. 1 and No. 2, made under the Macdonald Administration, apply to Indians in the Province of Manitoba as now enlarged, though a few of these Indians were outside the boundaries at one time. By such quibbles the Rielites endeavour to justify an Indian rising stirred up by them on the Saskatchewan.

MR. MOWAT and some of his colleagues have addressed public meetings recently, but none of them, as far as we have seen, have attempted to explain their corrupt and dishonest dealings with the Hurdman limits as exposed by us, though that exposure has been repeated in a number of journals. It was such a dirty business that they do not venture even to mention it. The timber belonging to the Province seems in their eyes chiefly useful as a means of purchasing support or rewarding party services.

Two Reform newspapers at Woodstock having fallen out over municipal printing, one of them has published the figures in detail showing that the municipality was charged at a rate nearly three times as high as that paid by the Dominion Government for the pamphlets as to which Reform politicians and journals have been howling extortion and robbery. This is the very essence of modern Canadian reform.

IN the proceedings of the Northwest Council as reported by the Reform Calgarry Tribune, Mr. Perley, who spoke of himself as a temperance man and opposed to the sale of liquor, said:—"He was strongly opposed to the permit system, though His Honor, the Lieut.-Governor, he thought, deserved very great credit for the way in which he administered it." Thus another Reform slander is refuted on unimpeachable authority.

IF it were not so disgraceful the effrontery of Mr. Cameron (Huron) would be amusing. Having been shown to be guilty of forging extracts from the official documents of the Indian Department, he calmly invites the Minister to a public discussion. It is as if a forger in the penitentiary were to invite a discussion as to his crime with the manager of the bank the notes of which he has fraudulently altered.

MR. MURRAYS COPPER MINE.

A Local Member Look After the Interests of his Constituents.

PEMBROKE, Nov. 24.—Your correspondent this afternoon had a conversation with Mr. Wm. Montgomery, a life-long Reformer of Alice township, and elicited the following facts regarding Mr. Thomas Murray's $6,000 copper mine located near Sudbury. Mr. Montgomery said that he, with Mr. J. L. Flannagan and Mr. J. C. Crane, discovered a copper mine and located land. They did not know how to go about securing it from the Government, and asked a partner of Mr Thos. Murray's named Loughrin to use his influence with Murray to secure for them a title to the land from the Mowat Government. Mr. Loughrin was to have received a quarter interest in the mine of his influence with Mr. Murray. Mr. Murry, of course, undertook to look after the interests of his constituents, but when the orginal discoverers of the mine came to enquire for the title Mr. Murray was to have secured for them, Mr. Murray informed them he had secured the title in the name of Murray and Loughrin, and could only give them one hundred and fifty dollars each for their trouble. Mr. Montgomery replied that he would not take the amount, that Mr. Murray had played an underhand game, and thereby deprived them of what they were justly entitled to. Mr. Murray answered, "I have the land on which the mine is located in my own name, and if you don't like to take the one hundred and fifty dollars each, you will not get anything."

This is the manner in which the local representative of the North riding of Renfrew can use his influence with the Mowat Government in the interest of his constituents.—Mail.

Railway Accident.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—An accident occurred on the North-western railroad near this city this morning. Cattle trains, bound for Chicago, held the track near the point mentioned. A forward train was broken in two before the sections could be recoupled. The rear portion was overtaken and run into by a second train. The caboose and two cars were smashed. Two drovers, asleep in the caboose, are reported to have been instantly killed.

The Boodle Aldermen.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The jury in the McQuade case came into Court to-day, after having been locked up all night, and announced that they could not agree upon a verdict. The jury stood nine to three for acquittal. The Recorder then discharged the jury. The failure of the jury to agree upon a verdict has given rise to much dissatisfaction, as it will have much effect on the cases of the other indicted "boodle" aldermen.

Crisis in Peru.

LIMA, Nov. 22.—A ministerial crisis was brought about on Saturday by the resignation of the President of the Council of Ministers, Dr. Jos Arambal. Nothing is yet known as to the formation of a new Cabinet.

THE C. P. R. AND THE NORTHWEST.

We notice that Mr. Blake still adheres to his old contention that the C. P. R. was built too rapidly. He would seem to still have faith in the "beautiful water stretches" scheme proposed by Mr. Mackenzie, and the further proposal to expend a million dollars a year on the western section of the line. But we of the Northwest may fitly ask, what would our position be to-day if the Liberals had remained in power. Would the Northwest be developed to the extent it is, and would we be so near the realization of our hopes with regard to responsible government? Certainly not.—Prince Albert Times (Indep.)

On account of my Extremely Low Prices some people are very skeptical, and desining dealers will tell them that my goods are shoddy, etc., etc. Well, be that as it may, I only ask the public to praise as they prove me, and in the face of this I boldly make the assertion that my stock for SUPERIORITY IN TEXTURE and MAKE SURPASSES anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to ALL, I will ascend the Ladder of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, and the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday Evening, Nov. 25th.

The markets this week, as is usual at this time of year, have been well patronized. During the week the daily receipts of wheat, barley, and other kinds of grain have been fairly large. Wheat continues firm at 75 and 76 cents per bushel, with a slight upward tendency, but barley has decreased in price, owing, no doubt, to the close of navigation. The price now paid on the market is from 50 to 53 cents per bushel. Oats hold at 28 cents and peas at 52 cents per bushel. For the past two weeks great quantities of beef and pork by the quarter has been marketed at fair prices. Dressed hogs are coming in freely, also, although a large delivery cannot be expected until sleighing comes. The butter trade continues dull, though good prices are paid, the well made firkin article bringing as high as 17 cents per pound. It seems as if there is very little in the country. In vegetables, potatoes still appear to be scarce, but the price has not increased.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To all Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of good merit, on its merits. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold every houseowner it might not be necessary to make an "extraordinary offer" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its saleability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in that time, above all expences, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 above all expenses, can return goods unsold and get their money back. No other employer or agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents how making more than double the amount we guaranteed, and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eigeteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer more fully, and these we wish to send to every one out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer to send us at once the name and address all such they know. Address at once or you will lose the best chance ever offered to oseth out of employment to make money.

The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1886.

MR. JUSTIN MCCARTHY, M.P.

Lecture by the Celebrated Historian and Politician on the Irish Question.

There was a large attendance in Bradburn's Hall on Thursday evening to hear Mr. Justin McCarthy, M.P., lecture on the National Cause of Ireland, under the auspices of the Peterborough branch of the Irish National League.

Dr. O'Sullivan, President of the League, was in the chair, and we noticed on the platform the Rev. Messrs. Conway, Keilty, O'Connell, Tovell and Wallace, Mayor Stevenson, Dr. Kincaid, Dr. Massie, Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, D. W. Dumble, J. W. Fitzgerald, J. O'Meara, James Stratton, &c.

Dr. O'SULLIVAN expressed his pleasure at presiding at a meeting to plead the cause of Ireland, and also at the audience before him. He referred to the advantages we had in Peterborough as to means of education, a privilege long denied to Ireland, but he showed how the natural genius of the country enabled them to overcome these obstacles. He introduced Mr. Justin McCarthy as a prominent exponent of Irish genius.

MR. JUSTIN MCCARTHY, after expressing his thanks to the President for his compliments, and to the audience for their greeting, mentioned the subject of his address. What was the national cause of Ireland? What did they demand? What they asked was that power of self government possessed by each province of Canada, each state of the United States. That was the substance of their demand. They asked nothing more and would be content with nothing less. He believed that no true Canadian could fail to sympathize with this wish for Home Rule. Their country within its seas claimed its own management of its own affairs without their being dictated by a Parliament sitting at Westminster. They had no wish to interfere with the local affairs of either England or Scotland, and no wish to be interfered with by them in local matters. Then they would be quite willing to do their share for Imperial purposes. They asked nothing new, but a restoration of that old parliamentary Government which they had long possessed. The Act of Union was only a matter of the day before yesterday. Till the very beginning of this century Ireland had a parliament sitting in Dublin. He claimed that this Irish Parliament was as old as that of England, had advanced equally and was even more progressive. That Parliament had like that of England been subject to the caprice of the monarch and was not truly representative. The great majority of the people were Catholics, yet the members were all Protestants and were elected by Protestants, no others being allowed these privileges. Yet as this Protestant House became freer it took steps to emancipate their Roman Catholic fellow-citizens. A measure to allow them to vote was carried, and they were determined to carry this forward till the Roman Catholics were allowed to sit in the House. For this cause the King, who had forced the American colonies to claim their independence, determined to destroy the Dublin Parliament. He described the origin of the "United Irishmen," as being chiefly composed of Protestants of Ulster. Their great aim was to secure the emancipation of their Roman Catholic fellow country men. They were loyal, patriotic, law-loving people. There was a Lord-Lieutenant, Lord Fitzwilliam, who worked with them, and for so doing he was ignominiously recalled by the King. That was the turning point. The Irish people then lost faith in constitutional agitation. The United Irishmen, officered by such patriotic, generous Protestants as Lord Edward Fitzgerald and Wolf Tone, urged an appeal to arms. Not they, but the King and his ministers rebelled against the constitution. The rebellion was crushed and then the extinction of the Irish Parliament was proceeded with. They had to induce a majority of the House of Commons to assent to the Act of Union. The Lords were not independent enough to give trouble. The Viceroy, Lord Cornwallis, was authorized to use any means, bribery, cajoling, threats, or force, and he carried out his instructions, using large sums of money, promising peerages, packing the House of Commons, and by such means doing his work. For this we have the testimony of Lord Cornwallis himself, who like a soldier obeyed his orders from headquarters, but in his correspondence expressed loathing of the work. He said in one letter he could have gone home with content if he could have once kicked those whom he was obliged to pay and cajole. The end was gained in spite of the condemnation of the best men in Ireland and of some in England. Among them was Sir John Parnell, a name of proud associations. By extinguishing the Irish Parliament they hoped to extinguish the Irish national spirit, but it had been seen how they failed. There was only one way of extinguishing the demand of Ireland for national independence and that was by extinguishing the life of all true Irishmen and Irish women. Sweep them off the earth and then alone the demand would cease. The people of Ireland had never consented to the union, they were not even consulted, and they had never ceased to protest. There had been insurrection after insurrection, constitutional after constitutional agitation without cease. He proceeded to describe the parliamentary tactics which had brought them within a measureable distance of success. Constitutional agitation had lost favour with the Irish, having been tried unsuccessfully under Daniel O'Connell and subsequently under Isaac Butt. It has been the practice of the Ministry to win over the Irish members, so that the socalled "patriots" succeeded in aiding their country by obtaining offices and drawing upon the English Treasury, all for the good of Ireland. He described one quartett of patriots, the Saddleirs and their associates, with their crimes and their fate. So the Irish people began to think that "patriot" meant "place hunter" and despaired of Parliamentary agitation, a state of mind too often leading to secret conspiracy. A little knot of Irish members thought they would stem the danger by making Parliament a platform from which to address the world without allying themselves with any party. They also resolved to bring the cause of Ireland before the House, day after day, day and night, till it gave way for very weariness. He described the press of work which Parliament undertook, so that English, Scotch and Welsh matters had to be postponed year after year. If they were content with this the Irish were not, and they determined to put an end to it. They determined that no work should be done till they were successful. How successful they had been the result showed. They were only 4 or five (he was not one of them) and they had not only the English and Scotch against them, but most Irishmen at first. He then described how Parnell came to be their leader. They called themselves the party of activity, but their opponents called it the party of obstruction. They excited great indignation by their action. Every man's hand was against them, and their hand was against every man. They talked on every subject, and they had a great many divisions. Each of these divisions took at least a quarter of an hour, from the system of voting by lobbies, sometimes half a dozen of them going into one lobby, and the whole house into the other. One of their little band used sometimes to amuse himself and them by pretending to be crushed by their crowd. Since then he might have seen a great crowd of Home Rulers going through the lobby with Mr. Gladstone at their head. It was a success which he thought was unprecedented. By making themselves a nuisance they had forced attention to their demands from the people of England, Scotland and Wales. A young lady had well described their policy as that of making a sleeping man and shouting in his ear—not that such was the way of carrying on a conversation with a waking man. He claimed that they had gained the democracy of the three kingdoms and the principality, and that they really had the majority of voters, even in England, though not of votes, as a property holder could vote in every constituency where he had property. The democracy following Gladstone had only one vote each. He claimed that the privileged classes would have to give way to the unprivileged. As was the case with most great reforms, they would have to apply to the House more than once before gaining their end. He described the great majority alike of voters and members in Ireland in favor of Home Rule. This was even the case with Ulster, which had the majority of both, Presbyterians and Episcopalians being among them. He himself represented Derry, a Protestant stronghold, and Sexton sat for Belfast, and even in the South they had brought down Pretestants from Ulster to represent constituencies where there were six Roman Catholics to one Protestant. All their parliamentary elected leaders had been Protestants. They did not appeal to sectarianism, but to patriotism. Protestants of Ulster had given them the most generous assistance. The credit of success was not due to the members, but to the people of Ireland, who had so well supported them, not only in Ireland, but Irishmen in all parts of the world. Without this sympathy and support they could not have stood their ground, but must have failed in the fight. Success must soon come, perhaps through the Liberals, perhaps through the Conservatives. They in Ireland would like to see Mr. Gladstone put the coping stone on his edifice. But they would take a complete measure of Home Rule from either party, an incomplete measure from none. History, when a parliament in Dublin was restored, would inscribe two names on the tablet, William Ewart Gladstone and Charles Stewart Parnell.

Dr. KINCAID, as a Protestant from Ulster, rose to propose a vote of thanks to the lecturer. None had the welfare of Ireland more at heart than himself. He claimed to be one of the oldest Home Rulers in Peterborough, but it was plain that the best part of the people were being educated into it. He dwelt approvingly on the use of moral suasion by the eloquent historian, journalist and politician who had addressed them. If Home Rule were granted the last gun fired in defence of our Sovereign would be fired by an Irishman. Speaking of the treat they had enjoyed, he gave credit to Mr. Minore for making arrangements for bringing Mr. McCarthy here. He heartily proposed the vote of thanks.

Dr. MASSIE, in seconding the motion, alluded to the eloquence of the Irish race of which they had instances from the three previous speakers that evening. As a Scotchman he despaired of equalling them. Their patriotism the Scotchmen would show on the 29th, when they would even dare to sing "Scots wha hae." Then the Englishmen would meet and sing "Britannia rules the waves; Britons never shall be slaves." This feeling showed our patriotism, but we should not deny it to our fellowmen. As to trusting Ireland, would any man trust another, if the other man would not trust him?

Mr. G. A. Cox expressed his enjoyment and his entire accord with the utterances there to-night.

MAYOR STEVENSON thought they had come to hear Mr. McCarthy, not others. Many of us were in considerable ignorance of Irish questions, but the eloquent speaker and historian had put things so plainly as to enlighten them. We must feel that Ireland must have Home Rule, and no doubt they would soon get it. He was convinced when they got it they would make no unfair use of it. He hoped the speaker who had just pleased them so much would have a voice in the management, for he felt full confidence in him.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE also expressed his gratification. He used to feel impatient with the "obstructionists," but since then he had been educated. Canadians would always be in favor of liberty, and Ireland should have it. Then they would show their loyalty.

Mr. JAS. STRATTON spoke of the eloquence of Mr. McCarthy and of his love for Home Rule.

THE REV. FATHER CONWAY had heard Mr. McCarthy describe on another occasion Disraeli and Gladstone, and you could not tell which party he sympathized with. He had read his history and could not tell his creed. This showed a fairness of mind that did him credit, and that we might all well try to imitate. Canada was the freest country in the world and Irishmen here would be unnatural sons of their fatherland if they did not wish to see their old country as free.

THE REV. I. TOVELL alluded to the fact that he had seconded the vote of thanks to the Ulster delegates but they had slipt a little cause into it suggesting a little Home Rule. Hoping that home rule would be granted and expressing his pleasure at hearing Mr. McCarthy he supported the motion.

Dr. O'SULLIVAN with cordial approval put the vote of thanks which was accepted by the audience rising.

Cheers were then given for the Queen and for Mr. McCarthy.

POLICE COURT.

LARCENY.

FRIDAY, Nov. 26.—On Thursday P. C. Adams captured a man on a warrant now over a year old. In June, 1882, Douglas Armstrong Cahoon was working as a farm laborer for Mr. Charles Davidson, of Smith, John Wright also worked there. The former for some reason best known to himself, gave his name as Douglas Armstrong and by that name he was known. When he left the place a quantity of clothing and a watch belonging to John Wright was missing.

It was not till 1885 that a warrant was issued for the arrest of Cahoon alias Armstrong. Since that time until yesterday the warrant has lain in the pigeon-hole at the Police Station. It appears that Cahoon has got into another scrape. He slept at Kinmount on Sunday night with a man named Alexander Wills. When the latter woke up in the morning he found Mr. Cahoon gone and a sum of money also. He tracked Cahoon to Otonabee, brought him to town and had him placed in custody. When in the station P. C. Adams, in conversation with him, found out that he was the Douglas Armstrong of Smith notoriety. On the first charge of larceny he was arranged this morning. The prosecution being not ready, the case was enlarged till Monday.

ASSAULT.

R. Gibbs was brought up by J. True on a charge of assault. It appeared that in a trade of gloves the former was joking and the latter was in earnest. The latter didn't want to trade. Some banter followed and some "horse play" was indulged in which the complainent objected to.

The MAGISTRATE held that as the complaint asked for the protection of the law he had a right to it. A fine of $2 and costs was imposed.

Gents Furnishings.

Those who require gents furnishing, underwear, etc., should look at J. J. Sheehy's window. It speaks for itself.

Workmen Rally!

All classes of the people should attend the lecture in the Opera House to-morrow evening. The subject being capital and labour, a matter interesting to the capitalist as well as the laborer. During the evening a collection will be taken up to assist in defraying the expenses of the lecture. Let a bumper house be given Philips Thompson. Doors open at 7.30, and the chair will be taken at 8 o'clock.

The Anarchists Gain Time.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 25.—At 11 o'clock this morning Judge Scott granted the supersedeas in the Anarchists' case. The effect of the order for the supersedeas will be to stay the execution at least until the full bench of the Supreme Court has passed upon the question raised for a new trial. It is estimated that in the ordinary course of procedure a hearing and decision cannot be reached for six or eight weeks, and that even though the lower court is sustained the sentence cannot be carried out until some time in March or April.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

THE REFORM CAMPAIGN MEETING IN THE OPERA HOUSE

Mr. Stratton, Mr. Carnegie and the Hon. G. W. Ross Address a Large Audience —Mr. Stratton Neatly Cornered in One of his Little Stories.

On Friday evening a political meeting was held in Bradburn's Opera House under Mr. Stratton's auspices. The hall was crowded to the doors and many were unable to get seats. The gallery was well filled with ladies. The speakers announced to discuss the issues of the day were the Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, Mr. Stratton and Mr. Carnegie, the latter being allowed one hour to present his views.

At eight o'clock the chair was taken by Mr. M. Millar, President of the Reform Association of this riding. On the platform were the two speakers in the interests of the Government, Mr. A. R. Kidd, Warden of the County, Dr. Fife, Mr. W. Patterson, jr., Mr. John Bertram, Mr. D. W. Dumble and Mr. T. G. Hazlitt.

MR. MILLAR asked if Mr. Carnegie was in the audience. If he was they would be glad to have him on the platform.

Mr. Carnegie came to the platform amid applause.

MR. STRATTON was the first to speak. He said that it was with a great deal of pleasure that he addressed the electors present, consisting as it did of the industry and thrift and intelligence of this town. He felt that they were assembled here on no idle mission, put on one of grave importaube. They were men to night in the discharge of the highest duties of citizenship. They were not on the eve of a political election. The Local House was now dissolved and the Mowat Government were applying for a renewal of that confidence which the people had heretofore placed in them. He had the honor to represent the Reform party in this riding. In accepting the nomination he did so, not in the spirit of any personal advantage, but in the interest of the party. By consent to be a candidate he sacrificed much time and contesting the Riding would not in any way better his financial position. It was urged against him that he was a young man and not fit to represent his constituency, but he did not deem it necessary (turning to to Mr. Carnegie) to grow old in political wickedness to secure the desired majority of the intelligent electors. He solicited the suffrages of the electors. (At this stage of the proceedings Mr. Cox came to the platform. He was received with applause.) He held that young men were rapidly coming to the front in all spheres of life, and he thought he had a right to contest this election with Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Carnegie had been a miserable failure as representative of West Peterborough in the Local House. Mr. Carnegie could not bring one single scrap to show why the Mowat Government should not be sustained. He would give place to the next speaker now but that he wanted to make an explanation. It had been reported that he used bull type for the Examiner to the detriment of the of the workingmen. This bull type came from the Toronto World, the news contained in that morning's paper being reproduced in the Examiner in the next evening by means of "plates" sent by the World to the Examiner. It had been reported that he injured the working man by not employing compositors to set the type which the plates took the place of. He believed this report originated in the REVIEW and was circulated with Mr. Carnegie's connivance.

Mr. CARNEGIE—It is false.

MR. STRATTON continuing claimed that his employees were all satisfied, and that he gave more news by using the plates. He desired to mention another thing. It had been said that he was afraid to meet Mr. Carnegie on the platform to discuss the questions of the day. Mr. Carnegie had trailed this red rag around after him. He was not afraid of Mr. Carnegie. What he wanted was to be allowed to plainly and calmy state his case at his own meeting and that Mr. Carnegie do the same. The electors then would be in a position to judge for themselves. He considered that this was necessary for he knew from personal experience that in contesting this riding with other political opponents Mr. Carnegie was in the habit of walking with his party out of the meeting as soon as he had made his speech, thus breaking up the meeting. He was not going to allow Mr. Carnegie to break up his meeting in this way. He wanted the questions presented to the electors quietly and judiciously. He had every confidence that on the 28th of December he would be returned for West Peterborough by the intelligent electors of this Riding.

Mr. Cox thanked the chairman for kindly permitting him to make an explanation. It had been reported that he was not a friend to the working man. He flatly denied it, and offered to forfeit $5,000 if it was proved true. He also spoke of the Barnardo Home, stating that it was supported by people in England. He gave only the ground and the building. It was an institution to provide homes for the homeless.

MR. CARNEGIE was then asked to speak. He could assure the electors that it afforded him pleasure to appear once more before them. Before going further he wished to thank the Minister of Education for allowing him to speak at this meeting to-night. His friend Mr. Stratton had said that such meetings should be conducted by one side. But for twenty years it had been the custom in this constituency to give both sides of the question a hearing, and he believed it to be a good custom. The speakers could place the facts before the people on both sides and they could then draw their own conclusions in an intelligent way. But in this campaign it appeared that we were not to have that custom carried out, and Mr. Stratton was to tell his variety of stories where they best suited his purpose. Mr. Stratton had urged, in defence of his action, that he (Mr. Carnegie) not unfrequently in former campaigns had broken up meetings. He would beg to state that such was not his practice. The electors were at liberty to ask Mr. Bertram, his former opponent, if he had ever resorted to such practices. He had always remained till the conclusion of the meeting, or had given a valid reason to his opponent for going away. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BERTRAM rose and stated that he could affirm what Mr. Carnegie had said. Mr. Carnegie had generally, when leaving before the meeting was over, given him an ample reason for doing so. (Cheers and applause.)

Mr. CARNEGIE, continuing, said that he did not purpose to refer further to-night to what Mr. Stratton had said about his being a "miserable failure." He may have been, but that was for the people to say. Mr. Stratton had not, however, given proofs of his statement. The people were here on the eve of an election somewhat unexpectedly. He did not object to the reason given by the Mowat Administration of going to the country, that of the franchise having been extended. But were the recently enfranchised people to have a voice in the coming elections? Was the reason given by the Mowat Government the real reason why the appeal was made? It did not appear so. In to-day's Globe it was stated that unless a mutual arrangement could be made between the parties the newly enfranchised people in several constituencies would have no votes. Even in Peterborough it was doubtful whether the 340 who applied for votes under the recent act would have a voice in choosing the Government of the Province. Why this undue haste? Perhaps Mr. Ross would enlighten them. (Applause.) Mr. Stratton had spoken of conducting his meetings in a judicious manner. He considered it judicious to present one thing at one time and another at others as the political exegencies of the case might require. He would give one illustration of that gentleman's judicious change on public questions and then the people could judge whether or not he would not be equally judicious in hawking stories of all sorts in every corner of this riding. The question to which he referred was an issue more or less in this campaign. He referred to the Riel matter. In August 1885 before Riel was hanged the Examiner of the 4th of that month contained the following remarks, in which he entirely concurred:—

"Now Sir John has his case to deal with again but under different circumstances. There can be no doubt of Riel's blood-guiltiness this time, nor any doubt he appreciated the position he was assuming in the late rebellion, and it will be interesting to note what course will be taken. Simple justice demands the execution of the sentence against him. A wise public policy demands that an example be made to the end that the still rebellious Indians of the North West may be shown that resistance to constituted authority cannot be made with impunity. Such a lesson is needed. Only yesterday news was received of an inauguration of a guerilla warfare in the North west, in which the lives of several whites were sacrificed. Now if Riel and the promoters of the late rising are allowed to escape without condign punishment the savages will be encouraged in indulging their atrocious instincts, and blood massacres will be of frequent occurrence."

[While Mr. Carnegie read this Mr. Stratton's face assumed a painful expression.]

Mr. CARNEGIE went on: I quote this from the Daily Examiner of the 4th of August, 1885. "Condign punishment" was administered to Riel on November 16th, 1885, when he was hanged. But, sir, not long afterwards a motion was moved in the Local Legislature, and Mr. Mowat's Government taking the position it then did, I call attention to what Mr. Stratton does afterwards. In the House an amendment was moved to the amendment to attach these words:

"And we trust now that peace has been restored, the supremacy of the law vindicated and maintained, and just punishment inflicted on the principal participants in the late rebellion, it may be consistent with the public interests to extend the merciful consideration of the Crown to the cases of those who are now undergoing imprisonment for offences committed during, or arising out of it."

This was rejected, the only portion of that amendment taken objection to being the words "the supremacy of the law vindicated and maintained and just punishment inflicted on the principal participants in the late rebellion." What Does Mr. Stratton do now? Obedient to his master in Toronto, Mr. Mowat and the leader at Ottawa, Mr. Blake, he changes his tune. I again quote from the Examiner. On April 3rd, 1886, we have the following beautiful lines:—

REIL.

He died at dawn in the land of snows,
A priest at the left a priest at the right;
The doomed man praying for his pityless foes,
And each priest holding a low dim light
To pray for the soul of the dying.
But Windsor Castle was far away;
And Windsor Castle was never so gay
With her gorgeous banners flying.

A hero was hung in the windy dawn—
'Twas splendidly done the telegraph said;
A creak of the neck then the shoulders drawn;
A heave of the breast—and the man hung dead.
And, oh! never such valiant dying
And Windsor Castle was never so gay
With its tops and its fools on that windy day
And its thousand banners flying.

Some starving babes where a stark stream flows
'Twixt winding banks by an Indian town,
A frenzied mother in the freezing snows;
While softly the pitying snows comes down
To cover the dead and the dying.
But Windsor Castle seemed never so gay
She was sowing red dragons teeth that day;
While God's four winds went flying.

That is Mr. Stratton's expression on April 3rd 1886—for surely it would not have been in the Examiner unless Mr. Stratton approved of it. Compare his expression on August 4th 1885 and you will see how "judicious" Mr. Stratton is to cater to party exegencies. He had been allowed one hour to speak and as time was now short he would confine himself to one or two questions. He would first attack Mr. Ross on the management of his own Department-education. He referred to the school book monopoly which, in his opinion, was contrary to the interests of this Province. About the beginning of 1884 Mr. Ross entered into a contract with three publishers for the publication of the first four readers for use in the public schools. This contract was let under certain conditions. Under the old system 25 per cent. was given off to the trade, but under the new it was reached to 20 per cent., thus putting $6,500 per annum additional in the pockets of the publishers, their annual sales being $131,000. When Mr. Ross dealt with this question he generally took the books together and dealt with them in that way. Such dealing was fallacious. He compared the old series at $1.54 to the new at $1.35. One of the old series, not being authorized, brought the price down to $1 60, as compared with $1.35. Everybody knew that there were nearly ten times as many first books sold as there were of the fourth, and on these first books Mr. Ross simply doubled the price. The proportion of the sales of the different readers was, taking the part first series at 100, as follows:—Part first, 100; part second, 60; second book, 40; third book, 25, and fourth book 12. Thus only twelve of the fourth books were sold to one hundred of the part first series. To get at the profit made on these books he had got some valuable information. It appeared that Mr. Thomas Nelson, of Edinburgh, was a very gifted man. He was an extraordinary person. He had great foresight. Some time ago he introduced a geography to this country which he dated seven years previous to the time of its introduction so as to avoid duties. But it was a very strange thing that the population of every city, town and county of the Dominion of Canada was chronicled according to the census of 1881. How was it that Mr. Thomas Nelson of Edinburgh could peer through seven years and calculate the population of the towns and villages of Canada so accurately? The circumstances aroused suspicion. The case was inquired into and it was found to be a recent publication. Then the authorities began to suspect this Mr. Thomas Nelson. Among other enquiries made it came out that according to his own affadavit the series which were imported into Canada and sold here were produced for 50 cents, giving after the publisher's discount was taken off the modest profit of 123 per cent are a little more than the Dutchman's one per cent. (Applause.) This school book transaction gave the publishers $550,000 in ten years, not allowing for the increase in population. A man named Mr. Warwick offered to issue the same books at one third the cost but Mr. Ross pooh-poohed that proposition as absurd. But if it would be figured down it would be found that Mr. Warwick would have made fifty per cent. profit on the transaction, and there were many merchants in this town who would be satisfied with fifty per cent profit Why did they do this? They did not do it in the case of letting the issue of the fifth reader. They got $1,500 in hard cash a year for that. Did they do it through ignorance or something worse. The fact was that all through the school book question the interest of Mr. Thos. Nelson, of Edinburgh, was considered. The other two Canadian series were gaining the advantage of his series all through that well known fight, until at last the three was thrown into one and Mr. Nelson was given a good share in the monopoly. The Educational Committee declared that the Nelson series were inferior to either of the Canadian series. Then this monopoly was formed, they to receive ⅓ more than Warwick offered to do it for. And this enormous profit of $55,000 per annum was to be squeezed out of the parents and children of Ontario for the next ten years. Why Mr. Thos. Nelson, of Edinburgh, was favored was hard to understand, unless it be that he is trustee for the Brown estate, has large interest in the Toronto Globe, and has for his solicitors the firm of lawyers of which Mr. Oliver Mowat Attorney-General, is the head. Mr. Carnegie then referred to to the Gerrymander of 1883. He gave the Government credit for for throwing Stormont and Glengarry, two small counties, into one, even though each returned a Conservative. But why did not Mr. Mowat deal fairly with all. In Perth with over 30,000 inhabitants the county was left pretty much the same as it was, while to suit party interests East York was reduced from 18,000 to 16,000, when Mr. Mowat claimed that each county should have as near 21,000 of a population as possible. He then dealt with the financial policy of the Government. It was claimed by them that there was a surplus of $6,000,000 in the treasury. As the budget for 1886 would show a defecit of $400,000 it did not appear much like as if there was a surplus in the Treasury. The hour being now up Mr. Carnegie ceased speaking. He thanked the Hon. Gentleman for having permitted him to meet him face to face and to discuss the issues fairly even though he was allotted only an hour.

The Hon. G. W. Ross was received with cheers. He expressed his pleasure at the large attendance. He referred to Mr Carnegie having been once before in the House and having been defeated, but since he had been re-elected he sat in a front bench among the leaders of the Opposition and attacked the Government in and out of season. (Cheers.) He took up first the Riel matter, and claimed that the Government expressed no opinion on the subject because it was a Dominion matter. He then proceeded, he said, to show why the Mowat Government should be supported, and his first claim was on account of an asserted liberality in dealing with municipal government. They had the most magnificent municipal government in the world, one that gave democratic institutions and home rule where it was most valuable. The Mowat Government, he claimed, had perfected that system, which was established in 1849. He was delighted with this his first visit to Peterborough. They had built up the town by their own energy without direct Government aid. The men who built up this town were men of sagacity of enterprise. He claimed that the Government had acted with the same energy, and referred to the money contributed to railways, colonization roads and schools. Mr. Carnegie had opposed the distribution of the surplus in 1871. He

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNECIE.

Peterborough, November 15, 1886.

The Daily Review.

UPPER HOUSES.

Mr. BLAKE and the Reformers do not like the Senate of Canada because it is Conservative, though when by misrepresentation and corruption they obtained office for a time they actually begged for a change of our constitution so that they might appoint a greater number of their friends and augment what they now denounce as an evil.

Now we do not pretend to maintain that the Senate is perfection or incapable of improvement, (what human institution is?), but we have yet to see a suggestion of its practical reform made by the Reformers.

Some of their cliques and coteries demand its abolition apparently for the reason that the people of Canada decline to entrust to them the choice of Senators. This is an instance of the modern Reformers' idea that destruction is reform, and will find few advocates among thoughtful men. The lessons of history, the opinions of the best authorities, and practical experience, are all in favour of two-chambered legislatures for reasons so well understood that we need not devote space to giving them in detail. A country like ours can well afford to maintain two Houses to transact its important business more thoroughly. So the plea of economy is not of overwhelming consequence, however valid it may be in the case of a Province about as populous as Toronto clinging to the luxury of an Upper House.

Another section of the Reformers prefers making the Senate elective. This view is of more importance, at least temporarily, because at present it appears to be favored by the leader of the party, though, as usual with Mr. Blake, he takes care not to lay himself open to criticism by giving even the vaguest idea of the plan he would adopt. But whatever the means, there is one defect inherent in any plan of a Legislature with two elected chambers. We are told that all our legislators should be elected, so as to be representative. But the very fact of their being both representative must make clashing between them more frequent and more obstinate, since each claims to speak in the name of its constituents, and neither can see why it should yield to the other; whereas with an hereditary or nominated upper chamber, the popular House is in practice only subject to delay. That such a diversity between two elected chambers may easily arise, we now have an instance in our own country, Prince Edward Island having a strong Conservative popular House, and almost as strongly Reform Upper House. If they disagreed would either willingly give way? In the great Australian colony, Victoria, some years ago from obstinate disagreement between the two elected Houses of different political complexion, deadlocks became almost chronic. There was at least on one occasion the gravest inconvenience, the public business came almost to a standstill, the civil servants were left unpaid, and the construction of public works, with other important matters, had to be suspended. The remedy applied at last, the intervention of the Colonial office at Westminster, would be almost as unwelcome in Canada as the disease. How would Mr. Blake insure us against such difficulties and misfortunes in our own case, if we adopted his crochet?

The Hon. Geo. Brown, with the other Reform leader at the time of Confederation, recognized the unwisdom of two elected Houses. But with all his faults, the Reform party has now no leaders of the calibre of the late Senator George Brown.

IMMIGRATION.

Mr. MOWAT, when his political allies were were in power at Ottawa, made an arrangement with them for the expenditure of public money in promoting immigration. In spite of all remonstrance Mr. Mowat has adhered to this policy and is spending large sums of money on immigration to the present day. In the twelve years he has spent half a million for this purpose, and has brought tens of thousands of immigrants into the Province. From the very start the Conservatives protested against and voted against this system. Year after year, over and over again, Mr. Meredith has moved or supported amendments to cut down the appropriations asked by the Ministry, but each time Mr. Mowat has called upon his followers and they have voted down the proposals to retrench at least a portion of the unnecessary expenditure. A large proportion of the immigrants thus introduced are mechanics or workingmen of the class who stay in towns and cities instead of taking up land or assisting in agricultural labors.

Now there is no necessity for such an expenditure by the people of this Province, and, therefore, it is a maladministration of their funds thus to employ them. Neither the Province as a community, nor the people as individuals, are benefitted by it or recouped in any way. So far as it brings out artizans or laborers to add to the numbers in the towns the expenditure is absolutely injurious, for the demand for them is not greater than the supply, so the new comers can only live by taking employment from those already here and able and willing to undertake it. Our money is worse than thrown away when so employed, but fortunately there is every prospect of Mr. Meredith and his supporters being placed in office, thus ensuring a discontinuance of this costly waste and mischief.

It is characteristic that Mr. Mowat, his friends and dependents, while perpetrating or supporting this hurtful extravagance are incessantly blaming and misrepresenting Dominion authorities as being guilty of the same fault. This is a wilful calumny. The Macdonald Administration on attaining power hastened to discontinue the preposterous arrangement introduced by their predecessors in combination with Mr. Mowat. The have made more and more stringent regulations for the avoidance of any assistance to mechanics or urban laborers applying for passages, till at present, with the exception of domestic female servants, none are brought out but farmers and agricultural laborers. The result is that only an infinitely small per centage of such immigrants are to be found among those brought out by the Dominion, as indeed, might be expected, for they could not obtain aid except by a double false declaration, their own and that of the clergyman or magistrate certifying for them. Thus the Dominion immigrants, instead of competing with our workingmen, actually add to their employment by adding to the demand for their services.

With the large expanse of land in the Northwest that the Dominion has for settlement it would be injurious to cease all expenditure in connection with emigration, but it is being pared down and carefully checked. In fact the sums that appear under this head in the public accounts are chiefly devoted to making known in Europe by various means the advantages that Canada offers for those who wish to make a home on our fertile lands.

This is a very different system from that of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, affording them no excuse for wasting our money in introducing competition with our working men.

THE VOTERS LISTS.

IN spite of previous denials by the Reformers it is now admitted by the organ of Mr. Mowat, rented by him from Mr. Nelson, that some of the Provincial voters lists are still incomplete, and it is suggested that some arrangements should be made locally by the two parties to have their revision in time. In some places the Reformers have already objected to give way, if they foresaw a Conservative gain, and in others local difficulties stand in the road, so that there is every probability that a considerable number of voters will be disfranchised through Mr. Mowat's trickiness. It thus appears how unfounded was the excuse first made that this unroad on the holiday was necessitated by the supposed constitutional obligation to appeal to the new voters before holding another session. Not only was it false that an election in the holidays was thus unavoidable, for polling in January would have attained the pretended end, but it is now made manifest that besides fleecing the merchants of their holiday season profits by his little plot, he actually disfranchised voters for four years under the plea of appealing to them. Evidently he had some other motive, possibly to play into the hands of Mr. Blake, as he boasted he had a right to do if he chose. Mr Mowat's idea of his duty as Provincial Premier is to use all the influence of his position for the benefit of his party with out any regard for the public convenience.

THE disgraceful attack of the Globe upon Sir John Macdonald will excite nothing but disgust in the mind of any decent man however much he may be opposed politically to the Premier of the Dominion. Even if there were any signs of mental and physical decay in Sir John, there would be no excuse for the Globe's low abuse and fiendish triumph over supposed infirmities. But it is the sustained intellectual vigour of the Conservative chieftain, and the hold he retains upon the confidence of the people of Canada, that thus drives to desperation the organ of Mr. Mowat and Mr. Blake.

We seem to be becoming Canadians after all in this country. The Vancouver, B. THE CENTURY.

For 1886 87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettysburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

Clean Bedding

The public are beginning to have a very unfavorable opinion of the ordinary wool and mixed mattrass now in common use. Many have made the startling discovery that they have been sleeping on beds filled with filthy old rags, torn into shreds, with no pretention to cleaning them. At the present time there is scarcely any other filling material used as wool for this class of mattrass.

THE REMEDY:

The Peterborough Mattrass Company

Have commenced the manufacture of all kinds of Mattrasses, Bolsters, Pillows, etc. All the material used by this Company is guaranteed new and clean and are sold at the same price as inferior makes. If you consider your health you will act wisely. Factory on the Otonabee River, at the east end of Hunter Street Bridge, over Wm. Faint's Woollen Mill. EAST PETERBOROUGH

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATES NOMINATED FOR BOTH HOUSES.

Mr. John Burnham, M.P., for the Commons, and Mr. W. H. Stephenson for the Legislature—A Large Convention.

A convention of Liberal-Conservatives of the East Riding of Peterborough was held in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 25th. Mr. W. H. Stephenson, President of the Association, occupied the chair, and after explaining the object of the meeting, called for the list of delegates.

The names of the delegates were handed in and recorded. The meeting was a very large one, there being about 250 persons present, and it was very enthusiastic.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—

PRESIDENT—W. H. Stephenson, Reeve of Norwood.

SECRETARY—E. A. Peck.

The following Vice-Presidents were elected:—

Asphodel—F. Birdsall.
Ashburnham—H. Calcutt.
Douro—John Moloney, Reeve.
Dummer—David Rose.
Belmont—John Brown, Reeve.
Norwood—J. P. Brown.
Lakefield—R. C. Strickland, Reeve.
Otonabee—Geo. Read.
Burleigh, etc.—Benj. Hales.
Harvey—Wm. Ventress.
Dysart, etc.—Jas. Dover.
Cardiff—John Ennis.

It was then moved by James Golborne, J. P., Douro, and seconded by John Brown, Reeve of Belmont,—That the Liberal Conservatives of the East Riding of Peterborough take this opportunity of expressing our approval of our representative in House of Commons, for the successful way he has urged upon the Government the necessity of opening the navigable waters of this country, also for supporting the Government of the Rt. Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, whose policy has always been to make Canada a great country, and its people respected by their mother land.

This meeting regret that they cannot express their approval of the representative of this Riding in the Local House, on account of the slavish support he has given to the Mowat Administration, whose policy has always been one of centralization and oppression, for example, their gradually depriving the County Councils, the people's home representatives of their powers: passing an Act that would prevent a locatee of Government lands from ever calling his location his own; also passing a railway bill that had the effect of creating a monopoly and high rates to the producer, and other legislation not for the benefit of the people, but simply to keep themselves in office.

The motion was carried unanimously by a standing vote.

Mr. BURNHAM briefly expressed his gratification at receiving his approval of the meeting.

It was moved by Mr. STRICKLAND, Reeve of Lakefield, and seconded by Mr. Geo. READ, of Otonabee,—That Mr. John Burnham be the Liberal Conservative candidate for the House of Commons.

The motion was adopted unanimously, amid loud cheers.

Mr. BURNHAM said that he had not sought to be a candidate again, but he did not want to see the riding go by default, as he did not wish a riding which they had held so long lost to their opponents. Feeling thus, he would be a candidate as long as they wanted him. He had represented them since 1878, and it was an onerous position, as the riding was the largest in the Province except one. He hoped to have, as he had in the past, the earnest support of friends and Conservatives in the riding. He would do the best he could to carry the riding again, and if the party would put their shoulders to the wheel he had no doubt they would. Anything he had done in the Commons was done with the honest intention of benefitting the country. He referred to the endorsation of the National Policy in 1878 and in 1882, and said it was still a practical political question. He was as strong, or a stronger, supporter of that policy than he had been before, and he believed that the country was of the same opinion. He also reviewed the history of the Canadian Pacific railway, referring to the unverified predictions of the Reformers, to the success of the Conservative policy and the high character of the road. This county had been greatly benefitted, as they had a road running through the county without contributing a cent directly. The Conservatives had faith in the country and their policy had developed it greatly. The work on the Trent Valley Canal was slower than they would wish, but it was progressing and would be completed. He would do all in this power to have it brought to a successful completion. The issue at this time was a question of the existence of confederation. The Government was attacked in Quebec, and in Ontario, for the hanging of Riel. At the last election they heard a great deal about the Bleus, of Quebec, but the Reformers were now in allegiance with them. He defended the Government for hanging Riel, and claimed support for it. He was the last person to introduce questions of race, but they had to decide whether they would have one law for all. They had met especially to nominate a candidate for the Local Legislature. He believed with a good standard bearer they had a good opportunity of redeeming this Riding. Mr. Blezard had been nominated by the Reformers, and Mr. Duncan McLeod was an independent candidate. He was a Reformer, and was disappointed on accounts of the distribution of offices by Mr. Mowat. It was a family quarrel, and according to the published statement of one of them it was a quarrel over boodle, in which Mr. McLeod was about the only one who got none. Their object was to oppose Mr. Blezard. They wished to oppose him and defeat him on straight political issues. Mr. Blezard had voted against the hanging of Riel in the Legislature, and he had been weakened among the loyal and patriotic people of this county. Mr. Mowat congratulated the Rielites of Quebec on a supposed success, and had shown his sympathy with them. He hoped they would carry the election for the Local House. He again thanked them for their confidence, and with their aid they would hold the riding at the next Dominion contest.

MR. GEO. READ, Otonabee, in a neat speech, moved that Dr. Ford be nominated as the Liberal Conservative for the local election.

MR. R. C. STRICKLAND, of Lakefield seconded the nomination.

The motion was carried by a unanimous standing vote.

Dr. FORD on rising was received with applause. He would, he said, be more than human if he did not appreciate this expression of their confidence, born and educated as he was in the County of Peterborough. He regretted that he was unable to accept the nomination, because his professional interests were such that he could not. He did not decline because he was afraid, for he believed they could defeat Mr. Blezard, but he could not relinquish his profession at this time. This was one of the most important elections ever held in this country, and now, if ever, was the time when every loyal heart should be right, and every patriotic voter should stand shoulder to shoulder and settle once for ever as an established truth that the men who ruled us should not sympathise with rebels. He again expressed his regret that he could not accept the nomination, as it would ruin his business, and he was not prepared for that. He would be happy and proud to be their candidate, but he had consulted with his best friends, and had considered the position of his professional practice, and he was, he regretted, compelled to decline.

Dr. FORD nominated Mr. J. B. Pearce, of Norwood.

Mr. D. ROSE nominated Mr. R. C. Strickland of Lakefield.

Mr. H. CALCUTT nominated Mr. Jas. Fife of Otonabee.

Mr. J. P. BROWN nominated, seconded by Mr. R. C. STRICKLAND, Mr. W. H. Stephenson, Reeve of Norwood.

MESSRS. PEARSE, STRICKLAND and FIFE retired, and Mr. W. H. Stephenson was unanimously selected amid loud cheers.

Mr. STEPHENSON said that he had not expected the nomination and asked a few minutes to consider the matter.

The convention adjourned for a few minutes, and resumed with Mr. Golburne in the chair.

Mr. STEPHENSON said that he must assure them that it was the last thought in his mind that he would have the position offered him. There were many personal reasons why he should not accept, but he did not wish to see the principles they represented trampled on, and if he could do anything to help to carry out those principles and to assist his fellow men he would do it. He would therefore accept the nomination—(loud cheers)—and would do all he could to lead them to victory.

Mr Stephenson's acceptance was received with ringing cheers, which were followed by cheers for Mr. Burnham.

The convention closed with cheers for Sir John Macdonald, Mr. Meredith and the Queen.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

The Brown Memorial.

At the final meeting of the Committee in charge of the Brown Memorial a few days ago, Col. H. C. Rogers presented the books and accounts in connection with the fund, which on motion of Mr. Hilliard, M. P., were referred to Rev. W. C. Bradshaw to audit. That gentleman subsequently reported that he had examined the the accounts and found them correct. It was moved by Dr. Fife, seconded by E. B. Edwards, that the hearty thanks of the Committee be tendered to Mr. Belcher for his kindness and public spirit in not only furnishing the handsome and suitable design for the memorial erected in honor of Captain Brown, but also in giving his personal attention and superintendence to the carrying out of the work; and that Mr. Belcher be specially invited to be present at the ceremony of unveiling the monument. It appearing that Mr. Burgess, the contractor, had with commendable public spirit undertaken and carried out the work at a sum that involved a considerable loss to himself, it was resolved that the chairman is hereby instructed to pay over to the contractor whatever balance may remain in his hands when all outstanding liabilities are met, together with those subscriptions which may be yet paid in or others which may be obtained. It was also moved by Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, seconded by Dr. Fife, and carried, that the best thanks of the Committee are cordially tendered to Col. H. C. Rogers for the active interest he has shown in securing funds for the erection of the memorial, and for the very able manner in which he has carried the project to a successful issue.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

claimed they had a surplus of between six and seven millions in their hands. He referred to the settlement of about 70,000 settlers in Muskoka as an instance of their claims for support. There was a very large sum of money invested in agriculture. They had spent a large sum in drainage, and in aid of agricultural societies, and the Agricultural College had been carried on. As reasons why the Provincial expenditure had increased he referred to the increase of the number of lunatics to be provided for, and the sums that had been expended on the asylums for the deaf and dumb and the blind. They heard now and again from carping critics of school book monopolies and of coming financial ruin, but those critics did not give the Government credit for what good they did. The Mowat Government, he admitted, was not perfect, but he claimed that it was honest. They all make mistakes, and all Governments made mistakes, but in balancing the odds he thought they deserved a renewal of confidence. He again referred to the sums spent on asylums. He did not like the attempt made by some to incite a war between capital and labor. He, however, referred to the Railway Accident Act, passed in 1881, which he claimed had fallen through on account of the assumption of the railways by the Dominion, and to the Factory Act, as laws passed by them in the interest of labor. He would not, he said, take time to explain why the Act was not brought into effect sooner, although they might hear some clap-trap on that question. Their policy was a democratic one. The franchise extension was an instance of this, and though they opposed manhood suffrage last session, they might adopt it before next election. He claimed that the Mowat "Redistribution" Act was passed to equalize the representation according to population. For instance, East and West York were equalized so that there was now only a difference of 200 between them in population. Sir John Macdonald had, he asserted, passed a Gerrymander Act, and he went into details to prove it. Their financial policy was to give the people all the money they could. Their revenue was derived principally from the Dominion Government and from the sale of timber limits and crown lands. This County of Peterborough alone had been given by the Government $226,000 in the past 14 years. The Government had been economical, the expenditure since 1873 having, he claimed, been increased only nine per cent. He challenged any one to prove that the Educational Department had been influenced by politics in the administration of affairs, and defended the policy of having a political head of the Department. The Opposition, he said, wished to have an irresponsible head of the school system. When he was appointed Minister of Education he was above Parliament and could regulate school hours and programmes, change school books, etc., in spite of Parliament, but last session an Act was passed making the Minister more responsible to the House. He admitted that the school law had been changed too often, but claimed that text books had not frequently been changed and that the changes made were necessary. The Government were only responsible for the changes in readers and a history that would be introduced next year, as the Government has authorized [illegible] trustees to decide regarding other books. The purchase of school books did not cost half as much as they thought, the average per pupil in Hamilton being 83 cents per year. The new readers were not dear, the Ryerson books having cost $1.30 and the new readers $1.35, while the new ones were better. His business was not to make cheap books, but good books, and no boy or girl would suffer on account of illiberality on his part. When he came into office there were three series of readers authorized, which they had to get rid of, and there was the vested right of the pupilshers to deal with. They had either to give the publishers a limp sum to recoup them, or make some other bargain. The three publishers shared alike in the arrangement that had been made, and they had an agreement as to price. The Government fixed the price and they could not expect the publishers to sell them at a smaller figure. One of the officers of the Government said the profit the publishers received was only reasonable. The offer of Messrs. Warwick, he claimed, should not be considered. Mr. Carnegie should not censure them for their little monopoly in school books when he did not disapprove of the Canadian Pacific Railway monopoly. The sale of books in a year amounted to $70,000, and the profits could not be as large as claimed by opponents. He compared the Government to the sun, which had spots and was occasionally eclipsed. He claimed they had made a saving on the fifth readers, and the history, the saving being $26,000 on the history at 25 cents each book. On drawing books they had also made a saving. He then turned his attention to Separate schools. The Province could not curtail the powers of Separate schools, and if the Province did not give them amendments needed, they could get them by Order-in-Council at Ottawa. They had not changed the law so as to compel a Roman Catholic to support Separate schools. Under the old law a ratepayer had to notify the Clerk that he wished to support Separate schools, if he wished to do so, and in 1877 they amended the law so that the assessors should ask each man whether he was a Separate school or public school supporter, and in 1879 another change was made that a man being a Roman Catholic was prima facie evidence that he was a Separate school supporter. They did not infringe upon the liberty of the subject. The law said that a Protestant landlord, with a Roman Catholic tenant, if the landlord paid the taxes, had to pay to Separate schools. This, he contended, had always been the law, only they had made it clearer by an amendment, and it was the same with a Roman Catholic landlord and a Protestant tenant—the tenant decided which school board should be supported. They had also given the Separate school boards a right to elect a member to the High School Board, which did not look consistent at first view, but was done in order to improve the educational advantages of the children, and it was supported by Mr. Carnegie. He said that Mr. Mowat, their hired man, had served them fourteen years, and they should hire him over again. He asked them to elect his youthful friend, Mr. Stratton, and allow his venerable friend, Mr. Carnegie, to remain at home to attend to his printing office.

The meeting closed with loud cheers for the Queen, Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Stratton and Mr. Ross.

The affidavits on which the summons were issued were lodged by the police inspectors and stenographers who were present at the meeting referred to. The citation calls upon Dillon to find sureties for his good behavior, in default of which he will be committed to jail.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

NO POLICY.

"Because the Opposition leader hinted at or vaguely approved certain proposals, his Grit supporters are trying to make out that he has a policy embracing those measures. Nothing of the kind. A political policy, as we understand it, implies a definite, clearly outlined course. When a leader says 'in plain terms' I will do such things, then he can be described as having a policy. When he simply says that there are strong considerations why certain measures ought to be adopted, the public are by no means certain that by next year there will not be found equally strong considerations to the contrary.—Toronto News (Indp.)

SIGNS OF SINKING.

The Reform party is sinking rapidly. The strongest evidence of this is in the fact that its leading organ has become lost to all sense of decency, all idea of fair treatment of opponents. The Browns no longer control it, and with their control passed away its independence. It is now the slave organ of the Reform leader, bought for a price, the Nelson school book job. The disreputable keyholing of Sir John Macdonald, the treatment of Mr. Meredith in yesterday paper, the quantity of downright lying about opponents in every day's issue, the sanctimonious assumption of political honesty to its own friends and the strumpet-like denial of any virtue in Conservatives, are only a few of the many indications of the decline of the Reform party.—Toronto World (Indp.)

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1886.

THE LATE DR. TASSIE.

A Prominent Educationalist, an Honorable Man and a Christain.

On Sunday morning the Rev. E. Torrance preached a sermon, taking for his text Acts xiii, 13. At the conclusion of his discourse, in which he dealt with the manners by which a man might and should serve his generation, he made a special reference to late Dr. Tassie, a former member of his congregation, who was so suddenly taken way this day last week. There were not many men of whom it could be said with greater truthfulnes that "After having served his own generation according to the will of God he fell asleep." For years past he had been pre-eminently successful as an educationalist. During the time he was Principal of the Galt Collegiate Institute pupils flocked from all parts of Canada to it. Many of those who were in the very foremost rank in mercantile and professional life in this country have come now to pay their respect and affection towards their late master and to acknowledge the benefit they have derived, and the education which they have received while under him. Dr. Tassie had no ordinary qualifications, and was by no means an ordinary man. He was thoroughly efficient as a teacher and possessed also qualities of a high kind. Force of character, manly dignity such as commands respect, kindness, gentleness, all tended to give him a marked personality and to mould aright the unformed characters of his pupils. He was a Christian man, having a humble trust in his Lord and Saviour. Few of the professions there are which are loaded with greater responsibilities and which admit if a wider sphere of usefulness, than that which the late Dr. Tassie chose as a life occupation; and yet the profession of a school teacher was not remunerative here. In England it was not so, there educationalists were often promoted to high offices in the Church of England and in the State. But in Canada the field was narrowed and few gained prominence in the profession. Then let all revere the memory of one who by good qualities and efficiency made himself a high reputation.

To-night's Popular Talk.

All who can do so should attend the "talk" by Mr. J. H. Long, M.A., LL.B., on "Something about Stars" in the Y. M. C. A. Hall to-night at 8 o'clock. Admission 10 cents, to cover expenses. Members free.

Fire.

On Saturday afternoon a fire occurred in a shed owned by Mr. G. Brownlee, situated on Hunter street. The Fire Brigade were on the spot prompely, a line of hose was run from a Water street hydrant around to Hunter and another line got at the fire by Simcoe street. The flames were put out in a few minutes. The loss was slight.

Actions.

Seeing that Mr. E. C. Hill has not been allowed to post a billboard on Reid street he is determined that no one else shall block the street. He has started on the peanut man, having given the Italian notice this morning that he must vacate the corner of George and Hunter. Others offending will also be dealt with by Mr. Hill.

Care of Shade Trees.

Mr. Smith, who operates the snow ploughs, says that those who have planted shade trees last summer should guard them. When the ploughs come along they often times strike against the trees barking them. If a strong stake were driven down beside the tree so as to ward off the ploughs it would serve a good purpose.

Champion Skidder.

A correspondent of the Minden Echo, writing from Mr. John Dwyer's shanty, Anson, gives the following:—"On Saturday of last week Mr. George Long, of Peterborough, skidded 421 logs in eight hours. This is considered the biggest day's skidding ever done in this county, and if it can be beat the boys would like to hear from the champion."

A DULUTH CONFLAGRATION.

Three Elevators and Grain Consumed—Loss of Three Lives.

DULUTH, Min., Nov. 28.—At 8 o'clock last night the most disastrous fire in the history of this place broke out in the top of elevator "Q," in the eastern part of the town, and in spite of the efforts of the fire department the flames communicated to the annex to elevator "A"—a new building nearly completed—and finally to elevator "A" itself, and all were consumed, together with a row of nine frame buildings, dwellings and stores. Of four men in elevator "Q" when the fire broke out only one escaped. Charles Moore, a watchman, after being severely burned, jumped from the cupola to the ground, a distance of eighty feet, and was killed. A man named Laroche is missing, and the foreman, Edward Lee, perished in the flames. Elevator Q was built two years ago the Duluth and Western Elevator Co. It cost $80,000 and about $50,000 had been expended on the annex. The capacity of the elevator Q was half a million bushels, and there were in store 400,000. Elevator A was owned by the Union Improvement and Elevator Company. The building was valued at $125,000. It contained 350,000 bushels of wheat, 112,000 bushels of corn and 11,000 of flaxseed. The loss on the residence and stores is $15,000. The total amount of grain lost was about 880,000 bushels. The total loss will be about $850,000.

A SEASON'S LOSS.

An Appalling Record of Drowned From the Gloucester Fishing Fleet.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 27.—The record of Nova Scotians drowned from the Gloucestet fishing fleet is an appalling one. This year, out of 136 men lost in and from Gloucester vessels no less than sixty-two were natives of the Martime Provinces, besides several from Newfoundland. Of 1800 men drowned from the Glouster fleet during the last fifteen years over 1,000 were Blue Noses. If this terrible loss of Canadian lives occurred in one day the whole world would be startled, but because it is spread over twelve months it is taken as a matter of course. One startling fact is that, notwithstanding the boasted superiority of Gloucester vessels, the loss of life therefrom is from fifty to seventy per cent. greater than from the Canadian fishing fleet. The figures above given refer only to Gloucester. The record of the other New England ports would greatly increase them.

Through the Niagara Rapids.

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 28.—George Hazlett and Miss Sadie Allen went through the whirlpool rapids this afternoon all safe. The start was made at [illegible] of the Mist landing on the Canada side. The barrel was a similar one to that Hazlett and Potts ran the rapids with last summer. When the barrel containing its human freight reached the malestrom of the pool it shot right into the centre of the pool and made two or three turns. Leaving the pool it followed the current out towards the Canadian shore and down to the outlet of the pool, where it got into a large eddy where it sailed and bobbed around for half an hour. Some friends were near at hand and yelled out to them when Hazlitt opened the small door on the top and Frank Lawson threw a rope from shore, which Hazlett secured and the barrel was towed ashore. After coming out of the barrel they had to tramp about a mile and a half, climbing over brush and boulders, to where they could get to the top of the precipice, Miss Allen experiencing more trouble on the tramp after she got out of the barrel than she did in shooting the rapids. She is a young lady about 18 years old, a very prepossessing brunette.

Anxiety for a Steamer.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 27.— Considerable anxiety is felt for the safety of the American steamer Sylvan Stream, which left Halifax en route for Rochester, New York. She is an old side-wheeled tub, built 23 years, and about as shaky a concern as ever put to sea. One could almost take her hull to pieces with a penknife. She is insured by a New York Company at a premium of 25 per cent., one of the conditions being that she shall put into harbor every night. She arrived at Mulgrave yesterday, and intended to go thence up the St. Lawrence to Quebec, and through the canals to Rochester.

Uneasiness Concerning Cholera.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 27.— State Health Officer Swearingen and Dr. Blunt, Quarantine Officer at Galveston, are in communication with each other regarding the reports that cholera had appeared a Buenos Ayres. The matter is causing considerable discussion, as there is direct communication between Buenos Ayres and New Orleans and Galveston. It is said there are 11 ships bound for the two places from Buenos Ayres and due to arrive by Christmas.

Charged With Manslaughter.

PHILADELPHIA. Pa., Nov. 27.—Joseph Gabriel, one of the crew of the bark Condor, from Novia Scotia, has, at the request of the British Government, been sent from here to Halifax to testify as a witness against the Captain and mate of the bark Ivy, who are charged with manslaughter in causing the death, by cruel treatment, of a sailor named Pierce during the recent voyage. The Society to prevent cruelty to seamen is pushing the suit.

A Forger as Well.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 27.—It is learned that the embezzling treasurer Reed, has added forgery to his other crimes, he having forged the signature of President Hersey to certificates of over-issued stock. The stock of the Mexican Telephone Company, of which he was also treasurer, has been over-issued to the extent of $10,000. The full extent of Reed's crookedness has not yet been determined.

After the Ball Fortune.

SYDNEY, C.B., Nov. 27.—William Ball and George K. Ball proceed to England in a few days to take possession of the one million five hundred thousand dollar fortune awaiting the Canadian Ball family. Part of the money has lain in the Bank of Melrose, Scotland, for forty years, awaiting the owners.

Fatal Shooting Case.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 28.—Last night a young fellow named Silverthorn accidentaly shot his younger brother, aged 10 years. The ball struck him in the head and he died about an hour after.

An Earthquake Centre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Private information has been received that there have been many shocks of earthquake at Summerville since the 10th. One at 6 a.m. last Sunday was quiet severe. The others were slight.

Three Men Drowned.

HALIFAX, Nov. 27.—Orlesy and Earnest Kent, brothers, and Joseph Sanford were drowned near Windsor to-day by the capsizing of a small boat.

J. J. Daly's Restaurant.

Corner of Market Square and George Streets, is now open. Meals served at all hours. Oysters in all shapes a specialty. Also Fish, Steak, Canned Lobsters, etc., etc. Everything in Season furnished at a minutes notice. Charges moderate.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

ADVICE TO TENANT FARMERS.

DUBLIN, Nov. 27.—An Armagh paper says that in an interview between a Nationalist and member of the Royal Land Commission the latter declared that now was the time for the tenant farmers to fight it out. The statement has caused a sensation.

PORT HAMILTON.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Post says England has opened negotiations for the cession of Port Hamilton to China, the object being to nullify Russia's pretext in connection with Port Lazareff and thus secure effectual protection for British interests in the East.

AN EDITOR'S SENTENCE.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The editor Prohl has been sentenced by the Supreme Court to nine years imprisonment for treason. It was proved that he supplied France through Captain Sarrairws with German military and naval secrets.

A FRIENDLY ACT.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—The French Government has instructed the French Consul at Rustchuk to protect Russian interests.

KAULBARS DECORATED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 27.— The Sultan has conferred upon Gen. Kaulbars the decoration of the Order of Mejidie.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Parliament will meet on January 13th, the Government will ask for the whole time of the House to deal with the procedure rules.

THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Australian Times and New Zealander says that South Kensington has finally been settled upon as a site of the Imperial Institute, which will include a library and hall for discussion.

A PARIS SENSATION.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Two sensational books on the war of 1870 have been brought to the notice of the public. The first, "Le Cavaire," by Octave Mirbeau, has been published. It portrays in a startling and realistic manner the French troops as a debased and brutal body of men, with besotted and vaporing commanders. The second which is about to appear is entitled, "Le Cabinet Noir," the author being Count Herisson. It purports to be secret history drawn from official documents hitherto unpublished.

THE IRISH POLICY.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The arrest of John Dillon is the leading subject of discussion everywhere. London club circles are much excited over the affair, and naturally approve the decision of the Government. In political as well as club circles, the opinion is generally expressed that it is altogether likely that Mr. Parnell and other Irish leaders will be arrested in spite of, or before the opening of Parliament. It is [illegible] surprise that the action of the Government was not first taken against Wm. O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, instead of Dillon. It is expected the Crown solicitor will ask the court to require Dillon to find heavy securities for his good behaviour for six months.

WAR EXPECTED.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The Cologne Gazette, in a notable article reflecting the views of the people of the Rheinthal, declares that the absorbing topic in family circles in all the Rhine lots and villages is the probability of an early outbreak of hostilities which will shake the continent of Europe to its foundations. The Germans, who are closely acquainted with the national life of France, know that the French are consumed with a morbid desire to despoil Germany.

DANGER AT HAND.

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—The public mind is most troubled with the demand for urgency for the army bills, and instead of awaiting a renewal of the national organization in 1888 the Government insists upon including appropriations for an increase of the army in the next budget, thus causing fears that the European system is pregnant with dangers which are near at hand. The pacific declarations in the speech from the throne have failed to remove these feelings.

MONUMENT UNVEILED.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—A monument to the Manchester Martyrs was unveiled at Ennis. Two thousand people, including deputations from Limerick and Galway, were present. The Ennis Board of Guardians and other officials marched in the procession preceded by a hearse drawn by four horses and surrounded by mutes. In the line were six bands of music, which played "The Dead March in Saul," and "Adeste Fideles" alternately with muffled trumpets. John O'Leary delivered a funeral oration unveiled the monument. Messrs. Meaney and Clune of New York made addresses. It is said that on his return Mr. O'Brien will be served with a summons similar to that served upon Mr. Dillon.

TO BE SUMMONED.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—Upon his return from the West of Ireland Mr. O'Brien will be served with a summons similar to that served upon Dillon.

DISPERSED BY POLICE.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—Mr. O'Brien went to Ballygole, where a priest advised him not to talk. He persisted, however, and the meeting was dispersed by the police.

THE ROUMANIAN THRONE.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 27.—The speech of King Charles was read to-day. After referring to internal affairs his Majesty touched on the Bulgarian question, and said he was hopeful peace would be mantained. Then he announced that he had selected Prince Ferdinand as his heir. This is in accordance with the constitution of Roumania. The succession to the throne of Roumania, in the event of King Charles remaining childless, was settled by article 83 of the constitution upon his elder brother, Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern, who renounced his rights in favor of his son, Prince Ferdinand, the act having been registered by the Senate in October, 1880.

GERMANY FRIENDLY TO RUSSIA.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 28.—Le Nord (Russian organ) commenting on Emperor William's speech, says those who desire to prevent Russia from establishing safeguards around her interests and from causing her legitimate claims to prevail in Bulgaria, must renounce the hope of having Germany as an ally. The proclamation of this fact, Le Nord declares, will produce a proper effect in London, Vienna and Sofia.

PLOT TO SEIZE KING MILAN.

PESTH, Nov 28.—A day or two ago a plot was discovered at Neusatz, Cettitje and Antivari to seize King Milan of Servia, while hunting near Vranja, and carry him into Montenegro. As soon as he heard of the plot he boarded an express train for Belgrade, where he arrived in a state of mental and physical prostration. Detectives are searching for the conspirators.

Diphtheria in Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 27.— A malignant type of dyphtheria is very prevalent here. J. T. Bulmer, a well known lawyer and antiquarian, lost two children within a few days, and is wife is ill of the same disease. Two doctors who attended Mr. Bulmer's child that first died caught the disease from it, but recovered. Two children of Dr. Wickwite, Dominion Health officer, are also down with it.

"That dire disease, whose ruthless power Withers Beauty's transient flower," is often found lurking around the citadel of Life, in the disguise of a cold, like an unsuspected enemy in camp. For colds or coughs, weak or sore lungs, sore throats, bronchitis, asthma, and all diseases that lead to consumption, and for consumption itself, take Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNECIE.

MR. MOWAT'S GERRYMANDERING.

MR. MOWAT should be an expert in gerrymandering, for his last effort was not his first in that line. It was shown conclusively by Mr. Carnegie on Friday that this measure was framed so as to give an unfair advantage to Mr. Mowat's supporters, with the one exception that Mr. Fell was somewhat benefitted, though this may be explained by the fact that the chances of Mr. McIntyre were thereby improved. Mr. Ross in defence alleged without much regard for the facts, that all the changes were made with the view of making a nearer approach to equality in the population of the constituencies. Even if this were true it would by no means shut out dishonest manipulation. A little reflection will show how the unfair advantage could be attained. All possible changes falling within the method described by Mr. Ross might have been tabulated. Then by the simple expedient of carrying out all the changes to the advantage of Reformers, and striking from the list all the changes to the advantage of Conservatives a considerable party gain could be secured. Something of this nature was done. It was as if two boys, receiving a present of a dozen apples each, should pair them haphazard, and then the shrewder boy should claim in every case where he had the smaller apple that he should receive an equalizing portion from the other, but in every case where he had the larger apple he should retain his advantage. We have spoken of the method described by Mr. Ross as having been laid down. Their adoption of it was in itself a condemnation of Mr. Mowat's first gerrymander for then he cut townships in slices to attain his end, a plan now owned to be wrong. And the same unfairness pervaded other features of the measure. In Toronto minority representation was adopted because under the pretence of increased representation arrangements were made to cut down the Conservative voting power in the House from two votes to one. At the same time in a populous county with three Reform members minority representation was not allowed because that would have given the Conservatives a similar advantage. Again two small constituencies were united because there was an opportunity of beheading a Conservative, as Mr. Ross boastingly turned it, though in his first gerrymander Mr. Mowat did not make this change because he saw no opportunity then of such a partizan gain, though he then united constituencies where there was a Conservative to behead.

In short the whole redistribution was designed to defraud the people of a fair representation of their opinions. Yet those who have twice adopted this device, on a large scale, have never wearied of imputing to the Macdonold Administration a fraud of which it was really the accusers who were guilty.

AGAIN SLANDERING.

THE supporters of Mr. Mowat, being alarmed at the evident popularity of Mr. Meredith, are adopting the usual Reform weapon, calumny. The story was started that in 1874 Mr. Meredith endeavoured, with Mr. Cameron's sanction, to induce an avowedly independent member to join the Conservatives with the prospect of a portfolio. This is not true, but even if it were, there need be nothing wrong in asking the support of an independent member, or if he could see his way to unite with them, taking him into the Ministry if eligible. Every candidate is now busy endeavoring to persuade not only independents, but opponents to adopt his views and suppor him. The object, however, of this apparently harmless fiction was to build upon it slanderous inventions. The more unscrupulous Reform organs are ignoring the facts of the case and are endeavoring by flaring headlines and manipulated versions to convey the impression that Mr. Meredith, as leader of the Conservatives, has tried to bribe a supporter of Mr. Mowat to become a traitor. It would not answer their purpose to tell the bare truth that Mr. Meredith, more than fourteen years ago, when less than two years a member, was not a leader, but only one of the rank and file with his spurs yet to earn, that there was no idea even of bribery, and that there could be no treason to Mr. Mowat on the part of one who was avowedly not his supporter. The people of Ontario have too high an opinion of Judge Cameron and Mr. Meredith to be thus beguiled into believing them capable of any dishonorable steps to gain an ally.

MR. ROSS' VERACITY.

MR. G. W. Ross had so arranged the programme for Friday evening (the Globe tells us that he made the arrangement) that Mr. Carnegie should speak before him, so that Mr. Ross might wind up the discussion, and thus be able to make any statements he liked without having his inaccuracies corrected on the spot. He took full advantage of his contrivance, and made a number of assertions that were quite contrary to the facts. We will refer to some of these when we have had time to investigate the records, but we will now call attention to one of them as a sample. Mr. Ross asserted that the Dominion Government sells timber limits for $5 a square mile. He was uttering what he knows to be a deliberate falsehood. He has been a Member of the House of Commons, and is not without information in Dominion matters. The truth, and he knows it, is that the Dominion gets $5 a year, not once for all. It is as if Mr. Ross were to rent a house for $200 a year, and then, to make his credit good, were to assert that he had bought it, though well knowing that the price would be $3,000. When Mr. Ross could utter such a wilful falsehood, with the view of magnifying his own management of public property, and belittling that of his political opponents, his audience may know what credit to attach to any statement he made, if an untruth would serve his purpose better than the truth.

IN his speech on Friday night Mr. Ross pretended that the Mowat Administration declined to pronounce an opinion on the justice of Riel's punishment because it was a Dominion affair. As a matter of fact they did pronounce an opinion, both by their speeches and by their votes, that the punishment was unjust and his crimes justifiable. Even Mr. Frazer suggested a statue for the murderer of priests. In spite of his pretended shrinking from interference with Dominion affairs, more than a dozen times in his speech Mr. Ross went out of his way to misrepresent or sneer at the Dominion Government, in several instances challenging the Conservative candidate for the Provincial Legislature to go with him into the discussion of Dominion matters. Like his colleagues Mr. Ross never objects to interfering in Dominion matters if thereby they can assail their political opponents or foster any sectional difference between the Provinces of Canada.

IN fitly condemning the Globe for its yahoo-like attack upon Sir John Macdonald, the Toronto World expresses its opinion that Mr. Blake would feel similar disgust because he "is known to despise the dishonorable and to hate the small-minded." The World, which is itself utterly above any thing that is dishonorable or small-minded, seems to have overlooked the fact that Mr. Blake has him-elf indulged in the very small-minded business of joining in the unfounded attacks upon Sir John Macdonald through his family. How would Mr. Blake like to have a very clear and [illegible] episode in the career of his brother attributed to himself, though in this case there would be far more reason for so doing, as he would have been one of the beneficiaries of the wrong doing?

OF course Mr. Mowat and the Reformers are very anxious for the extension of the franchise and are also most solicitous that the new voters should have an early opportunity of exercising their right. Yet Mr. Mowat, with his love of trickery, has fixed the election so as to shut out at least some of the rolls. And the Reformers, of St. Thomas, for instance, are now raising technical objections to thwart any County Judges who are hurrying on their revisions to avoid wholesale disfranchisement. Nothing better can be expected, when we reflect that Mr. Mowat and his friends obstinately battled against extension of the franchise when advocated by Mr. Meredith, and only yielded reluctantly when forced to do so by the Conservatives backed by public opinion.

FROM the circumstances that Mr. Carnegie was confined to a limited time on Friday and that Mr. Ross was able as the last speaker to give his own version of the facts while safe from immediate correction, those who are fair enough to wish to hear both sides of the question fully presented, should attend Mr. Carnegie's meeting in Bradburn's Hall on Tuesday evening.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Arrest of a Hotel-keeper on Suspicion—Clever Detective Work.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—It will be remembered that on the 15th of September last Charles Alwyn, a young farmer who had just sold some property and who resided near Aylmer, was robbed of fifteen hundred dollars or thereabouts, while on a spree in that village. He was stopping at the hotel of Alphonse Martel, where he was a few days afterwards found dead in his bed. About that time several heavy robberies had been committed and it was supposed that the robbery of Alwyn was the work of the gang who had been previously raiding the village. While the local authorities were working on the tracks of the gang who were supposed to have robbed Mr. Gordon, a lawyer, and others, Detective MacPherson took another departure and yesterday afternoon arrested Martel, the hotel keeper, with whom Alwyn was stopping at the time of his death, as a party to the robbery. Martel was subsequently let out on bail, two residents of the village going his bail in the sum of five hundred dollars each. Fearing to alarm Martel's family before the search warrant had been executed the detective sent him a note to come down to the railway station where a valuable parcel was waiting for him. He took the bait and was arrested. Martel will come up for trial on Monday next, and will probably be remanded until further evidence can be secured. It is understood the body of Alwyn will be exhumed and a post mortem held, as his death was surrounded with many suspicious circumstances.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles. d90

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

SAINT ANDREW'S DAY.

A SERMON IN CELEBRATION OF IT PREACHED IN ST. PAUL'S.

The Rev. E. F. Torrance Gives Brief Biographies of the Scottish Heroes of the Olden Time and Exhorts Scotchmen to be True to Scottish Principles.

On Sunday evening the Rev. E.F. Torrance preached the annual St. Andrew's Society sermon in St. Paul's Church. There was a large attendance. The choir was present in full numbers, there being twenty-eight members in the choir gallery. Special music was given for the occasion.

The pastor took for his text Psalm XLIV, 1,—"We have heard with our ears, O God, our fathers have told us, what work Thou didst in their days, in the times of old." The Hebrew scriptures, he said, gave special prominence to the Divine element in the history of the Jews. They presented that history in the light of the working out of the Divine plan, and they ascribed the most important event in it to the direct agency of the Most High. This fact was strikingly set forth in the words of the text and following verses. In all history there is a divine as well as a human element. They who study history aright see in it the working out of the divine plan. Perhaps there was no respect in which the hand of God is more perceptible in history than in the great men, who from time to time were raised up to perform difficult tasks. It appeared through the whole of history that God had ever had his workmen ready whenever there was some great work to be done. It was so in both sacred and profane history. It was his intention to bring before them to-night some incidents in Scottish history in which the hand of God might be most readily traced. Christianity seemed to have been introduced into Scotland at an early date, but it did not make much progress until the beginning of the third century, when the reigning monarchs embraced the Christian faith. For several centuries after this there were periods of advancement and decline. Early in the 9th century there were a number of men raised up eminent for their devotion to God's cause. But the progress of the truth was again retarded by the spread of Popery, which, supported by the secular power, exercised a baneful influence over the people. In the beginning of the 15th century God raised up faithful witnesses in different lands who fearlessly exposed the errors of the Church of Rome, and among them were two Scotchmen who suffered martyr's deaths. One of these was Patrick Hamilton, who died a martyr at the early age of [illegible]. He was born in 1503 of high parentage, and was educated in Germany. There he met Luther and others, by whom he was brought to a knowledge of the truth. Returning to Scotland to preach against the errors of the Church of Rome, brought upon him the indignation of the clergy. Having prevailed upon him to attend a conference at St. Andrew's they imprisoned him in the castle, brought him to trial and condemned him to death. Another of these was George Wishart. He began his career as a school master at Montrose and then became a preacher in Dundee. But his success aroused the jealousy of the Romish clergy, by whom he also was put to death, being found guilty of heresy. These men helped to prepare the way for the approaching reformation — heralds of approaching dawn. Now comes the name of John Knox, Scotland's great reformer, of whom, above all others, the nation may well be proud. Without Knox, said Carlyle, Scotch literature, thought and industry would not have been. Knox was born in 1505 at Haddington, and obtained the rudiments of his education to his native place and afterwards went to Glasgow University. In early manhood it was probable that he took orders in the Church of Rome as a secular priest. It was Wishart's martyrdom which led him to profess adherence to the Protestant faith. After a contest with the Romish Clergy he went through various vissisitudes until he became pastor of a congregation at Frankford, Germany. He returned to Scotland and preached in private and public against the Church of Rome. He was proclaimed an outlaw and rebel but he went fearlessly on. In 1561 Queen Mary tried to induce him to give up his faith but without avail. She then attempted to have the Privy Council pronounce him guilty of treason on the ground that he had written a letter referring to a riot. But he was, when tried, acquitted. He was again summoned before the Court for a sermon which he preached and again acquitted. He died on Nov. 24th 1572 from the effects of apoplexy. Knox is undoubtedly the greatest of Scotchmen—he was endowed with the courage of a hero. Conscious that he was doing the Lord's work he did his duty without fear of consequences. Well may Scotland be thankful to God for the gift of John Knox. Of all the lights of the Reformation no one had a greater work to do or did it more effectually than John Knox. While the Lutheran and Swiss churches abandoned to a large extent the doctrines of the Reformation, the truths which were proclaimed by Knox in Scotland are the truths which are proclaimed it. the Scottish pulpits to-day. Andrew Melville was another great Scotchman. He was born in 1545, educated abroad, and returning home was appointed Principal of the Glasgow University. Afterwards he become Principal in the University of st. Andrew's. He did good service in resisting attacks made upon the Scottish Church, and was proof against all efforts to induce him to embrace episcopacy. He even warned the King of his sin in seeking to obtain authority over the Church. Other names might be mentioned—those of Welsh, Henderson, Rutherford, Blain, Livingston—men who have contributed to elevate Scotland. What has been the position of Scotland for many years past? It has been a land which has been occupied for the most part by a prosperous and contented people. By means of parish schools the great mass of the people have been able to acquire some education, and by means of the Universities a liberal education has been brought within the reach of all. The Bible has been taught in Scottish schools, and to this is due in a great measure to the acquaintance of the people with the Word of God. The reformers were not ignorant, narrow men, blind to everything else save overturning the Church of Rome, but men who lay a broad and firm foundation for their work—fully alive to the importance of education. In this respect their principles were in direct antagonism with the principles of the Church of Rome. He could not sufficiently admire the heroism of the Scottish people, which led them to resist the efforts of the English monarchs to subject the church to the influence of the king. Charles I prepared a book of canons which forbade a general assembly or or any other meeting of ministers unless specially called by the King. But the people were unwilling that their ministers should obey any such command. In 1638 the covenanters bound themselves at Grey Friars' Church, Edinburgh, to put away all idolatry, superstition and immorality and to worship God in simplicity and faithfulness according to His word. Charles thought to put down opposition by force, but he was met with such firm resistance that he was glad to make a treaty of peace. Under Charles II. and James II. persecutions were carried on, and it was not till the accession of William that the privileges of the Scottish Church were restored. And now what is the practical influence which God's dealings with Scotland ought to leave upon ourselves? It ought to lead us to make those principles which guided our forefathers the guiding principles of our lives. It was not his object in preaching this sermon to glorify Scotland in their eyes, but to show the practical influence which the blessings enjoyed by Scotland ought to have on them. The great evil which befell the Jews resulted from priding themselves upon their high descent instead of allowing it to have a practical effect on their lives. They seemed to think that all must be right when they had "Abraham to their father." The Lord Jesus Christ warned them that having Abraham to their father would avail them nothing unless they did the works of Abraham. They refused to believe this word and the consequence was that the righteous judgment of heaven fell upon them. Now, he was afraid that his hearers might be making the very same mistake as the Jews of old. It was a great mistake to suppose that the mere fact of having Scotch blood in their veins will secure for them prosperity and the special favor of Heaven. Did they wish to succeed in this their adopted land and did they wish to make it a mighty power for good? If they did then they must act upon the principles which were acted upon by their Scotch forefathers. Some present advanced in years could remember the early training they received in Scotland, but let him ask if their children and grand-children are receiving a similar training to-day in this their adopted land. The answer is no; for the Bible does not now form a part of the education in our day schools here. And this is to be accounted for by the fact that the vast majority of the people in Scotland are Presbyterians. In Canada they are composed of different sects. Well, then, if that be the case their children need to receive all the more instruction in the Word of God in their own homes. If their children be brought up like others the mere fact of their being Scotch would not benefit them. Scotchmen without the Bible would be like Samson shorn of his locks—deprived of the true source of strength. Think not to say, "We have John Knox for our father—the blood of martyred heroes flows within our veins—we belong to a church which, above all others, purity of doctrine has been retained," for these privileges, if not improved, would involve them in greater condemnation. It became them who have been so highly privileged to remember the words of the Lord: "Woe unto thee Chorazin! Woe unto thee Bethsaida! And thou Capernaum which art exalted to heaven shalt be thrust into hell." God forbid that this dread woe should fall upon them; God forbid that their privileges should be turned into curses, and that they should be as spectred ghosts to haunt us on our dying beds, and follow us through unending eternity. Did they wonder when such an awful possibility scared them in the face? Did they wonder that he could not close this sermon without an earnest entreaty to flee from the wrath to come? Escape for their life. Tarry not lest ye be consumed. The way is open safe and sure. In Christ no evil can come nigh but out of Him nothing but anger, wrath, tribulation, and anguish stares you in the face. That this might be a weight of decision with many souls was the preachers heartfelt prayer.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidental friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

Mr. Seward's

Elementary class for vocal instruction will meet over Hartley's music store this evening at 8 o'clock.

Gents Furnishings.

Those who require gents furnishing, underwear, etc., should look at J. J. Sheehy's window. It speaks for itself.

The Corporation snow ploughs made their appearance this morning on the sidewalk for the first time of the season.

St. Andrew's Supper.

St. Andrew's Day will be celebrated by the time-honored custom of holding a supper at Morgan's Hotel on Tuesday evening.

Campaign Committees.

A full attendance of members of Mr. Carnegie's committees is requested for the meeting in the rooms over Mr. Stethem's store, this evening.

Ladies, This is for You.

H. S. Griffin & Co. are clearing out a line of all wool dress goods in black and leading shades at 15 cents. These goods are extra value at 30 cents. Call and see them.

Shorthand Class

All wishing to join the class in shorthand in connection with the Y. M. C. A. should remember the first meeting on Tuesday night at 7.30 o'clock. Mr. J. H. Norton will conduct the class. It will be free to all young men and youths joining the Association.

St. Luke's Organ.

In remodelling the chancel of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, it was found necessary to take the organ to pieces for the purpose of removing it. This was successfully accomplished, and last week Mr. Jno. Butcher, the well known musician, put it together again and placed it in position in the new chancel.

Journalistic.

Mr. Newton, formerly of the Lindsay Warder, has purchased that excellent Conservative paper the Stratford Herald, and his first issue, which has just come to hand, is deserving of high praise. Under Mr. Newton's management the Herald cannot fail to be a credit to Stratford, and to good service on behalf of its country and party.

The Labor Question.

At the present time the question of labor is engaging the attention of many people more or less throughout the United States and Canada. It is, perhaps, one of the most difficult and perplexing questions of the day, and causes an almost endless amount of discussion. "Labor hath sure reward" is a truthful saying, but there are sometimes cases when the assertion is not borne out by facts. For instance, the wealthy capitalist engages labor at a presumably fair wage, and then, because the hard-worked mechanic did not get him to put his agreement in writing, he is cut down to what the "millionaire boss" thinks right when the work is done, and in this case labor does not get its reward. When a man spends years in mastering any particular art or calling, he naturally expects to be rewarded with the confidence and patronage of the public, and in this connection A. McNeil, Tailor and Gent's Furnisher, Habiliment Hall, would respectfully ask the young and old men of Peterborough to examine his fine stock, order a suit of clothes, and test the skill of the master mechanics in his employ.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR

ON ORGANIZATION RECOGNIZING UNIVERSAL BROTHERHOOD.

Jimuel Briggs on the Labor Question—Workingmen urged to Follow in the Footsteps of the Professional Man.

On Saturday night Mr. Philips Thompson, well known as a newspaper writer as Jimuel Briggs, addressed several hundred working men in the Opera House. Mr. John Irwin occupied the chair. On the platform there were, besides the speaker and chairman, Messrs. F. W. Miller, Frank Fairin, and John O'Brian. The Chairman, in a few remarks, interduced

Mr. Phillips Thompson to the audience. He was received with applause. They were here to-night to consider the labor question. It was a question which was exciting interest all over the world. It was holding a place in men's ideas and men's opinions in every civilized country as it never did before. Now this was a new phase in social life and it became them to ask: What is the Labour Question? How should we solve it? A good definition was given by the great labor reformer Henry George. Suppose a being endowed with similar reason and intellect coming to this earth from some other planet. Suppose he knew nothing of our ideas and institutions; that his mind was a perfect blank on the subject. He inquired how mankind lived. He would be told, by labor; that they lived by the fruit of their toil and the products of their industry. Suppose then that this being was to be shown through an aristocratic quarter of a large city, his first impression would be when he saw the fine mansions, and taking a glimpse through the windows at the elegance and comfort of the furnishings would be "how these people must labor and toil to gain such luxury and comfort." Then take him to the low quarters of the city where the working people reside. There houses possessed none of the advantages of location, the comfort, nor brightness of the other class. Then his first thought would be "These people must be very lazy. They cannot be hardworkers or they would surely have as comfortable houses as I saw in the other part of the city." Imagine his astonishment when told that the people in the tenements did the most laborious toil and many of the people in the fine houses did no work. He would say "there must be something wrong; this cannot be so." But men are so blinded by the habit of association that they could not see this defect in the distribution of the results of industry. All over the world the terms "workingman" and "poor man" were synonmous. The men who enjoyed the good things of this world were not workingmen. There was another class, however, "there was not an equal distribution in the results of labor. In a statement that must be relied upon it was said that the capitalist generally got 54 per cent. of the profits, or more than one-half, while the other small half was divided up among the workingmen. The cause of this unequal distribution was monopoly on one side and competition on the other, and between the upper and nether millstone the flesh of the workman was ground. It was the monopoly of capitalists and the competition among workingmen for places that produced the evil. From various causes there was always a lot of unemployed labor seeking to get work. The capitalists pited one against the other till he got wages down below living prices in many cases. He did not wish to censure harshly any individual—he did not wish to treat the capitalist and manufacturer with undue harshness, for the services of both were valuable to the community. But some men said: "Look at the work I have given to the laroring men! look at the number of men I have given employment to!" as if they derived no benefit from the labourers' toil. They seemed to consider it a privilege to give a workingman leave to toil This should not be, for the capitalist gains more by the labor than the laborer. The reason why much labor was left unemployed was: (I) Vast areas of land formerly left open for settlement are now taken up by private citizens or monopolists. (II) The introduction of machinery had made it possible for four men to do the work of twenty. (III) The men employed worked too many hours per day. The means to cure the evil were first of all organization. It was not his intention to say a word against the old fashioned Unions. They had done much good. Why Osgoode Hall was the headquarters of one of the strongest unions in the country. The lawyers formed unions, so did the doctors and why should not the workingmen? But what was wanted now was the organization of all labor. No local union could cope with great monopolies. It wanted the whole labor of the country to throw its weight against those large corporations when they did wrong. What was next wanted was co-operation, both productive co-oporation and distributive co-operation. He instanced what great results had been attained in each in the old country. Many factories in the old country were run on the co-operative plan, affording not only good profits to the workingmen but remunerative employment. Co-operative stores were also successful. What was wanted was shorter hours. Eight hours a day was plenty. If the eight hour movement were inaugurated the one-fifth of unemployed labor in the United States would find employment and thus would be destroyed a baneful competition. Then it would be easier to get higher wages. What was wanted was the abolition of those qualifications which were demanded before a man could either vote or hold public office. What was wanted was a social democracy or government by the people. What was wanted was working men in the governments of the day. What was wanted was compulsory arbitration. Let the government appoint a committee to fix a minimum rate of wages, leaving it discretionary with the employer to pay more for skilled work. What was wanted was manhood suffrage. But when they got that they were not to be like the carpenter who spent all his life sharpening and brightening his tools. They should use their tools. The three monopolies to be struck at were:—

I. Land monopoly.
II. Railway monopoly.
III. Money monopoly.

Both the Dominion and Provincial Governments were to blame in these matters. He believed in giving the Government charge of railways, banks, telegraph lines, and every institution run especially for the public good. He did not believe in allowing any bank to issue Government bills. The shareholders drew out their ten and twelve per cet. without doing anything, while that profit should go to the people. Some people might urge that no one should advocate class legislation, but as a matter of fact we had nothing but class legislation. Almost every leaf on the statute books contained legislation for some particular class, and the workingman had a right to claim it also. The Knights of Labor was an organization which recognized no distinctions in man—neither race nor creed. It gathered all kinds and colors of mankind in its broad arms. It entertained the glorious sentiment of universal brotherhood.

At the conclusion the lecturer was presented with a vote of thanks.

The Chairman referred to the offer made by Mr. Cox on the preceding night of $5,000 to anyone who would prove that he did not pay fair wages. He said that anyone who could prove it should either come forward or shut their mouths in the future regarding the matter. He also referred to the Barnardo Home. He thought there were enough of poor children here already without importing more. And more than that, the children, some of them, did not do any good to the community in which they were sent—they were plucked too ripe.

The meeting closed with cheers for the speaker and chairman.

The Premier's Visit.

The committees appointed to make arrangements for the visit of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues, all members of the Young Men's Conservative Club, and all Conservative young men who wish to assist in the arrangements for the reception, are requested to meet this evening at 7.45 o'clock in the club room over Mr. Geo. It is a long time since such a number of distinguished visitors came to this town, and thousands will be anxious to hear them discuss the public questions of the day, hence the necessity for complete preparations. The visitors expected are the Rt. Hon. Sir John A Macdonald, Premier of Canada; the Hon. Thomas White, Minster of the Interior; the Hon. J. S. D. Thompson, Minster of Justice; the Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Secretary of State; and the Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minster of Marine.

Little and Lively.

The times change and we change with them. Hardly larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts, Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have caused the old style, large, drastic cathartic pills to be abandoned by all sensible people. The little sugar coated Pellets are a sure cure for constipation; for persons of sedentry habits they are invaluable. They are little and lively, pleasant and safe.

MEREDITH'S ADDRESS.

THE PLATFORM OF THE LEADER OF THE PROVINCIAL OPPOSITION.

Reform of the Department of Education — Extention of the Powers of the Municipalities — Scott Act Enforcement—Absolute Religious Equality —Manhood Suffrage.

To the Electors of the City of London:

GENTLEMEN.—The Legislative Assembly has been disolved before the period fixed by law for its determination, and a general election has been precipated at an inopportune season of the year when it must prove injurious to the business interests of the community, and interfere with the proper discharge of important public duties connected with the municipal and school elections.

The dissolution is attempted to be justified as having been rendered necessary by the recent extension of the franchise, and as being in accordance with constitutional usage, which requires the assembling of a new Parliament whenever important additions have been made to the electorate.

The fact that such a course was not taken in the case of the other two important additions to the electorate which have been made in this province since Confederation, and the exclusion from taking part in this election of many of the newly enfranchised voters, which will result from the day selected for holding it, point to the conclusion that some ulterior object was in view: and recent public utterances of the leader of the Government indicate that that object was to assist in compassing the defeat of the Federal Administration.

What has taken place affords, I think, a strong argument for fixing by statute, instead of leaving it to the will of the Executive, the day for holding the general elections, unless where an appeal to the country upon some important public question may be necessary; and compels me to adopt this method of laying briefly before you the questions at issue in the coming contest.

One cannot view without apprehension the rapid increase which has taken place since 1871 in the ordinary annual expenditure. It was in that year but $1,200,005, and it had grown in 1885 to $2,478,739. The population in the same period increased but 23 per cent. and the yearly revenue remained practically stationary. Though the Government boasts of having a large surplus, it has decided to create and has partially done so a Provincial bonded indebtedness of upwards of $2,000,000.

Greater economy must, it is clear, be exercised in managing our finances if taxation for carrying on the affairs of the Province is to be avoided.

The management of the Crown Lands Department is not satisfactory. Moneys voted for colonization road purposes are expended under a vicious and wasteful system, and instead of being used to benefit the struggling settlers are often squandered upon political partisans. Vast areas of the timber lands of the Province are placed under license without the assent of the Assembly. No attempt has been made to prevent by proper conditions the logs cut upon our timber lands from being exported instead of being manufactured in the country; and practically nothing has been done looking to the development of our mineral wealth, the conservation of our forests, or the husbanding of our timber resources.

The bureaucratic system of Government which is being rapidly established and extended at Toronto, is not, I venture to think, in the interest of the Province. While it doubtless strengthens the Government of the day by increasing its patronage and placing in its hands the means of purchasing political support, it is built up by pulling down and discrediting the municipal institutions of the Province, and by bringing within the dangerous influence of partizanship the institutions for the advancement of public education. It intensifies the evils of the party system of government, and is calculated to promote that unhealthy desire to be comfortably provided for at the country's expense, which is on the increase in Canada. Its results are seen in what, but for its frequency, we should recognize as the scandalous spectacle of important public offices being kept vacant for months to be held up as prizes for vigorous party service at the coming elections to an army of expectant applicants. In proof of this I point to the shrievalties of Wellington and of Lincoln, to the registrarship of Carleton and to the office of county attorney for York.

This system has also imposed upon the country an onerous school book monopoly; is responsible for the frequent and costly changes in the text books used in the schools; has opened the door for the exercise of mischievous pressure in administering the important affairs of the Education Department; and has shaken the condence of the people in the honest and non-partizan administration of them.

I would propose, instead of curtailing to extend the powers of municipal bodies, and to invest in them the appointment of registrars and other county officers, and to place our educational affairs under the charge of a non-political head—chosen not for his party zeal or party services, but for his ability to manage them in the highest interests of the people. In doing this we should but be following the example of our sister provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick, which, having tried both systems, have returned to that which I now advocate. Of course, in accordance with constitutional usage, the Government should be primarily and wholly responsible for expenditures for educational purposes.

The duty of enforcing obedience to the Canada Temperance Act rests upon the Provincial Government. That duty should be fearlessly and honestly performed. The present Government has failed in its duty in this respect.

The licensing system has been prostituted to serve political ends and partizan purposes. It should be freed from such abuses.

In Ontario, as in all Canada, her people are equal under and before the law, and it should be recognized as a fundamental principle that neither the policy of her Government, nor the distribution of the patronage which belongs to it, should be dictated or dispensed in the special interest of any section of her people, or of any church or creed within her limits.

The maintenance of the Separate school system of the Province is guaranteed to our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens under the Constitution. Some may regret that the necessity for its introduction existed, but it is nevertheless the duty of the Government honestly to administer it, and make it as efficient as possible to the end that it may properly perform the functions for which it was designed. The principle upon which it was based was the voluntary one of free choice, and that principle ought not to be lost sight of or departed from.

The Public schools should be maintained, so far as they are to be supported by local rates, out of the taxes contributed by the Public school supporters, and, in like manner, the Separate schools by the contributions of their supporters: and the supporters of neither should be compelled to contribute to the support of the other. Any interference with the management or control of the public schools by Separate school supporters is opposed to the principle upon which our Provincial system of education was founded and is not to be permitted.

I believe also that the maintenance of religious equality in all things is absolutely essential to the well-being of our institutions.

The ballot as applied to elections for the Legislative Assembly is not a secret one. It should be made so.

I believe the right of citizenship and to deny the right of suffrage is repugnant to the genius of this enlightened age. Recognizing this, I would substitute for the present anomalous, contradictory, artificial and almost incomprehensible Franchise law, the principle of Manhood Suffrage, with a simple and efficient system of registration of the voters.

In view of the present condition of the Province it is, I think, expedient that all expenditure by it for Immigration purposes should cease.

The questions of the relations of capital and labor, and of the elevation and improvement of the condition of the toiling masses, are pressing themselves upon the attention of the civilized world; and, so far as they are within the domain of Provincial legislation and can form the subject of practical and beneficial measures, demand the earnest consideration of the Government and Legislature of Ontario. The prevention of unfair competition of Prison with Free labour, the extension of the provisions of the Employers' Liability Law, and the regulation of the incidence of municipal taxation so as to distribute its burden more evenly upon the whole people in proportion to their ability to bear it, are questions within the range of practical politics, and ought to be dealt with by legislation.

I regret that the Provincial Government has from unworthy motives lent its aid to a dangerous agitation in the Province of Quebec, the success of which would make the equitable administration of the law impossible, and result in lasting injury to the peace and well being of the country. Should the Ontario Government be sustained at the coming elections it would, I believe, lend strength to that agitation, and it will, I fervently hope, be felt to be the duty of all good citizens to set their faces sternly against everything that will tend in any degree to impair or impede the honest enforcement of the law, regardless of race, creed or party.

Your obedient servant,
W. R. MEREDITH.

GUNS FOR THE PACIFIC.

British Armament Being Sent Over the Canadian Pacific Railway.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—An Anchor liner has left London for Halifax with a number of sixty-four bounders on board for the British cruisers stationed at Esquimalt. On arriving at Halifax the guns will be sent over the Canadian Pacific railway, reaching their destination within a month. This very satisfactorily demonstrates the advantage of the new route across Canadian territory.

THE FISHERY QUESTION.

Negotiations Left to Minister West—No Relinquishment of Rights by Canada.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—At the British Foreign Office doubts are entertained whether President Clevelond will be in a position to announce in his coming message a solution of the fisheries dispute. No progress is being made towards a settlement. Lord Iddesleigh is absorbed in the Eastern question, and has completely relegated to Minister West all negotiations with the United States. The attitude of the Dominion Government is not favorable to the settlement.

CANADIAN FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

Unlimited Market For all the Dominion of Canada Can Send.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 23.—Mr. Starr, the Canadian Fruit Commissioner to the Colonial Exhibition, has returned from London. He predicts an enormous emigration of young men of nerve and money and tenant farmers to Canada next season as a result of the exhibition. He says the Nova Scotia apples in London this year were far ahead of the upper province and American fruit. It was of a better color, is a better condition and less spotted and wormy. He has made experimental shipments of Canadian fruit to all the leading Continental cities and while the prices prevailing there are not such as to warrant a divergence from the English markets, he has demonstrated the fact that the Continent will prove a valuable and almost unlimited overflow market. At present the English market will take more than all the fruit we can export, and will pay the best prices for the best fruit. Paris, Berlin, Copenhagen and other Continental cities will do the same. When we export 10,000,000 barrels of apples to the English markets we may then seek the continent for an overflow market.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

THE SLIGO MEETING.

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—The Freeman's Journal reporter attended a private meeting at Sligo yesterday. All the other reporters were excluded. It is announced that a demonstration will be held in Cork on Sunday next, and Mr. Dillon and others will deliver addresses.

EXCITEMENT IN SLIGO.

DUBLIN, Nov 28.—The Nationalist chiefs held a private meeting in the Town Hall today and discussed their future course of action. Messrs. O'Brien and O'Kelly, members of parliament, went to Riverstown to address a meeting. A platform was erected and the chapel bell was tolled. Mr. O'Brien made a speech, in which he denounced the Government and declared that the Irish would be able to overcome the unworthy schemes for repressing opinion. The police threatened arrest them, but although he defied them he was not molested. The excitement in Sligo is intense. The streets are guarded by police and cavalry.

A DOUBLE SUICIDE.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—A tragic occurance has taken place at Lyons. A young man of 26, who had completed his military service finding he was too poor to marry the girl of his choice, on account of the obstinacy of her parents, wrote to the girl that life was intolerable without her, and that he intended to smother himself with charcoal fumes. The girl agreed to die with him, and both were found lying dead in a room some days after the parents had given their final answer.

PROPOSED UNIVERSITY.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The bishops of Richmond and St. Paul have submitted to the Pope a scheme to found a Catholic university in America. It is proposed that this university shall have at first only a theological faculty, and that other faculties shall be added later on.

THE NEW MAIL CONTRACT.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Daily News, in an article on the new mail carrying scheme, admits that if foreign steamers can carry the mails quicker and cheaper than British vessels they should have the preference, but says the mails can be carried so much quicker by the Cunard steamers than by the North German Lloyds that the Cunard Company is prepared to take letters on its own account, which they will engage to deliver in America before the German steamers sight that shore. It is false economy, the News says, to sacrifice quickness and punctuality for the sake of a few pounds.

ATTACKED BY A LION.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 29.—An exciting scene occurred yesterday in a menagerie at Verviers. Madame Soulet, the lion tamer, entered the cage of the lion "Brutus," in the absence of the keeper, accompanied by a man named Greuler. No sooner had they entered than the lion sprang savagely upon Greuler. Mme. Soulet ran to his assistance, when the brute turned upon her, and in the struggle that followed her face was terribly lacerated. The attendant seized the lion, affording the woman's husband an opportunity to save her life, and a death struggle ensued between the lion and the attendant until another man attacked the brute with a pitchfork and drove him off. The three persons attacked are all badly injured.

"THUNDERER'S" OPINION.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Times says the Anti-Rent Company in Ireland has been too long allowed headway. The Government will not be able to defeat it merely by disarming its astute authors and violent advocates, but they can insure victory over the movement by steadily carrying out the decrees of the courts.

SULTAN AND CZAR.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 29.—It is stated that General Kaulbars presented to the Sultan a copy of the report on Bulgarian affairs prepared by him for the Czar, and that the Sultan requested him to convey to the Czar the warmest assurance of his regard and friendship.

MAIL ROBBERS.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 29.—Several Englishmen have been arrested on suspicion of connection with the robbery of registered letters from the mail car of the Ostend express on Saturday.

COMMENCES HIS FAST.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Succi commenced his second fast last night. The medical committee appointed to watch him refuse to do so because he declines to reveal the secret of the liquor used by him, or to allow another to fast with him under the same conditions.

A SEVERE PUNISHMENT.

NEW YORK, November 29.—The World's Washington special says the fate of the Indians captured in General Miles' campaign is practically settled. The President has come to the conclusion that a life of confinement for all these Indians in Florida, where they can do no harm, will be the most thorough punishment which can be visited on them.

SCOTLAND AND WALES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A committee of Welsh Liberal members of Parliament has been formed, with Mr. Richards as president, which aims practically to obtain Home Rule for Wales. The leading planks of their platform are disestablishment and disendowment of the Church, land reforms and free education. The Scotch Home Rulers will hold a conference and mass demonstration at Edinburgh on January 12. Their platform urges that National Legislatures be granted to the respective nationalities of the United Kingdom, each legislature to control local affairs with an executive responsible only to the national electors.

MR. GLADSTONE'S TACTICS.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Mr. Gladstone declines every request to speak until Parliament reassembles. He has sent letters to several of his late colleagues, stating his programme for the coming session. He approves of an immediate challenge to the Government to state its Irish policy in the debate upon the address, although he expects that the Unionists will maintain their adhesion to the Government. Afterward he will assist in an effective settlement of the procedure question.

THE GHILZA REVOLT.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Professor Arminius Ambery says that according to his private information the Ghilzai revolt in Afghanistan still continues and is more violent than ever. The environs of Ghayn are held by insurgents. The Ameer Abdurrahman is in bad health, and can scarcely maintain his position. English influence is greatly weakened. The Professor ascribes this to Russian intrigues.

ENCOUNTER IN BURMAH.

LONDON Nov. 29.—The British troops in Burmah, in a recent encounter with the forces of Boshway, killed 143 of his followers without losing a soldier. Three of the British troops were wounded.

PRINCE NICHOLAS.

PESTH, Nov. 29.—In the Austrian Delegation to-day Count Zichy asked what position Austria occupied with regard to Russia's proposal that Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia be elected to the Bulgarian throne as the successor of Prince Alexander. Herr Szoegyenyi, Secretary to the Imperial Foreign Department, replied that Count Kalnoky, the Foreign Minister, had no knowledge that such a proposal had been made by Russia, and added that if it should be made, it would require the sanction of the other powers before it could be carried into effect.

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

Peterborough, November 15, 1886.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1886.

MR. MEREDITH'S address to his constituents which will be found in another column is really an announcement to the Province of his policy. He plainly sets forth his views, and shows the main points on which he differs from Mr. Mowat. He has a policy and he is not afraid to say so.

FROM the circumstances that Mr. Carnegie was confined to a limited time on Friday and that Mr. Ross was able as the last speaker to give his own version of the facts while safe from immediate correction, those who are fair enough to wish to hear both sides of the question fully presented, should attend Mr. Carnegie's meeting in Bradburn's Hall this Tuesday evening.

WHEN referring to the school book question Mr. Ross took very good care to ignore three important facts. He passed over in silence the portentous facts of Mr. Nelson having fraudulently entered books with an altered date to the loss of the people of Canada; of Mr. Nelson being the client of the law firm of Mowat, McLellan & Co. and at the same time the recipient of a lucrative monopoly from Mr. Mowat and his colleagues; of Mr. Nelson being a large stock holder of Mr. Mowat's organ the Globe. As this matter concerns Mr. Ross' own department he must be acquainted with the facts and might be expected to explain the subject in all its bearings.

THE Globe calls Lord Colin Campbell an "English Peer." This would be a very good description, but for the two unimportant facts that he is not English and not a peer. It is of very little consequence to Canadians what Lord Colin Campbell may be, and the Globe's error would not be worth mention, but that it affords a warning against the habitual use of falsehood. The Globe is so used to telling untruths about its political opponents, that it has apparently became incapable of speaking truly even if it has nothing to gain by falsehood.

THE London Advertiser in a long editorial forcibly attacks the whole system of land companies in the Northwest, and talks of the measure as the most reckless and ill-advised for which the Macdonald Administration is responsible. This is unusually barefaced even for the Advertiser, which must know that the Mackenzie Administration was responsible for the measure, Messrs. Blake and Mills amongst them, and that some of the most prominent of the Reform leaders were active promoters, directors and shareholders of these land and colonization companies.

IT must have been noticed that when Mr. Ross wanted to do a little bragging he claimed credit personally for the whole fourteen years of Mr. Mowat's Administration. When he wished to excuse himself for the iniquitous bargain with Mr. Nelson, he pretended that he was forced into it by the state of the departmental arrangements as to school readers when he assumed the portfolio of education. He cannot thus disclaim responsibility. He should have explained how it was that the Ministry which he entered and the policy of which he accepted had blundered so disastrously as to have allowed the publishing firms to acquire vested rights to the extent of many tens of thousands of dollars, that is if they had acquired them, which we do not believe.

MR. ROSS challenges any opponent of the Mowat Administration to show that they have put one dollar into the pocket of any member of the Legislature. Well we can name Mr. Morgan to whom they gave a grant of valuable mineral land discovered by a Reformer but not in the House, who made the complaint. We can point out Dr. Dowling to whose relation if not himself they granted a valuable timber limit to which Mr Hurdman, a Conservative, had a prior claim in justice. Other members were allowed to purchase timber limits in unfair competition with Conservatives, and then were presented with funds from the Provincial Treasury. Many of their supporters in the House have been favoured pecuniarily by precisely the means as these. Mr. Ross would not have dared to utter his challenge if it could have been taken up on the spot.

THE Ottawa Free Press, which ought to know says that Mr. O'Donohue, ex M. P. P. for Ottawa city "was elected to the legislature by the Conservatives of Ottawa city." Then what would there be wrong in asking him to join a Conservative Administration? There would not be the slightest taint of corruption about such an invitation, which would have been improper or not according to the eligibility of the candidate. He was not thought eligible, and the only reason for this imaginary history of fourteen years ago, is to afford Reform journals a peg upon which to hang falsified reports also charges of bribery. If Mr. O'Donohue thought he was offered a bribe fourteen years ago would he not then have made the attempt public He seems since then to have dreamt that he was a thick and thin supporter of Mr. Mowat and that he was considered available for a Conservative Ministry.

REFORM POLICIES.

SOME of our contemporaries state that Mr. Blake has no policy, but this is only true if it is taken to mean that he has no general policy. Mr. Blake and his supporters have several policies, in fact one for each Province in the Dominion. They are as follows:—

NOVA SCOTIA—Secession.

NEW BRUNSWICK—Annexation.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND—Maintenance of Upper House.

QUEBEC—Superiority to the law.

ONTARIO—Slander and abolition of the Senate.

MANITOBA—No French domination.

BRITISH COLUMBIA—Complaints of getting less than justice.

It will be seen that there are several Reform policies to choose from, but each one is repudiated by them in other portions of our country. That is excepting slander, which is used by them every where, and on which their hopes seem to be mainly founded.

WILL HE OWN IT?

IF Mr. Mowat did not know it when he made arrangements for a general election, he certainly knows now that many of the new voters will be disfranchised by the lists for this year not being complete, if he persists in his premature date for an appeal to the constituencies. As Mr. Mowat has asserted that the only reason for his forcing the elections in the holiday season is to give the newly enfranchised electors a voice in the choice of representatives before holding another session of the Legislature, he must now see that if he does not fix a date later by some weeks he will really disfranchise these voters for four years under the plea of not shutting them out for one year. If Mr. Mowat persists in forcing on the elections he will, therefore, plainly confess that the reason he has given is a mere subterfuge, and will leave himself open to the inevitable conclusion that his real reason is one that he is ashamed to make public.

Will he make this confession? We will see.

FALSIFYING THE VERDICT.

GREAT is the annoyance of Mr. Mowat's organ because the Conservatives of Toronto decline to fall into the trap set for them by Mr. Mowat. He has dishonestly provided that the Reform minority shall have one of the three Toronto seats, while refusing to give similar power to the Conservative minority in a Reform county. He has effected this trick by partially disfranchising the Conservatives of our Provincial capital, only allowing them a voice in the selection of two out of three representatives. Yet his hired organ is enraged because the Conservatives have not nominated three candidates while only enabled to vote for two. Mr. Mowat and his friends might be content with reducing to one the voting power of Conservative Toronto in the House, without lamenting that they do not have the chance given them by a split of the Conservative vote to slip in two Reform members, and thus absolutely falsify the verdict of public opinion, instead of merely reducing unfairly its just weight.

OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

THE Reformers, or rather those of them who still support Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, pretend that to place our educational system under a non-partizan Superintendent instead of a political Minister, would be to relinquish legislative control and responsibility to the representatives of the people. It is a palpable absurdity to pretend that a servant would be less responsible than a master. The Legislature would still control the amount of the appropriations and still have power to legislate. The difference is that a Ryerson is chiefly concerned for the efficient education of our youth, while a Ross has for his first object the making of political capital, influencing votes, purchasing support, rewarding party services and hiring public journals. Even if Dr. Ryerson favoured the idea of a Minister of Education, that is not conclusive, for he had not an opportunity of seeing the disastrous freaks played by Messrs. Mowat, Fraser, Hardy, Ross et al. The Conservative Ministry, whose probable early advent is regarded with so much satisfaction by the people of Ontario, would not be guilty of such breaches of duty, but laws must be of general application. Public opinion calls loudly for the removal of our educational system from the domain of party politics, and to this urgently needed reform the Conservative leaders are pledged.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—At about midnight on Saturday night Mr. David Weir, fourth son of Mr. Andrew Weir, near here, went down stairs and, slipping on the lower steps, fell with great force against a lock on the front door, inflicting a severe wound over the right temple. The rest of the family heard the noise and on going to investigate found the unfortunate man unconscious on the floor. A doctor was sent for, but in about an hour from the time he fell death had claimed him. The report of his death was felt very much, as he was well liked by all who knew him. He was 34 years of age and unmarried. The family have the deep sympathy of all in this their sudden bereavement.

BOBCAYGEON.

COFFER DAM.—Last week the cofferdam put up to keep the water out of Little Bob Mill, whilst being repaired, broke away, and for a short time there was some lively work going on. No damage was done of any consequence.

OBITUARY.—On Saturday last one of the most respected residents in this village passed away to the great sorrow of a very large circle of friends. Mr. Alexander Orr died on that day, at the age of sixty-nine years and ten months. The deceased gentleman was born in Renfrewshire, Scotland, and came to Canada about the year 1840. He was for some time in Montreal, and for still a longer period in Keene. He came to Bobcaygeon in the year 1860, and at once went into business, which he conducted most successfully, and accumulated a handsome private fortune. He remained in business steadily until overtaken by the illness which resulted in his death. Mr Orr was greatly respected throughout the district, and in this village had filled with great satisfaction many municipal offices. The funeral on Tuesday was largely attended.—Independent.

THE CENTURY.

For 1886 87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettsburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals O. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

SPECIAL FEATURES.

Interesting Items Taken from "Association Notes."

In Association Notes for December the following interesting paragraphs will be found:—

MONTHLY SOCIAL MEETING.

Our last members' social meeting was successful, though there were strong counter attractions on the evening it took place. A conversation took place on the various departments of the work Music was supplied by the male choir and Messrs. Miller and Stephens, Mr George Schneider being the accompanist. Refreshments were served at the close kindly provided by some lady friends. A similar meeting will be held on Monday, 6th December, at which the special attraction will be an address by the Rev. I. Tovell on "Athletics." Music and refreshments will again be supplied. We hope the attendance will be doubled. No charge of any kind is made.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEARS.

We shall again observe these seasons in our usual way. On Christmas morning at 9.30 o'clock a Praise service will be held to which everybody will be welcome. On New Year's morning at the same hour a Consecration meeting will be conducted by one of the pastors. This also will be open to all. All after noon and evening, from one o'clock till ten, our grand New Year's Reception to the young men of Peterborough will be given. Our lady friends will again be present in full force to receive those who call and refresh them with good things. Music and readings will be given at intervals, and our rooms will be the pleasantest in town that day. Remember that every young man in town has an invitation to call. No charge is made for anything.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

Our Week of Prayer meetings this year were the best we have ever held. On Sunday, the 14th a union meeting was held in the Baptist Church, which was well attended, the large number of young men being especially remarked. Our work both at home and abroad was dwelt upon by Messrs Geo. M Roger, H S. Griffin and the Secretary, and a collection for the International Committee taken up. Mr. Griffin conducted the meetings for men, which were held every night of the week except Wednesday. These meetings were addressed by the Rev. Messrs Bell, Wallace, Torrance, Tovell and Wilson One young man confessed Christ and many of the members were benefitted by the meetings. In addition to these meetings special sermons on behalf of young men were preached by most of the pastors.

TWO INTERESTING BOOKS.

We have now on our parlor table (the gift of J. Mc. P. Scott, of Toronto University) two books of great interest which we hope hundreds of young men will read. One is "China's Spiritual Needs and Claims," by the Rev. Hudson Taylor; the other being "A Missionary Band." The latter is an account of the farewell meetings, voyage to China, and early experiences in China of the band of young Englishmen, of good families who went out last year. They included C. T. Studd, captain of the Cambridge Eleven, and Stanley Smith, stroke of the Cambridge Eight. Our thanks are due to Mr. Scott for these books, which our members should read The perusal of them might well induce some earnest Christian young men of Peterborough to devote themselves to missionary work.

YOUNG MEN AND MISSIONS.

Our Associations on this side the Atlantic might profitably learn a lesson from the British Association (they have learnt some from us) in the matter of foreign missions. In many of the Associations there a Foreign Missionary Society is one of the agencies, with the result that many young men are devoting themselves to this grand work. This is becoming so important a matter that Mr. George Williams said recently that he believed that God had raised up the 3 000 Associations for the purpose of training young men for the mission field. In America the College Associations are the only ones that are taking the matter up heartily. From the last Year Book we learn that 80 of the College Associations hold missionary meetings, and that as a result 16 students have been influenced to give themselves to Foreign Mission Work. 126 students in these College Associations are intending to go to the foreign field. We give a few facts gleaned from various places, bearing on this most interesting subject:

1 At the gathering of the college students at Mr. Moody's home in July, 105 volunteered to go as missionaries at the end of their college course.

2 At the same place a deputation was appointed to visit the various College Associations to lay the claims of the heathen world before the students. This deputation is now on its mission.

3 In the past two years 24 missionaries have gone from the Glasgow Young Men's Association.

4 Some members of the Toronto Association are, we understand, now preparing to go forth. The late Assistant Secretary of this Association is now training for the work.

NOTES.

We had a very earnest address at our evangelistic meeting on Sunday, 14th Nov., from the Rev. Prof McGregor, of Toronto.

A class in shorthand is being organized, and will be taught by Mr. J. H. Norton. No charge is made to members of the Association. We shall be glad to have more applications for admission.

Mr John Currie has had to delay his visit for a short time, and will not now be here till early in January.

The Rev. Mr. Wallace, in his sermon on the Association work in the Week of Prayer, hinted that a gymnasium would be an excellent thing for us to have. We think so too, and hope that some of those who have means will see it in the same light.

Every member should hear the Rev. Mr. Tovell's address on "Athletics, Their Use and Abuse," at the monthly meeting on Monday, 6th December.

It is likely that we shall have a visit early next year from Mr. Charles James, one of the lecturers of the Gospel Purity Association of London England. The cause of social purity is one that our Associations should further to the fullest extent of their powers, and this can be well done in meetings for men only, addressed by men who have a natural aptitude for the work. It is expected that a number of the Associations in this Province will arrange to have Mr. James visit them.

A letter from Mr. Gartshore Secretary of the Provincial Committee, states that they are considering an invitation from Kingston for the next Provincial Convention. As there are now three Associations in Kingston (including the two College Associations) and as that city is so central, the Convention next February should be the largest yet held. Plan to go.

We have to thank the publishers of Public Opinion (Washington, D. C.) for a copy of their valuable journal received weekly.

Hundreds of letters from those using Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and curing baldness, and cleansing the scalp, its use cannot be too strongly recommended.

On Thursday last John W. Roscoe, an aged and wealthy farmer of Kings County, N. S., got into an altercation with his son-in-law, Trueman Thorpe, regarding Thorpe's treatment of his wife. A personal encounter followed, from the effects of which Roscoe, died. Thorpe has fled to the United States.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

A tramp got on the Air Line Railroad track near Simcoe, waved his hands, and stopped an express train. When asked by the conductor why he had stopped the train he replied that he had done it for a joke. He was arrested, tried and given three months to work out the joke to its legitimate conclusion.

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Golden Medical Discovery.

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating, and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. It promptly cures the severest Coughs.

For Torpid Liver, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, it is unequalled as a remedy. Sold by druggists.

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS — Anti-Bilious and Cathartic. 25c. a vial, by druggists.

Forewarned of danger by the condition of your blood, as shown in pimples, blotches, boils, or discolorations of the skin; or by a feeling of languor, induced, perhaps, by inactivity of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, you should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will renew and invigorate your blood, and cause the vital organs to properly perform their functions. If you suffer from

Rheumatism,

or Neuralgia, a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will relieve and cure you. Alice Kendall, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass., writes: "I have been troubled with Neuralgia, pain in the side, and weakness, and have found greater relief from Ayer's Sarsaparilla than from any other remedy." J. C. Tolman, 336 Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "In no other remedy have I ever found such a happy relief from Rheumatism as in Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Forearmed with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, there need be no fear of Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Catarrh, Liver troubles, or any of the diseases arising from Scrofulous taints in the blood. Geo. Garwood, Big Springs, Ohio, writes: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been used in my family for a number of years. I was a constant sufferer from

Dyspepsia,

but Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a permanent cure. Seven years ago my wife was troubled with Goitre: two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured her, and she has never had any return of the disease. I regard this preparation as the best medicine in use for the blood." B. Barnard Walr, 75 Adams st., Lynn, Mass., writes: "For many years I suffered terribly from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Scrofula. Almost hopeless, I took Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and am a well man to-day." Be sure and get Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most thorough and effective blood purifier. The best is the cheapest.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. M. M. Dodge, Mrs. E. D. Platt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3 00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. A Falsehood Exposed.

The independant Manitoba Sun, Winnipeg, referring to the false assertion made by the London Advertiser that Mr. H. H. Smith, Dominion Land Commissioner and formerly Mayor of Peterborough, had been put in charge of the management of the elections in the North West, thus exposes the falsehood:—"The above is from the London Advertiser. The charge made against Mr. Smith so far as we have any knowledge, is without foundation. If he has taken any part in political affairs since he became a Government official the fact is not generally known He appears to have closely applied himself to the duties of his office, and, seeing that few or no complaints are heard, with very great acceptability." In the North-west by general assent Mr. Smith is recognised as an efficient and impartial official, and this is sufficient to account for his being assailed and misrepresented by such calumniators as the Advertiser.

Viewing the Situation.

A piece of pen art done by Mr. Frazer, of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's foundry, is shown in Mr. A. McNeil's clothing store. It represents the C. P. R. station where the C.P.R. engine No. 980 is drawing out a train loaded manufactures. On the cars are locks from the Peterborough Lock Works, labelled "Japan via Vancouver;" furniture from the Lindsay-Seldon Co., woollens from the Auburn and Brodie mills, several car loads of mill machinery from the Wm. Hamilton Works, ploughs, etc., from the Peter Hamilton foundry, stoves from the Peterborough Stove Works, and other articles. The Peterborough Roller Mills occupy a prominent position in the foreground, from the top of which Sir John looks around, surveys the appearance of things with satisfaction and says:—"I hope Peterborough won't forget that it owes a debt of gratitude to the father of the N. P." Among the factories of the future are represented those to manufacture boots and shoes and buttons.

The Labor Question.

At the present time the question of labor is engaging the attention of many people more or less throughout the United States and Canada. It is, perhaps, one of the most difficult and perplexing questions of the day, and causes an almost endless amount of discussion. "Labor hath sure reward" is a truthful saying, but there are sometimes cases when the assertion is not borne out by facts. For instance, the wealthy capitalist engages labor at a presumably fair wage, and then, because the hard-worked mechanic did not get him to put his agreement in writing, he is cut down to what the "millionaire boss" thinks right when the work is done, and in this case labor does not get its reward. When a man spends years in mastering any particular art or calling, he naturally expects to be rewarded with the confidence and patronage of the public, and in this connection A. MCNEIL, Tailor and Gent's Furnisher, Habilliment Hall, would respectfully ask the young and old men of Peterborough to examine his fine stock, order a suit of clothes, and test the skill of the master mechanics in his employ.

THE DAY AND A' WHO HONOR IT.

The St. Andrew's Day Concert in Bradburn's Opera House.

On Monday evening a concert, under the directorship of Mr. D. B. MacDuff, was given in Bradburn's Opera House under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society. There was a large attendance, the Scotch folk of both town and county being well represented.

The concert opened with an overture by the orchestra, which was well received.

Mr. Hutchins sang "On the Banks of Allen Water" in such good voice and style as to gain a recall. He responded with "The Angel at the Window."

The star of the evening was Miss Maggie Barr (Mrs. McCulloch) of Hamilton. In the first part she sang "Robin Adair" and in the second part "Auld Robin Grey" and "Within a Mile." She was encored each time she appeared. There are few who give a truer interpretation of Scotch songs than Miss Barr. She has a sweet, clear silvery voice, a distinct utterance, and possesses the faculty of bringing the audience to understand the meaning of the song.

Mr. McDuff contributed two violin solos, "Fantaise on Scotch Airs," and "Scotch Airs," each of which drew forth liberal applause.

A novelty in the entertainment was the dancing of the young Sinclair lad. He was attired in the full Highland costume and went through the movements gracefully. His sister was also to have appeared, but owing to sickness was unable to do so.

Each part of the programme was ended by reels and strathspeys by the orchestra, introducing the "Marquis o' Huntley's Highland Fling," "Harvest Home," "Mason's Apron," "Perthshire Hunt," "Delvin Side," "The Nut," the "Miller o' Dron," "Clyde Side Lassie," "Greigies' Pipes," "Tullochgoram," "Donald Bain," and the "Deel Among the Tailors."

Between the two parts Dr. Massie, of Keene, read a humorous selection called "Amateur Photography," relating the experience of a Scotchman while "developing his negatives."

Mr. J. S Parker, organist of St. Paul's, played the piano accompaniments in a very satisfactory manner.

The evening's entertainment closed in the usual loyal manner.

Mr. McDuff is to be congratulated on the success of this his first concert.

SOMETHING ABOUT STARS.

The First of the Popular Talk Series before the members of the Y. M. C. A.

Those who were present at the Y. M. C. A rooms on Monday night missed an intellectual treat of a very high order. The first of the series of "Popular Talks," arranged for by the Association was given by Mr. J. H. Long, M.A., LL.B. The lecturer commenced by giving the beautiful quotation from Longfellow's "Evangeline":

"Silently, one by one, in the infinite meadows of Heaven, Blossomed the lovely stars, the forget-me-nots of the angels."

After alluding to the thoughtlessness with which the heavenly bodies are viewed by the mass of mankind, it was remarked that to the reverent and thinking minds of all ages they had not been a mere "glittering swarm of fireflies tangled in a silver braid." The earliest literature represents great men as pondering the problem of the heavens. Going back to the ancient Chaldean and Babylonian empires, the rise of the sciences of Astronomy was traced, and the wonderful results attained by these ancients were alluded to. They were sufficiently wise, moreover, to see that astronomy is the basis of all other sciences. The gradual progress of astronomical knowledge, connected with which were the names of Hipparchus, Ptolemy, Copernicus and others, was dwelt upon. The continued contemplation of the heavens naturally led to the worship of the heavenly bodies. The lecturer gave a rapid sketch of this form of idolatry existing in all parts of the world, also giving extracts from Dr. Daniel Wilson's "Pre-Historic Men," with reference to the sun-worship and fire-worship of the ancient Peruvians and Aztecs. Following this naturally came the consideration of the source of the light and heat of the sun and stars, and the theories on this point were given. Then the material of which the sun and stars were composed came up for consideration, the instrument used to determine the elements being the solar spectroscope. Nor was the question as to whether the heavenly bodies are inhabited forgotten.

A most interesting description of comets and meteors was then given. Alluding first to the early prevalent belief that these were regarded as precursors of disaster, he went on to describe in detail these most interesting heavenly bodies. The comets consist of two parts, the nucleus and tail, neither of which are composed of solid matter. They were of amazing length, the tail of the comet of 1843 stretching across the sky for a distance of 130 millions of miles. Their velocity is equally marvellous. The comet of 1680 moving at the rate of 1,200,000 miles an hour. Just as wonderful again is the length of time embraced in their orbit around the sun, the comet of Fabricius having take a period of 292 years, while the great comet of 1811 will not reappear, it is said, until the expiration of 3,065 years. More interesting than the comets even are the meteors and shooting stars. Various theories of their origin was given. The number of these bodies were remarkably great, and the greatest displays of them occur on the 9th, 10th and 11th of August, and on the 12th and 13th of November. Aerolites and their composition were touched upon.

The stars have played an important part in the literature of the world. From the earliest ages poets of all lands have sung their praises. The constellations are intimately connected with classic mythology, parts of which are very beautiful. Many quotations were given from the three greatest books in English literature—the Bible, Shakespeare and Milton. Beautiful as are these descriptions how far short they fall of rightly portraying the grandeur, the immensity of the universe. And, after all, immensity is the one over-powering thing about the heavens. The naked eye can see about 2,000 in Europe. The number increases rapidly, the more powerful is the telescope used. Herschell perceived 120,000 stars crossing the field of his telescope—only a quarter of a degree—in 15 minutes. There is no limit apparently to the number of the stellar worlds. What a marvellous thought this is? The limitlessness of space; space dotted here and there with stars, to our eyes almost touching one another, yet really thousands of millions of miles apart. Each star a sun, the centre of a system vaster than our own. Of the fixed stars the nearest is so distant that its light requires about 3¼ years to reach our eyes. A cannon ball moving from our earth at 500 miles an hour would require four millions of years to reach the nearest fixed star. From the most remote star in our cluster a beam of light requires between 5,000 and 6,000 years; that is we see these stars—for they are visible to the naked eye—not as they are now, but as they were when man was created 6,000 years ago. More marvellous still, from some of the fixed stars visible through Lord Rosse's telescope the time needed for the passage of light to the earth is 50,000 years.

Surely a contemplation of these things ought to teach us reverence. Surely it should teach us how awful it is, for any purpose whatever, to use with laughter and jest the name of Him who numbered the stars and called them all by their names.

A splendid peroration closed this fine lecture, which must have entailed on Mr Long a large amount of study and research In order that many more of our townspeople may have the privilege of hearing it, we hope that Mr. Long may be prevailed on to repeat this lecture in the near future. A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Long, and the Secretary of the Association, Mr. Williams, dismissed the audience with prayer.

Everyone Should go.

A full attendance of the members of the Musical Society is requested at their concert room in Bradburn's Opera House this evening at 8 o'clock.

On Monday evening Capt. Edwards entertained No. 1 Company of the City Battalion by giving a social dinner at his residence, Reid street. The evening was most pleasantly spent, music and social conversation being the principal amusement. Corp. Dixon, of the signal corps made everybody laugh as usual by giving several ventriloquical tricks. After adjourning the company when outside sang lustily "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," thus giving loud expression as to how they regarded his hospitality.

To this fund the Murray street Church contributed $100 65 on Sunday.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Carnegie Replies to the Hon. G. W. Ross.

SEPARATE SCHOOL QUESTION.

MR. BERTRAM MOUNTS THE STUMP ONCE MORE.

The Government Candidate Conspicuous by His Absence—The Government's Various "Policies" Sifted.

On Tuesday evening a meeting was held in Bradburn's Opera House for the purpose of giving Mr. Carnegie an opportunity of replying to the statements of the Hon. G. W. Ross, and to give his views on the Separate School question. The hall was crowded to the utmost, and the gallery, which was set apart for the ladies, was well filled. On the platform there were: Mr. W. H. Moore, chairman, and Messrs. Kendry, Hilliard, Minore, Reeves, Mayor Stevenson, W. H. Stephenson (Norwood), E. J. Toker and Mr. Carnegie.

Mr. MOORE explained the reason why the meeting had been called. He invited the Government candidate, Mr. Stratton, to a seat on the platform, when a fair opportunity would be given him of addressing the meeting. He bespoke for Mr. Stratton a patient hearing. But Mr. Stratton did not put in an appearance.

Mr. BERTRAM accepted the invitation on Mr. Stratton's behalf.

Mr. MOORE said that if Mr. Stratton wished to speak 10 or 15 minutes out of the usual hour he would be glad to have Mr. Bertram fill in the rest of the time. But Mr. Stratton should be here to face the electors whose suffrages he solicited. (Applause). The people of this town were not here to hear side issues discussed, but were present to try the case upon its whole merits. Mr. Bertram appeared for Mr. Stratton. But did Mr. Stratton want to go to Parliament by proxy? (Laughter). He didn't think he would. (Renewed laughter).

Mr. Bertram was invited to the platform. He was received with applause.

Mr. CARNEGIE was called on to open the meeting. On rising he was greeted with a storm of applause and with cheers. He felt gratified at seeing so many out this evening, seeing that a similar meeting was held last Friday night and that another would be held Thursday evening. He was here to-night to defend the course which he had taken in the last three sessions of the Ontario Legislature and to give the views he held and the course he would pursue should he be again honored with the confidence of the people of West Peterborough. (Applause.) First of all he would reply to some statements made by the honorable Mr. Ross on Friday evening.

NO. ONE—MINDING ITS OWN BUSINESS.

With his characteristic coolness Mr. Ross intimated that if the Local Government attended to Provincial duties they did well. He agreed with Mr. Ross. But have the Mowat Government pursued this policy since they came into power. No. By every means in its power the present Government had aided Mr. Blake and had given away the money of the people of this Province to do so. Again and again they had sacrificed Ontario's interests to help partyism. Did it not purchase a seat for Mr. Blake himself in West Durham? And did they not assist Mr. J. D. Edgar with Ontario money to get a seat in West Ontario? And even philosopher Mills was drawing a sweet penny from the Ontario funds. Senator Scott also had a finger in the pie, and Mr. Blake's brother Samuel had been paid $500 for attending a trial at which he never put in an appearance. (Applause.) Mr. Irving, of Hamilton, was handsomely recouped for services, and other outsiders also found an easy access to the Ontario money chest. The Ontario Government should mind their own affairs, but they didn't do it and the people of Ontario had to pay for their outside meddling.

NUMBER TWO—MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

Then Mr. Ross comes out and takes credit for the excellence of the municipal machinery. He would call upon any man here present to show where and what improvements the Mowat Government ever made in municipal machinery—where they had enlarged a single power of the municipal councils? Had it not in every case tried to take away the municipal power? Why when there was a row over the little printing matter Mr. Mowat tried to take that power out of the hands of the Councils, and when he found he could not he abolished it altogether. How about the gaoler's salaries? In everything it did with reference to municipal matters the Mowat Government always aimed at taking powers away from municipal councils.

NO. THREE—THE LADIES.

Then Mr. Ross claimed with a gallery filled with ladies before him that the Mowat Government had given the ladies the use of the franchise. As a matter of fact the Government was divided and Messrs. Frazer and Pardee voted against the bill, while Mr. Hardy shirked the vote. It was because of the Opposition, among whom he was one, that the ladies of this Province were enfranchised.

NO. FOUR—RAILWAYS AND PUBLIC DEBT.

Then Mr. Ross boasted about the expenditure on railways. He said truly that the amount was increasing year by year. It has now increased to between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000, and if it goes on at the same rate another session it would be over $10,000,000. What had they done? Instead of paying off the old railway debt they issued script payable in instalments scattered over twenty years. And now that this was falling due they were issuing new script while all the time the interest was rolling up the indebtedness at a rapid rate. This fact the Government want hidden from the electors till after the elections were over. The fact of the matter was that the Province was now deducting assets, between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in debt. And then there was great talk about surplus. He would call it accumulations. He would like to see Mr. Ross tell the House how much of the $3,700,00 handed over by the Sandfield Macdonald Government was left now. If he would find any more than the $500,000 of orginal investment and the $71,000 special deposit he should be well paid for it. Now the official returns made by Mr. Ross—not our Mr. Ross, but the other Mr. Ross, the Treasurer—show for 1886 the receipts to be $40,000 less than the expenditure, and next year he anticipates a deficit of $400,000. Was it any wonder that the elections were hurried on!

NO FIVE—COLONIZATION ROADS.

Next Mr. Ross claimed that there had been large sums spent on colonization roads. Verily there were large sums! The sum of $54,000 was set apart for Algoma. But $108,000 was spent, and that in election times. During election times $5,000 was spent in building a small bridge without the knowledge of the people's representatives. This amount was spent under the superintendence of that illustrious person, Mr. John Boyd—(laughter)—who would not on any account do any electioneering. Oh, no! That man went through Algoma with his $50, $75 and $100, for which no vouchers could be found in the Crown Lands Department. (Laughter.) Even in a little fishing village $381 was given to build a sidewalk. The Mowat Government didn't build any sidewalks in Peterborough. The sum of $3,000 was set apart to build a road to Bruce Mines, a place where now there is hardly a settler. The sum of $10,000 was spent instead. And Mr. Stratton would, perhaps, support this "judicious" spending of the people's money. He (Mr. Stratton) said at Lakefield that, if elected, he would do all he could to have the road between Young's Point and Burleigh put in good condition and doubtless when he went to Harvey he would say that he would see after the Buckhorn road. But it was singular that the Mowat Government had already refused to do anything towards repairing either of these roads. He (Mr. Carnegie) had, while the Government was so lavish in road expenditure, done his best to get an appropriation made toward these roads. But the answer came, "The money is all gone," and yet a month after that another Algoma grant was made, because the person interested had an axe to grind as usual.

NO. SIX—FANCY FARMING.

Mr. Carnegie then dealt with the Mowat Government's fancy farming operations. Mr. Ross made quite a speech on his "Agricultural policy," first pointing out what large grants were made to agricultural institutions. The facts are that not one dollar more is given now than before the Mowat Government came into power. The electors did not need to be farmers to see what success the Mowat Government had been in the agricultural line. They ran an agricultural college. And, in order that he might not be misunderstood, he wished to say that he was in favor of an agricultural college—if it were properly managed. The Government promised that it would be self sustaining. It cost the Province between $70,000 and $80,000 yearly, although there is only 500 acres of land to work. In 1885 $4,000 worth of cattle were purchased; $3,000 was spent in feed; and the total sales amounted to $4,000. (Laughter.) He ventured to say that Mr. Moore's brother in Smith did not manage his cattle business in such a manner. Other instances of how the Mowat Government are trying to teach our farmers their business were given to the amusement of the audience. The last statement was that the total cost of running the farm in 1885 wws $6,900 and the total receipts from it, $2,100. He asked if such farming and done the country any good.

NO. SEVEN—THE DRAINAGE BUSINESS.

Mr. Ross said that the Government lent municipalities money at a low rate of interest to construct drains. They did; but they were following in the footsteps of the Sandfield Government. But as in the colonization roads affair, so did the Government deal in this matter. Some money was lent to North Monaghan for this purpose. That township had to pay back the last dollar with interest. Individuals (not municipal councils) had been given money to drain their farms and it had not been paid back. And in the constituency represented by the Commissioner of Crown Lands $63,000 had been (not lent) given holus bolus to that place, while the people of North Monaghan had to pay for their own drains and to pay for those of others. But there was a difference. North Monaghan did not support the Government and the other place did.

NO. EIGHT—PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Mr. Ross made a great show of fairness, but was he himself fair? Did he, when telling how the poor blind and deaf and dumb were cared for, even mention the fact that it was the Sandfield Macdonald Government who built those buildings, and got them in good running order for the Mowat Government. And just here he might state that the Government got out plans to build new Parliament buildings to cost $750,000. As the case stood at this day the stonework alone was to cost $800,000. What would be the cost when finished? Here was another reason for the elections having been rushed on.

NO. NINE—THE "HONEST" GOVERNMENT.

The Mowat Government was said to be an honest Government. Perhaps it was, but it appeared to him to be a strange kind of honesty. What would the people say if at Ottawa there were no vouchers given for expenditures made in public accounts, as there is not in Toronto? What would Mr. Bertram say if he saw money voted for which no vouchers were produced, and none to be found? This sort of thing was carried on systematically by the Mowat Government. It was the hardest work possible to drag out the true facts of the cases. When vouchers were called for they would either not be furnished or often would be those three or four years old, which would be attempted to be palmed off. In 1882 there was a deficit of $2,000 in the Agricultural College accounts. What does Mr. Brown do but walk up and borrow $2,000 from the Bank of Commerce, to hide the true state of affairs. Then this was shoved into the next year's accounts, and the next into the next, and so on. As far as the Crown Land Department was concerned there was no check. No one knew what was being done. In March, 1884, $1,500 worth of stock was sold on the Government Farm, for which no returns were made. It was [illegible] this matter.

NO. TEN—TIMBER LIMITS.

The Mowat Government, it was said, never gave away a timber limit. He would just refer to the Bonfield transaction. In South Renfrew the Hurdman Bros. owned a timber limit. A license had been applied for. It had repeatedly been refused, and recently by Mr. Frazer, but when Mr. Bonfield, a Government supporter, induced Mr. Hurdman to sell it to him for $6,000, about one third the value, a license was immediately forthcoming. Mr. Frazer wheeled right about face and furnished the license. Mr. Coe, of North Hastings, got 50,000 acres of land at $1 an acre to induce him to run as a Government candidate. Mr. Ludgate got a timber limit, which is now held at $14,000 cash price, as a set off to his claim to the Peterborough Registrarship. R. W. Scott's "1,700,000" feet of lumber for the settlers away back was referred to. As for the hangers on, they were numerous. A fair sample might be had in the person of the charming S. S. Peck. The Mowat Government paid him his salary as judge, knowing that he was on his Dakota farm, having renounced allegiance to the Queen, and afterwards allowed him to sit in the House. He was sent to dispense justice among people better than himself.

NO. ELEVEN—THE GREAT LABOR POLICY.

The Mowat Government, according to Mr. Ross, has a labor policy in the Factory Act. Then why didn't they bring it into force. It was passed in 1884 and should have gone into force in twelve months after. But it was not in force yet and wouldn't be in force till to-morrow. Mr. Mowat almost begged Sir John to deny the legality of the Act but Sir. John didn't do it. He then vainly begged Sir John to take it before the courts and tinkered around with it for two years when no one had anything to say against it.

NO. TWELVE—GERRYMANDER.

The Gerrymander Act of 1885 was dealt with briefly. While the Government was credited with having done right in the case of Stormont and Glengary, two small constituences which were thrown into one, even though it did "behead one Conservative" as Mr. Ross said, the speaker held that the same line of action should be carried out all over the Province. But though the standard of population laid down for a constituency was 21,000 the Government reduced East York from 18,000 to 16,000 and by this Act an unfair advantage was given to the supporters of the Government. The Toronto minority representation did not hold good in the County of Huron returning three Government candidates. Many instances of gross unfairness were given. Hamilton with 35,000 of a population was only allowing one member while two Government constituencies with only 13000 each returned two members.

NO. THIRTEEN—EDUCATIONAL.

Mr. Carnegie stated that Mr. Ross did not reply to his statement regarding the school books. He had beaten around the bush adroitly and made misrepresentations Mr. Ross knew well that he (Mr. Carnegie) was not comparing the old series with the new, but the Gage and the Nelson series, but there was one statement made by Mr. Ross, which he was prepared by by Ross' own speech to prove untrue. (Applause.) He understood Mr. Ross to state here that the sales of the readers would be $70,000. Was that correct? (Shouts of "That's what he said.") He was prepared to show by Mr. Ross' speech, reported by a special reporter, revised by himself and printed at the expense of the Province, that he stated that the sales would be $100,000. (Cheers and Applause.) Gage estimated the sales at $131,000, and Mr. Ross acknowledged the computation was a fair one. He was prepared to stand by his figures that if Warwicks' offer had been accepted he would have made 50 per cent. As it was now the Government squeezed $350,000 out of the parents of the public school pupils of this Province to put into the pockets of the Nelson monopoly. This vested rights

To the Electors

OF THE

WEST RIDING

Of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—I beg to announce myself as a candidate for re-election as your representative in the Provincial Legislature at the approaching General Election, and to solicit a renewal of the confidence you so kindly placed in me in 1883.

As the time at my disposal will not permit me—even if desirable—to make a personal canvass, I trust no one will withhold their vote from me because he has not been personally solicited. I shall however avail myself of every favorable opportunity—particularly on the platform and in the presence of all classes—of rendering to you an account of my stewardship and of explaining the views which I entertain with reference to the several questions with which I may have to deal should I be honored with a renewal of your confidence.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN CARNEGIE.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1886.

MR. ROSS' EXAMPLE.

MR. JAMES L. HUGHES, the Toronto Public School Inspector, has received permission from the School Board of that city to deliver addresses in explanation of the school law if invited to do so. The friends and supporters of the Hon. G. W. Ross seem as scared and angry as if they assumed that there must be an exposure of something dreadful in the Education Department. We do not propose to discuss the propriety of this arrangement. Mr. Hughes is responsible to the School Board and its members are responsible to their constituents; so the decision may be left to them.

But we would suggest to the friends and supporters of Mr. Ross, that they cannot with good grace raise any objection. When Mr. G. W. Ross held a similar position to that of Mr. Hughes, being Inspector of Public Schools at Strathroy, he was a member of the Dominion Parliament, and not only in the House but on the platform he always held himself to be at liberty to discuss educational or any other subjects. More than that, while a strenuous opponent of the Government of Canada in Parliament, and a fierce antagonist on the stump of the policy adopted by the people of Canada, Mr. Ross was employed by Mr. Mowat and his colleagues in the public service as Inspector of Model Schools. It is not then for the friends and supporters of Mr. Ross, or the friends and supporters of Mr. Mowat, to whine because a municipal officer follows the example thus set, the main difference in the position being that Mr. Ross now finds it inconvenient.

THE RIEL ISSUE.

The Rielite-Reformers are very anxious to have it conceded that the Riel question is not an issue in Ontario. They have chosen to make it an issue and they must be held to it. They cannot be allowed to make it an issue in Quebec where they hope to gain by it, and to say it is no issue in Ontario where they fear to lose by it.

In Dominion politics it is certainly an issue of the first importance to Canada whether or not all Canadians are to be equal before the law. It is an important issue whether the Canadian authorities are to be punished for administering impartial justice. It is an important issue whether the general policy of the country approved by the majority of its people is to be reversed, because men hostile to it are to be called to office on the sole ground that they favour the "Race and Revenge" cry, and bid for the alliance of those who utter it.

In Provincial politics it is also an important issue. It is an important issue whether we are to be allowed no voice in Dominion affairs if it please another Province to usurp a position of superiority to us. It is an important issue whether sons of Ontario are to be murdered with impunity if they dare to settle in another part of our country, where they are to be treated as intruders.

Even if it were not otherwise a Provincial issue, Mr. Mowat and his supporters have made it so. Mr. Fraser made it so when in the Provincial Legislature he defended Riel and suggested a statue in his honor. Mr. Mowat made it so when he advocated in the House the cause of the slanderous Rielite, Pacaud, and when he subsequently welcomed the same Pacaud as his standard bearer in Essex. Mr. Mowat's colleagues and supporters made it an issue, when with the exception of Mr. Balfour they voted in the Ontario Legislature that the rebel and murderer was not justly punished. Mr. Edgar made it so when, in behalf of Mr. Mowat and the other Reformers of Toronto, he unrebuked telegraphed felicitations to a Rielite on the victory gained by this cry. Mr. Mowat himself made it an Ontario issue when not as an individual, but as representing this Province he sent the following official despatch of congratulation on a Rielite success:—

"To Hon. H. Mercier, M. P. P., 88 Berri street:—

"PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., October 16.—Have just received here the joyful news of your great triumph. I congratulate you and all our friends on your important victory; may your premiership be a long one and full of advantage to your Province and the Dominion, and of honor to yourself.

"O. MOWAT, Premier of Ontario."

Mr. Mowat will find that the Riel question is an issue in Ontario, and it is one of his own choosing.

THE Reformers of St. Thomas have failed in their attempt to carry out, by means of a technicality, Mr. Mowat's design of disfranchising as many of the new voters as possible, by having the general elections before the new lists can be completed, and so bringing in the old lists of 1885. It is not the fault of Mr. Mowat and his friends that their trick has not been successful at St. Thomas. They have, however, been more successful as regards other places, and have succeeded in disfranchising thousands of voters for four years under pretence of not allowing one session to elapse.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

A SHARP TRICK.

It is clear enough now, if there was any doubt of the fact before, that it was not Mr. Mowat's overwhelming desire to give the new electors a voice in the selection of their rulers that caused him to dissolve a session before its time, but simply his anxiety to play a sharp trick on his political opponents and take the wind out of their sails. But why try to throw dust in people's eyes by making absurd excuses?—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

No political leader in Canada ever went to the country with such an apology for a platform as Mr. Meredith.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review (Reform).

THE N.P. IN DANGER.

The Premier is credited with saying that the N.P. is in danger. This is a self-evident proposition. It was also in danger in 1882, but by various statements, some of them specious but false, cooked up for the occasion, it was foisted upon the people for another four years. It stands in much greater danger now than then, and soon will have to be suppressed—like all such frauds.—Stratford Beacon (Ref.).

IN PERFECT SYMPATHY.

There is a "shave" about town that when the last council meeting of the Ontario Government took place high words passed between Messrs. Mowat and Fraser. It is possible that the Premier's first lieutenant undertook to slang the Admiral for that imprudent telegram from Penetang, written while under the influence of Mr. McCrossen's naturally cock-ahoop elation over the turn of the tide in Quebec, and placing the Mowat Cabinet in perfect sympathy with the Rielite faction of Mr. Mercier.—Toronto World (Indep.)

THE GLOBE DEPICTED.

Mr. Blake is known to despise the dishonorable and to hate the small minded. How he must throw down the Globe in the mornings in disgust! Politics are low enough, goodness knows; but were they so low, and the men mixed up in them such rascals as the Globe paints them, Mr Blake or any other decent man would be a fool to contaminate himself therewith. And what must Mr. Blake think when he reads in effect in the Globe that his only hope of getting into power is Sir John Macdonald's physical decay. Mr. Blake, the Globe is killing you.—Toronto World (Indep.)

NO REBEL PRESS THERE.

The United States Government knew what it was about when it sent the Arizona Apaches to the glorious climate of Florida, where they are rapidly dying off from swamp fevers. But there is no Toronto Globe over there to tune its lyre and sing of "the poor, unhappy children, by, bad laws condemned to die."—Toronto World (Indps.)

SLANDERING THE DEAD.

"We speak plainly in simple Saxon words—we speak for all who knew poor Delaney. We tell Mr. Mr. Cameron that when he spoke these horrid words of vile slander he was a liar, and more than that, he knew it, too."—Egmville Enterprise.

"PRO BONO PUBLICO."

One Price and Square Dealing to All.

GOUGH'S LADDER TO FAME.

THIS WEEK the public will receive the benefit of an Extraordinary Low Purchase of Seasonable Overcoats and Suits, and any intending purchaser will miss it if they do not call and examine them. We are determined to be the poor man's friend, and if in fulfilling this mission we break the backbone of those HIGH-PRICED CLOTHIERS, I am sorry, for I wish them no harm; but, having inaugerated this LOW Price and One Price System in the City of Peterborough, I will continue to HEW TO THE LINE, LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY!

On account of my Extremely Low Prices some people are very skeptical, and desining dealers will tell them that my goods are shoddy, etc., etc. Well, be that as it may, I only ask the public to praise as they prove me, and in the face of this I boldly make the assertion that my stock for SUPERIORITY IN TEXTURE and MAKE SURPASSES anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this and prove the assertion. If they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to ALL, I will ascend the Ladder of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. Always bear in mind the man who does as he advertises, and refunds the money if Goods are not satisfactory, is

THE CENTURY.

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty-five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN G. NICOLAY AND COL. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, in the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Its authors were friends of Lincoln before his presidency; there were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration,—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES.

which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettsburg will be described by Gen. Hunt, Chief of the Union Artillery, Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chickamauga, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Generals Howard and Slocum. Generals Q. A. Gillmore, Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter, and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, etc., etc., will appear

NOVELS AND STORIES

"The hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelties by Geo. W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorn, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year

SPECIAL FEATURES.

(with illustrations) include a series of articles on affairs in Russa and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of "Tent Life in Siberia," who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc., by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D., Editor of the Christian Advocate; astronomical papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

PRICES. A FREE COPY.

It is stated that the military authorities at Ottawa consider it will not be possible for Colonel Grasett to continue in command of the Royal Grenadiers after entering upon the duties of Chief of Police of Toronto.

Hundreds of letters from those using Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and curing baldness, and cleansing the scalp, its use cannot be too strongly commended.

While Ontario has one legislator for every 21,000 people, Prince Edward Island has one for every 2,550 people. Yet the Island Liberals demand that the Legislative Council, which represents the classes and not the masses, be retained.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—The Journal des Debats says France has no desire to replace England in Egypt if evacuated, but if evacuation is to be conditional upon England remaining absolutely mistress of the country an agreement is impossible. The British plea for time is equivalent to an indefinite occupation. France does not make the occupation a casus belli; but declares her interests and rights are prejudiced by it.

Mothers! Mothers!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Forewarned

of danger by the condition of your blood, as shown in pimples, blotches, boils, or discolorations of the skin; or by a feeling of languor, induced, perhaps, by inactivity of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, you should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will renew and invigorate your blood, and cause the vital organs to properly perform their functions. If you suffer from

Rheumatism,

or Neuralgia, a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will relieve and cure you. Alice Kendall, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass., writes: "I have been troubled with Neuralgia, pain in the side, and weakness, and have found greater relief from Ayer's Sarsaparilla than from any other remedy." J. C. Tolman, 336 Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "In no other remedy have I ever found such a happy relief from Rheumatism as in Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

It instils new life into the blood, and imparts vitality and strength. Being highly concentrated, it is the most economical blood purifier.

Forearmed

with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, there need be no fear of Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Catarrh, Liver troubles, or any of the diseases arising from Scrofulous taints in the blood. Geo. Garwood, Big Springs, Ohio, writes: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been used in my family for a number of years. I was a constant sufferer from

Dyspepsia,

but Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a permanent cure. Seven years ago my wife was troubled with Goitre: two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured her, and she has never had any return of the disease. I regard this preparation as the best medicine in use for the blood." B. Barnard Wair, 75 Adams st., Lynn, Mass., writes: "For many years I suffered terribly from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Scrofula. Almost hopeless, I took Ayer's Sarsaparilla

and am a well man to-day." Be sure and get Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most thorough and effective blood purifier. The best is the cheapest.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

for young people is what the papers call St. Nicholas. Do you know about it,—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several stories by each author.

A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of St. Nicholas.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidental friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, N. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenent Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of St. Nicholas is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New York.

BEWARE

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods, Without which none are genuine.

'CROMPTON CORSET CO.'

Sir John's Visit.

The programme laid out by the Y. M. L. C. C. for the reception and entertainment of Sir John A. Macdonald and colleagues during their visit to Peterborough to-morrow Thursday are admirable in every detail. The distinguished gentlemen will be met at the G. T. R. Station at 11.45 a. m. to-morrow by a large deputation of conservatives. A procession will be formed headed by the Fire Brigade Band to proceed to the Oriental Hotel where dinner will be partaken of. From one till two o'clock the ministers will hold a reception in the Oriental Hotel, and desire to meet as many friends as can make it convenient to call. At two p. m. the afternoon meeting will commence, and addresses will be delivered till 5.30. The ministers will partake of tea at His Worship Mayor Stevenson's residence, and at 7.15 a torch light procession will be formed starting from the Mayor's residence headed by the band, and escort the Chieftain and colleagues to the Opera House. At 7.30 the evening meeting will commence and last to eleven p.m., when they will be taken to the Oriental hotel and tendered a banquet by the Y. M. L. C. C. The menu is an elaborate one, and the toast list comprises questions which will draw forth eloquent responces from the Minister's present. Mr. J. H. Burnham, the Secretary, informs us that there are still a few tickets left. We merely mention this as we have had many inquiries from our friends as to who is the proper party to procure the tickets from. The chair will be taken by Mr. Geo. Hilliard, M. P., both afternoon and evening and the Y. M,. L.C C. address will be presented to Sir John A. Macdonald and colleagues at the evening meeting. The Hon. J. A. Chaplean, Secretary of State, will address the meeting commencing at 8 o'clock p. m. Thursday evening, in the Old Music Hall, in French. The gallery in the Opera House will be reserved till 1.45 in the afternoon and 7 p.m. in the evening.

THE GOLDEN RUSSETT.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—This apple tree has many good qualities, one especially is its natural power of endurance We have one in our orchard, and on account of the way it was situated it has met with abuse, and for the time being appeared to be dead, but after close examination it was evident it possessed the elements of life, and this season it bore a fair crop of beautiful russetts. It very much reminds me of our leading statesman and Premier, Sir John A. Macdonald, who, after so much misrepresentation and abuse, only appears to be springing into life. For when we look around and see all the factories and business enterprises busy, and in a good, prosperous condition; besides all this we are providentially blessed with a good harvest, and what more do we want? I rather like the idea of reform, but after all there is a possibility of overdoing it, for it is possible to reform a good worker into a street dude, or a thrashing machine into a straw cutter. An agriculturist buys a seeder and reaper, tries and condemns them; the manufacturer sends out a man who works them successfully. Where is the fault? It is not in the seeder or reaper. It is in not knowing how to work them. So it is with our country. It is all right, but we need to send men of experience and principle, qualified and adapted for the work.

ANENQUIRER.

To the editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I am an independent workingman, and wish to know if Mr. Cox intends leaving Peterborough as is widely reported at no distant date. If he does, and was elected, we would be like Ireland with an absentee landlord and a representative living away from town. Under such circumstance I should not think of voting for him.

gabble was nonsense. The publishers had ample time to sell out what they had printed, and by the Government furnishing the new plates they need be at no loss whatever. Mr. Carnegie resumed his seat amid loud applause.

The CHAIRMAN again asked if Mr. Stratton was present, but the Reform candidate did not appear to be in the hall. He then called on Mr. John Bertram.
